INSURANCE CLAIM.

$5,000 Awarded to Sister of Joseph Roberts—Costs Out of Estate.

KINGSTON, Feb. 4.—(Canadian Press).—No evidence having been submitted to prove conclusively that Mrs. Roberts, who with her husband Joseph Roberts and two children, was killed when a train struck their automobile on Sunday, Nov. 2, below Findlay station, lived longer than her husband, Mr. Justice Mowat in the Supreme Court yesterday dismissed without costs the action brought by John Bennett, father of Mrs. Roberts, to recover the $5,000 insurance which Mr. Roberts carried on his life.

The claim was disputed by Mrs. Minnie Peattie, of Toronto, sister of Mr. Roberts, who was named as administratrix of his estate. She contended that both Mr. and Mrs. Roberts were instantly killed and that therefore the money went to her. Evidence was submitted by the plaintiff with the object of showing that Mrs. Roberts had lived after her husband was killed. Trainmen who carried Mrs. Roberts to the caboose were of the opinion that Mrs. Roberts' arms were outstretched. Dr. J. P. Sinclair of Gananoque testified that when he arrived an hour after the accident Mrs. Roberts' left arm was raised and her hand resting on her forehead. Her face and body were warm and the pupils of her eyes were not dilated.

Dr. W. T. Connell, of Kingston, for the defence, stated that the body of a full-blooded woman like Mrs. Roberts might remain warm for eight or ten hours after death, and that the pupils might not dilate rapidly. The Judge concluded that the evidence had not been sufficient to convince him that Mrs. Roberts had lived after her husband had ceased to breathe, and dismissed the case without costs.

The insurance money will go to Mrs. Peattie, administratrix of Mr. Roberts' estate, and the costs of the action will be met out of it.

REV. HAROLD YOUNG AT LINDSAY ROTARY

Says Men Should Respond to Spiritual Realities.

LINDSAY, Feb. 4.—This week's luncheon of the Rotary Club was featured by an admirable address from Rev. Harold Young, of Peterboro. The reverend gentleman in the course of his remarks, pointed out that although in many ways men's lives are similar, yet they live in different worlds. If our world is a world of material things, we teach our souls to respond only to that world. It is the greatest importance to Rotary what the things are to which the members respond.

The soul should be taught to respond to spiritual realities and values. The average man responds to material things and thinks of life in material terms. The great things of life are, said Mr. Young, God, honour, loyalty, duty, love, right. The speaker referred to man's attitude to the ordinary work of life, and pointed out that life was not to be regarded as a dead, monotonous turn stile. It was also pointed out that man must not live a life of indifference, letting the rest of the world go by. The presence of our fellowmen should constitute a challenge to us to mak. our lives better—to live in a house by the side of the road and be a friend to man.

Victoria County Council Settles Murder Trial Account.

LINDSAY, Feb. 4.—At a session of the county council of Victoria County a communication was read from the Attorney-General's department which stated that there was no appeal against the account presented by Dr. Armour, expert witness at the McGaughey trial, as the amount of the bill ($610.50) had been allowed by the trial judge. Clerk McNeillie informed the council that the bill had been paid.

It will be recalled that at the January session of the council a protest was forwarded to the Attorney-General's department in connection with this account.

RATES APPEAL BEFORE COURT

Crow's Nest Pass Act Ultra Vires of Railway Board West Argues.

A SPECIAL ACT.

OTTAWA, Feb. 4. — (Canadian Press).—The Supreme Court of Canada rose last evening with argument for the Prairie Provinces in the Crow's Nest Pass appeal still unfinished. H. J. Symington, K.C., counsel for the Prairie Provinces, which are appealing against the judgment of the Railway Commission upsetting the Crow's Nest rates stressed two points in his lengthy argument. In the first place, he maintained that the Crow's Nest Pass Act is a "special act," making statutory provision for certain maximum railway rates on specific commodities. In the second place, he contended that, by virtue of the provisions of the General Railway Act, such a "special act" is not within the jurisdiction of the Board of Railway Commissioners.

In support of his argument that the Crow's Nest Act is a special act, Mr. Symington cited a ruling of the Railway Commission itself, accepting this view. "Parliament said to the Railway Commission, you fix just and reasonable rates without discrimination, but you are not to go outside the maxima on wheat and the commodities in the Crow's Nest Act," said Prairie counsel in summarizing his argument.

Mr. Symington will continue his argument to-day, dealing with discriminations arising out of the contention of the railways that the rates can be applied only at points which were in existence on the Canadian Pacific Railway in 1897.

SAILORS OF FLEET TO VISIT ACTIVE VOLCANO, HAWAII

HILO, Island of Hawaii, Feb. 4.—(Associated Press).—Every sailor of the United States fleet, which is to visit the territory next spring for maneuvers, wil be given an opportunity to visit the volcano of Kilauea, 30 miles up the slopes from Hilo, the greatest continually active crater in the world.

Avalanches and earthquakes now compose Kilauea's activities almost solely, 47 earth shocks having been recorded at the volcano observatory in the week ended Dec. 17.

Since the volcano's latest violent eruption, in May, 1924, when the crater claimed its first human victim in modern times, there has been slight activity at the fire pit of Halemaumau. The dimensions of the crater, increased greatly by last May's activity, are approximately 3,500 by 3,000 feet, with a depth of about 1,300 feet.

NEW PROVINCES GRANTED AGENT TO THE VATICAN

Herriot Disposes of Question of Representative to Pope by 317-246 Vote.

A STORMY SESSION.

"Reds" Chant Communist 'Internationale" and Appeal for Revolution.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—Endorsing by a vote of 317 to 246 the government's proposal to maintain a diplomatic agent at the Holy See to represent Alsace-Lorraine, after having virtually voted for the suppression of the French embassy to the Vatican Monday, the chamber yesterday enabled Premier Herriot to get the very dangerous Vatican question out of the way so far as the lower house is concerned.

The vote came after a session which was twice suspended by President Painleve and which surpassed in scenes of disorder anything that ever took place in the Frenchchamber, which has acquired some reputation as a stormy assembly.

While the solution of the Vatican question is a victory for the cabinet, Ministerial circles are not inclined to display undue elation, while the opposition, which threatened for the greater part of the afternoon disruption of the left groups and separation of the Socialists from the present majority, belittled the government's success.

Persuaded Socialists

For the second time within a week M. Herriot had been at loggerheads with his Socialist supporters and they caused it to be known that they voted favorably to the government only because the premier had made it a question of confidence. Last week the Socialists disapproved of the Premier's security speech, while yesterday it required long negotiations to bring them into line behind the government.

The decision to appoint a representative of Alsace Lorraine to the Vatican while the rest of France was severing diplomatic relations was reached notwithstanding the negative votes of a majority of the deputies from the recovered provinces. The agreement between the Socialists and the government was arrived at after Mr. Herriot had promised that the expenditures of the Alsace Lorraine mission to the Holy See, should not be classified under diplomatic salaries and allowances, but under a separate head, labelled administrative non-political expenditures.

President Painleve scored the deputies for their lack of decorum in singing the Marseillaise and the International, by the Right and Left groups, which, however, proved amusing to the spectators.

Sang Red Anthem

The "International", sung by twenty six leather-lunged Communist deputies at the conclusion of a speechby their leader, Marcel Cachin in the chamber of deputies caused Premier Herriot to ask M. Painleve to suspend the session, "as a protest against this ill-timed demonstration."

Deputy Cachin's oration was a eulogy of the Moscow government and an open appeal for a revolution and the installation of Soviets in France.

DEATH TAKES PETER HOSE, "HULA TRAFFIC COP"

HONOLULU, Jan. Feb. 4.—(Associated Press).—Peter Hose, Hawaii's famous "hula traffic cop," is dead, a victim of tuberculosis.

Well over six feet in height, always smiling and genial, "Pete," as he was known universally, was wont to amuse and entertain visitors and residents of the islands by directing traffic at the busiest street interection in Honolulu to the motions of a whistled hula dance. He became a well-known character both to residents and tourists, as he had served 18 years in the police department.

Some months ago he contracted tuberculosis and was placed in a sanitarium. Prior to the holiday season he suddenly arose one night, dressed and walked to his home with the remark that he desired to die in his own home among his family. Death came quietly several nights later.

Throughout the night before the funeral around Pete's coffin relatives and friends kept watch over the dead after the Hawaiian custom, the silence being punctuated occasionally by wailing, for Pete had been a native of the islands and island customs were his customs.

It is lined on both sides with fine young shade trees, and is entirely reserved for residential purposes.

OFFICERS OF JAPANESE SQUADRON ARE FETED BY THE DOMINION IN VANCOUVER

Confidence in Friendship of Japan and British Empire as Guarantee of World Peace Expressed at Banquet—Visit of Training Cruisers.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Feb. 4 (Canadian Press) — Confidence in the continued friendship of Japan and the British Empire as a guarantee of world peace was expressed last night by speakers at a banquet given by the Federal Government to Vice Admiral Saburo Hyakutake and the officers of the Japanese training squadron in port here. Persons representing the official, military, naval and business life of the community attended the function, in addition to about seventy officers from the Japanese cruisers.

Chief Justice MacDonald, administrator of British Columbia, who presided, stated that British Columbia took a special interest in trans-Pacific problems, and had reason to realize to a fuller extent than other provinces the importance of Japan's naval preparedness. Alluding to the development of the Japanese navy, the administrator said, "We are grateful for the friendly attitude which the Japanese Government has always taken in regard to the questions affecting the mutual interests of Japan and the British Empire."

Premier John Oliver, speaking on behalf of the provincial government, paid tribute to the Anglo-Japanese treaty which, he declared, had been a potent agency in maintaining world peace in past years.

Vice Admiral Hyakutake expressed appreciation for the welcome extended the squadron and thanked Canada for its contribution to the relief of Tokio and Yokohama after the earthquake.

C.N.R. BOARDING CAR IN CRASH

Shifted From Truck By the Shunter—Dinner Scrambled and Cook Hurt.

AT MILLBROOK.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 4.—The interior of the C.N.R. station is being renovated and re-decorated at present. The walls, which were formerly kalsomined, are receiving a fresh coat of paint, the furniture varnished and other improvements made. When the work is completed the building will present an attractive appearance.

A peculiar occurrence happened to the boarding car which houses the workmen. The noon "mixed" from Port Hope, to which was attached an engine with brakes working rather ineffectively, struck the car, breaking the king bolt and moving the body a few inches out of place on the wheels.

The steel top of the cook stove was broken in the centre, and smoke issuing in some volume at first gave the impression that the car was on fire. Dinner was cooking, but was destined not to be eaten since it was scattered in all directions.

The cook, a Japanese, was the sole occupant of the car at the time and was thrown some feet against the wall of the car and badly bruised. An examination by X-ray at Dr. H. A. Turner's Private Hospital showed no bones broken, and the injured man was allowed to return to his post of duty, but carrying one arm in a sling.

MINORITY WITH UNITED CHURCH

St. Andrew's Church, Lindsay, to Lose Pastor and Part of Congregation.

ADVERSE VOTE.

LINDSAY, Feb. 4.—Following the adverse vote on Church Union taken by the congregation of St. Andrew's Church, the advocates of Union have held a meeting and adopted a resolution unanimously expressing a desire to join the congregation of the Cambridge Street Methodist Church as a Presbyterian group. This step is taken on the assurance that the congregation of Cambridge Street Methodist Church will become a congregation of the United Church of Canada when the Act of Incorporation comes into effect on June 10th.

The congregation of Cambridge Street Church has re-affirmed its adherence to the United Church of Canada and cordially invited the group of Unionists of the Presbyterian Church to fellowship with them until the Union is consummated.

It is announced that Rev. F. H. McIntosh, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, and an exponent of Union, has tendered his resignation to the Presbytery. Mr. McIntosh came to Lindsay from Pictou, N. S., a few years ago, and is immensely popular. He is a member of the curling and Kiwanis clubs and several other organizations.

FOUND FRIEND DEAD AT FOOT CELLAR STEPS

Mrs. W. Moore, of Keene, Met Sudden and Lonely Death.

LIGHT MISSING.

Neighbor Guided by Open Door to Sad Discovery—Cause Unknown.

KEENE, Ont., Feb. 4. — Mrs. Wm. Moore, of Keene, met a very tragic death last evening. Mrs. Levi Fife, who was a neighbor of Mrs. Moore, not noticing the usual light in the house at the usual time went in to investigate.

Mrs. Fife was unable to locate Mrs. Moore and lighted the lamp and started to search the house. She noticed the door open leading to the cellar, and going down the stairs, found Mrs. Moore dead at the bottom of the stairs.

Whether Mrs. Moore suffered a heart attack or whether she slipped down the stairs and met death due to a cut on her head is not known yet.

Mrs. Moore had been living alone for quite a number of years, her husband having predeceased her some years ago.

The entire community is shocked over the suddenness of Mrs. Moore's death.

Signal Honor For Peterboro

GUS L. HAY

In the election of Gus L. Hay to the position of the Illustrious Potentate of Rameses Temple, A.A.O.N.M.S., a singal honor has come to the city of Peterborough. Only once before in the past thirty eight years has the Illustrious Potentate been chosen from outside the City of Toronto, and the member who is elected to such a high station in the Order must necessarily be of the very finest type. Mr. Hay, who was accompanied to the business meeting in Toronto by twenty-five Nobles from Peterborough, was also elected representative to the Imperial Council which meets in Los Ageles, California, in June next.

The Order has a record of wonderful humanitarian work in its organization of crippled children's hospitals and also through the endeavors of individual temples. Hospitals have been established at Shreveport, La.; Minneapolis, Minn.; San Francisco, Cal.; Portland, Oregon; St. Louis, Mo.; Springfield, Mass.; in Montreal and in Honolulu.

Several millions of dollars have been expended on these hospitals and more are being built from time to time. Where there is any chance of accomplishing a cure, the crippled children are taken to the hospital, where they are operated on by the most skilled surgeons and are cared for until well. Over seven hundred crippled children have already been turned out, able to take their places in the world and earn a livelihood, unhampered by their misfortune.

There are over six hundred thousand members of the Order on this continent, all of whom are directly interested in the work.

PENNY POSTAGE PROPOSAL MADE

Request in London by Deputation Representing the Printing Industries.

STIMULATE TRADE.

LONDON, Feb. 4 (Canadian Press Cable).—That penny-postage be restored in the United Kingdom was the request made Tuesday by a deputation representative of the printing and paper-making industries of Great Britain. The deputation contended that restoration of the penny rate would stimulate trade, reduce unemployment and help the British home and export trade. It was pointed out to the Postmaster-General, Sir William L. M. Thomson, that sales of picture postcards in New Zealand had increased 25 per cent. sinces the New Zealand government had reduced the postal rates, and the fact that South Africa was about to restore the penny postal rate made the time opportune for a re-inroduction of the rate into Great Britain.

It was mentioned that the income from advertisements exhibited in post offices was now £22,000 yearly, therefore the Postmaster-General would be interested to learn that the British printing industry had embarked on a campaign of collective advertising ,and would this motnh send out about a thousand booklets advocating more extensive use of direct mail advertising. This would enable postal officials to base their estimates along more optimistic lines, the deputation urged.

GUATEMALA HAS NEW PARK

GUATEMALA CITY, Guat. (By mail to United Press).—On the twenty-fifth of December was opened to the public the National Park La Aurora, on the outskirts of the city. The park covers an area of approximately nine hundred acres, which makes it even larger than the Central Park of New York and that of Palermo in Argentina.

The park is located in one of the most beautiful spots in the world. It dominates a grand view with four gigantic volcanoes and the picturesque Lake of Amatitlan at the background.

Many automobile roads cross it in different directions. The most varied samples of tropical trees and flowers are scattered all over. There are zoological and botanical gardens, meteorological observatory, public baths, artificial lakes, forests, gardens all of the most exquisite nature.

There are lawn tennis, golf, polo and football grounds and also a gymnasium.

GREECE WILL APPEAL TO LEAGUE OVER EXPULSION OF PATRIARCH

Dispute With Turkey Liable to Endanger Peace of the World.

AWAITING ANGORA.

Submit It to League if Turks Refuse Arbitration by World Court.

GENEVA, Feb. 4—Contesting the Turkish version of the expulsion from Constantinople of Patriarch Constantinos, M. Dendramis, Grecian delegate to the league of nations declared yesterday that unless the Angora government agreed to submit the controversy to adjudication by the world court of justice, Greece was certain to appeal to the league of nations for action under the provisions of the covenant.

M. Dendramis insisted that the mixed commission which supervises the exchange of populations between Greece and Turkey did not vote for the deportation of the patriarch, but merely had decided six to four that technically Constantinos was exchangeable.

The Greek commission, however, M. Dendramis asserted, refused to provide the necessary passport to the patriarch, thus telling Turkey that Constantinos should be allowed to remain in Constantinople.

Further M. Dendramis alleged that in deporting Constantinos Turkey was violating the Lausanne agreement to keep the patriarchate as an institution, because the patriarch is elected by the Holy Synod of the Greek church for life, and that while the present patriarch lives the institution as such is attacked by Turkey.

After consulting with league officials Tuesday, M. Dendramis said he had become convinced that any appeal by Greece to the council of the league should be made under Article XI., of the covenant which authorizes an appeal when circumstance arise wnich are liable to endanger the peace of the world.

GREATER LONDON PUBS OPEN AN HOUR LONGER

Procession Over the Thames on Sunday Night for Extra Drink.

LONDON, Feb. 4 (Canadian Press Cable).—Anomalies in the hours during which licensed public houses remain open in London are continuing to cause some comment and criticism.

The magistrates of the district south of the river decline to make any alteration in the hours during which public-houses may remain open there, which are at present from 6 to 9 in the evenings, in order that they may conform to the hours in operation north of the Thames, which are from 7 to 10, and this despite strong representations from those who assert that the difference in hours means a long procession of thirsty ones over the bridges into Greater London after nine o'clock every Sunday night.

Catholic priests, however, have urged the justices of the peace to maintain the present hours, as likely to prevent folk on the way to church services on Sunday evening from being beguiled by acquaintances to the publichouse.

EVICTED MINISTERS ARE STILL CHEERY

Rev. R. E. Knowles Says Anti-Union Church Will be Purely Provincial.

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—(Special).—In Presbyterian circles the question is being discussed as to how the anti-Unionists are going to fill the pulpits vacated by Unionist pastors. It is stated that Scottish ministers are too much imbued with the idea of Union to be induced to come over to Canada in the capacity of "ecclesiastical strike-breakers," but it is believed that many of these pastorless churches are looking hopefully toward Ulster for preachers to perpetuate the Presbyterian tradition.

Although they are regarded as "martyrs," the "evicted" Unionist ministers at the Toronto Presbytery Tuesday were cheerful and declared that they were "stronger Unionist than ever."

Commenting on the meeting of the Presbytery, Rev. R. E. Knowles said that anti-Unionists could only form an "Ontario Church," and that it would be "Provincial in more senses than one, with no outlook to the sea and with but little to the stars."

PASADENA PLAYERS SOLICIT REJECTED MANUSCRIPTS

PASADENA, Cal., Feb. 4.—(Associated Press).—When Pasadena's community playhouse opens April 1, the first attraction will be a play which probably never would have seen the footlights had it not been for an unusual request made by the playhouse directors. An appeal was directed to all members of the Dramatists' Guild of the Authors' League to submit rejected manuscripts, and it is from these plays, turned down by Broadway producers, that the directors expect to find the opening vehicle.

The playhouse, a civic venture, was built at a cost of $300,000, all of which was raised by popular subscription. I will be run on a non-profit basis, and is publicly owned under perpetual trust.

HIGHER PRICES FOR HOGS IN U.S.A. SEEN

Increased Protection Urged by U. S. Department of Agriculture.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—A considerable increase in hog production next fall and a corn acreage "about the same as in 1924," were recommended by the department of agriculture Tuesday in the second section of its annual outlook report.

"Beef cattle prices this year," the report said, "should average somewhat higher than last year, and those for sheep and wool should be at least on a par with those of 1924."

Dairymen were urged in the report to make no further expansion in their industry. Higher egg prices were forecast during the peak production season of the year, but the report warned that poultry prices may be lower.

"Hog producers," the report said, "enter 1925 with 18 per cent. fewer hogs than a year ago, and there is every indication that prices during the next 18 months will be higher than at any time since 1920. Six to eight million fewer pigs will be born this spring than last."

Nickle, K.C., attorney general, of the safe arrival in Los Angeles of the certified warfants for the arrest of Andrew Pepall whose return is being sought by the government, in order that he may face trial for complicity in the provincial bond scandals. The courts in Los Angeles have taken the stand that the certified warrants for Pepall's arrest must be produced if the accused is to be held in custody and the case has been at a standstill pending their arrival.

CHAPTER XI.

—And Rides.

Sally had very little speech with the Wreck next morning, and such words as they exchanged dealt with routine trivialities. He was not in conversational mood, finishing his breakfast in almost complete silence, but with excellent appetite.

The Wreck disappeared after the morning dish-washing. He hated to wash dishes: his very soul rose in rebellion. The only reason he endured it was because Sally would have to wash them herself if he did not. Women were always imposing obligations on people even without making any demands,he reflected irritably. You had to do things for them, or you felt mean inside. The lesser evil was to do things.

Sally's day did not brighten until afternoon, when Charley made a suggestion. The Underwoods had ridden back into the hills to see some of the prize cattle they might not be back until late. If Sally and the Wreck wanted to take a couple of horses and look around a bit they could have their pick of what was left in the corral. Charley thought he could find a riding skirt for her there were always some outfits for possible guests.

The Wreck did not enjoy his ride. He never did, although it would have been useless to expect him to admit it. If only he knew where Charley had hidden the front wheel of the flivver he could laugh at every horse in Montana. But just now there was a certain method in his grim purpose to stay in the saddle. If things came to the worst, he and Sally could steal horses, and with that event as a possibility he was behooved to learn something about this painful and primitive method of travel.

Sally had just suggested that they turn back certain that by the time they reached the house the Wreck would have enough for the day, when they encountered the Underwoods—father, son and daughter. It was her first glimpse of the family, and she studied them with interest, especially Harriet. Charley performed the introduction.

The Underwoods did not pay much attention to the Wreck, but they were frankly interested in Sally. Even Jerome Underwood was disposed to be gracious, for he was not unmindful of the dishes that came to his table. It was his first experience with a woman cook at the ranch, and it suited him so well that he had forgotten all the admonitions of his New York specialist.

On the homeward ride, Underwood and his foreman rode together, talking of the ranch. That left Sally and Chester Underwood paired. Chester found himself in a state of agreeable surprise. He did not know that cooks were young and good to look at, and knew how to sit in a saddle. He did not know that they could laugh and talk and be unaffectedly interesting at the same time. But he discovered all these things and he forgot that the ranch bored him. He had quite a gay time of it all the way home. People from the east always had an interest for Sally: she liked to hear about things of which she knew very little, being possessed of a healthy and enthusiastic curiosity. She led him to talk as much as he would, and found him willing.

Watching from the rear, the Wreck's brooding turned into a morose channel. Why was it that he couldn't talk to a woman in that fashion? He knew that he had none of the graces; he scorned them. But why were they given to the stripling sons of rich men? How did it come that he was always clumsy and ill at ease whenever a woman was about?

Even Sally Morgan bothered him. If she bothered him, why didn't she bother Chester Underwood? But she didn't; not a bit. Nor did Chester Underwood bother her. But Henry Williams did; the Wreck knew it. She was on an easy footing of comradeship with the newcomer in five minutes; it was always the same way with ranch hands, or anybody else. But with himself he felt that she was constantly under a constraint, even though she tried to mask it. She never understood him; sometimes she laughed at him; sometimes he was certain that she had a sense of pity for him, a realization that fairly sickened him. What the devil was the matter with him anyhow? And with her?

When the ranch house came into sight, some idiot urged his horse to a gallop. The Wreck assumed that it was Chester, but he could not be sure. He was too busy. The Wreck's gray galloped also; he had a brainless way of imitating other horses. Everybody galloped. The Wreck survived the gallop by some astonishing trick of fortune, but he did not survive the sudden stop at the gate of the corral. He went right on for a little distance, reaching the ground on all fours. As he slowly arose he became aware that Chester was grinning down at him.

His hands rolled themselves into fists automatically, and he took a step forward. Then Sally was at his side, gripping him firmly by the arm.

"Let go of me," he said savagely. "I'm all right."

"Why, of course you are, Henry." And then, in a whisper: "You come with me. You're not going to do any fighting to-day. I'm ashamed of you, Henry Williams; you're worse than a locoed steer. I don't know what I'll do with you."

CHAPTER XII.

The Sheriff Arrives

Wild, and yet wilder, were the tales that came from the Underwood family concerning the short and simple incident of borrowed gasoline. Even Charley McSween conceded that the west must be reverting to halcyon times. Jerome Underwood stuck to his four bandits with a tenacity worthy of the best possible imagination. Harriet Underwood, at first disposed to be literal and to report only those things which she saw, remembered that she was clever enough to slip her rings down her neck, where they scratched but were otherwise safe. She had held her ringless fingers out for the inspection of the man with the gun, and he growled at her.

Chester confirmed the four bandits, because he had wisdom enough to see that his father might appreciate confirmation. There was a note of repressed heroism in Chester. Several times he had been about to leap; all that restrained him, it appeared, was a fear that when the shooting began others than himself might fall as sacrifices in the horrid fusillade. He told all this to Sally during the ride back to the house, with a gay nonchalance that surprised her. She had an idea that resourceful lying rarely came before middle age, so that she was driven to believe that Chester was either precocious or prematurely advanced in years. Chester was a large, strongly built youth, doubtless capable of bandits as well as football; but, knowing him for a liar, she found herself filled with an ungracious undercurrent of doubt concerning the precise status of his nerve.

The most surprising development involved Timothy, the Underwood chauffeur. Timothy had begun by being literal. He had been heard to say that there was but one bandit. But he multiplied by six, perhaps inadvertently, perhaps because he drew inspiration from higher sources. At any rate, he did not spoil matters; he magnified.

SAFE IS BLOWN IN ALLIN OFFICE

And When the Thieves Got There the Cupboard Was Bare.

TWO ATTEMPTS.

The thieves who tried to gain entrance to two local offices last night must be a disappointed group this morning. Their first attempt was at the H. B. Taylor office, on the corner of Aylmer and Townsend Streets, where they tampered with the lock of the cellar door, and were scared away by the barking of a hound dog inside. Then they proceeded to the office of the Allin Ice Company, half a block away, on Townsend Street, made an entrance and blew open the safe, which was empty.

DISGUISED AS GUESTS.

Scotland Yard Detectives Attired in Evening Clothes.

LONDON, Feb. 4. — (Canadian Press).—Proprietors of night clubs and habitues of these resorts suffered a jolt to-day upon learning that Scotland Yard has had its eye upon them for some weeks.

Detectives disguised as guests and attired in evening dress have been in regular attendance at all the principal clubs, gathering evidence for the Home Secretary, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, who is preparing a bill for Parliament, under which the police would have greater powers of supervision over the clubs. The detectives are said to have witnessed much selling of liquor out of hours.

ONLY THE MOTHER KNOWS ABOUT THE

COUGHS AND COLDS OF THE CHILDREN

It is hard to keep them from taking cold; they will run out of doors not properly clad, or have on too much clothing; play too hard and get overheated and cool off too suddenly; get their feet wet; kick off the bed clothes at night, and do a dozen things the mother can't prevent.

The prompt use of

will check the cough or cold before any serious lung trouble can possibly develop.

Mrs. Everett E. Keetch, R.R. No. 2, Fredericton, NB, writes:—"My little boy, age nine years, had a dreadful cold which left him with a bad cough I tried Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and after using three bottles he was completely relieved. I would advise all mothers to use this remedy for their children as it is an excellent medicine."

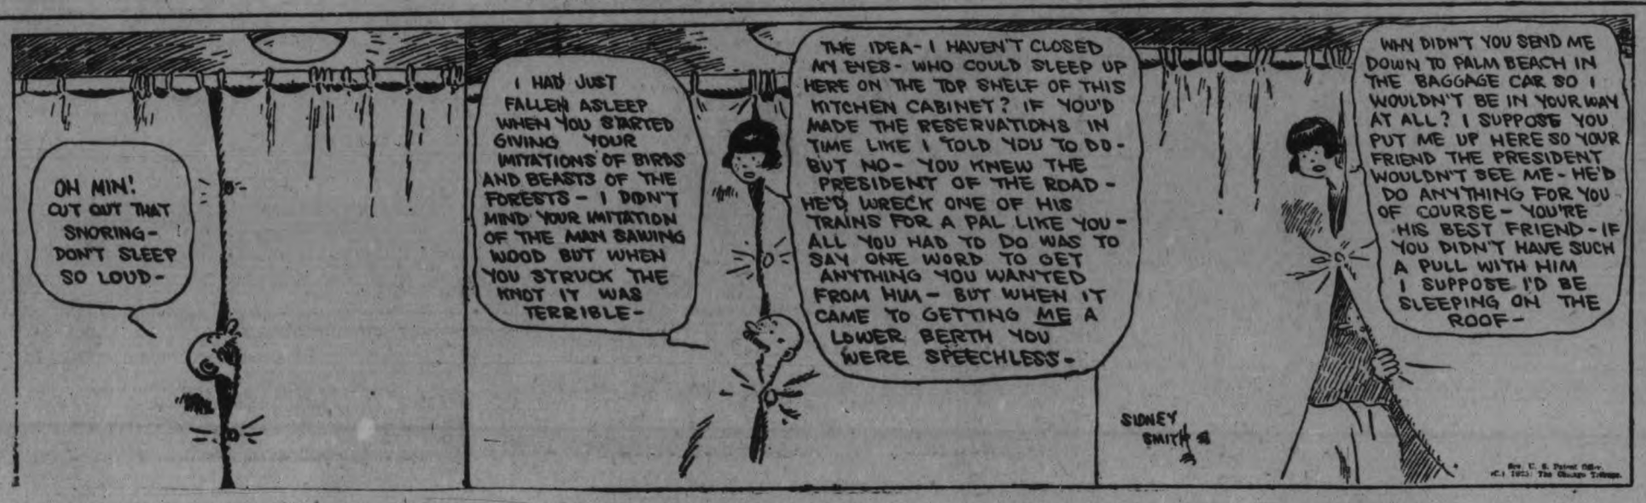
THE GUMPS—THE UPPER TEN



MOTHERS MAKE MANY MISTAKES

Dr. A. W. McPherson Addressed Well Babies' Clinic on Feeding.

SOME HINTS

At a recent largely-attended meeting of the Well Babies' Clinic, held in the G.W.V.A. rooms, a very instructive address on "Mistakes Mothers make in Feeding their Children," was given by Dr. A. W. McPherson.

The doctor warned against taking advice from everyone, and cited the case of a mother who was told by a neighbor, when weaning her baby, to give it cow's milk only once a day in certain phases of the moon, while another mother whose baby had been gaining weight at the rate of half a pound a week was determined to change the feeding to biscuits and milk when the child was only three months old.

Another mistake was in giving castor oil, for instance, no matter what was wrong with the child. This was frequently not needed, as were teething powders which were given indiscriminately, without knowledge of what was contained in their make-up.

A mistake frequently made with new-born babies was to give them a laxative, castor oil being the favorite dose. If nature had considered it necessary to provide such a laxative for the baby, the doctor declared she would have provided it.

The speaker also frowned on the giving of 'comforts' to babies, a practice which interfered with proper breathing, and often caused a swollen condition of the throat, which resulted in adenoids.

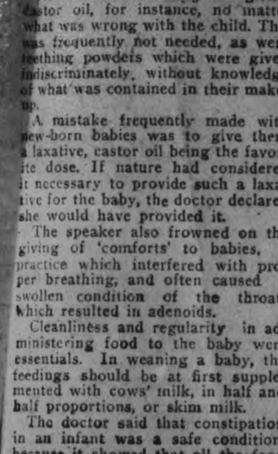
Cleanliness and regularity in administering food to the baby were essentials. In weaning a baby, the feedings should be at first supplemented with cows' milk, in half and half proportions, or skim milk.

The doctor said that constipation in an infant was a safe condition, because it showed that all the food was being digested. Cream or orange juice or scraped apple, with plenty of water, should be added to the feedings.

Diarrhoea is caused either by the food given or is infective. If the infant is breast fed, it may be caused by something that the mother is eating, or it may also be a nervous condition, and sometimes eczema in a baby is caused by improper dieting in the mother. The chief causes of diarrhoea are too much sugar or fat in the food, and the treatment is a dose of castor oil, followed by a cutting down on food and giving the child skim milk without sugar. Buttermilk also is a very good thing to give.

Vomiting may be caused by an overloaded stomach or by air being sucked in. With the latter trouble, the baby should be lifted once or twice to the mother's shoulder during feeding. The baby should always be fed in the mother's arms, and food should not be given while the vomiting lasts. An injection should be given, or a dose of castor oil, with plenty of water, until the baby retains its food, when feeding should commence again with very thin food.

Forty Years' Experience



Alport, Ont.—"I have much pleasure in testifying to the efficacy of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery which I have used in my family of nine children for over forty years. I have no hesitation in pronouncing it to be the best proprietary medicine of which I have any knowledge for building up the body and keeping it in good order. If taken according to the directions, together with Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, I am convinced that there is no better tonic. I have been treated also by the Medical Staff at Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel and I have had no return of the trouble since that date (1910) which proves the thoroughness of their treatment."—H. F. TO LOVE, HONOR AND CHERISH UNTIL DEATH;—COST: $100,000

At Chicago's most magnificent wedding, in Holy Name cathedral, Loretta Hines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hines, millionaire lumberman, became Mrs. Howell Hoffman Howard. More than 2000 invited guests attended the ceremony, which cost over $100,000. Tito Schipa sang and the Chicago Symphony Orchestra played the bridal march. The bridal couple is shown kneeling in the sanctuary as Cardinal Mundelein performs the ceremony. This unusual picture was taken by NEA Cameraman Fugita, who was stationed behind a palm in the sanctuary.

MISSION SERVICES MARMORA CHURCH

Rev. I. C. Wickware, 16 Years in Congo, Addressed Crowded Congregations.

MARMORA, Feb. 4.—The claims of Methodist missions were strongly advocated at Marmora, Deloro and Springbrook on Sunday last. The speaker was the Rev. I. C. Wickware of Hybla, who has spent sixteen years in the Congo mission field. He is a preacher of very arresting style, who finds it no task to combine pathos with humour as he describes his exacting experiences in the foreign field. On Saturday evening Rev. Wickware gave a lantern lecture at Springbrook, which he repeated at Marmora on Sunday evening and at Deloro on Monday afternoon.

Good congregations listened to his address at Deloro on Sunday morning and at Springbrook that afternoon, whilst at the evening service at Marmora a large number attended. Special missionary hymns were heartily sung, and after giving two short but eloquent addresses from John 3:16, with the aid of very instructive slides, depicting mission life and animal life of Africa, Rev. Wickware gave a wonderful talk on his missionary labors. It is hoped that missionary zeal will be rekindled to a greater flame as the result of the missionary's appealing addresses.

At St. Paul's.

Another striking sermon was preached at St. Paul's on Sunday morning by the rector on "The Unchanging Christ," wherein he asserted that His unchangeableness was brought out in His obedience, love and indignation. In connection with the latter characteristic, the preacher mentioned that Jesus never expressed anger over any harm wrought upon Himself. His wrath was kindled when injury was done to others. In this respect we might well copy Him. Rev. Watson, in concluding, showed that Jesus is unchangeable in His connection with the two great Sacraments.

THE NEW WOMAN WINS HER PLACE IN RUSSIA

By WILLIAM HENRY CHAMBERLAIN.

MOSCOW, Feb. 4.—(United Press).—The question whether a Russian woman's place is in the home was recently brought into the limelight through a trial which recently took place in a workers' court here. These workers' courts, it should be understood, have no formal judicial rights, but are sometimes called to sit in judgment on ethical questions which have social implications.

The chief figures in the case were a worker named Mikahailov and his wife, both of whom were employed in a Moscow textile factory. They had lived happily for many years and had three children. But the so-called "Lenin enrollment," the movement to bring 200,000 new workers into the Communist party, awakened the slumbering social instincts of Mrs. Mikahailov and temporarily at least upset the harmony of the Mikhailov household.

Under the stimulus of the Lenin enrollment, Mrs. Mikahailov joined the Communist party. She took her new responsibilities very seriously and began to devote all her spare time to attending political meetings and courses and helping in the organization of nurseries and kindergartens. All this was quite in line with the Communist party to attract working women to take a active part in public life.

But Mr. Mikhailov, who was not a Communist and who had apparently the old-fashioned idea that woman should confine themselves to their domestic duties, began to complain and sulk. He insisted that it was not fair to expect him to take care of the children during the evenings when his wife was learning the principles of Communism or being initiated into the secrets of public activity.

The whole case, with all its issues, was finally threshed out before a workers' court in the presence of a large and intensely interested audience. Both husband and wife were represented by eager volunteer advocates. The spokesman for the husband dwelt on the bad effects of Mrs. Mikhailov's absorption into public work on her family life:

"For every homeless child that people like Mrs. Mikhailov help in the children's homes, they let two of their own children go to the bad," he thundered. "The effect on her husband also is very bad. He is not a Communist or a class-conscious worker; if he sees his wife leaving him every evening, he is likely to take to drink and other vices."

Mrs. Mikhailov's advocate, on the other hand, held her up as a moral woman of the new society, who refused to let her family life stand in the way of her public duties.

And Mrs. Mikhailov herself, appearing before the court, cried:

"You may do with me what you like, but I will never give up my outside work."

The verdict of the court was a victory for feminism, Mrs. Mikhailov was admonished to pay special attention to the care of her children, but her conduct in undertaking work outside her own home was heartily commended.

ENGLISH HOLDINGS FIND NEW OWNERS

Old Order is Passing and Ancient Nobility Are Selling Their Land.

By JOHN GUNTHER.

LONDON, Feb. 4. — (United Press). — England is changing hands.

The ducal landowners of the old order who have held most of England for generations are being driven out.

Thousands upon thousands of acres of English park and agricultural land have been bought up by the newly rich.

As this land changes hands from heriditary land barons to the new tenants the old fuedal system dies with its final gasp.

All this is the way Charles Philips, general manager of one of the largest real estate firms in Great Britain, summarizes one phase of England's pressing land question and looks forward to the new year.

"This is not a new movement," said Philips. "It has slowly cumulated to its present importance. The year 1907 may be taken as the approximate date when sales of agricultural land began to increase in a marked degree. This increase was immensely stimulated by the war and by post-war conditions.

"No official figures are available to show the total acreage sold or the amount realized. It is doubtful, in view of the enormous activity in land movement, if any comprehensive record exists or could be compiled. Our own firm from 1913 to 1922 sold 2,365,000 acres, realizing 31,231,052 pounds. It is evident that a vast extent of British land has changed hands in the past ten years."

Philips gave answers to four questions, each of which throws light on the problem.

First. What caused the movement?

"Taxes," said Philips. "The greater part of the area sold is made up of estates which generally had been owned by members of the same family for long periods—often for centuries.

"As a rule, owners showed great reluctance to part with the estate, as they had a deep and strong attachment to their ancestral acres and their family home.

"However, pressure of circumstances, largely economic but partly political, compelled them to sell. The principal causes are the burden of death duties, tithes and rates, increased cost of maintenance, higher mortgage interest and taxes.

"One great estate we handled was taxed 13s. 5d. on the pound—almost 75 per cent. Another, 5,000-acre ducal park in Warwickshire, averaged in taxes the incredible sum of 18s. 8d. on the pound. The Duke of Buccleuch's published returns show that 19s. 7d. on the pound is extracted from him for tax and super-tax."

Second. Who are the landholders forced to sell?

Philips pointed to an issue of the Times which contained a full page of classified advertisements offering great estates for sale. Viscount Elubank was offering Darn Hall in Peeblesshire. A Scottish nobleman was offering 64,000 acres of hunting ground in Argyllshire. Lord Woolavington was offering his 17,000 acres in the county of Ross. Col. Cameron of Lochiel was offering remnants of the old estate of Bonnie Prince Charlie—117,000 acres of park land in Lochabar. And so it goes.

"Not all our clients are noblemen," said Mr. Philips. "It is true, however, that many of the old landed gentry are being forced to sell."

Third. Who are the buyers?

"The buyers of the great estates are often newly rich millionaires. Some of them are Americans. Some of them are war profiteers. Some of them are the top peak of those Englishmen pushed through the social crust by the war.

"Also, it must be remembered, that many of the great landowners are selling their farms to their own tenants. That is, they are selling outright the land which they have rented for generations.

"In many cases our clients insist that their own tenants be given first chance at the portions of land they sell."

Fourth. What are the social and economic consequences which may be expected during 1925 and ensuing years of this change in property?

"It ends the old tradition," said Philips. "Whether it is a good or bad thing is hard to say. In many cases, the sale of land to former tenants is increasing agriculture.

"The effect upon a man, previously a tenant farmer, who becomes an owner-occupier must normally tend to increased production.

"How the change in the great estates to new ownership will effect the social fabric of England is a difficult thing to forecast."

MEXICO PROTECTS HER WILD ANIMALS

Duck Has Fallen on Big Game Hunter's Day in Mexico.

TUCSON Ariz. Feb. 3.—Dusk has fallen on the big game hunters' day in Mexico. Thousands of deer bear and wild hogs roaming the hunting grounds of the northern mountain ranges will be saved from overzealous hunters under restrictions invoked by the chamber of deputies upon the recommendation of Ben Tinker, Tucson, Mexico's American game warden.

Free hunting the year round without regard for season or bag limit, which heretofore has made the Sinaloa and Sonora mountains a hunter's paradise, has been abolished under a complete new structure of game laws paralleling the American game restrictions, and the first on record for the preservation of game in the southern republic, observers here say.

Establishment of specified open game seasons according to zones, into which the various states are divided, are provided under the new law, according to Mr. Tinker, who has returned to Tucson from an extended trip through the game regions of the Mexican west coast. But one month each year—October—is set aside for deer hunting along the coast, he said. The law projects both whitetail and blacktail deer from the hunters.

Three large zones, embracing respectively the central, northen and coast regions, are provided. In each zone the bag limit on deer will be four for a hunter during the open season.

In the central zone the open deer season will begin September 1 and close October 31, and in the northern zone the season will begin October 1 and end November 30. Similar seasons are established on bear shooting, with the one-month rule also applying in this instance on the west coast, where wild beasts are more plentiful than in other parts of the republic.

The hopes of Dr. William H. Hornaday, manager of the Permanent Wild Life Protection Fund, are realized in the new law, designed primarily, according to Mr. Tinker, to stop wholesale slaughter of Mexico's big game by Mexican market hunters and American trophy hunters.

QUEBEC BUDGET SHOWS SURPLUS FOR LAST YEAR

Revenue Was $23,170,733 and Expenditure $21,867,292 Provincial Treasurer Reports.

SURPLUS $1,303,441.

More Than $37,000,000 Was Spent on Good Roads Since 1912 Act Adopted.

QUEBEC, Feb. 4.—A surplus of $1,303,441 after due allowance was made for an increase of extra-ordinary expenditure of $1,300,000 is shown in the Quebec budget which was brought down in the legislative assembly by Hon. Jacob Nicol, Provincial Treasurer, Tuesday.

The fiscal year ending June 30, 1924, had anticipated a revenue of $18,291,346, but the actual revenue of $18,291,346, but the actual revenue was $23,170,733; anticipated expenditures were $17,733,437, but actual expenditures amounted to $21,867,292.

The liabilities of the province at the end of the last fiscal year totalled $92,82,593, while the assets aggregated $43,957,416, showing excess of liabilities over assets of $43,865,177. The year showed an increase in funded debt of $15,000,000, from $60,605,000 to $75,605,000. This consisted of Provincial bonds and stock outstanding and against it was set sinking fund and deferred payments amounting to $18966,424. For the same period ending, the unfunded debt of the province totalled $17,217,366 against which the government had at the same time in the form of cash claims against individuals and corporations for advances a total of $24,990,991, leaving a surplus of assets over unfunded debt of $7,773,625.

New Financing

In his address on the estimates for the coming fiscal year ending June 30, 1926, the Provincial Treasurer asked for $20,864,727.26, to cover estimated expenditures of $20,551,720.46 and bringing an estimated surplus of $313,007.30. With regard to projected new financing on the part of the government, Mr. Nicol said that some would have to be done this year in order to refund some maturing short term loans which were made during the war period or shortly after. Of these $7,000,000 falls due March 1 next, and $2,500,000 on June 1st. The Government would therefore issue $9,500,000 of debentures to cover these loans and some additional borrowing to the extent of $5,000,000 or $6,000,000 might be made.

Touching on the increase of the funded debt by $15,000,000 the Provincial Treasurer said that this item was accounted for by issuing of debentures to that sum to the Bank of Hochelaga. This amount was entered as a liability against the province but to offset this the province had a contract signed by the Bank promising to pay both interest and capital The issue did not represent capital expenditure, but a loan and should probably have been entered in the financial report as a special item.

Expenditure On Roads

The provincial treasurer gave the following figures as payments made since the enactment of the Good Roads Act in 1912:—

Payments to municipalities, $34,435,557; Payments on Government Roads, $12,754,397; Net proceeds of loans, $5,850,805; Excess payments over proceeds of loans, $31,339,150; Allocated to municipalities $24,465,282; Paid on the foregoing item, $24,435,557.

NERVOUS SYSTEM VITAL SOURCE OF BODY POWER

YOUR nervous system is the vital force of your body; the force that gives energy to every organ and every muscle. So great is the power of the nerves that a tremendous shock, such as fear, may cause death.

A lesser nerve shock will blanch the cheeks, make the knees tremble, cause the heart to beat wildly or almost paralyze breathing.

To sustain our vitality we must nourish the nervous system. When we restore lost nerve power we find ourselves filled with new strength.

Nervous, exhausted men and women can quickly regain their nerve power. As they rebuild their nerves they soon see the signs of returning vitality.

Wincarnis gives to the nerves the very elements they must have to be nourished back to energy. For fifty years this nerve restorative and strength giver has reinvigorated those who were weak, thin, pale and so easily discouraged that life seemed scarcely to hold any real happiness.

If you are lacking in vital nerve force, go to your druggist today and begin the safe Wincarnis treatment.

A sixteen-ounce bottle, which is a fourteen-day Wincarnis treatment, is sold for $1.50 by all leading druggists. Wincarnis is so effective that only three tablespoonfuls a day need be taken. Try Wincarnis and see the difference just a few days will bring.

SOUTH AMERICAN ANT-BEAR CRUSHES HUNTER TO DEATH

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 4.—(Associated Press).—How a hunter fought a fierce body-to-body battle with a South American ant-bear, reputed to be an inoffensive animal, and was fatally injured, is told in a report from the village of Avia Terai in the Argentine Chaco.

The tragedy took place in a dense forest surrounding the village, the victim, Candido Martinez, 50 years old, having encountered the bear while seaparated from his hunting companion. The later heard his cries for help, the barking of his dogs and several shots, and making his way through the forest as he could, found Martinez in the disabled ground, his flesh terribly torn in great several places and his ribs crushed. He had only time to tell that he had been attacked by an ant-bear before he died.

Instances of an ant-bear attacking a man are very rare. Ant-bears are known to kill the jaguar, when attacked by it, by crushing between its powerful forelegs and chest, but its main interest in life is eating ants, destroying the hills with its long fox-like snout. For this reason it is regarded by settlers as a useful animal. It is thought that in this instance the bear was attacked by the dogs and turned at bay, attacking the man when he tried to save the dogs.

TEA SUPPLY INADEQUATE—PRICES HIGHER.

Tea prices are going up mainly because tea is being demanded by millions more people. Tea is the cheapest and certainly one of the most palatable and satisfying beverages known. But the tea growers have been unable to meet the tremendous demand. It takes three years for a tea bush to mature to the plucking stage.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1925.

THE PETERBOROUGH BONSPIEL.

The success of the Peterborough Bonspiel is gratifying not only to the local members of the curling fraternity but to citizens generally who recognize the value of this splendid annual sporting event in establishing more cordial relations with the cities, towns and villages of this section of Ontario.

It is notable that in this year's competition there are no fewer than thirty-four rinks, comprising some 136 curlers, from outside points, an attendance that speaks well for the hospitality of the local club and the reputation for good sportsmanship that the Peterborough 'spiel enjoys.

An annual competition of this kind, bringing as it does scores of visitors from the district, is an asset to Peterborough.

Curling is one of the most sociable of sports, a competitive form of recreation that gives scant encouragement to the man who wants to take any unfair advantage of his opponent.

It appeals to the best instincts of the real sportsman, and its popularity is not hard to understand.

Under these circumstances it is gratifying to see Peterborough taking the lead by this yearly promotion of a bonspiel which has come to be regarded over the district as one of the most important sporting events of the winter season.

MOTHERS' ALLOWANCES.

The request of the Trades and Labour Congress to Premier Ferguson that the Mothers' Allowance Act should be extended to include the mother with only one child, is one that deserves the sympathetic attention of the Government.

At present the Act applies to the widowed mother with two or more dependent children.

The widow with one child receives no consideration, although in many cases it is as difficult for her to get employment by which she may support herself as it would be if her family were larger.

There are no figures at hand as to the increase in the cost of the Mothers' Allowances were the Act to be amended as requested, but the sum in any case would not be an unreasonable one, and there seems to be a strong current of public opinion in favour of the change.

The Mothers' Allowance Act has been a most beneficial piece of legislation, its administration has been economical to a degree and the results have amply justified the placing of the measure upon the statute books of the Province.

There is every reason to believe that the extension of the Act to include widowed mothers with but one child would be followed with even greater benefits, and would ensure for such children a better chance in life than is possible when the mothers are left to fend for themselves.

THE CHIEF'S RECOMMENDATIONS.

For the third year in succession Fire Chief Gimblett has recommended the construction of a fire station in the southern part of the city and the addition to the equipment of a triple combination pumper.

Of the fire station, he says in his annual report that a larger percentage of alarms comes from the southern district than from any other part of the city, while the triple pumper would be of the greatest service in the case of a large fire in the mercantile district or in one of the larger factories.

"The efficiency of the department," the report says, "will be greatly added to by the carrying out of these recommendations."

Chief Gimblett is engaged as an expert in fire prevention and fire fighting, and he would be lacking in his duty were he to fail to point out what he considers as very vital facilities in the city's defence against fire.

The matter is up to the Council; the head of the Fire Department has discharged his responsibility by stressing the improvements that are necessary.

The city fathers must decide on their responsibility what is to be done in the face of these recommendations now presented to them for the third year in succession.

They may, of course, decide that it is a time for retrenchment and economy, but at least they will not be able to plead that the expert engaged to supervise the department did not give sufficient warning as to what he considered necessary to give the citizens protection.

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF.

The providing of relief for the unemployed, a problem that has been passed on to the Provinces by the Federal Government, and will be shifted to the municipalities by the Provinces, is a particularly difficult question.

It is agreed on all sides that the furnishing of work, rather than the payment of unemployment doles, is the most satisfactory plan, but just how far should this method be carried out?

Labour representatives, for example, are urging Provincial Government to spend dollar for dollar the municipalities in meeting the cost of construeworks that might be undertaken as unemployrelief.

That would be a rather dangerous undertaking. It might quite easily lead to the launching by municipalities of projects that would not be dreamed of under any other circumstances, but might be regarded as sound when the Province would have to pay half the cost of the undertaking.

The Province would not care to have its hands tied by any such arrangement as this.

Of course, the Government might inaugurate a programme of relief construction work on its own account, but it in turn is faced with a general demand for economy and for tax reduction, which cannot be met if out-of-season undertakings are planned to relieve the unemployment situation.

It is indeed a worrisome question, and nobody seems to be doing anything about it but passing the buck to the other fellow.

A UNIQUE TEST.

Recently in Springfield, Ill., where the principal of a grammar school submitted a sixty-year-old examination paper to his pupils, it was revealed that the children of the present day are more learned and efficient than their grandparents were at the same age, says the Hamilton Spectator. This will come as a shock to the old folks, who sometimes think the three R's are being neglected nowadays, but it isn't at all uncomplimentary to their own abilities. The children of today, the test revealed, spell 20 per cent. better than did the children who tried the examination sixty years ago, are 100 per cent. better on arithmetic, 20 per cent. better on geography and the penmanship of the modern scholar was shown to be much more legible. It would have been strange if the test had revealed otherwise. If the scholars of today were no farther advanced than the scholars of sixty years ago, of the same age, it would be a sorry commentary upon the modern educational system. The little red school in one room and taught by one teacher, has been rehouse wherein children of all ages were accommodated placed by imposing architectural piles, designed to provide proper light and ventilation and staffed by specialists. The pupil of sixty years ago had to take his education on the installment plan. Storms and blocked roads played havoc with the attendance in the winter months. Today there are few excuses for irregular attendance. Compare the facilities of sixty years ago with those of the present and the wonder is not that the modern pupil is more efficient, but that our grandparents were able to read and write and spell as well as they did. Sixty years ago cities and countries in the school geographies were just names to be memorized. Today, when Johnny and Mary adjust the earphones and tune in they can get a more practical kind of geography out of the air, and through the medium of the school cinemas go on voyages to the far-away corners of the earth. The result of the test was interesting, but facilities for acquiring an education are so vastly improved over what they were sixty years ago that it is not possible to draw a comparison between the raw materials the teachers of the two classes had to work with.

COMING POLITICS.

This week sees the opening of Parliament at Ottawa, while next week the Ontario Legislature resumes business. In two months, with both Houses in session, we may expect a surfeit of politics. Just now the political atmosphere is not so clear as it might be, but the getting together of party leaders and parties in one assembly room removes doubts and uncertainties more quickly than any other method our civilization has been able to evolve. Most of our political leaders, and Premier King in particular, have adopted the almost severely constitutional procedure of making announcements of policy first to Parliament. They argue that, as Parliament is composed of the chosen representatives of the people, these representatives have the right to information before any one else. There is undoubtedly good logic in such clinging to formality, and perhaps it imparts a greater importance to Parliamentary institutions, but, on the other hand, it delays public discussion. It may be pointed out, too, that Mr. King's promise in his recent Massey Hall speech that there would be no tariff changes for the present was rather a radical departure from his accustomed position in this respect.

The Progressives have already announced that they intend, so far as they are able, to make freight rates the dominant issue at Ottawa. In this effort they will secure co-operation from the Maritime Provinces members, who regard alleged discriminatory freight rates as attached to the root of their troubles. There are also other phases of the transportation problem which will be forced to the front by the men from both West and East. But the real mystery belongs to the Conservatives, who until recently have been almost voluble in their threats and in their assertions that they were the only people to rule. Isolated voices are heard reiterating the high-tariff policy and calling up the shade of "John A.," but the Conservative leaders have been strangely silent for a few months. So unaccustomed are we to this silence that we grow suspicious that they have been secretly convinced that their old policies will not do, and that instead of talking they are concentrating upon some new field of constructive endeavor, or framing some other method of gas attack. We shall welcome the opening of Parliament if for no reason other than that it will give the Conservative leaders the opportunity of letting the public know whether they have changed tactics or been merely sulking in their tents.

In the Legislature the spectacular politics will centre around Premier Ferguson's treatment of at least twenty of his followers who desire to make this Province wet. Also, it will be interesting to learn how far these twenty are prepared to go in order to put certain letters of Mr. Ferguson in the famous scrap-of-paper class. Among other issues coming nearer a climax is that of Provincial rights with respect to Hydro power development along the St. Lawrence. The Church Union battle also goes to the Legislature, and it remains to be seen whether the antagonisms aroused during the church voting will be echoed in the Legislature.

On the whole, there is so much ahead of us that one may confidently predict a revival of some dimensions in political interest.—The Globe.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Doubtless the good folk living near the Charlotte Street and Brock Street Rinks know why they call it the "roarin' game."

The East City toboggan slide cost but $300. And it is safe to say that more fun was never provided for the youngsters before at three times that price.

Mrs. Philip Snowden likes the Canadian winter. Somebody should tell her, however, that the present sample is a little more severe than usual.

Kitchener, St. Catharines and Ford are three Ontario cities that have no right to complain of dullness in municipal politics.

The Soviet Ambassador to Great Britain says Russia will pay her debts. But he neglects to say when.

The season of the year is arriving when the poor slaves of professional ball players have to leave for their spring exercises in Florida or California.

A THOUGHT.

AND THEN SOME.

Of all the varieties of common, everyday pests, surely the practical joker is the most tantalizing, unnecessary and dangerous.

To strive for a reputation as a maker of wholesome fun is not a mean ambition for loads are lightened and life is always brightened, when we can be made to laugh, to enjoy a little fun.

But what we endure at the hands of the practical joker is never pleasant and is often as unkind as it is annoying.

A good plan is to eliminate the practical joker from your circle of acquaintances, just the moment he is discovered; for there is no telling how far his ambition may carry him, and you may be picked for his greatest achievement.

Don't be ensnared by the entertaining ability of the real practical joker. No matter how good a companion he may seem to be always remember he is a pest and then some.

Steps To Temple Of Solomon Unearthed

LONDON, Eng., Feb. 4.—(United Press).—Steps to the temple of Solomon have been discovered during modern excavation in Jerusalem.

Workmen were exploring the foundations of the Mosque of Omar when at the bottom of one of the arches they came upon a succession of small pillars. Further digging showed an ancient staircase. This it is believed, was one of the entrances to the ancient temple of Solomon.

The Mosque of Omar stands on the site of the Temple of Israel built by Solomon. The temple was destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar, but rebuilt on a less magnificent scale by Zerubbabel.

Major Pond himself close to the century mark, makes it plain that kids of seventy and seventy-five will not be eligible for membership. Adirondack and North Country residents are noted for their long lives.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONT, Feb. 3.—With almost a clean-up in yesterday's market, trade was very slow today. Outside of one or two good loads of butcher, there were few of desirable quality in to-day's offering. Cattle were coming in late, and in most cases were held by owners for tomorrow's market. Prices are strong for real choice butcher and about steady for medium and common stuff.

Export trade is quiet. Rogers and Maybee took about 500 cattle yesterday for immediate shipment east. They will carry over a few later purchases during the week. The H. P. Kennedy Co. is loading 700 cattle at St. John's, direct from the west, for Liverpool, Belgium and Glasgow.

Choice lambs are strong. The U.F.O. sold a bunch of very choice lambs at 16 1-4 cents, shipped by O. N. F. Byrill, of Kamoka, Ont., and another choice lot at 16 1-2 cents, shipped by R. G. Bailey, of Galt.

Hogs steady and market firm at $11.50 off cars.

Geo. Ferguson, of the H. P. Kennedy Co., was elected president for the ensuing term of the Toronto Live Stock Exchange.

Prices in the various sections are as follows:

Export cattle, choice and heavy steers, $7.50 to $8.25; bulls $4.50 to $5; heifers, $6.25 to $7.

Choice butchers, $6.50 to $7.25; medium, $5.25 to $6; common, $2.50 to $3.85; baby beeves $8.50 to $9.

Choice fat cows, $3.50 to $5.

Stockers and feeders, choice shortkeep feeders, 1,000 to 2,000 lbs. $5.50 to $6; stores 900 to 1,000 lbs., $5 to $5.75; choice stockers, 830 to 950 lbs., $4.25 to $4.75; light western stock, $3.50 to $3.75; choice western, $4.50 to $5.50.

Calves steady.

Sheep and lambs strong.

Hogs steady at $10.50 f.o.b.; $1.50 off cars; selects, off cars, $2.17 per head extra. Quarter lower bid for Saturday's deliveries.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3. — (Canadian Press). — Wheat values fluctuated rapidly to-day, one time slumping six cents a bushel on the May delivery, or 12¾ cents under the high record of last week, only to rally in the late trading when bull interests lent their support and checked the wild scramble of traders attempting to unload in order to save profits. At the finish wheat was 5-8 cent to 1 3-4 cents down, with May 1.97 7-8 to 1.98 and July 1.67 7-8 to 1.69. Corn was half a cent to 1¼ cents higher and oats 1-8 cent down to 3-8 up. Provisions showed 2 to 17 cents advance.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, Feb. 3.—(Canadian Press) — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here to-day as follows:

Sterling demand, $4.78½.

Sterling cables, $4.78 7-8.

MONTREAL GRAIN.

MONTREAL, Feb. 3.—(Canadian Press). — There was some demand from foreign buyers for Canadian grain here to-day and sales of odd loads of Manitoba sample wheat and Duluth No. 1 Northern were made, but the market on the whole was quiet. The trade in coarse grains was slow but the tone was steady. Ontario No. 2 white oats were quoted at 71 cents, No. 3 grade at 69 cents and No. 4 grade at 67 cents per bushel, ex-store.

The egg market was moderately active and the trend was steady. Extreme dullness marked the butter trade. The trade in cheese was also quiet, but the tone of the market was very firm with No. 1 fodder-made goods being quoted at 20 1-4 to 20½ cents per pound, and No. 2 grade at 19 1-4 to 19½ cents per pound.

Crop beans were firm at $2.90 per bushel.

EGG PRICES

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 3.—(Canadian Press).—The low point in egg production has been passed for this season at a good many producing centres though this does not hold good for the prairie provinces, where weather conditions have been so severe that no local fresh are on the market. United States fresh are commencing to arrive at Toronto and Montreal. These for the most part have cost about 50c f.o.b. Chicago or about 55c delivered Toronto.

Elman's Heart Is Opened For Rival To His Violin

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Mischa Elman, virtuoso of world-wide repute, has at last decided to alter the pattern of his life, devoted solely and completely to the violin since the day when his fingers were first able to press the strings. Yesterday he announced that Miss Helen Katten, of San Francisco, would shortly become his wife.

It had always been thought by his friends that this master of sobbing string was a confirmed bachelor, wedded for all time only to his muse. But, according to the violinist, he gains a new love without losing the old. To all intents neither his fiancee nor his Stradavarius will play "second fiddle."

The engagement is the result of a shipboard romance, Mr. Elman said. For four years a friendship that stretched across the continent has been ripening into something more than friendship. Two days ago the violinist returned from California. He said:

"Miss Katten is not a professional woman. She is just a nice sweet lovable girl, charmingly trained in domesticity. She is very intelligent and has a true apppreciation of the arts—especially music—I suppose you expected me to say that.

"A photograph? I'm afraid I haven't one. That surprises you? Well, I have a wonderful picture of her in my mind. It is far better than any photograph could possibly be. It is an engraving.

"We met in the summertime, four years ago, on board a large steamship bound for Europe. Some say that ship-board romances are fragile things that start to wither as the gang-plank is lowered. Ours wasn't."

EDMONTON, Alb. — Creamery butter manufactured in Alberta during 1924 amounted to practically 21,5000,000 lbs. as compared with 17,800,000 lbs. in the previous year.

PARK WHISKERS HIDES FACE OF A PIKER.

CHICAGO, Feb. 4—Rufus Wallingford is a piker!

Behind the slickest set of pink whiskers to be found on any continent is a poker face and polished or vulgar tongue that can beat you at any de luxe confidence game every played.

At least, police, in laying down their money, bet odds on Joseph "Yellow Kid" Weil, who during the past 20 years has jigged up and down the continent in a game of mental leap-frog with an army of pursuing officers just a wink behind.

Fake horse races, dummy stock exchanges, bubble brokerages—all these are simple arts to the "Kid." Something for nothing—or a lot for a little—that's his bait.

Terrence Still Waits.

He used this bait in his latest exploit in Detroit. There he did a little one-act skit entitled "Out-Hijacking the Hijackers."

It left Terrence Ryan, of the river front and rum-running haunts, behind with a lesson learned and minus $14,000, plus 200 cases of Scotch.

Ryan met the "Kid" in his latest disguise—he was "Dr. Warrington, late of Vienna, Paris, Shanghai, Berlin," with a slick booze and dope-peddling plot afoot. The doctor slyly mentioned it to Ryan.

"Take me on," begged Ryan. After three days of entreaty, the "doctor" did.

They met on the Canadian side, just across from Detroit, where Terrence was waiting with $14,000 as evidence of good faith to help finance the deal.

Plenty of liquor passed between the "doctor" and Ryan during preliminary negotiations. Ryan woke up hours after "Dr. Warrington" and the $14,000 had departed.

And while police are investigating the "Kid's" latest exploit he bobs up into the part of a "vamp" by entering the list of "other men."

It is Mike Carrozzo—"Dago Mike," labor leader and erstwhile pal of "Big Tim" Murphy and Vincenzo Cosmano, convicted of the Darbora station mail robbery—who claims the "Kid" stole his wife.

He's "Town Pet."

The "Kid" has operated in Chicago for so long he has become a town pet. Two years ago Governor Small released him from prison after he had served two years of an eight-year term.

Out of jail, he promised to mend his ways—to go straight.

But soon came rumblings of an alleged fake stock deal in which George Malcomson, Detroit Millionaire, was supposed to have been duped out of $30,000.

Two weeks ago the "Kid' again was charged with duping H. I. Kutter, wealthy manufacturer of Hamilton, O., out of $38,000. And there is a record that Weil once was accused of lifting $12,000 from S. C. Langworthy, a banker of Buffalo, Wyo.

And So Forgetful!

Lately the "Kid" has been cutting a wide swath, giving waiters $20 tips, and disporting himself only as a bon vivant who has plenty of cash and inclination can.

Of slender build, he is rather less than medium height. Heavy horn-rimmed glasses, giving him a studious air, and his pink Van Dyke beard, neatly trimmed and close-cropped mustache, add to his debonair appearance.

To the world he wiggles a derisive finger and says to his accusers, "Really, old chap, I cawn't remember ever having met you."

Sometimes, however, the "front" breaks down and then the "Kid" lapses. His "aint's" are profuse, and when unwatched he picks his teeth.

That's because he is a "back-o'-the-yards" product where grammar is not over-particularly squeamish and pink whiskers are rare, indeed.

'FLOWERS' IS NEW NAME FOR FRENCH VILLAGE

EVREUX, France, Feb. 4.—(Associated Press).—The 203 inhabitants of St. Pierre-des-Cercueils have been filled with joy by the decision of the state council authorizing the name of their village to be changed to St. Pierre-des-Fleurs. The literal translation of their original name is "Saint Peter of the Coffins," so that it is easy to understand their satisfaction at the change to "Saint Peter of the Flowers."

At the same time there is a movement on foot to change the name of the department Charente-Inferieure to Charente-Mariime, because the department finds hat its wines suffer in the esteem of foreigners by having the word "Inferieure" on their labels, as the mistake is made that it refers to their quality and not to the position of the department on the "lower" part of the river Charente.

WOMEN IN BUSINESS.

CHICAGO, Feb. 4. — (United Press).—Marriage is no longer a bar against the woman in business, declared Miss Mary L. Downes, high chief ranger of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters in an address here. Business men nowadays want women for the "white collar jobs," and are glad to get them even though they wear the plain gold or platinum band, she maintained.

Teach your child Internal cleanliness

THE mother who permits constipation in her baby or older child is risking the health, even the life, of her little one.

Fretfulness, feverishness, night terrors, grinding the teeth in sleep, biliousness, coated tongue, loss of appetite, any of these may indicate constipation. Poisons from the child's stagnant intestine are flooding the little body, and if left unchecked may lead to serious consequences.

Avoid Laxatives—Say Doctors

A noted authority says that laxatives do not overcome constipation, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition.

Medical science has found in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and hastens its passage through and out of the body. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water, it is harmless.

Let your infant or child have Nujol regularly, and see rosy cheeks, clear eyes and happiness return once more.

Nujol is used in children's and general hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world.

And All Points Guaranteed for 25-Years' Wear

FOR what kind of writing do you use a pen? How do you hold it? And what style of writing is entirely natural to your hand?

Close figure work or fine memoranda, for example, call for a fine or an extra-fine point. But the medium point, the broad, or the stub—these give one's penmanship a personality and character that win the world's respect.

So in the classic Duofold Pen, Geo. S. Parker gives the world the whole five degrees of points that the five degrees of writing require.

Any good pen counter will sell you this beauty. Flashing black or black-tipped lacquer-red, the color that makes this a hard pen to mislay.

HOW OILSKINS ARE MADE

An oilskin coat is not, as many people suppose, a first cousin of the mackintosh. There is no relationship whatever. The shower-proof raincoat is made of a rubber-treated fabric, but the sailor's oilskin coat and sou'-wester, which are impervious to both rain storms and flying spindrift, are made of cotton cloth.

Fashion rules even in oilskins. While the fisherman insists on a yellow coat, the deep-sea fisherman prefers black. In point of quality the one is as good as the other.

An oilskin factory is not a nice place. Oil is everywhere. On the floor, on the tables—on the walls even. The hands of the workers—girls mostly—appear to be soaked with oil.

Unbleached cotton is mostly used, except for the finer qualities of garments. It is grey when it comes from the mills, but it is dyed and waterproofed at one operation. Before an oilskin coat is ready for wear it has received four coats of linseed oil, and each coat is thoroughly dried before the next is applied.

When the cloth is in the roll it is drawn on rollers through a tank which is full of linseed oil, colored black. When it is thoroughly soaked it is taken dripping to the maturing or drying-room, a chilly place with apparently innumerable racks. Here it hangs for a fortnight or more until it is thoroughly dry.

It may bee rturned now to the oiling-room to receive another coating, or, alternatively, be sent to the cutting-room to be cut into coat lengths, and go forward to the machinists' room for stitching and finishing.

Sometimes two coats of oil are applied before the garment is made and two afterwards, but in some factories the cloth is only put into the tank once.

The machinist sends the coat back to the oiling-room, but this time it is not steeped in the tank, but the oil is painted on the outer surface while it is stretched on a table. This time the drying is done in an artificially-heated room—is a big stove, it might be called.

In two or three days the coat is dried. After the final oiling it is "tacky." It feels damp, although it is thoroughly dry. In another room there are heated iron tables—hot plates—and the coats are spread on these and painted with a special solution which frees them of tackiness.

SOME FASHIONS AT PALM BEACH

Guaranteed Not Suitable for Peterborough, This Week Anyhow.

CENSOR IS BUSY.

By HEDDA HOYT.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Feb. 3. — (United Press). — Though Palm Beach styles are not yet at their height, certain tendencies have asserted themselves which mark the season's fashions. Bathing costumes have never been lovelier, although one seldom sees the bathing suit itself, since there are capes, long scarfs, pyjamas, etc., in colorful designs and materials worn over them. Lounging robes for beach wear are as lovely as Milady's boudoir apparel this season. Little colored slippers of rubber, fanciful parasols, brilliant robes and huge waterproof pearl chokers mark one as a 1925 model.

But every Paradise has its serpent. At Palm Beach it is Connie Lewis, the official censor, who makes life miserable for the ladies. It is his duty to bar too-light shades in hosiery from the beach and to see that only dark-hued legs stroll on the sands. White and flesh hosiery are both taboo. Poor Connie has a color chart and mighty good eyesight, but as soon as he spots a lady with nude toned stockings she hops into the ocean and merges with legs several shades darker and he must again consult his color chart. Certain shades of tan seem to meet with his approval it seems. Next to removing dust spots from a pepper factory we believe Connie's position to be one of the ornieriest in America.

Two-piece jumper frocks made either of flannel or of silk are perhaps the most popular sports costumes for resort wear this season. The youthful hip-length jumper is made very simple in effect, relying upon smart details, such as slit pockets and unusual scarf attachments, for it's chic. Piping about the pockets and hem-border in contrasting color is a popular trim. Skirts of these frocks may either be very plain, or made with pleats in front which are sewed flat to the knees, whence they flare into the full-hemline. Front pleats appear on many sports suits and frocks and in every case the pleating is left loose from the knee. Where the jumper suit is made of flannel or silk, soft pastel shades such as light blue, pale pink, Madonna blue, faint yellow, etc., are usually chosen. In homespuns and wool jerseys, beige is the most popular shade and it is often enlivened with piping of red or green.

Yellow is the favorite lingerie shade for southern resort wear. Orchid, flesh, blue and rose rank next in order. Voiles are selling very well for southern wear, although many women still prefer crepe de chene or triple voile. Lace and net trimming are very popular, often being dyed in tones of the material of the garment. Those who like the sensible crepe lingerie for away-from-home-wear are sponsoring crepes in gayly flowered patterns. Many of these floral crepes come in sets and are trimmed in colored embroidery about neck and armpits.

Petticoats are beginning to follow the trend set by dresses for the wide hemline. Mulls and silks are made with circular flounces which begin at the knee and are trimmed with lace or embroidery. Some of these are made to be worn with sheer chiffons and the lace used to form the flounce is of silk, adorned with little silk rose-buds or ribbon bows in shades of the frock.

Semi-precious jewels are being worn with the pastel-toned frocks. Cheaper costume types of jewellery have become too numerous to be smart and semi-precious necklaces and earrings of pastel shadings such as amber, coral and jade in light shades, and crystal, aquarmarine, etc., are chosen by women of fashion. Russian amethyst bead necklaces with carved pendants are very charming with light colored frocks and amethyst is one of the popular stones of the season. Carved beads are not quite as new as round, well-polished beads in graduated form. White jade pendants and earrings are also new. A white jade pendant suspends from a silk cord which is knotted at intervals, being trimmed with six or seven white jade beads. Earrings to match the necklace in semi-precious stones set with pearls or diamonds are very smart.

MRS. FANNIE WHITE

Woman Of Forty Victim Of Constipation

Mrs. Fannie White of 678 Marcy Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes: "Almost every morning, for the last five years I suffered with sick headaches, I felt this was due to nervousness, never dreaming that faulty intestinal elimination caused my suffering. I felt wretched, my appetite was gone, I lost interest in preparing my meals, life was not worth living. A few days' treatment of Carter's Little Liver pills worked wonders. They are small, easy to take, no griping—and leave [illegible] after effects."

PASTOR SPURNS CHURCH FEUD LEAVES HIS PULPIT FOR A CAVE

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 30.—Warfare of church modernists and fundamentalists did not find a recruit in the Rev. H. S. Mobley.

Instead, he resigned the pulpit and took himself and family away from the bickerings of pacifists and militarists—to live as a cave man.

In the Boston range of the Ozark Mountain country, near Prairie Grove, Arkansas, the former minister found his haven.

It was a light, dry cave, 67 feet long and 18 feet high with a ceiling of colored rock formation, a precipitous cliff towering high above it.

"I wanted to rear my boys away from the temptations and strife of city life," he says.

"Here they are blessed with the gifts of nature and we can gain a good livelihood from the earth."

One hundred and sixty acres of ground, 50 acres of which were in cultivation, comprised the home site.

Native stone was used to face the cave which had been partitioned off into three rooms.

To-day the exterior of the cave has the imposing look of a feudal castle. Inside it is fitted with all conveniences of the modern dwelling.

A floor has been laid and Indian rugs are strewn about. Sixteen high plate glass windows puncture the front rockwork, giving plenty of light during daytime hours.

There are easy chairs, inviting nooks, a big ebony piano and a great mahogany sideboard in the living room. Each bedroom has its own fireplace.

Water from a nearby spring has been piped into the kitchen, which also boasts of a white enamel sink.

Adjacent shelving rocks furnish a cow house, where nine Jersey cows are stalled, a stable for three horses, a shed, a pig house and a goat shed.

Mulberry Wine.

Gather mulberries when they are just turning from red to black, and at a time of day when they are dry from the dew, taken off by the heat of the sun. Spread them loose on a cloth or clean floor, and let them lie 24 hours. Put them in a convenient vessel for the purpose, squeeze out all the juice, and drain it from the seeds. Boil up a gallon of water to each gallon of juice you get out of them; skim the water and add some cinnamon slightly bruised. Put to each gallon, 6 ozs. of white sugar candy, finely beaten. Skim and strain the water when taken off and settled and put to it some more juice of the mulberries. To every gallon of the liquor, add a pint of raisin wine. Let it stand 5 or 6 days in a cask to settle, draw it off, and keep in a cool place.

Orange Crush. No. 1.

Ingredients.—To the juice of 15 oranges, rind of 3 oranges, 2 quarts of water, 3-4 lb. sugar, and crushed ice.

Remove the peel of the 3 oranges as thin as possible, add the peel and the sugar to a pint of water, then simmer, only gently, for 20 minutes. Strain the orange juice into a glass jug. Add the 3 pints of cold water. As soon as the syrup is quite cold, strain it into the jug, add a large handful or more of crushed ice and serve at once.

Orange Crush. No. 2.

Slice crosswise 4 oranges and 1 lemon. Put them in an earthen jug, with 4 ozs. of lump sugar. Pour upon this 1 quart of boiling water and let stand an hour to get quite cold. Decant and ice (for invalid or small amount).

Egg Lemonade.

Place the juice of a lemon, well sweetened, into a shaker. Add 1 egg and shake. Take crushed ice and some water; put on the other shaker and shake thoroughly until well mixed. Pour this into a soda tumbler and drink.

Apricot Water.

Take a large spoonful of apricot jam, and half a pint of syrup; squeeze 4 lemons, put a handful of bitter almonds pounded, and a little powder sugar, in the jam, so as to give the same bitter taste as the kernels of the apricot. Let the rest be water, and make it palatable; pass it through a fine lawn sieve and it will be fit for use. Barberries or any kind of preserved fruit, may be used in the same way.

Lemon Squash.

Squeeze the juice of 1 lemon into a tall glass, add a large spoonful of sugar and 1 of crushed ice. Pour into this a small bottle of soda, and drink through a straw.

Ginger Beer.

Take 2 gallons of boiling water and pour it over 2 lbs. of crushed sugar. Add 1 oz. cream of tartar and 1½ oz. of bruised ginger, 2 lemons, and 2 spoonfuls of yeast. Mix all of the above ingredients excepting the yeast, and allow them to stand in a large stone jar until cold. Then add the yeast and let it stand over-night. Next day strain and bottle it with patent seal tops.

Tutti Frutti Punch.

The ingredients are:—2 quarts of water, 1 lb. of sugar, 2 lemons, 4 oranges, 2 dozen Malaga grapes, 2 tangerines, 4 slices of pine-apple, 1 banana, and 1 pint of maraschino cherries.

Boil the sugar and water together for 5 minutes. Add the grated rind of 2 lemons and 4 oranges and continue boiling for 10 minutes. Strain this syrup through the butter-muslin, then add 1 quart of cold water. Extract the lemon and orange juice and seed the grapes. Slice the tangerines and banana, shred the pine-apple, and put in the whole cherries with their syrup. Mix all together and serve, well iced, in a punch bowl.

Coffee Egg Nog.

Beat the yolk of an egg in a tall tumbler or peg glass. Add 2 tablespoonfuls of sugar and beat together. Mix in half a cup of cream and milk, and a half cup of strong coffee. Then add the firmly beaten white of egg and serve with this on top (for one).

Fruitade.

Make a good lemonade with boiling water. Chill it on ice. Then add a mixture of all kinds of fresh fruit. Put plenty of cracked ice into the glasses before serving.

NEW APRON FRONTS.

The new apron fronts are very skilfully handled in the new frocks and are frequently of a contrasting material.

NEW NECKLACE.

A most attractive pearl necklace comes in three strands with a large sapphire in the middle of each strand.

MODERN SKY PILOTS COST LESS.

TORONTO, Jan. 29.—Planning work for "sky pilots" for the coming summer, the Methodist Missionary Society discovers that young preachers for the prairies cost less than in the past. And the tenderfoot parson is no unluckier at a horse deal than his predecessors of an earlier generation, judging by "horse keep" accounts for the past few years.

Ninety college students rode or walked the home mission fields allotted to Methodism for last summer. On the average they required from the society $12.33 per week for their support, as compared with $13.06 in 1923 and $15.10 in 1922. Expectations are that they will cost even less in 1925 than in 1924.

The reason is that the fields served are paying larger roportion of the outlay. Perhaps they appreciate the preacher more than did the old-time cowboy and homesteader. Another reason may be that "fields" which would pay less are not being served. Mission funds are scarcer than of yore and fewer workers can be engaged.

One thing is sure, the settlers are good sportsmen when it comes to paying the preacher for his friendly efforts. Of the total cost of operating ninety missions, $39,454.02, the church as a whole through its missionary society contributed $19,844.42 and the mission fields raised a total of $19,609.60. This is almost dollar for dollar.

Give Preacher a Horse.

Horse "hire" and "keep" for the whole staff of ninety amounted in 1924 to $1,900.24 in the accounts. To keep the total so low the young men must have exercised excellent judgment in dickering with the renters or vendors of riding ponies. In 1923 they spent $1,967.01 for the same purpose and in 1922 $2,019.72. Explanation is that increases to give to the church, donate a horse to the preacher instead.

The average wage paid the student for his summer's work last year was $350.00, which will not go far toward defraying his term expenses. It may be assumed that with funds running low the students are anxious for examinations to be over and another summer of earning at hand. Reports from individual workers indicate that they were royally treated in the lonely and remote prairie settlements and will be welcomed back.

Forty men were out last year in Saskatchewan, 26 in Alberta and 11 in Manitoba, with smaller numbers in eastern Canada. The total is seven fewer than the year previously and, unless good times return and effect church finances very suddenly, their number will not be increased this coming season. This means, according to missionary leaders, that extensions into untouched areas are not yet possible.

Settlements Unchurched.

The serious situation, according to Revs Dr. Manning, Home Mission Secretary, arises from the fact that extensive districts which have been settled a dozen years have not yet had the advantages of church leadership in community life.

The newest feature in the work is the entry of the student preachers into the public schools. Their reports show that, appalled at the ignorance of Biblical lore displayed among the older children, they undertook with the consent of the trustees to teach religion as many as five days a week, in addition to "rounding up" the adult population for Sunday services.

While the extent to which summer supply work can be undertaken by the Methodists will not be known until April, it is hoped that no further retrenchment in activity will be found necessary.

PLANS TO FEED SOULS OF CHICAGO CHILDREN

CHICAGO, Feb. 4. — (United Press).—Aiming to relieve an environment of ugly home-surroundings, drab streets, and monotonous class-rooms—the life of thousands of slum children here—the Chicago Public School Art Society has placed 2,400 big, framed color reproductions of old and modern masters in 180 city school buildings.

Funds for purchasing 10,000 more pictures will be raised by a series of exhibitions here of world famous paintings selected from 60 private collections throughout the nation which have been placed at the disposal of the society.

"A vivid painting entering the life of a child during the critical formative years may be the means of changing his whole life," Mrs. Theodore Tieken, sponsor of the movement, says.

"Give the slum child free milk, supervise his diet, send him to a clinic—but don't starve his soul while caring for his body."

MYSTERIES OF SARGASSO SEA

Weird Monsters and Little Fish Sought Beneath Floating Meadow.

SEAWEED SEA

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—We live our little humdrum lives with a mute acquiescence, treading the same dull ways from one year's end to the other, and tramping our days under foot till they are as gray as a well-worn pavement. But we are potential explorers. And we are childishly delighted when one spirit among us, like William Beebe, stalks out of the ranks and sets sail for a region that has as romantic a name as the Sargasso Sea.

The Sargasso Sea is a region in the mid-Atlantic, an area around which swift currents sweep but which itself remains calm, a sea filled with a tangled mass of yellow seaweed, so thick in the water that it looks like a meadow, and no sea at all. Nowhere else in all the waters of the world is this seaweed found in such a floating, changing mass. There are old tales of how ships have been caught in it and held for years, unable to escape that fierce hold of the twining weeds. But it was Christopher Columbus who sailed through it and who has left a record of these strange meadows. He himself had sailed through it before on voyages to the Azores, but this time on the great western voyage his crew mutinied, thinking that there were rocks hidden beneath the yellow-green surface.

"You are interested in this weird seaweed and the legends around it, but I am drawn by the fact there must abound, beneath all this tangled mass, the most enthralling life under the sea," says Mr. Beebe as he displays the little model of his ship, Arcturus, with its small platform which may be lowered from the prow. In the spirited little replica done by Dwight Franklin there is a figure that is undeniably William Beebe, long and slim, on the platform hovering above the water—a figure thrusting energetically into the yellow-green sea. Leaning over the prow are two more figures, very intent on all that is taking place, and these are Ruth Rose and Isabel Cooper, historian and artist of the expedition, respectively.

To Preserve the Fish

There are elaborate provisions on board the vessel for preserving finds. For example, when fish with great mouths, with eyes that are so big that they seem all eye and no body, are brought out of the deep, there are tanks into which they will be slid so they may be preserved alive and brought back to the New York Aquarium. Eventually, it is hoped, they will be seen in all their lovely color. For the fish in the Sargasso Sea have the most beautiful of protective colorings, radiant glowing bodies which if they were placed in scientists' little bottles of alcohol would turn gray and pale.

As he sits in his study, busy completing plans for the devices that are to be part of the Arcturus's equipment, it is certain that Mr. Beebe looks forward to a struggle with some deep-sea monster—the Regalecus, for example. Measuring 15 or 18 feet, such monsters have been cast up on the beaches of Catalina Island or of Hawaii, but never has one been "collected" by an expedition. It is quite likely that one of these will be among the finds, for this expedition is to trawl with larger nets than have ever similarly been used. These will be let down from devices that swing out over the side of the vessel.

But more interesting than fabled monsters are the little fish in the great depths below the masses of seaweed. It is these that Dr. Gregory, Assistant Curator of the Museum of Natural History, is anxious to find and study. Dr. Gregory hopes to discover new forms which will serve as links in the evolutionary development between the "everyday" type of fish and the highly modified types with huge mouths or great protruding eyes. THE CURSE OF TUT FELL ON THE THEATER

LONDON, England (By mail to the United Press).—The curse of the pharoahs took a new victim when an act was omitted from "The Punch Bowl," a revue at the Duke of York's theatre.

A skit was in preparation featuring Miss Gwen Farrar, one of the best of London's music hall stars, in a playlet founded on the life and time of Queen Nefertiti, the mother-in-law of King Tut, who invented the "shingle bob."

First one of the actors fell ill. Then the musicians went on strike. Then the composer quarreled with the director. Finally Miss Farrar herself came down with influenza.

And so the whispers went to work, telling the world that the curse of King Tut-Ahnk-Amon was getting in his deadly revenge. Whereupon the cast rose en masse and refused to work.

And the skit was removed from the bill!

An honest man's word

MORE than three hundred years ago, Miguel de Cervantes said: "An honest man's word is as good as his bond." Advertisers must be honest men, if they would remain advertisers. Their announcements are signed. They must tell the truth in their advertising. For their own protection, as well as yours.

What would it profit a man to advertise "Pure, virgin-wool suits," only to have you discover they were shoddy? You would soon separate the sheep from the cotton. And you would never deal with that man again. And, further, you would tell all your acquaintances what a skinflint he was.

As a matter of business, if not of personal principle, an advertiser must tell the truth in his signed announcements. That's what makes the advertising columns of this paper such reliable guides to honest merchandise. The printed announcements are bonds between you and the advertiser.

Read the advertisements. Read them regularly. To be informed on the newest and best in everything. To save hours of shopping. To make the family purse do a bigger, better job To get goods of known quality at the most attractive price.

You would not plan a motor trip without first consulting road-maps and guide-books. Is it logical to plan a shopping trip without first consulting the advertisements? Read the advertisements. Then go to the stores with your mind more than half made up.

A signed advertisement is, in effect, a sealed bond between you and the advertiser.

MAN'S LEG BROKEN BY TIPPED SLEIGH

Arthur Free Suffered Compound Fracture at Campbellford.

CAMPBELLFORD, February 4.—Mr. Arthur Free had the misfortune to break his right leg between the knee and ankle on Tuesday morning. Both bones were broken clean off and broke through the flesh.

Mr. Free who drives one of Mr. L. Stover's bake rigs, which makes a daily trip through the country had started out and got as far as the Curle farm in Seymour west, where the roads are heavy and badly drifted, when the sleigh with a large load bread at the back tipped over, pinning his leg down under it thus causing the break. No one was near and he kept on calling loudly for help in his great suffering. At last one of the members of the family heard him and went to his assistance.

Another neighbor, Mr. David Stillman, also arrived on the spot and they put him in a rig and Mr. Stillman brought him to Campbellford, to his home on Garry street, at the west end of the town. A doctor was soon on the spot.

Kind neighbors went to the assistance of the family in their excitement.

Much sympathy is felt for Mr. Free as he has not been in the best of health for some time and it will be long weeks before he will get over this accident.

MEDALS PRESENTED TO MARMORA SCHOLARS AT PUBLIC MEETING

Miss Ida Clare Earned Highest Marks in Inspectorate at Entrance Examinations Last Year—Medal Given by Town Council—Others Honored.

ADDRESS ON WEMBLEY EXHIBITION.

MARMORA, Feb. 2. — The last lecture of the University Extension Course was given on Monday night by Mr. Dunlop of Toronto, who is the head of the University Extension Course of Toronto University.

The evening was of special interest because the medals and diplomas won last year by the students of Marmora High and Public Schools were awarded.

Father Trainer was the chairman of the evening but Dr. Thomson, chairman of the School Board presided over the presentations.

The first presentation was a medal and chain presented by Reeve Airhart in the name of the Town Council, to Miss Ida Clare, who took the highest marks in the Inspectorate at the Entrance Examinations in June, 194.

Mr. Airhart spoke of the wish of the Town Council of 1924, to encourage education and also to recognize what they considered was an honor to their town. He gave a word of praise to the efficient school board of Marmora and also honor to the capable teachers, Miss Williams and Mr. Prentice who had taught, Miss Clare while in Marmora He spoke also of the medals, already presented by the County Councils to the three students who stood high est in the three inspectorates of Hasings County and said a scroll was being placed on the wall of the Council Chambers in Belleville, where the names of those having won this honor, would be inscribed year after year.

Mr. Dunlop presented the medals to the High School students.

Miss Hazel Williams won the medal for the highest standing in the Departmental Examinations.

Miss Hazel Williams also won the position of highest standing in the years work in Form III but as only one medal was presented to each pupil it passed to the second in order Miss Edna Neal.

Miss Hilda Thomson got the second award in Form III, and her choice was books instead of a medal.

In Form II medals were awarded to (1) Barbara Emmorey, (2) Evelyn Neal.

In Form I, (1) Gladys Williams, (2) Betty Wright.

Diplomas were given to pupils, completing 8 subjects of Form III as follows:

William Sweet, Anna O'Connor, Edna Neal, George Morton, Mary Maloney, Muriel Gunter, Ila Bonter.

Wembley Exhibition

Father Trainer, then introduced Mr. Dunlop, who lectured on "The British Empire Exhibition at Wembley".

When Mr. Dunlop was asked to prepare an exhibition of Toronto University for the Wembley Exhibition, he asked, Why?

The reasons given were:

(1) All other phases of Canadian life, products and industries were being represented therefore the educational life should also.

(2) If we get the type of settler from England that we desire for our country the should know, what kind of a training their children can receive in this country.

When Toronto University asked for a place to exhibit, all the other universities of Canada, were given invitations to exhibit also.

When Mr. Dunlop arrived in Wembley on March 29th, he found work was being retarded by strikes among the workmen and he gave a graphic picture of a general strike among the workmen on April 1st.

By appealing to the Labor Government of England this ill was rectified and preparations continued.

On the day of the opening of the Exhibition the Canadian exhibit was complete and ready although very few of the others were and it needed a little ridicule from the English papers to hasten the final work and make everything ready.

Pictures of Grounds

A number of pictures were shown here showing the grounds, artificial lake and bridges, amusement park and exterior of many of the buildings.

There were buildings representing Canada, Bermuda, Australia, Hong Kong, New Zealand, India, Burmah, Malta, West Africa, South Africa Ceylon, Fiji Islands, British Government, Building Manufacturer's Arts and Amusement Park.

The general opinion was expressed both by the British and representatives from the other Dominions that Canada's exhibit was the best in illustrating their country.

Another feature of the Canadian exhibit was that there was nothing to sell.

Another series of pictures showed the interior of the Canadian Building. The beautiful entrance, the corridor through the building the little apartments occupied by the various industries and products, the models of an orchard, a harbor, grain growing, fisheries and lumbering.

Not only were the natural resources but all forms of manufacturing were illustrated.

Then there were several pictures of the Toronto University section showing the pictures of many universities of Canada, the history of insulin, a table with free literature concerning our universities and another with books of views.

Mr. Dunlop spoke of an incident on the opening day of the Exhibition The King and Queen were walking through the Canadian Building when the Queen tarried to look at a picture, then called — "See here, George here is a picture of David's ranch." It was the picture of the Prince of Wales' ranch.

Britons Efficient

Mr. Dunlop described a day in the booth, he was presiding over. He found 9 o'clock too early to get down to the Exhibition and when he tried to get in a business call in London about 9.30, he found no one ready. He concluded first that the business men in England didn't work as hard as in Canada but later decided, it was more hustle and fuss in Canada but that the Englishman accomplished as much.

He spoke of the interest shown in Canadian Education by the crowds who stood around his section as he told of our Educational work.

Mr. Dunlop's lecture was rippling with humor, as he used the English dialect and told many little anecdotes, concerning things seen and heard as he spent the days in his little section.

There was the teacher who brought her class to the Exhibition and said that the snow shoes on the wall, was what Canadians played tennis with.

Then there was a reporter, who said he had just five minutes to see the Canadian building and wanted to know all about engineering. Mr. Dunlop talked to him for an hour and a half on engineering then he asked if he might come and learn more after lunch. A teacher stopped one day and expressed surprise that a colony could produce such an exhibit. Mr. Dunlop kindly informed him that England's Dominions did not like to be called colonies.

A gentleman one day, told Mr. Dunlop of a friend of his in Calgary and hoped he would call on him.

Then, there was the man who couldn't come to Canada to an exhibition because it was so far and cost so much but who had not thought it was just as far the other way.

There were others who thought Canada was 30 degrees below zero all the time.

Mr. Dunlop was especially impressed with the loyalty of the people to the crown and royal family, also with the welcome given by the English people and their genial, cordial manner.

The benefits of the Exhibition were:

(1) A tonic to trade;

(2) It made the people acquainted;

(3) It promoted inter-empire trade;

(4) It showed the people that if England couldn't support its population, Canada can.

The reason some of the people have such a bad impression of Canada, is on account of the news items cabled to England from our papers.

Canada must advertise.

The lecture was thoroughly enjoyed by all and a hearty vote of thanks was given the speaker.

Afterward, a social half hour was spent in the Council Chamber, when those present were given the opportunity of meeting Mr. Dunlop.

LATE ALMORE HAIG HONORED IN DEATH BY MANY FRIENDS

Havelock Man Had Endeared Himself to Associates in Toronto.

ATTEND FUNERAL.

HAVELOCK, Feb. 4—The funeral of the late Mr. Almore Haig, who passed away on Friday, January 30, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Firman Haig, George Street, Havelock, took place on Monday afternoon and was largely attended by sorrowing relatives and friends. The service was held in the Methodist Church at 2 o'clock, and was conducted by Rev. E. O. Seymour, assisted by Rev. Koffend of Evangel Hall Presbyterian Mission, Queen Street West, Toronto, where Mr. Haig had taught a class of boys in the 'teen age.

Conveyed Sympathy.

Mr. Koffend said he came as a mourner to express his deep sorrow at the loss of a friend, who was loved by all who knew him for his kind and cheerful disposition and to convey the sympathy of the boys and all who had been associated with the deceased in his work at Evangel Hall. The following letters of sympathy from Mr. Haig's class and the Men's Bible Class were read:

We, the members of Class 12, of Evangel Hall Bible School, wish to express our deep sorrow at losing our friend and teacher, Mr. Haig.

During the time he was with us he was always conspicuous for his good heartedness, generosity and cheerfulness. As our teacher he inspired us with a love for God and our fellow-men. The knowledge that he was a thorough Christian, devoted to his Master, made us love and trust him without measure. We have this comfort, however, that we know he is safe in the Father's care and with Him, Whose follower he was when amongst us, and we rejoice in this, looking forward to that future time when we shall meet where there is no more parting.

(Signed)
Thos. Barrow,
Chas. Villiers,
B. McDowell.

Men's Bible Class.

On behalf of the members of the Men's Bible Class, and also of the Men's Glad Hand Club of Evangel Hall, permit me to express our deep sorrow at the loss of our friend and brother, Mr. Haig. We had learned to love him for his unfailing cheerfulness and large-hearted generosity. His faith in God and his ready testimony to God's saving and keeping power, was an inspiration to all of us, and we are glad to have had the privilege of knowing and being associated with him.

We are grieved at his going, and our hearts go out in sympathy to those who are left to mourn his loss, but our loss is his gain, and although earth is the poorer, Heaven is the richer, and we rejoice that we do not sorrow as those who have no hope, for we know that those who sleep in Jesus will God bring back with Him.

If he could speak with us now we believe his message would be that we might follow on to know the Lord better each day so that when the call comes to us we too may hear the "Well done, good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

Signed on behalf of above,
Albert Barrow.

Mr. Smith, of Toronto, at whose home the deceased had resided for several years, and Mr. Privatt, of Walkerton, spoke a few words of sympathy and testified to the kindness and generosity of their departed friend, whose chief aim in life was the good of others.

Miss V. Davidson sang "God shall wipe the tear from every eye" and Mr. and Mrs. Privatt a duet, "Let Jesus lead, He knows the way to glory."

WARSAW ROADS IN BAD SHAPE

Snow is Hard and Dry, Refusing to Pack—A Presentation.

DEBATE COMING.

WARSAW, Feb. 4.—Warsaw felt the cold last week. Where it is low in the village the temperature dropped to 42 below zero; on higher ground it was 24 below zero. The roads are not packing, for the snow is cold and dry, it rolls away like pulverized sugar.

The bear could not see his shadow Monday forenoon.

The U.F.O. club had to draw their salt from Lakefield Monday. They are storing their surplus in Mr. Sargent's warehouse.

Presentation.

The following is the address given by Bethel Church people to Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Payne, on the eve of their going to their new home in Warsaw:—

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Payne:

We, the members and adherents of eBthel Church, the church which has so long been your spiritual home, have met together in this way, at this time, to make public acknowledgment of the place you hold in our affection and esteem, a place you have justly won by many years of faithful service in the church, and as good neighbors in the community.

Your moving from among us is, to us, a matter of deep regret. We trust, however, it is for your good, and our prayer is that you may be spared to enjoy many days of happiness together in your new home.

We suffer a loss in church and community, for we feel that we need, especially, the wisdom and counsel of those ripe in experience.

Your friends desire that you should possess some visible token of their regard, and so beg you to accept this library table. This is not meant in any sense as a reward. The reward for the good you have done us, must be left to Him Who alone can adequately reward. It is a token of esteem. We trust it will do you service, not only as an adorment, and in its usefulness, but as a daily reminder of your friends and their regards.

We rejoice that you are merely moving from one appointment to another, and are not going out of our circuit. Though we present you with this gift and address, we do not want you to feel that you are severing your relations with us. We feel that what we have done, we should have been constrained to do, even if you had not been moving at all. We want you to feel that you still have a home in Bethel, and we shall be glad to see you in your accustomed place as long as you remain in the community, and as often as possible after you go.

May the Giver of every good gift bless you, with many days of health and happiness, is the sincere wish of your many friends.

Signed on behalf of the congregation.

F. G. Weir, Pastor.
Rufus Payne, Secretary-Treas.

The people of Warsaw gathered at Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Payne's new home on Friday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Payne knew one or two were coming, but were surprised and delighted to receive practically all their new neighbors. They feel they were made welcome in the village. A most enjoyable evening was spent with a lot of music.

AN ODE TO WINTER.

O, Winter, Winter, who may trace
One feature in your frowning face,
Of beauty fair;
Unfriendly, of repelling mould,
Forbidding, surly, callous, cold,
The looks you wear.

And ever follows in your train,
Flu, frostbite, torturing chilblain,
Hoarse cough and sneeze;
And image of decrepit age,
Rheumatics, that with vim engage
To mar our ease.

Job's patience scarce the test had stood,
Of shoveling snow and heaping wood
Upon the fire;
Sifting coal ashes (sorry joke!)
Closing the door for other folk,
E'en Job might tire.

Rude, blustering tyrant, hoary, old,
No charms in you can I behold,
To win my heart;
And did kind fate the chance supply,
From you and all your ills to fly,
We soon should part.

Soon would I seek some sunny clime
Some land basking in Summer's prime,
Where I no more
Should see earth wrapped in icey shroud,
Nor hear bold Boreas, wild and loud—
Around me roar!

IN THE WORLD OF ART

The famous long-lost painting of Rubens, "Daniel in the Lion's Den," which has been traced to Philadelphia by Professor Pasquale Farina, expert on the works of old masters. This painting has been a center of art controversy for 50 years, no less than five paintings having been declared the original Rubens. The expert, however, says that the true "original" is in the possession of Max A. Krankel.

DEATH LIST 39 CREATES RECORD IN SINGLE DAY

Bullets, Alcohol, Autos, Fires and Gas Took Their Toll.

VIOLENT ENDS.

Child's Tumble Into Scalding Water Included in Tale of Disaster.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.— (United Press.)—Thirty-nine sudden deaths, most of them violent, have been reported here in the last twenty-four hours. This is the largest day's record in many years.

Bullets, alcohol, automobiles, fires and gas took a toll of seventeen lives in Manhattan, twelve in Brooklyn, six in the Bronx and four in Queens. Only two deaths were suicide.

Five persons were killed by falls, three lost their lives in fires, three were accidentally asphyxiated by illuminating gas, two were killed by automobiles, three died from acute alcoholism and one was frozen to death. Most of the other deaths were due to heart disease or to a cause not yet determined.

A child was fatally scalded when he tumbled into a tub of hot water, a policeman was instantly killed by a fall downstairs, another man lost his life in the same manner. A boy was crushed by a trolley car and a man and woman were killed in an autmobile accident. One man died from exposure and another was crushed to death by an elevator. A negro was murdered, another took his life with a gun. A man and a boy were drowned. One man was killed when a roll of newsprint fell from a hoist in Brooklyn. Except in the event of a catastrophe, yesterday's list of casualties was one of the biggest in the city's history.

INSPECTOR'S REPORT.

School Inspector A. Mowat's report on the Public Schools of the city for the year 1924, as required by the regulations of the Education Department.

Attendance.

The attendance of pupils for 1924 shows a very slight increase over 1923. The total enrolled attendance for the year was 3,595, as compared with 3,533 for 1923.

The regularity of attendance was exceptionally good during the whole year, the lowest percentage for any month being 93 and the highest 96.

The number of pupils enrolled in the various schools was as follows:

Prince of Wales	777
Central	655
King Edward	597
Queen Mary	549
Queen Alexandra	485
King George	460
South Central	72

Accommodation, Improvements.

No additional classrooms were opened during the year and the number of pupils per teacher continues satisfactory.

Important repairs and improvements were made during the yearto the Central School. Improvements, also, were made to the Queen Mary grounds and to the grounds of the Prince of Wales and the King George schools. The cement walks of the Queen Alexandra were extended and improved.

The school buildings, with the exception of the South Central, are now commodious, comfortable, and attractive in appearance. Mr. Taylor gives careful attention to the repairs and the caretakers, on the whole, are doing their work very well.

The Teaching Staff.

The staff consists of 77 regular teachers and four special teachers, together with the school doctor, the school nurse, the dentist and the dental nurse.

Of the regular teachers, 11 hold first-class certificates, 6 kindergarten-primary certificates, and the rest professional second-class certificates. Now that the supply of teachers throughout the province is more than adequate, the Board might consider the advisability of adding to the number of those holding first-class certificates, when vacancies occur. The Education Department is desirous of having a large percentage of the teachers on the Normal training staffs holders of first-class certificates. A teaching staff must be recruited from different sources to keep up efficiency and to prevent intellectual inbreeding.

Quite a number of the teachers are improving their academic standing by taking summer sessions at the universities.

The presence on the staff of an exchange teacher from England has had a beneficial effect. Miss Williams is making a distinct contribution to the work of the school in which she is teaching.

Progress of the Pupils.

A school must furnish experiences that will further not only the mental development of the pupils but will ensure their physical and their character development as well.

On the physical side, the pupils of the schools are receiving careful attention. They have the advantages of a school doctor and of a school dentist; they attend comfortable and well ventilated schools; they have regular physical exercises and take part in properly supervised games. The daily influence of the teacher is the chief factor in the character development of the pupils. They are also taught and given practice in right living, and they are taught to live harmoniously together and to respect one another.

The progress of the pupils from grade to grade was satisfactory. The Entrance results were again most gratifying. In all 209 public school pupils succeeded in passing this examination, which was more than 90 per cent. of all who were prepared.

The New Course of Study.

The New Course of Study issued by the Department in September, 1924, is a matter of considerable importance to the Public Schools of the province.

The number of subjects of study has not been lessened but by grouping certain subjects, by lessening the content of others, by emphasizing the more important and by rearranging some of the subject matter, the course has been so modified that hereafter it is to be covered in seven years after completing the kindergarten course instead of in eight years as heretofore.

In certain of the groups there is a minimum and a maximum course to be taken according to the equipment and grading of the school.

Supervised study periods during some part of each day are made compulsory. These are hoped to stimulate initiative and self-reliance on the part of the pupils and to do away with the necessity of assigning too much or unsuitable home work. The object of the Department in the matter of home work is to make it a link between the school and the home. To do this, home work will deal chiefly with supplementary literature, history, and kindred subjects.

The Course of Study has been simplified and with better text books in certain of the subjects a distinct improvement should result.

The Special Subjects.

Miss Rannie and Miss McRae have carefully supervised the work in art and music throughout the year. These subjects brighten the school life of the pupils, develop in them an appreciation of the beautiful and afford wholesome means of spending leisure time.

The auxiliary class continues to be of great benefit to the schools of the city. The work in this department is being carried on most successfully.

The work of the school doctor and of the school dentist and of the school nurse is of such a nature than they require special reports.

Inspector Leake reported most favorably upon the work being done in the household science and manual training departments. The two centres are well equipped and all the pupils in the junior and senior fourth classes are receiving instruction in these subjects.

Sewing forms part of the household science course. The girls in Books 2 and 3, as well as those in Book 4, receive instruction in sewing.

In Books 2 and 3 the work is taught by the grade teachers under the supervision of Miss Moffatt of the Collegiate staff. In Book 4 the work is taught by Miss Ryley, the household science teacher.

The girls are instructed and given practice in the various stitch forms, in patching, and in making useful garments.

The Attendance Officer.

Mr. Abraham, the school attendance officer, has performed his duties throughout the year with zeal and discretion.

He reports a general desire on the part of the parents to co-operate more readily in securing regularity in attendance of their children.

During the year he granted 72 permits—16 home permits and 56 working certificates. The 56 pupils granted working certificates are employed as follows:

Apprentices	7
Domestics	4
Farming	4
Office clerks	5
Store clerks	3
Lock Works	10
Textile workers	18

Mr. Abraham grants no certificates unless suitable employment is secured for the applicants. In many cases he has been the means of securing such employment for pupils.

The year 1924 was marked by steady progress on the part of the pupils: by few changes on the teaching staff, Miss Lillian Rush being the only one who resigned that had served the Board for any length of time. Her resignation is a distinct loss to the staff.

The spirit of co-operation between the schools and the homes is growing. The Home and School Association have aided in this. These associations have helped the needy have encouraged the pupils in their studies and made valuable gifts to the different schools in the shape of reference books, lantern slides, and other useful equipment.

ADVISORY VOCATIONAL COMMITTEE.

The Advisory Vocational Committee (chairman G. A. Gillespie) submitted the report of the supervising principal for the past year, together with the estimates for conducting the classes in 1925, and recommended that the Board appropriate the sum of $1,800.00 for this purpose.

The committee also recommended that the Board grant the use of the laboratory at the Collegiate Institute for one night a week until the end of March from 7.30 to 9.30 p.m. for the nurses' class in chemistry, the instruction to be given by Mr. Graham of the Collegiate Institute staff.

MEDICAL OFFICER'S REPORT.

Dr. A. W. McPherson, in reporting on the work of the past year, said it consisted of the following:

(a) Routine examination of the children.

(b) Examination of special cases referred to me by the inspector, teachers or nurse.

(c) Examination of children for exclusion from school or for admission after an absence due to sickness.

(d) Advising in regard to all matters pertaining to the health of the school children.

(e) Special work in connection with the testing the children for susceptibility to diphtheria and inoculation of those found susceptible.

The routine examination indicates that the general physical condition of the children is good. There are however a great many defects, some major, some minor, some having a harmful effect, others not so serious some can be corrected by the teachers, some by the nurse some call for greater care at home, and some require the attention of the family physician or the specialist. Furthermore, these defects may have a bearing directly or indirectly on the child's progress in school. In some cases from defect of vision or hearing, that has not been recognized, in other cases from ailments that interfere with the child's power of observation and concentration, whether from bodily discomfort as in toothache, earache, sore throat, cold in the head, or frequently recurring coughs or in cases of general weakness as is found in cases of under nourishment.

It appears to me that a greater benefit will be derived from the physical examinations by paying more attention to securing the correction of the defects and by a closer study of the individuals who are behind in their grade and if possible learn the cause, whether it be due to physical defects or minor or major ailments which may cause absence from school or inattention in the class, or whether it be due to mental incapacity or the effect of poor home surroundings.

I am appending a report of the examination of 1907 pupils who are in attendance at the schools at the present time. This will give you a general idea of the prevalence of some of the defects, but a few explanations are necessary for a clear understanding. The cervical glands are the glands of the neck, the ones commonly swollen when the nose or throat are inflamed.

The thyroid gland is commonly called goitre. Enlarged tonsils are divided into two classes, large and small. Defective teeth mean permanent teeth with a cavity, ulcerated teeth, or bad roots. All cases urgently requiring attention.

I would advise that the matter of this report be considered by you at a convenient time when I could be present to discuss it with you at furt her length.

Before closing, I would like to mention the work done in connection with the prevention of diphtheria during the pas year. We tested out 500 children with the Shick test and inoculated those whom we found susceptible. I would like to express my appreciation for the generous help received from Dr. McNair in connection with this part of the work.

Fossilized Skull Was Unearthed at Taunga

CAPE TOWN, Feb. 4. (Canadian Press).—A fossilized skull whose owner is believed to have been probably nearer the missing link than any other specimens yet discovered, has been found at Taunga, Bechuanaland by Prof. Dart of Witwatersrand University. Its owner, he says, was not human but was yet more intelligent than the gorilla or the chimpanese

EPIC STRUGGLE WITH NATURE TO FREE MAN HELD BY ROCK

Rescuers Work All Night to Remove Two Bushels of Earth.

WANTS TO LIVE.

Cave City, Kentucky, February 4. —Encouraged by their progress last night, the weary band of rescuers, the same men who had worked their way into the sand cave again and again since Floyd Collins, 35, the cave explorer, was trapped 150 feet from the tunnel entrance on Friday morning back, went back into the cave early to-day hoping to dislodge the boulder which pins Collins' feet.

Last night a crew of men headed by William B. Miller, a staff correspondent of the Louisville Courier-Journal, formed a human chain from the imprisoned man to the mouth of the cave, and laboriously passed out sandstone scooped by hand from around the body of the victim.

It is estimated that two bushels of earth had been removed from around him last night, the object being to get at Collins' feet. One by one the leaders of the various rescue parties have collapsed. The man most concerned however clings grimly to life.

"I believe that I would go to heaven," he told Miller, when the little newspaper man went into the cave for the third time last night to feed him, "but I feel that I am to be taken out alive and with both feet.

Bring Equipment.

An expert driller is speeding to Cave City to-day from Louisville with an electric chipper and other equipment. There is also a special train at Louisville ready to rush Dr. William Hazlett, surgeon at St. Luke's Hospital at Chicago, to Cave City, when he arrives to-day from Chicago, commissioned by an unknown wealthy woman, to enter the cave and amputate Collins' leg.

The operation will be a difficult feat as the doctor will have to work lying down with only a few inches of space above his body.

Relatives of the imprisoned men are opposed to the operation, it is said, except as a last resort.

Collins himself now looks to W. B. Miller, the diminutive newspaper writer, for his greatest hope.

Last night Miller scooped and dug with his hands until he succeeded in reaching the lower part of Collins' legs. The boulder then blocked further progress, Miller reported. Miller collapsed during the night, and was pulled out of the cave by fellow workers.

Freed By Fall.

A slide in the sand cave to-day left Floyd Collins' foot free for the first time since he was imprisoned on Friday morning, but Collins was left walled in behind a rock which fell from the side of the cave.

LOYAL MESSAGE THROWN ACROSS TO MOTHERLAND

First Canadian Broadcast for British Listeners on Radio.

GREAT SUCCESS.

"Canada Wants No Other Flag than the Union Jack," Says Thornton.

MONCTON, N.B., Feb. 4—(Special) —"Canada wants no other flag than the Union-Jack and wants no other form of government than that which subsists under the throne of Great Britain", declared Sir Henry W. Thornton, chairman and President of the Canadian National Railways in a message sent out from Radio Station CNRA last night, in a broadcast which forged a new link in the bonds of empire which joins Canada to the Motherland. It was the first real attempt of any station in Canada to broadcast a concert designed entirely for the entertainment of listeners-in on the other side of the Atlantic. It was made possible by the messages which have been received in large numbers telling of sucessful trans-Atlantic trans mission by the Moncton Station of the Canadian National Railways on numerous occasions. So the voice which went quivering out over the Atlantic last night was the voice of Canada speaking to the motherland, a voice that was caught up in London in the powerful station of the British Broadcasting Company and rebroadcast from that station throughout the British Isles.

Sir Henry in the message which was delivered for him as one of the features of the programme said in part: The experiment we are conducting shows the value of the wire less in bringing large enterprises such as the Canadian National Railways in close contact with the staff and the public. Here in Canada in our vast and widely flung railway mileage we find wireless of great value in maintaining a human contact between the administration and our men, for, after all, the success of any large transportation undertaking depends upon the goodwill of the public and the loyal, enthusiastic support of the staff."

Sir Henry sent an especially special message to his friends in the United Kingdom on the great Eastern Railway.

"Attempts have been made in certain quarters in Great Britain to discredit the name of Canada and to discourage migration from the United Kingdom to Canada," said Sir Henry "as one who has lived among you over there, and as one who has come to know you and to love you well, I give you my assurance, based upon a thorough knowledge of conditions in Great Britain and in Canada that Canada is still the land of great opportunity; for the man and the woman who are not afraid to work, there are in Canada opportunities to be found nowhere else in the world."

Fidelity of Canada

"Of late there have been some recurrences of these rumors reflecting upon the fidelity of Canada to the British Throne. It has been my opportunity to visit every part of Canada every year, and I can assure you that Canada wants no other flag than the Union Jack, that she wants no other form of government, than that which subsists under the throne of Britain and that Canada is as loyal to the Empire, to-day, as she was in the summer of 1914, when, win or lose, she threw all her resources in men, money and materials into the titanic struggle Great Britain was forced to fight for honor's sake."

In conclusion the President said "I hope you will all enjoy our concert and that we in Canada may see many of you before the year is out. In Canada you will find much of interest in all the activities of life and an assured field for industrial enterprise."

W. D. Robb, Vice-President, Canadian National Railways under whose direction the radio department is administered, was another speaker. A talented group of musicians came from Ottawa for the event and played British selections concluding with an arrangement of Canadian airs. Bagpipe selections formed a special feature, the microphone being a sympathetic reproducer of that instrument. Mrs. Harold Mills ,soprano of Montreal, sang several numbers.

Successful Attempt

Success attended the first attempt of the Canadian radio station to broadcast a regular program to the British Isles. Cables have been received here announcing reception at Liverpool and Manchester of the music and addresses sent out from CNRA, the Canadian National Railways broadcasting centre for the Maritimes. The message received by W. D. Robb, Vice President, Canadian National, stated that the first reports in England were received at eleven forty o'clock, Greenwich time. Station 6L at Liverpool sent signals at eleven o'clock Greenwich time, on three one three meters so that other sets in the British Isls could tune in on the wave length of CNRA at Moncton. There were cables from Newfoundland at the early stages of the broadcast which indicated that the broadcast was reaching a good start on its journey across the Atlantic. "A great success in every way" commented Mr. Robb, when viewing the great flood of messages which had been wired to the Moncton Studio.

CAN CURE CANCER IN EARLY STAGES, SAYS MOYNIHAN

Fear of Disease Greatest Handicap, Says Noted Surgeon

MINIMUM RISK

If Operation is Made in Early Stages, Result Sure

"Nothing is more certain than that concer, whatever its occult nature may be, is a local disease in the first instance; that it remains a local disease for periods which are sometimes short and sometimes very long, and that if treated in its early stages by operative methods it is completely and permanently eradicated."

Such is the opinion of Sir Berkeley Moynihan, perhaps Britain's most famous surgeon.

British scientists and medical men have been devoting much time to the study of cancer, still regarded as the most baffling disease known to modern surgery or medicine, and Moynihan, who expressed these views in a lecture to the Association of Science Masters at Leeds University, confirmed them later in an interview.

The trouble in dealing with cancer, said the famous surgeon, was to obtain access to the disease while it was still in the local stage. Public fear of the disease is a great handicap in dealing with it and it should be made a matter of common knowledge that cancer is not, as most people suppose, a disease from whose immediate and recurrent ravages there is no escape.

"We must broadcast the truth, that with few exceptions, an early operation for any cancerous disease is attended by the slightest risk, if indeed by any, and may confidently be expected to confer a permenant immunity from a return of the disease," he declared.

Sir James Bland Sutton, head of the Cancer Research campaign, does not accept the idea that cancer can be eradicated by surgical operation in the early stages, as he contends we do not yet know what are the early stages of the disease.

Other cancer experts, however, are disposed to agree with Moynihan, including Dr. R. H. Joceyln Swann, surgeon to the London Cancer Hospital, who heartily indorses Moynihan's appeal for greater publicity and education of the public in endeavoring to trace early cases. "A great deal depends upon the organ attacked," declared Dr. Swann, "but provided an operation is performed sufficiently early cancer can be cured."

"The great difficulty," continued this authority, "is to get people to report to their own doctor in the early stages. Many frightened of what they may be told, suffer in silence rather than go to their own doctor for examination. If only people would consult their own doctor as soon as they discover anything which is not usual there would be far less cancer in the world, and the sufferers would have far more peace of mind, and at the same time they would make the task of cancer research far easier.

"Cancer, to start with, is a local disease, and as a local disease it can be cured. It is only when cancer spreads, that it becomes hopeless. Education is the great need of the day. Every possible opportunity should be taken to show the general public that in their own interests they should report to a doctor at the earliest possible moment."

The London Cancer Hospital declares it has effected many cures during the past twenty years, and a great deal of research work has been carried out there, and is continuing daily. A complete register of all patients operated upon between 1904 and 1914 is being gone over to discover how patients have fared since.

Crash of Bricks Kills Two Men In Welsh Colliery

Two men were killed and another injured as they were about to finish their shift at Ynysmardy Colliery (Glamorgan).

A party of 18 engaged in sinking operations at a pit between Llantrisant and Tonyrefail were bricking on a stage about 500 yards from the top.

As they were waiting for the last lot of bricks to be lowered something went wrong with the winding engine, and Ivor Richards, of Tonyrefail, was killed by a blow on the head from the bowk containing the bricks.

William Butler, of Llantrisant, was also caught by the bowk, which descended at a terrific rate. He was hurled into a sump 25 yards below, where there was a depth of 12 feet of water.

His body was recovered with the aid of grappling irons, but it is not known whether he died from drowning or from the blow.

D. N. Wright, of Beddau, was badly bruised about the head.

The other 15 men, some of whom are suffering from shock, had a narrow escape.

John Robinson, Sheffield's oldest citizen has celebrated his 104th birthday. He looks no more than 80, and still has an abundance of white hair.

He gets up every morning at 8, and goes to bed at 8 in the evening.

"Live regularly," he said to a Press representative, "and you will attain a ripe old age. Don't take doctor's medicine. Have nothing to do with doctors. Regularity and a long walk every day will enable anybody to live to 100 without monkey glands."

He regularly listens-in with the greatest enjoyment.

ONE-EYED MONSTER FOUND IN SCOTLAND

Minute Organism Fished Up is Rechristened Vigilans

UNKNOWN SPECIES

Will Be Let Alone Unless Effect on Fisheries Bad

The "one-eyed monster" dear to the tellers of fairy stories, has been discovered. His official name is "Proterythropsis," but his modern discoverer has rechristened him "Vigilans."

"Vigilans" is not such a "monster" either. In fact he is a very minute marine organism, one-twentieth of a millimetre long in actual life. He is a globular little fellow, with peculiar capsules in his interior, but he has only one eye, which expresses surprise about everything.

Miss S. M. Marshall, working on behalf of the Scottish Marine Biological Station, on the deserted shores of Great Cambras Island, Firth of Clyde, discovered him and she contends he is en entirely unknown species. The first specimen obtained by Miss Marshall was so novel that she admits she will have to wait until some more of him visit these remote Scottish shores before an accurate "survey" can be made. "Vigilans," with a million other minute marine creatures, strolls into the nets of marine research experts daily, but the one-eyed persons only comes at a certain time of the year.

Miss Marshall, with a Glasgow University bio-chemist and the Superintendent of the Scottish Biological Marine Research section, spends most of her time on a 17-ton drifter named the Nautilus, combing the herring fisheries of Scotland, and it is in the interest of Scottish herrings that she is watching the habits of "Vigilans." If the one-eyed organism is good for herrings he will be allowed to live, if not, there is a bad time coming for all breeds of "proterythropsis."

CUP-TIE CROWDS INVADE LONDON

Nearly 800,000 Fans Pay to See 31 Games

Nearly 800,000 people assembled on 31 football fields in England and Wales witnessed the first round of the English Cup competition, in which all four sections of the League took part. The number of spectators was 70,000 more than the attendance at the first round last year.

Fog, which early in the day seemed likely to prevent any of the five matches in London being played, caused the postponement of the West Ham-Arsenal match at West Ham until this afternoon. The match at Southampton between Southampton and Exeter City will have to be replayed, as it had to be abandoned owing to fog, 10 minutes from time, when Southampton led by five goals to nil.

FEARS FOR "THE DOME."

Cup-tie fever was responsible for a small invasion of London. Thousands of people travelled from South Shields, Stockport, Barnsley and Northampton to see their local teams play Crystal Palace, Queen's Park Rangers, Millwall and Tottenham Hotspur respectively.

Extra coaches had to be connected to four trains from South Shields to accommodate all those who wanted to see South Shields play Crystal Palace at Selhurst Park.

There was, of course, a rush to "see the sights," and the dome of St. Paul's, which rumor had it was to be "removed forthwith," was the object of much attention.

CHURCH STRIKE IN BRISTOL DIOCESE

Parishioners Stay at Home in Two Seven-side Hamlets

The two Severn-side hamlets of Aust and Northwick, near Bristol, have joined in a policy of passive resistance against the Rev. C. P. Way, vicar of Henbury, and at Aust Church at service the congregation consisted of a solitary journalist, while at Northwick Church in the evening neither choir nor congregation attended.

Both churches have hitherto had a resident curate in charge. Recently the curate in charge accepted preferment in an adjacent parish, and on account of the shortage of clergy and the financial stringency Rev. C. P. Way decided to instal a lay reader in place of the curate and to let him reside in the parsonage.

This was opposed by both congregations, but the Bishop of Bristol said he had no power to interfere. The churchwardens have resigned.

CONSCIENCE MONEY.

A man at Nottingham has had his conscience pricked.

"Some years ago," he writes to the Town Clerk, "I rode on a Mapperley car and did not pay my penny. Now, in obedience to God, I enclose a shilling."

"LORDS OF MANOR" NOW ONLY HISTORY

Privilege 850 Years Old, Killed by Birkenhead Bill

FIVE-YEAR TERM

"Copyhold" System of Land Tenure Abolished by Modern Lawyer

An 850-year-old privilege died Jan. 1, 1925, when the "Law of Property Act (1922)" came into force in England and abolished innumerable "Lords of the Manor." A period of grace of five years is allowed for existing Lords of the Manor to arrange with their previous "copyhold" tenants—who now become freeholders—the question of what compensation, if any, should be allowed for the loss of manorial rights, but the actual "copyhold" system of landownership is definitely abolished and, after five years, the present "lords" lose all claim to compensation.

The "copyhold" system of leases has long been reckoned one of the most exasperating forms of renting in the complicated system of British landownership. Since it dates from the days of William the Conqueror, this is perhaps not surprising.

Under the old system the "Lord of the Manor" (relic of Norman William's feudal parceling out of British land to his own adherents) could grant tenure of land on "copyhold" terms which left him the undisputed owner and with the right to exact certain fees, services and privileges from the tenants.

The "Lord of the Manor" had many privileges, varying in value according to the size of his estate but always a source of annoyance to modern day tenants, who could not be called upon to don armor and bear swords in defense of their feudal lord. One of the most cherished privileges was the power of appointing local clergy to the parishes included in the "Manor," or having the gift of the "living" as it was called.

This and other manorial privileges dies with the enactment of the "Law of Property" act, which is the work of that very modern politician and great lawyer, the Earl of Birkenhead, former Lord Chancellor.

Schoolboy's Notion of Marriage "The Holy State of Acrimony"

"Chesterton committed suicide at Bristol. He was only nineteen and very thin and hungry."

This is not an obituary notice, but a new example of a schoolboy howler received by "The University Correspondent" in a competition for amusing samples. The writer, of course, confused the poet Chatterton with the large and very much alive writer of paradoxes.

Some other howlers were:—

An Irish bull is a male cow.

Acrimony (sometimes called holy) is another name for marriage.

Cereals are films shown at the pictures, and which last fifteen weeks.

A glazier is a man who runs down mountains.

A CIRCLE DEFINED.

Quadrupeds has no singular; you cannot have a horse with one leg.

Richard II. was murdered in Pontefract Castle, but his fate is unknown.

A circle is a round line with no kinks in it joined up so as not to show where it began.

Parallel straight lines are those which when they are produced so as they meet, do not meet.

There are three spaces in the body, the head, chest, and trunk, holding respectfully the brain, heart and vowels.

Gravity is that which if there were none we should all fly away.

CREDITORS WANT PART OF INCOME

Lord Montcrieff Must Pay 60 Per Cent of All Over £1,000

Lord Moncrieff, who has creditors to the extent of £5,000, is being asked to pay something out of the revenue arising from his share in the estate left by his uncle.

Aged 52, educated at Repton and Oxford, one time an assistant schoolmaster, married in 1909, and now the father of six children, the present holder of the title was in partnership with another teacher at Bridge of Allan, but the school venture failed, and in 1918 he was made bankrupt with no assets.

His income for one year ending March 1924 was £1,394 net. His creditors want a share of that part of his income, which is above "living-in-comfort" needs. In the Court of Session, Edinburgh, they asked for 50 per cent. of all income over £800. The Court fixed payment at 60 per cent. on all above £1,000.

BIT OF GLASS IS BURGLAR'S NEMESIS

A piece of broken glass picked up by a policeman at a house at Horsham led to the conviction of two burglars and the recovery of a large quantity of stolen property.

Police-sergt. Gee, of Horsham, noticed that there were finger prints on the piece of glass, and sent it to Scotland Yard.

As a result, Henry Edward Windsor, a Seaford barber, and Albert Henry Walton were arrested and sentenced to 18 and 15 months' hard labor respectively at Chichester Quarter Sessions.

BARONET'S HOUSE IN HANTS IN BLAZE

A fire which broke out in Sir Harold Reckitt's residence, Littlegreen House, Compton (Hants), caused several thousand pounds damage.

Servants returning from a fancy dress ball found their quarters ablaze. Sleeping occupants were aroused and hustled out of the building.

In spite of the gale, firemen prevented the flames spreading to the main building. The roof and upper storey of the servants' block were destroyed.

A CANADIAN AND HIS DOG

Col. Grant Morden, well-known financier and M.P. for Brentford and Chiswick, England, is a great lover of deerhounds, and has one of the biggest kennels of this variety in the world. The picture shows him at Heatherden Hall, Bucks, with one of his dogs, "Topic."

STREAM OF SCENT IN LONDON GUTTERS

While a large crate, full of hundreds of bottles of scent, was being unloaded outside St. Stephen's House, Victoria Embankment, S. W., it slipped and fell to the ground.

The crate burst and many bottles were broken. Gallons of concentrated eau-de-Cologne and lavender water ran down the gutter. Women dipped handkerchiefs in the stream.

BOY'S PLUCKY RISK FOR HIS PET CAT

To rescue a cat on a housetop Harry Lucas, a 13-year-old Kingston boy, climbed in bare feet to the top of a shed, then by means of a water-pipe to the roof. He then crawled along the roofs of five houses—a perilous feat in a high wind and rain.

When he reached the cat he was surprised to find that it was his own "Timmy." Tucking the cat beneath his coat, he started back, but slipped down the roof to the guttering. A woman reached out of a bedroom window below and took the cat, and Lucas completed his descent in safety.

RECTOR OFFERED GARDENER'S JOB

The Rev. Stewart Bernays, newly-appointed rector of Finchley, has had an offer of employment outside the sphere of the Church.

Wearing old clothes, he was planting bulbs in the parish churchyard when a lady approached who had been watching him intently. She told the rector, whom she had evidently mistaken for a gardener, that she was struck by the careful way in which he did his work, and offered him employment in her garden. She was prepared, she said, to pay liberal wages, with beer money extra.

When the rector revealed his identity the incident was dissolved in laughter.

SEVEN HURT IN MOTOR BUS SMASH

Seven persons were injured in a motor-omnibus smash on a lonely road near Sadberge, between Darlington and Stockton.

The steering gear failing, the bus crashed into a telegraph pole. The driver, J. Rowell, of Darlington, was thrown from his seat and suffered leg injuries.

All the 15 passengers were thrown violently, the backs were torn from the seats, and the windows were smashed.

DENTISTS SHOULD HAVE BIG FEET

Perfect health and large feet are important qualifications for women dentists, according to Miss Helen Mayo, herself a dentist, who advised young girls to take up dentistry as a career, in a luncheon address to the Soroptimist Club at the Criterion Restaurant, Piccadilly.

All dentists' patients arrived with the "pip," she said, and the dentist needed to be perfectly fit, in order to cheer them up. Large feet were essential, because a dentist had to spend most of the time on them.

FERRYMAN'S PUNT IS "HOME" ON THAMES

Living in a covered camping punt on the flooded Eton Brocas, Frank Glaister, a 50-year-old Windsor ferryman, says he is "as snug and cosy as a nobleman in a castle."

During the summer Glaister lived in his punt, and when the river rose he determined to "see it through." Digging his mooring poles deeper into the soil, he "sat tight" and defied even the raging torrent of the Thames.

"It is," he added, "an experiment, and I am thoroughly enjoying it. I fish from the punt and I cook all my meals.

"It is my living-room, dining-room, and bedroom, and as for a bathroom, there is plenty of water all around."

Application is to be made for the King's Bounty on behalf of Mrs. James Harvey, wife of a Sunderland laborer, who has given birth to three sons—triplets—all of whom are doing well.

NINETY YEARS OF BIRTH REGISTERING

For nearly 90 years the post of registrar for Edmonton has been held uninterruptedly by the Judd family. Mr. J. Harman Judd's death this week recalls this interesting record.

His grandfather was appointed registrar of births and deaths in 1836. When the Registration Act was passed, in 1856, his father was appointed to the post; and in 1876 Mr. J. Harman Judd was appointed.

He continued in office until a short time ago, and registered nearly 90,000 births and deaths.

BELFAST WIDOW "POPS THE QUESTION"

Robert Maxwell, aged seventy, was married in Belfast Cathedral to Mrs. Young, aged seventy-two. Both had been married twice before.

"I first met my husband at Christmas," said Mrs. Maxwell after the ceremony, "and taking advantage of Leap Year I popped the question. Mr. Maxwell accepted immediately, and the banns were put up.

"There will be no honeymoon as my husband, who is a night watchman, has to go back to work tonight. There is nothing to beat married life."

ACTING IS GOOD NIGHTMARE CURE

"Acting is a wonderful system of psycho-analysis," said Miss Sybil Thorndike to a meeting of the Walcroze Society at the conference of educational associations in London.

"All my life I have suffered from nightmares, but during the time that I was working in the Grand Guignol plays at the Little Theatre I never had one."

FAMOUS GOLDFISH AT BATH ARE MISSING

Fifty famous goldfish are missing, owing to the flooding of the great Roman bath at Bath.

Several have escaped into the Avon, the icy waters of which must be fatal to them after the comfort of the hot springs.

The Emperor, the biggest goldfish in Bath, has been saved.

BARRISTER'S FIFTY YEARS AS JUNIOR

"Absolutely unique," was the expression used by the chairman of Essex Quarter Sessions at Chelmsford, in congratulating C. E. Jones on having completed 50 years at the Bar, practising as a junior.

Mr. Jones, replying, said that he had only been absent from the court on two or three occasions, when illness was the cause.

SWANSEA HEIR IS BORN AT BUILTH

A son and heir has been born to Lord and Lady Swansea at Caeberis, Builth Wells, their Breconshire seat. They have been married nineteen years. Mother and son are doing well.

Lord Swansea will be fifty years of age in April. He married a daughter of the first Lord Holmpatrick in 1906, and the Hon. Ursula Vivian, hitherto the only child, was born four years later.

Singleton Abbey, the ancestral home of the family, was sold in 1919 to the corporation of Swansea by Lord Swansea's predecessor, who was his half-brother, on the ground that its upkeep entailed an expenditure of £10,000 a year.

EX-M.P. IS NOW LOOKING FOR JOB

Albert Law, who was Labor M.P. for Bolton in the last Parliament, intends to sign on at the Labor exchange for the out-of-work "dole" on Wednesday.

He was ill after the last election, and since he recovered he has been looking for work. He has been unable to obtain a job at the mill where he was formerly a spinner, and he has had no success in his applications for employment elsewhere.

"I am now genuinely seeking work," he said, "and therefore fulfil the conditions entitling me to benefit, like anybody else who is out of work."

AIREDALE TERRIER RAISES LAW POINT

National Canine League to Appeal to Commons

RIGHT TO LIVE

Magistrate's Interpretation is Cause of Discussion in St. Albans

Zulu, a three-and-a-half years old thoroughbred Airedale terrier, has been the more or less innocent cause of raising a novel point of law, and an appeal is to be made to Parliament by the National Canine Defence League.

How this came about was explained by F. R. Edwards, of St. Albans, his master.

"Some time ago," said Mr. Edwards, "an order was made by the magistrates that Crompton Grange Zulu—to give him his full name—should be destroyed, but no fine was imposed in connection with the injunction.

"Represented by counsel, I appealed against the order to the St. Albans Quarter Sessions. Here a discovery was made which surprised the justices so much that before recognizing it as final they seemed to me to search every book of law in the place. It was this: That since no fine had accompanied the order I had no right to appeal.

"This is certainly an amazing position, and the Canine Defence League are taking the matter up. According to this, every dog which has been given a respite on appeal when his owner has not been fined should now be dead. Counsel is being specially consulted as to what can be done from a legal point of view. Meanwhile Zulu is still alive."

"We have been in touch with the Home Secretary on this question for some time past," said C. Rowland Johns, the secretary of the Canine Defence League, "and it will be raised as soon as the House opens by Sir Robert Gower, M.P. for Central Hackney.

"We have pointed out that this is a new interpretation of a law dating from 1871, and if this decision is adopted it will mean that local magistrates will have the final decision.

"If we cannot alter the present state of affairs with the present law we shall have to agitate for further legislation in the matter."

Bridegroom in County Antrim Changes His Mind About Wedding

The story of a disappointed bride, an unwilling bridegroom, and a clergyman who awaited the arrival of a bridal procession alone in a church is exercising the tongues of the gossips in Muckamore, Co. Antrim.

The bride waited in vain at her home for the appearance of the bridegroom. As he did not arrive, messengers were dispatched to his house and found him in bed. His repose was interrupted, but he calmly informed his visitors that he did not intend to marry. This news was conveyed to the bride, who was inconsolable.

The clergyman waited wearily in the church for the appearance of the parties to the wedding, but, finding that no one had put in an appearance, closed the doors and went home.

THAMES FLOODS ISLAND VILLAGE

Inhabitants of Brick Bungalows Driven Out by Rising Waters

Sunbury Court Island, half a mile below Sunbury Lock, with its 50 brick built bungalows, was swamped by the Thames, which rose with extraordinary rapidity.

Ten or twelve of the bungalows were still tenanted when the river was only lapping the door-steps, as they are built several feet above the island.

But there came a further very rapid rise of the river. The island started to disappear and tenants who had regarded the position as safe, hurriedly left with as many of their belongings as possible.

In a very short time the whole of the island was under water, and all the lower rooms of the bungalows were swamped.

The main road from Hampton Court to Sunbury was also flooded to a depth of four feet for a considerable distance. Some of the water came up through the main sewers, while an untenanted island above became entirely lost to view.

In the midst of all the turmoil, workmen in punts continued to build new brick bungalows on the river front of the mainland.

PARIS GOWNS FOR ALL IN PATTERNS

Most Exclusive Models Now Within Reach of Modest Purse

Life-sized patterns of Paris models are the latest sensation in the dress world.

Many women have up to now looked on a gown bearing the name of M. Poiret, the world-famous Paris dress creator, as only attainable by the wealthy.

They will in future be able to buy a paper pattern of a model each month, and for a modest outlay—amere fraction of the cost of a single model gown, says the London Daily Express.

This is a remarkable development in the art of dress. Hitherto, M. Poiret's Paris models have been carefully guarded, and have been an impossible dream for most women.

The details of the creation have been well kept secrets and the design, once materialized in crepe de Chine, satin beaute, kasha, or other fabric of the day, has been legally protected in every possible way.

Three Generations of Notts Family Will Settle in Canada

Covering three generations and including 35 persons, a family from Retford, Notts, will sail for Canada shortly to settle on farms in Saskatchewan. It is believed to be the largest group of three generations that has ever emigrated.

Included in the party will be father and mother, their four sons and one son-in-law, with their respective wives, and 23 children.

All the adults have some knowledge of agriculture, and, subject to medical examination, are going out under the joint Government scheme for settling 3,000 British farming families in Canada within two years.

CHEAP TRIPS TO CANADA POPULAR

Many Folk of Moderate Means Coming to See Children

The experiment of the Cunard and other big shipping companies is advertising third-class round trips to Canada and the United States this summer for $200, is attracting an entirely unexpected class of traveller.

The original idea was that the cheap trips would attract clubs, family parties and local social organizations, parties of teachers and pupils, etc., but most of the inquiries are coming from the "Darby and Joan" middle-class, comfortably off type of English parents anxious to see their children who have settled, perhaps many years, in the United States or Canada.

The idea of a third-class trans-Atlantic passage to these people would hitherto have been anathema, and they would not have dreamed of submitting to the "indignity" of being "herded with emigrants," and facing the unknown terrors of Ellis Island. Yet their means would not permit first-class trips, so they have had to defer the long hoped for visit to their sons and daughters.

Since the announcement of the new cheap trips, however, comfortable looking elderly men and women have been sidling semi-apologetically up to the polished counters of the big shipping offices in the west-end of London, and asking for details of the third-class trip. Many of them are retired business folk and mechanics, who can readily afford the $200 rate, but who would not consent to lay themselves open to the reputed rigors of an emigrant ship.

All of them particularly inquire whether there will be any fuss or detention at Ellis Island, which has an ill reputation among middle-class Englishmen. Some of them have not seen their children in thirty or forty years, and now they are looking forward to the trip, as long as they will not be regarded as emigrants.

VILLAGE CANNOT SPELL ITS NAME

Inhabitants are at Odds—Signpost to Be Erected

There is a village in the north of Middlesex that does not know how to spell its own name.

At least, the inhabitants cannot agree as to which is the correct form.

The Post Office declares that the proper spelling is South Mimms. The Church authorities say it is South Mymms. Some people prefer South Myms. Others weary of controversy, use the simplest form—South Mims.

All four forms are used daily in the village.

The vicar, the Rev. Allen Hay, protested at the Rural District Council meeting that the Post Office spelling caused them to be looked upon as "silly mims."

A neighboring village is called North Mymms, and the vicar thought it absurd to see a football match announced between North Mymms and South Mimms. All the Church records, dating back to the early centuries, said South Mymms.

Local government records, however agree with the Post Office.

Another member of the district council declared that Domesday Book called the village Mimine.

It was pointed out that the council could not enforce any spelling, but a village sign could be erected. This is to be considered.

ARMY BANDS FREED FROM UNION RULE

Seaside Restriction is Removed by the War Office

A decision that will be welcomed by holiday-makers and seaside resorts has been reached by the War Office regarding the engagement of military bands.

A War Office regulation was issued last year, when the Labor Government was in office, that any military band-master, before quoting terms for seaside engagements, should submit the matter to the local secretary of the Musicians' Union, who would tell him what he had to charge for the services of his band.

Under this arrangement it was feared that few towns could afford to engage the best bands, and the Conference of Health and Pleasure Resorts protested to the War Office.

It is now reported that the War Office has decided to allow military bands to accept engagements provided the terms are not less than those charged by local civilian bands.

Bookings, which had been suspended pending a decision, will now be resumed.

The usual charge made by military bands is said to range from £185 to £210 a week.

TRAVEL BY MOTOR TO DRAW A DOLE

A party of unemployed from a neighboring village charters a motor-coach to visit Coleford, Gloucestershire, to draw the dole.

They do not drive up to the Labor Exchange, but leave the vehicle at an hotel.

KENTISH MAN WHO HOLDS EIGHT JOBS

Village of Tenterden Has Two Thrills in Fifty Years

CRIME UNKNOWN

First Experience of Sea-Sickness Greatest Sensation of Career

Born and bred in the slumbering Kent village of Tenterden, Bertram Nelson Tickner carries on no fewer than eight occupations.

Mr. Tickner, who has spent half a century in his native village, is—

Town crier.

First sergeant-at-mace to mayor.

Fireman.

Parish church bellringer.

County court usher.

Keeper of town hall.

Sick visitor to Ancient Order of Foresters.

Cabinet-maker and upholsterer.

"How do you find time to perform so many duties?" I asked Mr. Tickner.

"I don't take much sleep," he replied, "though as soon as I get into bed I am asleep, and as soon as I wake I am up. During the war I don't suppose I averaged more than 10 hours' sleep a week."

What with volunteer drills, hospital orderly work, special constabulary duties and night nursing, in addition to all the peace time duties I have already mentioned, Mr. Tickner could hardly have spared more time for sleep in those strenuous days.

Even now, "99 times out of 100," Mr. Tickner is up at 6 a.m. to begin his numerous duties. "In any little spare moments" he has, Mr. Tickner cultivates his garden. He never rests except when in bed.

Yet, despite this astonishing activity, Mr. Tickner's life has run as quietly and evenly as the life of Tenterden itself, which has known no crime for 12 years.

SPRING-HEELED JACK.

"Everybody is civilized about here," Mr. Tickner almost apologised to me. "Go to bed at 8 o'clock, many of them do, and live to 80 or 90.

"The biggest excitement I can remember in these parts was when Springheeled Jack was supposed to be seen in Beacon Oak road. I went up there several times with a stick, but I never saw him.

"Another excitement was the opening of the railway station in 1902. That was a high day for Tenterden, with the mayor and corporation in their robes, the brass band in attendance, and all the children on holiday."

When I asked Mr. Tickner what the greatest sensation of his career had been, he replied: "When I got on the sea at Hastings and it tossed about so that it made me seasick for the first time in my life."

Even as a fireman, Mr. Tickner can recall no exciting moments, for Tenterden is almost as free from fires as it is from crime. "We get a fire once a year on an average," he declared. "The prettiest one I ever saw was when the Leigh Green windmill caught fire and all the sweeps were alight at the same time."

EIGHT-YEARS-OLD BOXERS IN BOUT

Young Marquis Townshend is Centre of Interest at Sporting Club

The youngest boxer at the tournament at the National Sporting Club, London, in aid of St. Dunstan's, was the 8-years-old Marquis Townshend. His opponent, Edward Hancock, the son of a Hampstead widow—who deputized for Richard Black ill with pneumonia—is two weeks older.

His debut was a decided success. Many grown men would have been discomposed by the number of photographers climbed into the ring with him, but young Townshend was as nonchalant then as he was when later he exchanged punches with his diminutive opponent

He has more than an ordinary notion of boxing, especially in so far as it concerns leading with his left, but he took a number of right-handed punches to the jaw that might easily have dropped him.

A stalwart boy weighing 4st. 6 lb and with a mass of hair that any girl, in the days before bobbing hight have envied, he was to his tiny antagonist what a heavy-weight is to a feather-weight.

Much more interesting than the "fight" were a few moments I spent in the dressing-room of the contestants just before the bout. Townshend was extremely anxious to get things over and done with, so that he could see certain stable-lads in action, but he was still more eager to impress upon Master Hancock that "blows-round-a-corner," were a mistake. "You lead straight, Teddy," he said, "and we'll be all right."

Later he said, "Oh, yes, I like boxing. It doesn't hurt much, does it?"

That was when I left. His mother had arrived to wish her son good luck. I noticed that she kissed both boxers impartially when she entered the room.

I have a fair knowledge of boxing, but I do not think that has happened before in the history of the ring.

MOONBEAMS CAUSED SHEPHERD'S DEATH

The plaintive howling of his collie dog, which had remained in a field all day to guard his master's flock of sheep, led to the finding of the body of George Gauld, a shepherd, in a narrow stream that acts as a hazard on the Lossiemouth golf course.

It is believed that, deceived by the moonbeams, Gauld missed the footbridge, and, stunned by his subsequent fall, he was drowned in the shallow water.

BULL PUP NEEDED.

When at a meeting of the Hythe Town Council a complaint was received from a woman tenant of one of the municipal houses that whenever she left her perambulator outside, her neighbor's cats made a home of it, Alderman Tunbridge suggested that the best remedy would be to purchase a good bull pup.

FARM NEWS AND PROBLEMS

WM. ASHLEY WAS FIRST BUTCHER IN FRONTENAC

Opened Up Small Store in Kingston in the Year 1784.

OTHER SETTLERS.

Built Himself a Log House, Which Stood in the Same Place Until 1858.

COBOURG, February 4 — It is told of Nicholas L——, a New Jersey farmer, who came with his family of seven sons and two daughters to settle in the Quinte District, that he was a month making the trip. Arrived at Schenectady, New York, they waited to build a batteau before proceeding on their journey. When they had completed this, they stored in it sufficient provisions to last them until they reached Cateraqui. This settler brought with him iron kettles in which to make maple sugar and a "churn full of honey," thus laying in a supply of sweets. He was a fanning-mill maker, and brought with him also a quantity of wire gauze to be used in this work. They made their way from Schenectady to Kingston, and then three more days of weary rowing three more days of weary roving up the north shore were necessary before their destination was reached, and they took up their grant of land.

The First Butcher

William Ashley, who came to the County of Frontenac in 1784, or thereabouts, was the first butcher and carried on his trade at Kingston. He built himself a house of red cedar logs, cut from the spot where the house stood, and which remained there until 1858 when a hotel was erected upon the site. The logs are stated to have been in good condition when the house was torn down.

Early Traders

There are records to show that William Bell and John Ferguson started trading with the settlers along the Bay of Quinte and Lake Ontario in 1789. They carried their wares in a small boat and sailed up and down the Lake and Bay, calling at settler's homes. Their arrival was greeted with greater joy than is that of the peddler of to-day, for not only did they have with them needful articles of merchandise, but they carried also to the scattered settlers news of the outside world from which they were cut off.

Resides in Blacksmith Shop

Willet Casey, of Rhode Island, lost his father during the American War of Independence, and came later with his wife and aged mother to Canada. They settled first near Lake Champlain, but eventually found out that they were not on British soil. Casey had, with much labor, made a considerable clearing, but he decided to move on. Reaching the Quinte district he got shelter for his family in a blacksmith shop, until a rude log house could be built.

Built the First Mills

Robert Clarke, a native of Duchess County, New York, was a carpenter and a millwright, and was engaged by the British Government to build the first mill in this part of Ontario, which was situated at Cateraqui, afterwards Kingston. To this mill settlers from as far west as Cobourg took their grain by boats to be ground, for several years.

The Saplings Came Handy

It is told of John Diamond, of Albany, another settler in the Bay of Quinte district, that he was captured during the war and handcuffed to another prisoner. Thus tied together they managed to escape, and in making their way through the woods would run one on each side of a sapling. By night they had managed to rub their handcuffs off. John Diamond eventually reached Lower Canada where he fell in with a young lady and was married. They came on west, took up some land and managed to raise a little grain the first summer. For some weeks, however, a big tree was their sole shelter, night and day.

Perilous Wedding Journey

A settler who took up a farm in Fredericksburg had, before Coming to Canada, coveted and won a fair lady at Johnston, N.Y. He started off one winter's day for Johnston to bring his bride to Canada. Guided by seven Indians, he undertook to traverse a pathless forest on snow-shoes. Returning, the wedding party lost their way in the woods and well-nigh perished with hunger. One day they shot a squirrel and that, divided among them, had to suffice. But afterwards one of the party secured a deer, and so famished were they that they were in danger then from overeating. Upon his arrival at Fredericksburg he built a windmill, which was probably the first in the country. This settler understood the Indian dialect and was upon occasions called to settle their disputes.

Henry Rutten's Acc'dent

Sheriff Henry Rutten, one of the first presidents of the Provincial Agricultural Society in Ontario, when a boy on his father's farm at Adolphustown, went out with his brother to tap the trees. By the outward stroke of the axe, two of Henry Rutten's fingers were severed from his hand. As this inconvenienced him from doing manual labor his father sent him to school. Then he went to Kingston and was apprenticed to John Kirby, a merchant. Before 1809, or even earlier, he was commissioned to open a store near Crafton in Northumberland County, this being the first store in the old Newcastle district. Henry Rutten distinguished himself as a soldier in the war of 1812, was later member of Parliament and speaker, and for many years sheriff. He was the inventor of scheme of ventilation for buildings and cars.

Clothes Provided

The first settlers in the Quinte and Newcastle district were supplied with clothers for two or three years, or until such time as they could provide there things for themselves. These consisted of coarse cloth for trousers and Indian blankets for coats. Shoes were also provided them.

A quantity of seed grain was another provision made, and different articles of husbandry. To each family was allotted an axe, a hoe and a spade. A plough and a cow were allotted to every two families, while every fourth family received a cross-cut saw. Small boats were provided for the settlers, these being placed at various points. Portable corn mills, consisting of steel plates turned by hand like a coffee-mill, was another Government provision made. Nails, handsaws and some materials for building were also given them. To every five families was given a kit of tools, such as chisels, augers, drawing-knives, pickaxes and sickles for reaping.

The axes provided were not, however, like the light implement now in use, but were a short-handled ship axe mostly. However, the settlers, many of whom were old soldiers, were able, with their crude implements, to make homely articles for domestic use, and also so fashion crude wooden plows and harrows, and handles for their scythes.

Pig Helps Boy To Pay His Way Through School

A boy in South Carolina writes: "Five years ago I joined a pig club. I had a pure-bred pig, then eight weeks old. Since that time she has farrowed about 100 pigs. She paid for my clothes three years in high school and gave me spending money also. I am now in my second year in college and she is still doing the same."

He didn't mean the pig had entered college. He meant that he realized when he had a "good thing." The fabulous goose of golden egg fame had not a thing on this porker.

BERRY GROWERS DELIVER WINES

Beverage Made by Co-operative From British Columbia Berries.

QUALITY GOOD.

President H. P. Simpson of the Berry Growers Co-operative Union of British Columbia, is delighted at the growing appreciation of B.C. port wine. The Union has just delivered to the Liquor Board 1100 gallons of matured port wine made in B.C. from B.C. fruit.

It is declared by experts with experience of continental, South African and Australian wines to be unequalled. The winery is gradually maturing now an additional 25,000 gallons of this wine which will be taken over by the liquor board as required.

Every new buyer boosts the demand for this B.C. product, made under the supervision of experienced wine makers and a pure product of B.C. fruit. The only thing against the B.C. wine is its price—consumers have to be convinced by trial that such good wine can be obtained so cheaply. The explanation, of course, is that the B.C. wine pays no import duty and is delivered direct from the maturing cellars in Vancouver to government liquor stores.

The loganberry figures largely in the B.C. wine; loganberries are coming into their own in no uncertain manner. Canned they have made new conquests this season on the British market; as jam alone or with raspberries they are excellent; loganberry pie is irresistible; loganberry port wine is declared at least the equal of any wine of that class and superior to most, and finally it is announced on high authority that loganberries contain the highest percentage of iodine of anything which grows anywhere.

GREENS FOR HENS.

Mangels Are a Splendid Winter Vegetable for Poultry.

Farmers who make it a point to set out an acreage to mangols for winter feed will do well to reserve a portion of them for poultry flock during the rest of the winter. Facts show that green food is as important for laying hens as silage is for cows in milk. In the summer and fall, when the hens are on range, they secure their own daily supply of "green," and they forage for bugs and worms. This combination with ordinary farm grains makes an ideal solution of the summer feed problem.

When the snow and frost come, however, it is a different situation altogether. Even far to the south the grass has lost its freshness or disappeared and the bugs and worms have sought their winter quarters. Hence something to take their places is necessary. Meat scraps will do it, so far as the animal foods are concerned, but you can't buy green grass in cotton bags. You must grow it or find a substitute.

Two green crops stand out ideally for this purpose—mangels and cabbage. When frost comes, store the mangels for later use in winter and spring. Use the cabbages first. Hens relish both and will consume larger quantities of either in proportion to size and weight than any other farm animal. These green crops will increase egg production and give vigor and thrift to the laying flock. Of course, sprouted oats are excellent, but considerable labor is entailed. Take the precaution now and have feeds for winter use.

GRAIN IS NORMAL.

Some Millbrook Farmers Are Holding Their Own Wheat.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 4.—Grain deliveries at the local elevator are about normal, though there is a tendency among the farmers to hold their wheat as the market is apparently advancing.

Local prices at present are: Wheat, $1.75 a bushel; oats, 60c; rye, $1.35; barley, 85c to 90c. Peas are $1.40 a bushel, a somewhat lower price than earlier in the season.

GREAT BRITAIN HELPED CANADA CLIMB TO TOP

Development of Canada Due to Commercial and Financial Relationship With Empire.

U. S. HELPED.

Canada Made Most Rapid Progress in Ten Years Before the War.

One of the most important factors in the development of Canada has been our commercial and financial relationship with Great Britain. The effect of the war on international trade in general, and on Great Britain's economic situation in particular, tended to lessen the importance of this relationship from a financial point of view, and even affected the relative importance of our trade relations with the Mother Country in the post-war years. We are now, however, commencing a period during which more normal conditions will prevail, and may very well consider at this time the changes or developments which may be expected to take place in our commercial and financial intercourse with Great Britain.

In considering the pre-war situation, it is unnecessary to go farther back than the beginning of the century. The period from 1900 to 1913 was the time of Canada's most rapid progresss, and to this progress Great Britain contributed more than any other outside country, although the United States ran her a close second. During those fourteen years, in spite of a rapid increase in Canadian exports to the United States, Great Britain took $1,803,000,000 worth of our goods, compared with $1,245,000,000 sold to the United States, and sent us close to 1,000,000 new citizens, which compares with 900,000 who came to Canada from the United States. The great importance of the Mother Country's contribution to Canadian prosperity is even more definitely established when the financial assistance extended is taken into consideration. The great proportion of the outside capital required by Canada for development purposes came from London, British investments in Canada during the period under discussion being estimated at $1,753,000,000, compared with U. S. investments of $629,000,000. Now the war, while it did not lessen Great Britain's demand for Canadian products, even after the cessation of hostilities, did interfere with her capacity for competing with the United States in the Canadian market, and gave the latter country an advantage which has not yet been overcome. Moreover, with sterling at a fluctuating discount in this country, English investments in Canadian industries or Canadian bond floattions in London were almost entirely cut out, and Canada was forced to look to the United States money market for such outside financial assistance as she required.

So far as the future is concerned, it is interesting to consider the subject under four heads, as follows:

1. Canadian exports to Great Britain.
2. Canadian imports from Great Britain.
3. British emigration to Canada.
4. Canadian financial relations with Great Britain.

Exports.

The great bulk of our exports to Great Britain has always been composed of foodstuffs—agricultural and animal animal products—of which wheat, flour, barley, oats, bacon and cheese are the most important. The value of wheat sold to Great Britain is of course in excess of the value of any other item, and amounted to $191,000,000 during the twelve months ending November, 1924, a period during which our total sales to Great Britain were valued at $388,000,000.

Lost Line Limerick Brought Hundreds of Entries; Prizes Awarded For Most Original Lines Given

There was nothing boring about the judging of the Limerick about that bore Ray. It was the second Limerick competition and had several times the number of entries that the first brought in.

Mr. J. A. McLaren was the judge for this occasion. Mr. McLaren has himself won prizes for the solution of Limericks in the Old Country, and had a wide experience as a composer of the first lines that others had to wrestle with. He has had Limericks printed in the Manchester Guardian and other big provincial newspapers in England.

The judge found he had his hands full when he came to look over the several hundred entries in The Examiner competition. He says if some think their answers were better than the prize-winning lines they must remember that there were 54 entries exactly alike, and it was necessary to discriminate in favor of original lines. The metre, or number of syllables in the last line should be exactly the same as the first two lines, and in this particular many fell down.

The Limerick was:

"It's no wonder that Ray was a bore
And made the ladies fair sore;
He'd kiss 'em just once,
They'd scream. The poor dunce
....."

Here are the prize-winners selected by Mr. McLaren:

COUNTRY

1. Miss E. Johnson, R.R. 5, Peterborough, prize of $2. Line submitted: "Just to quit when 1-0 was the score."

2. Mrs. G. Richards, Stirling, Ont., prize of $1. Line submitted: "Did a hop, skip, and jump for the door."

3. Mrs. Evans Storey, R.R. 2, Omemee, prize of 75 cents. Line submitted: "Now his love making scenes are all o'er."

Consolation prizes: Mrs. D. L. Garvey, Douro; Miss Jessie Graham, R.R. 3, Hastings, and Mrs. S. W. Sutton, Lakefield.

CITY

1. Miss Jean Gillespie, 138 Hunter Street, prize of $2. Line submitted: "Lost his nerve, grabbed his hat, slammed the door."

2. Reginald Ballard, 15 Oxford Avenue, prize of $1. Line submitted: "Did a hop, skip, and jump for the door."

3. S. C. Ellsworth, 174 McDonnel Street, prize of 75 cents. Line submitted: "Didn't know he missed chances galore."

Consolation prizes: Miss N. R. Peek, 758 George Street; Mrs. S. C. Kerneghan, 9 Monaghan Road, and M. McMurray, 136 Robinson Street.

BETTER HOLSTEINS IN NORTH AMERICA

Native Home of the Breed Has Fallen Down in Breeding.

It is now quite generally admitted that there are more Holsteins of the best dairy type on this side of the Atlantic than there are in the native home of the breed—the northwestern countries of Europe. The same statement cannot be made in regard to the Jerseys, however, and according to Bartley Bull of Brampton, it is not likely that such a claim will ever be advanced. In the case of the Holsteins, there was probably no distinct original type, because the animals were spread over a wide area, and there certainly was no concentration of the very best blood.

The situation on the Island of Jersey, on the other hand, was and is vastly different. In the first place, the island is small, a bare twelve miles long by less than eight wide. In the early days there was little chance of outside blood being introduced, but to make doubly sure, a law was passed over a century ago requiring all live cattle to be slaughtered immediately after landing. In this way the breed was kept pure and disease was kept out.

The narrow confines of the isle, while preventing much growth of the total number of Jerseys, tends to increase the quality. "There are 10,000 Jerseys on the island," stated Mr. Bull, "and many of them are the very best in the world. We have more of the same breed on this side of the water, but the animals are spread over the whole continent. On Jerseys it is quite possible to breed your cow to any one of a thousand bulls. No sire on the whole island is out of reach. You have the most wonderful concentration of blood in the world, and it is this concentration, plus the willing co-operation of the island breeders, which keeps the standard of their cattle above all others in the world."

As an illustration of his claim, Mr. Bull explained the method of awarding the progeny prize at the leading Jersey show in Jersey. This award is given the bull having the best five registered daughters on the island. The owner of this bull, as a result of the award, can not refuse service at a nominal fee to any member of the Island Breeders' Association.

USE HOME GROWN RED CLOVER SEED

Imported Seed Not Hardy Enough For Our Winter Conditions.

Red clover seed has been a failure or partial failure during the past season in a great many districts where seed is usually produced. Such a condition always means a danger for the farmers in Canada, particularly in those sections where severe winters sometimes interfere with our red clover stands.

The danger to which I refer is that of securing imported red clover seed from regions where sorts, non-hardy for our conditions, are produced. A shortage of domestic red clover seed on the American continent always means heavier importation of foreign seed. Seed has been coming from France and Italy and therein lies, at least in part, our danger.

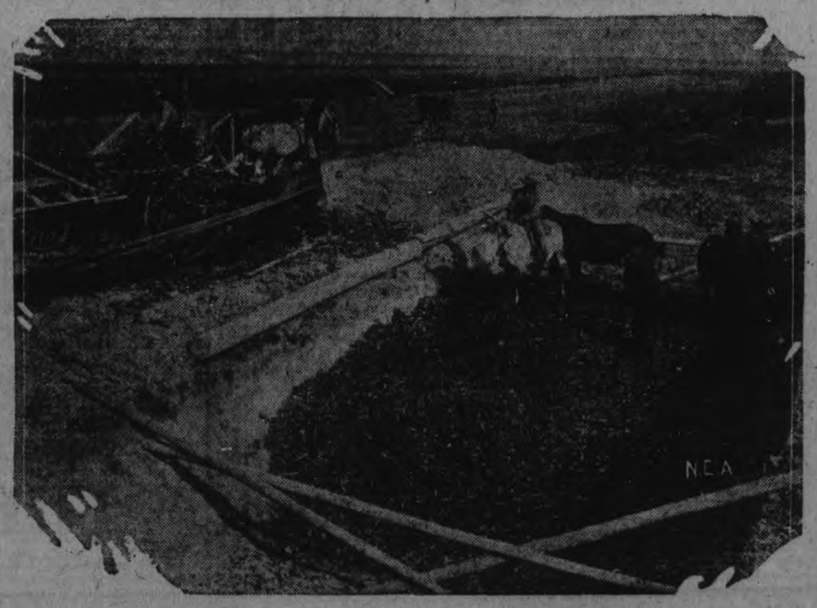
Tests of the relative hardiness of domestic and foreign red clovers have been conducted on the Dominion Experimental Farms for a number of years past. Without exception, French and Italian clovers have winter killed badly under most conditions, while English seed and that secured from the southern portion of the red clover areas in the United States has been less hardy than Canadian-grown seed.

Seed from Sweden and the Northern States has compared quite favorably with our own.

Because of the difficulty of securing accurate information as to the origin of imported red clover seed, our Canadian farmers are urged to secure locally-grown seed where possible, providing such seed can be secured reasonably free from noxious weeds. It would be much more profitable to plant a larger quantity of local seed, the germination of which was impaired to some extent, than to take a chance of winter killing in the case of imported clovers, the origin of which was not known.

What is that which occurs twice in a moment, and not once in a hundred years?—The letter "m."

EASIER TO DIG THAN BUILD



Jack Canuck finds it easier to dig a silo than build one, due to the lack of wood in his parts. The Alberta farmer therefore packs his sunflower silage into a big hole, covers it and thus supplies his milch cows during the winter. More than 1,000 of these pits were dug in Alberta last year.

USING OF HOME GROWN FEED IS POCKET HELPER

Feed is the Greatest Single Item in the Cost of Producing Milk.

MILK PRODUCERS

Corn Fed Judiciously Ranks First as Home-Grown Concentrate.

The experience of many successful dairymen indicate that the use of home-grown feeds for the dairy cow materially decreases the cost of milk production.

"Feed is the greatest single item in the cost of producing milk," says T. M. Olson. "It ranges from 55 to 70 per cent of the total. Ontario farms are ideally adapted to the growing of such feeds as clover, alfalfa, corn for silage, oats and barley. These feeds, properly balanced, are ideal for economical milk production."

Every dairy farmer should grow sufficient alfalfa or clover for liberal feeding to all his dairy cattle. No single feed is the equal of alfalfa hay when it is cut at the right stage and properly cured. It is not only a high protein feed, but is one of the best mineral feeds obtainable, particularly for calcium. And as a hay good clover ranks next to alfalfa. Recent experimental work has shown not only the need of minerals for dairy cows, but also that alfalfa hay is one of the best sources of minerals. Alfalfa hay is usually thought of as a protein feed, and as such it is one of the cheapest sources of protein. When compared with the present price of other protein feeds, such as bran and oilmeal, alfalfa hay is worth $24 to $28 per ton a protein feed.

Good corn silage is given second place on the list of home-grown feeds. Cows fed silage and a good quality of alfalfa hay are kept in good condition and maintain their vitality throughout the winter months. In fact the college dairy herd is in better physical condition in the spring when turned on pasture than later in the summer. He attributes this largely to the nature of the feed, particularly silage.

"For cows producing from 10 to 12 quarts of milk per day it is probable that the greatest profit can be obtained by feeding only alfalfa and corn silage," he states. "High producing cows, however, must have concentrate or grain feeds in their rations."

Corn, fed judiciously, ranks first as a home-grown concentrate. It should be ground for dairy cows. This makes it highly palatable and one of the cheapest sources of carbohydrates. Oats and barley are two feeds which can be grown in most sections, and provide two of the best home-grown feeds for dairy cattle. These feeds are higher in protein than corn, and are also relatively high in carbohydrates. Oats make a particularly good feed to supplement corn as a part of the concentrate ration. Cows producing from 15 to 20 quarts of milk per day will not require other feeds for most economical production.

Neutralization Of Cream.

This Should Be Done Before Making Butter.

Mr. W. F. Jones, B.S.A., Chief of the Division of Dairy Manufactures in the Dairy and Cold Storage Branch at Ottawa, is the author of an eight-page pamphlet that can be had from the Publications Branch at the Capital, on the "Neutralization of Cream for Buttermaking." In his opening paragraph, Mr. Jones points out that the partial neutralization of the lactic acid in cream is necessary to ensure the efficient pasteurization of cream for buttermaking. The pasteurization of unneutralized cream results, he says, in a high loss of fat in the buttermilk and a poorer quality of butter owing to a higher curd content. When butter is made from unpasteurized cream, neutralization is unnecessary and inadvisable. Mr. Jones proceeds to detail the process that should be followed in the preparation and application of neutralizers, and the results that are obtained from the various methods of neutralization. He also explains the best way to test cream for acidity.

An American visited a menagerie and, pausing before a particularly ugly monkey, exclaimed: "What a resemblance to Mr. So-and-So!"

The words were scarcely spoken when he turned and saw the man whom he had "complimented" standing at his side

"I beg your pardon!" said the American. "I would not have made the remark if I had known you were so near, and I am ready to make the most humble apology. But," looking at the man and then at the monkey, "I'm hanged if I know whether I ought to apologize to you or to the monkey!"

Proper Way To Treat Black Head In Turkeys

WARSAW, Feb. 4.—For those whose turkeys show signs of black-head, which is an intestinal disease, the following treatment has been successful. The turkeys are generally quite thirsty. Put permanganate of potash, enough to make water quite red, say five grains to a pint of clean water. Let them drink all they will. Make a fresh supply each day. Give bread which has been soaked in a teaspoonful of coal oil. If the bird will not eat it, put it down its throat. Repeat daily, or perhaps morning and evening. When it shows an inclination to eat give a little clear wheat and plenty of water. Always isolate an infected bird.

WHEAT PRICES STILL SOARING

Wheat Selling For Twice as Much This Year as it Sold For in 1924.

CROP MOSTLY SOLD.

Continued strength in wheat prices is attracting much attention to the world statistical position of that commodity. Wheat's change of form, from a price point of view, has been very rapid; compare the price of less than $1.00 per bushel for No. 1 Northern wheat in Winnipeg in January, 1924, with present prices of over $2.00 per bushel. As the bulk of our 1924 crop has already left the farmer's hands, our main interest in the market at the present time centres on price prospects for the 1925 crop. Wheat prices commenced to fall in 1920 along with the prices of other commodities. The low point for the post-war period was not, however, reached in 1921. Both in 1921 and in 1922 world crops were reasonably good; they were substantially in excess of the 1920 crop and somewhat larger than the average crops of the years 1909-13. In 1923 unusually favorable weather conditions in many of the important producing countries resulted in a crop of 3,488,000,000 bushels (not including Russia), an increase of more than 300,000,000 bushels over the preceding year. This was the final blow so far as wheat prices were concerned. According to statistics published by the Food Research Institute of Stanford University in California, a bushel of wheat in Canada in 1923-24 commanded 30 per cent. less in terms of goods than it did in the years 1909-14. European consumption was stimulated by these very low prices and the Orient increased its purchases substantially. As a result, the world carry-over in 1924 at the end of the crop year, though larger than in 1923, was not nearly as large as might have been expected, and a decrease of about 450,000,000 bushels in the 1924-25 world crop (present estimates) left the world short of wheat for this season. An indication of the change which has taken place in the situation is found in the fact that Russia, instead of exporting wheat as she did in 1923-24, has purchased a large amount of flour from North America

While it is not inconceivable that the exceptionally favorable weather conditions throughout the main wheat producing areas of the world, which resulted in the large crop of 1923, might be repeated in the coming season, the chances are against this taking place. Obviously none can form a definite opinion in regard to our farmers' prospects for 1925-26 until the crop is harvested, but it can at least be said that the prospects look distinctly better than they did a year ago.

CONTEST RULES FOR PETERBORO GRAIN GROWING

Rules and Regulations That Govern 1925 Standing Crop Competition.

READ CAREFULLY.

Two or More Persons Working on One Farm Cannot Make Separate Entries.

Contest Rules—C Farm Zeihr Daily

The following are the rules and regulations that will govern the standing field crop competition to be conducted this year by the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition:

1. Nature of Competition.—Societies can enter two crops which must be selected by the Board of Directors, each field entered to consist of not less than five acres but for beans, flax, potatoes or turnips there must be not less than one acre.

2. If a field contains more acreage than specified above, the whole field must be scored. By field is meant an area so defined by fences of otherwise that it must be harvested as a separate unit.

3. Competitors.—Competition will be limited to those who are paid-up members of a regularly organized Agricultural Society for the current year, and fields entered should be not more than fifteen miles from its headquarters. Competitors will be allowed to make entry in one society only, for not more than two crops and only one entry can be made by each competitor in each kind of crop.

A father and son, or two or more persons residing on the same farm and working it in partnership cannot make separate entries.

4. Society's Entry.—Societies desiring to enter the competition must notify the Superintendent not later than the 15th day of May. Not less than twelve bona fide entries for each crop in an Society will be accepted, and not less than twelve fields must be judged before a Society can receive the Government grant. If field in the opinion of the judge is deemed unworthy, it will not be awarded a prize.

5. Individual Entries. — Individual entries must be forwarded by the Secretary of each Society to the Superintendent on or before June 10, 1925.

6. Selection must be made from the following crops, viz.: Fall wheat, spring wheat, oats, barley, peas, beans, rye, flax, red clover, alsike clover, alfalfa, flint corn, dent corn, ensilage corn, potatoes, turnips or other staple field crops in Ontario.

7. In order to encourage selection of the best varieties of grain and potatoes, it has been decided that the field crop competitors should select from the following varieties for these competitions:

Fall Wheat.—Dawson's Golden Chaff, Imperial Amber, O.A.C. No. 104.

Spring Wheat.—Marquis, Red Fife, Huron, Goose.

Oats.—Banner, O.A.C. No. 72, Alaska, Abundance, Yellow Russian, Gold Rain, O.A.C. No. 3.

Barley.—O.A.C. No. 21.

Peas. — Golden Vine, Canadian Beauty.

Beans.—Pea, Yellow-Eye.

Corn (Dent).—Wisconsin No. 7, Bail

Corn (Dent). — Wisconsin No. 7, Bailey, White Cap Yellow Dent, Golden Glow.

Corn (Flint).—North Dakota, Longfellow, Quebec 28.

Potatoes (Early).—Early Ohio, Cobbler. (Late).—Green Mountain, Dooley.

Turnips.—Perfect Model, Canadian Gem.

8. This does not prohibit the use of any other variety than those named, but when the judge is scoring a field, if any other variety than the above-named standard ones is grown, two points will be deducted from the total score for grain and five points deducted for potatoes and turnips.

9. The Secretaries of Societies should urge competitors in the different crops to select the same variety of grain, potatoes, etc.

10. Competitors are expected to notify the Superintendent, not less than four days before the crops are ready for the judge.

11. The Ontario Department of Agriculture supplies judges free of charge.

12. The Government grant to a Society for each crop will be $50, making a total of $100 if two crops are entered. This amount must be supplemented by the Society to the extent of $25 for each competition. In the event of one crop being entered, the total amount of prize money offered will be $150.

13. The amount contributed by the Society of $25 for each crop can be counted in as expenditure for agricultural purposes in the yearly financial statement on which the regular annual grant is based.

14. A Society may charge an entry fee of not more than one dollar for each crop entered by a competitor, but this is optional with the directors.

15. Seven prizes must be offered as follows for each crop in the field: First, $20; second, $15; third, $12; fourth, $10; fifth, $8; sixth, $6; seventh, $4. These must be paid in full to the winners without any deduction.

Grain Exhibit at Provincial Winter Fairs.—Substantial cash prizes will be offered by the Government for two-bushel sacks of grain and one and one-half bushels of potatoes at provincial fairs, competition for which will be confined to the first seven prize-winners and those receiving a score of 85 points and over in the Standing Field Crop Competitions. Those competitors residing in Ontario County and District of Muskoka, and all west and south-west of same will compete at Guelph, and those east of Ontario County, also Parry Sound and New Ontario, at a point in the east. Full particulars with entry forms will be furnished later.

The management of the Canadian National and Central Canada Exhibitions and the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair also offer substantial cash prizes for grain and sheaves. All competitors whether prize-winners or not, are eligible to compete at the Royal Winter Fair.

THREE O'CLOCK IN THE MORNING WHEN CURLERS HUNG UP BROOMS

First Day's Play in Open Bonspiel Allowed Little Rest for Some Rinks.

WELL ADVANCED.

Local and Visiting Skips Successful in Early Rounds of Two Contests.

Towards three o'clock this morning the first day's curling in Peterboro's open bonspiel wound up at both the Charlotte and Brock street rinks. Some of the players who were sent out on the midnight draw, were also scheduled to report at 8.30 this morning for the qualification round of the Waddell trophy competition.

With a bigger entry list than usual, probabilities of milder weather, and keen ice, that tended to slow up the games, the bonspiel committee simply had to marshall out the rinks on the Charlotte street rink and deploy others to Brock street as rapidly as possible, and far into the night.

Jack Renwick and Jimmy Metheral directed the draws and had the satisfaction of closing down for the night with play advanced practically to the second round of both the Morrow and Matthews-Blackwell competitions.

At that stage F. Williams of Lindsay, Dr. Harvie of Orillia, T. Cosh, of Bobcaygeon, Fred Easson of Keene, C. Truman of Claremont, L. R. Luke of Oshawa, and Ross Dobbin, George Morrow, Alex. Kay, George Hill and J. W. Fraser of Peterboro, were still going strong in both competitions.

Yesterday's curling was replete with features, only a few of which could be followed in the two separate rinks. In the Matthews-Blackwell, Booth of Cobourg, was forced to an extra end in beating Thurston of Bobcaygeon. Fred Easson, of Keene, hung up a four and two threes in eliminating Bob Hicks. A "tray" on the tenth end helped Geo. Morrow in nosing out McFadden of Lakefield by 9 to 8. Rollie Waddell was sitting pretty with a nice lead on Wood of Lindsay coming home, but the Scugog rink filled up the rings in the final frame and Wood wicked out the Waddell counter through a narrow port leaving five stones in position and giving Wood the game by 12 to 10. Finlay of Norwood, had the distinction of bumping Gord. Matthews, son of the donor of the trophy, by the score of 13 to 12.

Ross Dobbin threw Frank Carew into the discard in the Morrow contest. A three followed by four on the 10th and 11th ends changed the complexion of that engagement. Carew was leading by 10 to 6, but Dobbin reversed it to 13-10, and Carew got two on the final end. Dobbin with Tommy Donaldson viceing beat DeLany of Cobourg 16-7 in the first round of the Matthews-Blackwell, and in that competition Hare of Oshawa downed Carew by 11-9. Incidentally DeLany just managed to beat Medd of Peterboro by 11-10 in an extra end in the Morrow games, and Wells Fraser pulled through with a 13-12 victory against Charlton of Lakefield, thanks to strong finish with four coming home. R. F. Downey opened with a five and a two against Peacock of Oshawa and as never headed, winning easily by 21 to 5.

NURMI LIVES UP TO ADVANCE PRAISE

Finnish Runner Proves Greatness by Sensational Feats on U. S. Indoor Tracks.

By ART CARLSON.

Looks like this Paavo Nurmi fellow is all that has been said of him. Fact is, the sturdy Finn has proved himself an even greater runner since coming over to this country than had been thought.

Unused to the indoor tracks and sent against the best competition this country could muster, the invader has swept it all aside with comparative ease. Even the great Joie Ray, generally acknowledged America's premier long distance ace, has been forced to trail the stellar Finnish athlete.

Track Records Fall Rapidly.

Not only has Nurmi showed his heels to the rest of the field in all his starts thus far, but he has smashed one record after another until it has grown more or less monotonous. The sporting fraternity just naturally expects him to hang up a new mark every time he enters a race.

Nurmi is one of the easiest runners the game has seen in some time. Running appears to be no undue effort with him. He just seems to jog along in a sort of care-free way. His stride is something to marvel at. When under wraps he covers around six feet, seven inches at a clip, which is increased to over seven feet as he gets up steam.

His tremendous stride, plus wind, endurance and easy-running motion, has lifted the European to the top heights in long distance running.

Others From Old Country.

Nurmi, while no doubt the greatest long distance runner of all time, nevertheless isn't the only athlete from across the pond who has starred in this line. Farm from it!

A few years ago Finland produced another sensational runner in Hans Kolehamainen. He copped three first places in the Olympic games at Stockholm in 1912, finishing ahead in the cross country run and 5,000 and 10,000 meter canters. For a time he was regarded as the king-pin.

Then we have Willie Ritola, erstwhile running mate of Nurmi's. Ritola is but a few steps behind his great companion. Another, Stenroos, likewise of Finland, must also be considered. Stenroos was a clever long distance man years ago. And, though around the 40-year-mark, was still good enough to win the marathon race—the toughest of them all—in the Paris games last year.

Britons Had Great Pair.

Some 25 years or so ago, England brought out a good pair in Al Shrubb and a chap by the name of Appleby. Shrubb for many years held every running record from two to 10 miles. Some of them still stand, too.

When it comes to long distance running, we must take off our lids to European athletes. For they are in a class by themselves. From the halcyon days of Shrubb right up to the coming of Nurmi, runners from the old country have held the upper hand for the most part.

FIVE RECORDS MADE AT MEET

Nurmi Clipped 14 Seconds From 2 1-4 Mile Mark—Plant and Ritola Score.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—(Canadian Press).—Five world's records were established and two were missed by one-fifth of a second at the Western Union A. A. track meet in Madison Square Garden last night.

Paavo Nurmi, of Finland, the greatest of middle distance runners, returned to his record-breaking form and cut 14 2-5 seconds from the indoor mark for 2¼ miles, his time being ten minutes and 19 seconds. Nurmi outstepped the field as usual. Willie Plant and Willie Ritola were other athletes to set records, Plant eclipsing both the indoor and outdoor times for the 5,000-metre walk, finishing two-thirds of a lap ahead of Ugo Frigerio, of Italy, Olympic champion, in 21.50 3-5. Outdoor figures held by Rasmussen, of Denmark, were 21.59 8-10, and the indoor mark was 22.06 3-5 made by himself.

Ritola, running an exceptional 5,000-metre race, crossed the tape 8 2-5 seconds ahead of the best indoor time, which he had produced himself.

Frigerio, suffering his third defeat at the hands of the American walking champion, Plant, won tremendous applause by beating out Phillip Granbille of Hamilton, Ont., in 5,000 metres of plodding.

FALCONS WIN AGAIN.

Fire Hall Youngsters Defeat Lansfield's 8-4.

The Fire Hall Falcons took the crease out of Lansfield's Pressers last evening at Mark Street arena, when after 60 minutes of fast hockey they emerged from the rink with an 8-4 victory tucked neatly under their belts. The Fire lads worked like clockwork, their forward line was there always, and their great stick-handling did the trick. The Crease lads, with "Shock" Mein on the defence, played a whale of a game. Mein was everywhere, and many a time broke up the Falcons' attack.

Although there was no star on the Hosemen, each player playing his best, and with the team work the Falcons showed they should go far as an outlaw club.

Referee Brooks handled the bell well.

The poor memory that the ball players connected with the scandal are feigning, explains some of the dumb baseball we have been forced to sit through.

Ottawa Defeats Boston.

Bruins Go Down For 18th Loss of the Season, 3 to 1.

BOSTON, Feb. 4. — (Canadian Press).—Ottawa moved up a peg in the National Hockey League standing by defeating the oft-defeated Boston Bruins here last night by 3 to 1. It was the eighteenth defeat of the Boston team this season. As a spectacle, the game lacked much, as Ottawa for more than half of the contest seemed to have difficulty in getting together. On the other hand, the Bruins had developed a little more team work than in the earlier games. Both teams specialized on defensive tactics, and the result was colorless from the point of view of the spectators.

LOCAL TEAMS LOST.

Three of Them Defeated in Games at Omemee.

OMEMEE, Feb. 3.—The Omemee Hockey team are making a name for themselves this season, having won the last three games. On Wednesday evening a team from th C.G.E. Peterborough met the locals on home ice only to be defeated by a score of 10-2.

On Friday evening, a team from the Brinton Carpet Company journeyed to Omemee and they too received the small end of the score, it being 6-1. This game is reported by hockey fans, as the best ever witnessed in Omemee, both teams doing good work and some clever stick handling was brought into play.

On Monday evening the locals again crossed sticks with the Hardware Men's Hockey Club of Peterborough, and again the score piled up to 5-1 in favor of the Omemeeites

LEAGUE OPENS APRIL 14.

National Campaign Will be Extended a Week to Oct. 4.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The National League will open its 1925 pennant race on Tuesday, April 14, and close its campaign on October 4, a week later than in 1924, according to the schedule officially adopted at Tuesday's mid-winter meeting. There is no change in the corresponding time of opening the season which last year was on April 15.

A variety of reasons, including the presidential election campaign, figured in the earlier ending last year but it was decided to go back to the Longer season again in 1925.

The New York Giants, four-time champions, will start their attempt to make it five straight on a foreign battlefield, opposing the Braves at Boston in the first game on April 14. Brooklyn's 1924 runner-up outfit will be host to Philadelphia in the other eastern opener.

Tiger Flowers, recently rocked to sleep by Jack Delaney, has been knocked out six times during his career. We would say he was well named.

When Walter Johnson goes into the movies they will have to use the slow motion stuff on his fast ball.

In tennis the outcome depends on the net results, as the statisticians would say.

Johnny Dundee says he left France hurriedly because of the serious illness of his mother-in-law. His excuse is at least original.

When Judge Landis quizzed Cozy Dolan he just couldn't remember a thing. Yet, in his day, Cozy was rated a smart ball player. Hardly speaks well for the profession.

Umpire "Ducky" Holmes, during his stay in the American League, failed to live up to his name. He stopped everything, including two right swings, that caused him to lose both decisions.

Nick Altrock rises to remark that the daddy of all baseball terms is pop fly.

PRAISE FOR PETES.

Local Junior Team Picked as One of the Best Teams in Ontario.

The following is an article that appeared in the Toronto Daily Star. Toronto referees who have been handling junior games this season report five good outside teams—Brockville, Newmarket, Kitchener, Paris and Peterboro— that is five outside of Owen Sound Greys, last year's champions, who again have a smart team.

AT MILLBROOK.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 4.— The two rinks of local curlers who went to Peterborough on Tuesday to compete in the annual bonspiel were: G. W. Sayles, skip, R. H. Edmunds, H. J. Grassett, W. E. Ball.

J. Steele, skip, W. G. Hetherington, H. B. Allen, W. Whyte.

Last year was the first season that Millbrook did not send a rink or two to compete in the bonspiel since curling had its beginnings in the village.

There is a likelihood that at least one rink will have to go to Toronto to enter the competition for the Carew cup, a challenge having been put in some time ago. Word has been received that Millbrook will be notified when its turn comes to play.

So far this week the result of the curling in the local competition for the Allen cup is:

R. H. Edmunds 11, A. A. Smith, 14; G. W. Sayles, 14, J. E. Allen 10.

The instalation, a ship's orchestra repeater, can be used for music, lectures, concerts or any other purpose for which simultaneous hearing on all parts of the vessel is desired.

VISITORS TAKE WADDELL TROPHY BY WINNING PRELIMINARY ROUND

Second Rounds Reached in Both Matthews-Blackwell and Morrow Cup Games.

ICE WAS KEEN.

Outside Rinks Will Now Play Off to Decide Winner of Waddell Cup.

Peterboro Rinks met defeat this morning at the hands of the twelve outside rinks that took part in the Waddell Trophy games at the Brock Street Rink. The outsiders took the big end of a 128 to 116 score but had it not been for the high scores turned in by F. Williams and Kennaley the local rinks would have had a better chance, as the outsiders only won by a total of 12 stones on the twelve games. Williams' rink took a lead of 12 stones over E. L. Bowes and Kennaley came out on top of Martin Chenhall with a majority of 4 stones. Williams' majority over Bowes alone accounts for the visiting rinks' win.

On the number of wins both teams broke even, each having six wins and six losses.

Very keen ice greeted the curlers this morning, both at the Curling Rink and at the Brock Street Rink, but the surface at the Brock is inclined to slope to the corners and this alone has caused the contestants considerable trouble in getting the stones anyways near the button.

Peterboro Trophy

The Peterboro Trophy games, (10 ends) started this afternoon at 2 o'clock with sixteen rinks taking part. The final round for this trophy will be composed of fourteen ends.

Matthews-Blackwell

The second round in the Matthews Blackwell Trophy started this morning at 11.30 o'clock and the games should be finished this evening.

The second round in the Morrow Trophy games also commenced this morning.

LONDON, Feb. 4. — (Canadian Press).—Oxford defeated Cambridge to-day in their annual soccer match by 4 goals to 1. The game was played at Chelsea.

'VARSITY ALONE IN SECOND PLACE

Collegians Pass Parkdale as Result of Last Night's Win.

Connie Smythe's fighting Varsity team climbed up into second place in Group No. 1 race by beating Aura Lee 3 to 2 last night, and the Collegians are only a game behind the Petes. Since losing their first game in the group, Varsity have been beaten but once in five starts, the Petes being the only outfit to turn the trick. Should Hamilton succeed in beating Parkdale tonight in the Ambitious City, the Paddlers would be in a very awkward position in regard to the group playoff. Here is the standing:

	Won.	Lost.	To play.
Peterboro	5	1	2
Varsity	4	2	2
Parkdale	3	2	3
Hamilton	1	4	3
Aura Lee	1	5	2

Next games.—Parkdale at Hamilton tonight.

Hamilton at Aura Lee, Friday night.

INTERMEDIATES VS. LAKEFIELD

Interest in To-morrow Night's Game at Brock St. Rink.

The debut of the Peterboro Intermediate against Lakefield, at Brock Street Rink tomorrow night, is awaited with much interest, as a chance to get a line- on Grover Halpin's team.

The Intermediates have been handicapped by lack of practice facilities, but they have a good squad to pick from and should be able to turn out a formidable line-up. If they beat Lakefield tomorrow, they clash with the Trent Valley winners next. Tomorrow's game will be called at 8.30 o'clock.

GOOD BATTLE HERE FRIDAY

Bowmanville-Peterboro Junior Clash Will be Fine Exhibition.

The Bowmanville-Peterboro Junior O.H.A. tilt at Brock Street Rink on Friday night looms up as the best Junior attraction of the season and should draw a big crowd of fans. Bowmanville with a big heavy team expect to reverse the decision, claiming that they were below form on Monday night. The Rubber Town team had a great record in its own group and Bowmanville fans are confident that going at their usual clip their favorites can turn the trick here Friday. Naturally the Young Petes cannot see it that way although they are prepared for a tough battle.

Both teams will be at full strength for Friday's game and it promises to be a most interesting exhibition.

TORONTO, Feb. 4 — (Canadian Press).—Amelius Jarvis, who is under sentence of six months imprisonment and a fine of $600,000 following conviction for conspiracy in connection with provincial bond deals, was today given leave by Mr. Justice Magee to move before the Appellate Division for permission to put in as evidence certain affidavits of physicians and others, respecting his fitness to serve sentence and his ability to pay the fine. The case will be under further review before the Appellate Division on February 19th.

TANKARD PLAY IN THE FINALS

Owen Sound and Barrie Play Off—Ice Was Getting Sticky.

FINISH TO-NIGHT.

TORONTO, Feb. 4 (Canadian Press). — Although the weather moderated greatly during the night, good ice conditions prevailed this morning for the semi-final round in the competition of the Ontario silver tankard, in which Brampton was drawn against Barrie and Stratford against Owen Sound.

Stratford is the only club of the quartette that has not succeeded in winning the premier trophy of the Ontario Curling Association during the half century that it has been up for competition.

Owen Sound put Stratford out of the running, winning by a majority of 18 shots, while Barrie had little trouble in disposing of Brampton, winning by 21 shots. The ice turned a little sticky towards the close of the morning's play, but the final will be decided late this afternoon.

COZY DOLAN FREE.

No Case Against Former Coach, Attorney Reports.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—(Canadian Press). — Jimmy O'Connell, the blacklisted outfielder of the New York Giants, may be guilty, by his confession, of violation of the New York State laws covering baseball bribery, but there is no case against Cozy Dolan, former coach, also banished from the game, according to the report of the District Attorney's investigation into the scandal, made public to-day.

MAXIMUM SENTENCE.

Veterans' Bureau Officers Found Guilty of Conspiracy to Defraud.

CHICAGO, Feb. 4 — (Canadian Press).—Charles R. Forbes, former director of the Veterans' Bureau, and John W. Thompson, a wealthy St. Louis contractor, today were sentenced to two years' imprisonment to Leavenworth Penitentiary and fined $10,000 by Federal Judge George A. Carpenter.

They were found guilty by a jury on January 30th of conspiracy to defraud the government in the allocation of Veterans' hospital contracts and received the maximum sentence.

UNEMPLOYMENT ACUTE.

Government Asked To Help Municipalities Bear Burden—Action Promised.

TORONTO, Feb. 4 — (Canadian Press).—The Ontario Government was urged to take immediate action to assist the various municipalities of the province in bearing the financial strain of endeavoring to cope with the unemployment situation by a deputation representing all the larger urban centres which waited on W. F. Nickle, attorney general, and Dr. Forbes Godfrey, Minister of Health, this morning. Mayor Weinge of London declared the need was far beyond the resources of the municipalities, and other speakers presented the case for their districts. "I am sure that you have impressed my colleagues as you have myself, that there is an unusual condition existing in the province today," stated Hon. W. F. Nickle in replying to the deputation.

" "It seems from your representations that certain cities are suffering undue burdens and I will, as will my colleagues, impress on the government the urgency of the situation."

RUSSELL CASE CLOSES.

Only One Witness Called for Defence—Crown Case Ended.

TORONTO, Feb. 4.— (Canadian Press.)—One solitary witness was called for the defence at the trial of F. J. B. Russell, Home Bank director, to-day, and argument of counsel is proceeding this afternoon. The Crown closed its case at noon.

PROTECT INDUSTRIES.

Proposal in Governmental White Paper is Denounced by Liberals.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—(Canadian Press). — A Governmental white paper says industries in Great Britain may henceforth secure protection if they prove to the satisfaction of the Board of Trade that they are suffering unfair and abnormal competition and also demonstrate that they are managed efficiently and economically. No applications will be considered from industries dealing in food or drink. This policy receives a mixed reception in the press. All Conservatve organs but one welcome the proposals as "eminently reasonable." The Liberal press angrily denounces this "tariff by the backdoor," and accuses the government of breach of pledge by failing to embody the proposals in the regular parliamentary bills.

PRAYERS UTTERED FOR MAN HELD BY BOULDER

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Feb. 4th, (United Press.) — Members of the Central Christian Church, gathered in the church to-day to pray for the release of Floyd Collins, imprisoned by a giant boulder in a cave near Cave City bay.

Rev. George W. Tiu , pastor of the church, said that he would attempt to make the prayer service general throughout the city.

CITY MANAGER PLAN.

H. L. Brittain Will Address Chamber of Commerce—All Citizens Invited.

The author of many articles appearing in these columns referring to taxation problems will visit the city on Tuesday next, February 10, and will address the Chamber of Commerce at 8 p.m. on the subject of City Manager form of Civic Government.

Director H. L. Brittain, Toronto, of the Citizens' Research Institute of Canada, is the speaker, and is particularly able to deliver this address.

Each year results in an added number of municipalities placing the conduct of municipal problems on a business basis, and in almost every instance a saving to the taxpayer has been noted.

The Chamber of Commerce is particularly fortunate in securing the presence of Mr. Brittain to discuss this subject, and to enable all citizens interested to be present. The meeting is open to all.

CROW'S NEST RATES.

Argument Continues on Second Day in Supreme Court of Appeal.

OTTAWA, Feb. 4. — (Canadian Press). — H. J. Symington, K.C., counsel for the prairie provinces, in continuing his argument on the second day of the hearing before the Supreme Court of Appeal against the judgment of the Railway Commission in the Crow's Nest Pass rates, challenged the contention that Parliament had ever "delegated to a subordinate commission" the right to overrule an Act of Parliament.

Mr. Justice Duff asked if it could not be shown that the effect of the Crow's Nest Pass rates would be ruinous to the Canadian National Railways and was it not Parliament's purpose to prevent such a result? Mr. Symington could not agree. The agreement affected only the C.P.R., and if the C.N.R. did not wish to meet the Crow's Nest rates no power in the land could compel them.

J. J. CUNNINGHAM IS COUNTY MASTER

Loyal Orange Lodge of the County of West Peterboro Annual Meeting.

The annual session of the Loyal Orange Lodge, County of West Peterboro, was held in Victoria Hall on Tuesday afternoon and evening.

A large delegation of members was present, representatives from all over the county, comprising twenty-four branches of the Order.

The Worshipful County Master, E. F. Reid, gave an address that was one of thought, covering the activities of the year, in an appropriate manner that was well received.

A very encouraging report was given by the committee which gave a large increase in membership during 1924 business.

The treasurer's financial report credited the district with being in an excellent condition.

Greek General Has Men Ready For War

LONDON, Feb. 4. — (Canadian Press). — Roumanian and Serbian Ministers here, representing the Orthodox Powers whose religion is wounded by the expulsion of the Greek patriarch from Constantinople upon instructions from their Governments, have joined the Greek Minister in requesting British intervention. The British Government declined to intervene, pointing out that an Allied protest might be made if France and Italy would agree to it, which it is known they will not do. Efforts are being made here to keep the fact that this is a joint demand by Balkan Powers a secret.

Despatches here report that General Mazarakis, chief of the Greek General Staff in Salonika, wishes war, and declares that with the hundred thousand men he commands he could capture Constantinople. This threat is not taken seriously here.

It is assumed the Greek Government can control her military firebrands as it is known Greece is in no condition for war. Allied naval action would probably be taken to prevent any outbreak if the menace were serious.

ALBANY, N.Y., Feb. 4.—(Canadian Press).—"Bootleg Trail," the state highway between Albany and Plattsburgh, lost 36 of its best patrons yesterday when fifty-five Federal prohibition agents conducted raids along the trail and landed 36 in the toils. Bail totalling $88,000 was furnished by 32.

Germans Perfected A Deadly Chemical

PARIS, Feb. 4. — (Canadian Press).—The account of a new war scourge said to have been developed by the Germans is causing a stir in the French press, notwithstanding denials from official quarters.

In the course of a lecture delivered at St. Chamond recently, Deputy Pierre Taittinger declared that the Germans have secretly perfected a chemical product by the use of which airplanes could annihilate several cities within a few hours. Details of the invention, he added, recently came to the knowledge of the French War Ministry.

CORINNE HAS SURPRISE ROLE IN NEW FILM

Star Abandons Hothouse Types for Action in "Love's Wilderness."

Theatre-goers will meet a new Corinne Griffith when this star appears in her latest First National picture, "Love's Wilderness."

No longer is she the frail orchid of the exclusive ballroom or the frayed rose of poverty. For the first time, Corinne's scenario writers have steered her up against the primitive side of life. As an abandoned wife in the wilds of Canada, she is given drastic action to augment her tense emotional acting.

The story, by Evelyn Campbell, was Corinne's own selection. As the head of her own producing company, she exercises this unusual right among film stars.

"A woman may tire of her gowns and jewels; she may tire of everything else in the world. But she never tires of love."

Such was her explanation of the values she saw in "Love's Wilderness" as screen entertainment.

"Being made love to is, in the nature of the thing, an unvaringly interesting experience for a woman," she continued. "The man's advances may evoke nothing more than amusement, but show me the woman so insensible to humor that she cannot find interest in being amused."

The love theme here is out of the beaten path of domesticity. It carries its heroine from her Southern home, through a heart-breaking denouement in Canada, and to final happiness in the jungles of the South Sea Isles.

Never before has Corinne essayed a role of this type, and, according to pre-view critics, she has presented herself in a new mood which will surprise her fan admirers.

Holmes Herbert and Ian Keith, in the principal supporting roles, are declared to do some excellent work. Others in the cast include Emily Fitzroy, Maurice Cannon, an importation from the Paris comedy stage; Bruce Covington, David Torrence, Frank Elliott and Charles Post.

"Love's Wilderness" was directed by Robert Z. Leonard.

"DUMB DORA."

Do you believe in fortune-telling? Do you think that Fate has marked out your life in advance, and that everything you do is visible in the lines of your hand? Are you interested in seeing just how a real flapper "flaps" when she is trying to work out her destiny?

Then, come and see "Dumb Dora" at the Capitol Theatre next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights or Wednesday afternoon, when a matinee performance will be given. It is an interesting little one-act play and will be an added attraction to the usual excellent Capitol programme.

AT THE ROYAL

LAST NIGHT TONIGHT OF ENTRANCING PICTURE OF N. Y. SOCIETY.

Accurate to Life

A photo-production playing to big crowds at the Royal closes the egagement tonight. The director has achieved a remarkable result in that the characters are not exaggerated, but convincingly natural.

There are no Babylonian sets, or queer telephone covers, etc., but tasteful and beautiful sets that truly in our estimation, represent the homes of New York's Four Hundred. Nobody is killed or jumps off the Woolworth Building. The story is human, it tugs at the heart and possesses the saving grace of a delightful sense of humor.

We do not hestiate to give it our unqualified endorsement. Better see it tonight.

"FERRIS DUO"—TWO CLEVER CHILD ARTISTS AT ROYAL THURSDAY, FRIDAY, SATURDAY

Added to what appears to be a top-notch picture programme, the Royal management have secured the "Ferris Sisters," clever juvenile dancers and singers featuring Baby Dolly, the youngest contortionist. The children will appear at every performance Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

"THE CHASE," TAKEN AT ST. MORITZ, WTH SKI CHAMPIONS

All lovers of outdoor sports, especially ski-ing and snow-shoeing, will be pleased to learn that the Royal has booked the first picture ever made featurig over fifty Swiss ski champions.

For unadulterated thrills this would be hard to beat. Swooping down slopes in the Swiss Alps almost vertical, over streams, chasms and even houses gives the picture a succession of thrills that makes one gasp. It is an added attraction at the Royal next Monday.

CRITIC TERMS ROYAL FILM "CORKING GOOD" AT ROYAL TO-MORROW

Dorothy Day, the noted critic of the New York Morning Telegraph, in reviewing 'Trifling With Honor,' the Jewel production, which comes to the Royal Theatre to-morrow.

"In the first place, this is a corking good picture. Secondly, it has been perfectly cast, with the result that a photoplay, not only human but extremely interesting and amusing, has been produced. There is pathos, there is comedy, and never a dull moment.

"Rockcliffe Fellowes seems to have been born to the leading part. A clever actor, this man, and his leading woman, Fritzi Ridgeway, is an actress of no mean ability, and does not sacrifice realism because she feels she must be pretty at all costs. When she cries, it is evident that the glycerine bottle has not been resorted to, and her idea of a working girl's wardrobe does not include an ermine cloak. Both the performances of these players are consistent and extremely well acted.

"The Gas Pipe Kid is a pretty tough bird, to use the vernacular of his associates. He is released from prison, only to commit another offence the very day he gets out, but escapes punishment by fleeing with money provided by the girl who has been waiting for him.

"Five years later we see him as a prize baseball player. He is known as Bat Shugrue and is the idol of all the young hopefuls who watch his every move from the bleachers. One of the loudest rooters is the small brother of the girl. This part is admirably played by Buddy Messinger. Bat has completely forgotten his obligation to the girl and engages in wild parties with wilder women, and all in all is a pretty despicable character.

"A writer on a newspaper invents a series of articles supposed to have been written by Bat, about his past life—these articles are wholly fictitious, giving the hero all of the virtues which he does not possess. The little brother gets very excited about the stories of his idol, and decided to pattern his own life after Bat's. Bat is planning to "throw" the final game of the series for a consideration, when he meets his small admirer, who tells him what faith all the boys have in him. The climax is gripping and will hold one enthralled. Here is wholesome drama, well presented, and should be popular with all sorts of audiences."

READ THIS ONE

I have suffered from Kidney and Rheumatic trouble for the past ten years, and during that time I spent more than a hundred dollars for different medicines, and was unable to procure any relief.

I was beginning to lose faith in medicines and I considered my case more or less hopeless. Hearing so much about Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills, I decided to give them a trial, and before I had finished one box, I felt like a different man; and am now completely rid of an ailment which had bothered me almost day and night for the past ten years.

I procured Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills at Lynch's Drug Store, and when I purchased them I was told to return for my money if they did not help me. I can recommend these pills and I would willingly pay a good deal to get the relief that I did from them.

This testimonial is given at my own suggestion, and I take pleasure and I consider it my duty to recommend Dr. Banta's Pills to anyone suffering from kidney or rheumatic ailments of any description.

LOUIS GIMBEL MADE BIG HAUL IN FRANCE

CANNES, France, February 4. — (United Press.) — Louis Gimbel, of New York, is 500,000 franc ahead after a tussle with luck at baccarat.

Gimbel played at the millionaires' table and the stakes were appropriate to the setting.

Formel King Manuel of Portugal continued the run of bad luck that robbed him of Gaby Deslys and the throne in Lisbon. He was the heaviest loser at the golden table.

THINK RIGHT.

Think: smiles, and smiles shall be;
Think doubt and hope will flee,
Think love, and love will grow;
Think hate, and hate you'll know.
Think good, and good is here;
Think vice—its jaws appear!
Think joy, and joy ne'er ends;
Think gloom, and dusk descends.
Think faith, and faith's at hand;
Think ill—it stalks the land.
Think peace, sublime and sweet.
And you that peace will meet;
Think fear, with brooding mind,
And failure's close behind.
Think this, "I'm going to win!"
Think not on what has been.
Think "Vict'ry"; think "I can!"
Then you're a "winning man!"

Grain and Latest Comment on Industrial Markets.

Closing Quotations on Principal Active Stocks.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Corn is said to have passed into strong hands as those who are interested in wheat and rye are credited with buying on the decline. The country is not selling corn as freely but the demand from eastern interests is slack. Foreigners were good buyers of wheat futures during the day, but general export demand for cash wheat was relatively slow. Shorts were buying of oats and readily absorbed the liquidation by scattered commission houses. Shipments remain slow. It was said those who took profits on wheat at around 205 for May were among the best buyers on yesterday's break around 193 7-8 to 195.

GOVERNMENT PRIED BY NECESSITY THREATENCE CONTROL

Tory Government May Be Forced By Height of Food Costs in England.

WORLD INFLUENCE

BY MILTON BRONNER

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Government control of meat, wheat and tea.

Government purchase of these commodities.

Government sale of them to the wholesalers.

Government control of the retail price.

Government subsidy—if necessary—to maintain these prices.

This sounds like state socialism, but it is what a Tory government now in control of Great Britain may put into force before summer. It will be one of the most sensational peace-time moves ever attempted by a conservative government. It will be prompted by the necessities of a very serious situation, and it will have tremendous repercussions in the United States.

Sir Auckland Geddes

The English pound sterling is at last looking the American dollar in the face on practically equal terms. The resumption of the gold standard is not far off. But business is still bad. More than a million people are still drawing unemployment insurance. The price of necessities still mounts. People who are drawing doles and people who are drawing wages are alike having a hard time.

It was thought that when the pound sterling reached par or near it, prices would go down. The reverse has been the case. Meat costs more. Bread costs more. Tea—in spite of the late Labor government taking the tax off—costs more.

Faced by this, the new Conservative government recently named a royal food commission to trace the trouble.

It is headed by Sir Auckland Geddes, former ambassador to the United States.

This commission did not go very far before it became convinced that there was considerable monopolistic control of the peoples food. It found evidences of combines and trusts. It ran up against reluctant and even insincere witnesses.

And now the tip is quietly going around in the commercial world, which deals with wheat, meat and tea, that the commission is going to recommend to Premier Baldwin that the government take control of those commodities.

If this is done and if the premier and Parliament accept the recommendation, the machinery soon will whirr. There are experienced men in the Civil Service who know all about it. They could have the whole food machine set up and in working order within a month.

And if it were to come into being, American markets, American grain exchanges and American food speculators would have about the liveliest times they have known since the World War raged.

When Great Britain, as purchaser for the bulk of the wheat and the meat of 45,000,000 people, came to America to buy, prices would naturally tend to go up and up and up. Word would go everywhere: "England is buying."

And when England satisfied its needs and quit buying that same market would go flop.

ANNUAL MEETING

Report of Miss M. Archer, Secretary of Nurses' Supervision Committee.

The following is the report submitted by Miss M. Archer, secretary of the Nurses' Supervision Committee, at the annual meeting of the Peterboro Health Association, held last week:

The Nurses' Supervision Committee carried on its work during the year of 1924. We met on the first Monday of every month, with an average attendance of eight, our very efficient president always in the chair.

The nurses' report and the minutes are read, the monthly bills approved, and the members report the visits they have made to the different sick people.

Every patient, to whom milk and eggs are sent, is visited by a member of the Nurses' Supervision Committee.

During the year twenty-seven families have been visited, five thousand eight and twenty-two quarts of milk have been given away, and two hundred and fifty-eight dozen eggs.

In some cases clothes have been given by the ladies.

The children who were at the camp last summer have been visited since the summer.

During the year, our nurse, Miss Peat, left us to be married, but we were fortunate in obtaining the services of Miss Long, who had been for two years nurse at the Children's Camp, so that we knew how capable she was.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Mary Elizabeth Archer,
Secretary.

Heavy Taxes Holding Back Auto In Germany

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—(United Press).—Imposition of numerous taxes and fees are a serious impediment to the development of the use of automobiles in Germany, according to advices received by the Department of commerce by its foreign representatives.

Owners of motor cars are one class that rarely escapes paying taxes, because of the police registration of all motor vehicles. But even before an automobile of German manufacture reaches the user it has been the subject of considerable taxation through the turnover tax that has been assessed upon each transfer of the material going into the car.

With the purchase of the car the buyer must pay a luxury tax of 10 per cent of the selling price. Upon issuance of an operating license and registration, payment of the yearly operating tax is required. As in other countries, except that Germany's is much higher, this tax is based on the horse-power of the machine. The tax on a 6 tax-horsepower passenger machine is 120 gold marks a year, or about $30. For an 18-tax horsepower car the tax is 840 marks, and for a 24 tax-horsepower car, 1,320 marks.

Even after these taxes are paid the automobile owner still has the burden of paying turn-over taxes on gasoline, oil, spare parts, tires and accessories.

Robert Stenton Funeral.

Regret of Community Shown at Burial Yesterday.

The deep respect in which the late Robert Stenton was held by a large circle of friends in the community, was shown yesterday afternoon, at the funeral ceremony, which took place from his late residence, Braidwood avenue, to the Little Lake cemetery.

Many friends and relatives were present to pay their last tribute of respect to one who had been much loved in life.

The floral offerings received were eloquent testimony to the esteem in which the deceased was held.

The services were conducted by Rev. Jas. D. Richardson, pastor of St. James' Methodist church, assisted by Rev. B. Greatrix. The pallbearers were six nephews: John, Thomas, Charles, George and Herbert Stenton, and F. G. Gillespie.

Out of town friends who attended the funeral included Messrs. Charles and Fred Stenton of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Stenton and Miss Maurine Stenton of London Ont, and Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Wilkinson, of Millbrook.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

CHURCH UNION

Dear Sir.—As there are a number of the members of St. Paul's Church who have not yet voted on the Church Union question, and as I believe many of them do not know which way to vote on account of the agitation which is being carried on, there is one question which I would like the members to consider, and that is, Did the Presbyterian Church give its word of honor not only to the other two churches, but also to the whole world that it would join in the Union.

There is only one answer to the question, and that is, the Church did. This being the case, and as the Church will as a Church enter the Union even though some of the individual churches may stay out, don't you think you should vote for Union and in this way help St. Paul's help the Presbyterian Church to keep its word?

ONLOOKER.

RE UTILITIES INVESTIGATION

To the Editor of The Examiner.

I notice in your report of the meeting of the City Council which was addressed by Mr. R. R. Hall, K.C., that he states that the promised assistance from the Utilities Commission had not been forthcoming and refers to the refusal to give the original contract with the Campbell Flour Mills Company to the City Solicitor.

This statement is not fair, as I have been assured by the officials of the Utilities Commission that all information asked for by Mr. Wearing was furnished as soon as possible and as to the refusal to hand Mr. Wearing the original contract with the Campbell Flour Mills Company I am responsible for that. I happened to be in the Utilities Commission office late on Saturday evening last, between five and six o'clock, when Mr. Wearing made the application for this contract, and I advised Mr. Henderson that it would not be proper for him to do so, but an arrangement was made by which Mr. Henderson would proceed to Toronto at the expense of the Commission and produce the original contract, and I also waited in the Utilities Commission office for a considerable time to oblige Mr. Wearing, who wished to return to his office to draw an affidavit in connection with this contract and have it sworn to by Mr. Henderson.

The non-delivery of the original contract to Mr. Wearing had nothing whatever to do with the failure of Mr. Hall and Mr. Wearing to succeed in their opposition to the motion for prohibition as this contract was not produced although Mr. Henderson had it in Court and was not asked for it.

As to the part Mr. Christopher C. Robinson, K.C., took in the discussion on Monday last, I understand that neither Mr. Hall nor Mr. Wearing were in court when Mr. Robinson made his statement substantially as reported in Monday's Examiner, indicating clearly to the Court that the Utilities Commission wished the investigation to be proceeded with. This took place when the Court opened and the case was called, but at that time neither Mr. Hall nor Mr. Wearing was in Court.

The following is a copy of a resolution passed by the Utilities Commission on the 28th of last month, a copy of which I forwarded to Mr. Robinson on that date, which should satisfy the public as to the position the Utilities Commission has taken in the matter:

"It was resolved that Mr. E. H. D. Hall instruct Mr. C. C. Robinson to attend on the hearing of the application of the Campbell Flour Mills Company for an order prohibiting the County Judge from proceeding with the investigation of the quantity of electrical power used by that company and to say that this Commission preferred to have the investigation proceeded with and to state that the investigation, if proceeded with, should be a complete one with the Campbell Flour Mills Company's officials and employees liable to be called to give evidence."

Yours truly,
E. H. D. HALL,
Solicitor for the Peterboro Utilities Commission.

TARIFF ON VEGETABLES URGED BY FARMERS BODY OF QUEBEC

Embargo on Raw Materials, Such as Pulpwood, Asbestos, Nickel, Favored in Resolutions Adopted at Convention—Some Objections Expressed.

KEEP MANUFACTURE IN CANADA

MONTREAL, Feb. 5.—(Canadian Press).—High tariff dues that will prevent American garden produce from entering Canadian markets to the detriment of local growers, and an embargo on the export of all raw materials, such as pulpwood, nickel, asbestos and tobacco, to force the expansion of manufacturing in the Dominion were favored by resolutions adopted yesterday at the convention of the United Farmers of Quebec held here.

Considerable opposition to the resolutions was manifested in some quarters, but the pro-tariff section forced the motions and carried the day.

The matter came up through a resolution presented by the branch of St. Antoine de Vercheres, declaring for the raw material embargo. At once John W. Ward, of Winnipeg, secretary of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, and member of the United Farmers of Manitoba, told the convention that, as agriculturists, the members present would be acting contrary to the thought of Ontario and the West if they adopted the proposal.

Injury to Settlers.

Embargo on pulpwood, Mr. Ward said, would adversely affect settlers, who relied on the cut for a great part of their living. If the wood market were restricted to Canadian buyers, through the removal of American competition, the price would drop. That would restrict the market for farm products in Quebec. It might be that, in the future, Americans would establish mills here to manufacture pulp, but until that time, the farmers would suffer if the embargo was adopted. As to nickel, Canada had not the facilities for manufacturing connected with the metal, and it had to be exported.

"On the whole," the speaker said, "if you adopt that resolution you approve a policy that might well be extended, but only flour. Now England wants Canadian wheat, not flour; put on an embargo and what would happen? England would go elsewhere for her wheat. And where is the farmer then?"

Shut Out Vegetables.

Albert Monet, president of the Laval County Market Gardeners' organization, however, thought it was time that Canadian growers got protection against vegetables grown in the United States in the open air. Canadians who had to grow many of the same vegetables under glass could not compete in price. Carloads of produce were reaching Montreal daily from California, and that is the season when there were plenty of vegetables inside a radius of 30 miles from Montreal.

MINIMUM WAGE BOARD.

Good Work Done in Obtaining Justice for Girls in Factories.

TORONTO, Feb. 5. —(Canadian Press).—Conditions of a startling character in some factories of the Province employing girls and women and covered by the regulations of the Minimum Wage Board have been brought to light through an investigation here. It has had the effect of securing for scores of girls the wages to which they were entitled under the regulations of the board. Such was the statement made by H. G. Foster, Labor member of the board, who said further: "One firm, not in Toronto, and whose name I will not mention, has sent its payrolls to the board since the investigation started with a statement saying it believed it had underpaid its girls to the extent of several thousands of dollars, and asked us to apportion the money among them."

The Chairman, Mr. Macmillan, said that the board had been breaking new ground, accumulating experience as it proceeded, and while some complaints had not been founded on fact there were others in which there had been something to base a complaint.

MRS. MAUD ROBINSON SCORED BY RECORDER

London Bookmaker's Wife Castigated by Old Bailey Judge.

LONDON, Feb. 5.— A scathing reflection upon the character of Mrs. Maud Robinson, one of the principals in the famous "Mr. A." case, was made here Tuesday by Sir Ernest Wild, Recorder of the Old Bailey criminal court, in his charge to the grand jury in the indictment proceedings against William Cooper Hobbs.

Hobbs is charged with conspiracy to defraud "Mr. A." otherwise Sir Hari Singh, an Indian potentate, in connection with cheques for £300,000 which he obtained from the latter as a result of his relations with Mrs. Robinson. Hobbs was indicted by the grand jury.

In his address to the jury, Sir Ernest said: "The £150,000 and £300,000 may appear to you, to have been a large sum for selling the virtue of Mrs. Robinson. Probably, if it were put into farthings, it would more approximately represent the value of the virtue."

U.F.O. RECOMMENDATIONS

Ask That Teachers Hold Convention in Holiday

TORONTO, Feb. 5. — (Canadian Press).—Included in a lengthy list of requests and recommendations placed before Premier Ferguson yesterday by the Legislative Committee of the U.F.O. was one asking that Ontario teachers hold their two-day convention during the holiday season and thus save the province $12,000 represented in salaries of the teaching staff, averaging $5 per day each. Other requests, summarized, are as follows:

Compensation for farmers for loss of sheep and lambs killed by dogs or wolves.

A higher bounty on wolves.

Compulsion upon lumber operators to clean up slash.

Inmates of penitentiaries to be given employment for the purpose of assisting their dependents.

Governmental instructions to the Provincial Hydro Commission to approach a flat rate for Hydro, and representation for farmers on the Hydro Commission.

FILM CENSORSHIP.

Miss Alice Miller Thinks Ontario's Standard is High.

TORONTO, Feb. 5.— (Canadian Press). — "You would never guess how many ways I know in which to kill people," said Miss Alice Miller, of the Chicago Board of Censorship on her way home after returning from a U.S. National gathering of Motion Picture censors. She found the Ontario standard high. Making a comparison by figures, the Chicago Board last year reviewed 2,700 films of which 21 were completely rejected as unfit, while in Ontario, of some 1,600 films, 44 were relegated to oblivion. Another interesting comparison notes that in Chicago there are very nearly as many movie theatres as in Ontario. The modern movie, Miss Miller regrets to find as a result of her studies, is not improving its standard.

CANADIAN CLUB NEEDS CAPITAL

Association in London Appoints Committee to Consider Financial Position.

NOT A NECESSITY

LONDON, Feb. 5. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—The Canadian club, whose building was opened 15 months ago by Premier Mackenzie King when he was in London attending the Imperial conference, is disturbed over its financial standing. The clubhouse adjoins Charing Cross, and is chiefly the child of the late F. C. Wade, agent-general for British Columbia. A good many wealthy Englishmen and Canadians have been enrolled as life members of the club at £50 a head.

Things have gone fairly well with the Canadian club so far by reason of these life membership contributions, but this captal is about exhausted and the executive feels that the club must now face the future squarely. Accordingly the executive has added three other well-known Anglo-Canadains to its number to look into the financial and general position of the organization.

The club was started despite the apprehension of several Canadians holding official or semi-official positions here as to the necessity of such an enterprise and they contended that visiting Canadians would likely avail themselves of the hospitality freely offered them by the existing London clubs in preference to the Canadian club.

LAUD CO-OPERATION OF U.S. AND CANADA

Association of Dominion Land Surveyors Continue Annual Session.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 5 (Canadian Press).—A tribute to the co-operative work between surveyors of the United States and Canada was paid at the 18th annual meeting continued today of the Association of Dominion Land Surveyors, by Major C. V. Hodgson, assistant chief of division of geodesy United States Coast and Geodetc Survey.

At the conclusion of a technical address on the development of precise traverse, Major Hodgson said: "The advantages accuring to both countries from co-operative work are immense, as we are demonstrating by working in unison with the Geodetic Survey of Canada in extending first order geodetic control along the international boundary. The good resulting from the exchange of ideas regarding surveying methods and instruments between the surveying organizations of the two countries is just as real, even though it may not be so exactly estimated in dollars and cents.

"We have already borrowed so many good ideas from Canada that we have become quite shameless about it ,and are brazenly looking for more.

"The spirit of friendly co-operation existing between the Geodetic Survey of Canada and the United States has been often praised, and even marvelled at, by representatives of the countries in the International Geodetic and Geophysical Union. Perhaps they also know how hard it is for us to keep up with the pace set by our friends north of the line. Our problems are very similar to yours; we think and talk in the same language, and I hope that opportunities for meeting each other will present themselves more frequently in the future."

MEIGHEN SHOWS TARIFF POLICY IN RESOLUTION

Immediate Revision of the Tariff Proposed in Notice of Motion.

WILL BE DEBATED

Apply to Farm Products, Fish, Coal and Manufactured Goods.

OTTAWA, Feb. 5. — (Canadian Press).—In a notice of motion submitted yesterday for inclusion in the order paper of Parliament, the leader of the official Opposition, Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, makes it evident that the Conservative bloc will maintain its traditional attitude to the tariff.

Immediate revision of the Canadian tariff on a protective basis to apply to natural products, such as farm produce, fish and coal, as well as to manufactured goods, is recommended in the motion, which will stand as a subject to be debated in Parliament. This motion indicates that the Conservative attitude to Imperial preference is that while it favors a system of preference within the Empire, no preference should be given at the expense of the Canadian worker and all preferences should be conditional on the use of Canadian ports. Equalization of transportation costs over the whole Dominion is recommended in the motion. Establishment of a tariff commission is also asked by the Conservatives.

The third party's policy is foreshadowed by its leader, Robert Forke, as being focussed for this session on freight rate reduction.

"We want lower freight rates and we want them provided by statute," he said in an interview. "We don't mind at all other sections of the Dominion doing the same thing—equalization is a good thing, but if the West is to be built up, proper facilities and reasonable rates of transportation are vital."

Speaking of the action now before the Supreme Court to test the right of the Railway Commission to set aside the Crow's Nest Pass agreement, Mr. Forke added that "the West will forego the Crow's Nest Pass schedule of rates only if it gets something just as good," made permanent by legislation.

NOTED GEOLOGIST HAS PASSED AWAY

Dr. W. G. Miller Did Much to Open Up Wealth of Ontario.

TORONTO, Feb. 5. — (Canadian Press).—Dr. W. G. Miller, geologist to the Ontario Government, died suddenly yesterday at his home here. A world celebrity in geological and mining circles, he was perhaps the one authority most intimately connected with the development of Ontario's north country into a treasure land of undreamed riches.

Death came suddenly from meningitis, following an illness of only five days. He was 58 years of age. Appointed Provincial geologist in 1902, Dr. Miller was closely identified with the development of the mineral resources of the province.

His name has become particularly linked with Cobalt Camp, because, following certain discoveries there, he was the first person to be sent out to report upon the district.

Dr. Miller was a Canadian by birth, and a native of Norfolk County. He was educated at Port Rowan High School and the University of Toronto, being graduated with first-class honors in natural science in 1890.

He took post graduate work in Chicago, Harvard and Heidelburg Universities.

DIED AT AGE OF 102.

One of Oldest Residents of Ontario Passed Away To-day.

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 5.—(Canadian Press).—One of the oldest residents of Ontario died here early to-day in the person of Sylvester Thrasher, at the remarkable age of 102 years. The late Mr. Thrasher was born in Quebec. The family came to the Bay of Quinte section when he was very young, and were farmers on a large scale.

OPENING TODAY OF PARLIAMENT STIRS CAPITAL

Ottawa Astir for Pomp And Ceremony, Attending Four Sessions First Day.

POLICY UNKNOWN

Senate Reform, Freight Rates and Amendments to Grain Act Important.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Awakening from the lethargy of more than half a year's recess, Canada's political capital today buzzed with preparations for the opening of the fourth session of the fourteenth Parliament since Confederation. The stage is set for the stately ceremonies which attend opening day. Official mankind and womankind are preparing for the full-dress gathering which greets the Governor-General when he comes to occupy the King's chair in the Upper House, and to read the Speech from the Throne which foreshadows the most important legislation to be submitted to the elected representatives of the people. Before the sun sets to-day the policy and programme of the Mackenzie King Government will be in the public prints.

Probable Policy.

What the Government's policy will be is not, of course, announced beforehand. Recent pronouncements of the Prime Minister indicate that Senate reform and freight rates will replace the tariff reductions which last session overshadowed everything else. Then there is an Act to amend the Grain Act, based on recommendations of the Turgeon Royal Commission which concluded last year its exhaustive investigation of the handling of Canada's principal crops. This measure is quite likely to prove contentious and prolong the deliberations of Parliament. It is even hinted in some quarters that it might prove the most difficult stumbling block the administration will encounter this session. The Turgeon report will not be made public until next Monday, and the nature of its recommendations, which may deal, amongst other things, with the vexed question of grain mixing, have not been disclosed.

Senate Reform.

The move designed to curtail the powers of the Senate will follow the course adopted in England in reference to the House of Lords but whether anything will come of it is problematical. The British Parliament would be required to legislate to give effect to the reform and a joint "address" of the Senate as well as the Commons is the essential condition precedent. The Senate is not likely to willingly submit to any sacrifice of its powers and in the fully anticipated event of a deadlock, the question of what next will or can be done will arise. The Government may attempt to make a political issue of the matter although in any attitude the Senate may take its own followers are likely to be concurrents.

UNIONISTS LEADING BY BIG MAJORITIES

In Canada and in Ontario Separately United Church is Strong.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 5. — (Special)—Taking into account all the congregations of the three uniting denominations the following table supplied by the Union Committee is interesting as showing the relative strength.

Presbyterian 4,399, Methodist 4,797, Congregational 163. Total 9,359. Congregations voted out 357.

Assuming that all the Methodist and Congregational congregations will enter union and adding in the 1,112 Presbyterian units that have voted in, the grand total of Unionist congregations thus arrived at is 6,272 Of course it is probable that hundreds of Presbyterian units if not thousands will go into Union automatically without balloting. Any churches that do not take a formal vote go in, in that way.

A summary of the Congregational Units in Ontario of the three uniting churches shows these figures. Presbyterian 1,278, Methodist 1,975, Congregational 60 Total 3,313.

Deducting from this total the 252 Ontario congregations that have voted out of union so far leaves a total of well over 3,000.

GIRL'S STORY OF DEATH BY GLASS MAY BE TRUE

Dauphin Doctor Who Attended Twins, Admits Possibility.

DAUPHIN, Man., Feb. 5.—Confronted with the confession of seven-year-old Alsa Thompson in which it is alleged she admitted having administered ground glass to her infant sisters, causing their death, Dr. Bottomley, the local physician who attended the children, yesterday admitted the possibility of the story being true.

The babies, according to Dr. Bottomley, died of pneumonia and stomach complications, "although stomach trouble was apparent. I firmly believe that death was caused by the pulmonary ailment." He added, however, that other causes might have sealed thier fate.

The investigation is being pursued by the Dauphin authorities, but the police do not believe that orders will be issued for the exhumation of the bodies.

Alsa astounded the Los Angeles police, early this week, by stating that she had been responsible for the death of her twin sisters. "I guess I did it because I am so mean," she is reported to have said.

BIG RAIL ORDER PLACED BY C.P.R.

300 Miles of New Rails for Renewals on Eastern Lines.

WITH TWO MILLS

MONTREAL, Feb. 5.—Orders for three hundred miles of new rails have just been placed by the Canadian Pacific Railway to take care of the renewals on Eastern lines for next season.

The Algoma Steel Corporation, Sault Ste. Marie, received an order for 280 miles of 100 pound rail together with necessary fastenings. This new steel will be used to complete the 100 pound double tracking between Fort William and Winnipeg and for the few miles still under 90 pound steel, between Three Rivers and Quebec.

Twenty miles of 85 pound steel has been ordered from the British Empire Steel Corporation for use on the Company's lines in the State of Maine. Lighter rails released will be retained for use in whatever branch line construction may be decided upon later.

Clerk In City Office Puts Prisoner In Cell

A prisoner at the police station this morning who was receiving a great deal of attention was a woebegone Pomeranian doggie that had once been white. His fluffy coat was a "pale" black and under the collar whose brass ring held no identifying pendant tag, were bunches of stiff, uncomfortable burrs. Breathing with difficulty, his dark brown eyes dimmed with cold, he leaned up against the cell wall, spiritless and weary, or limped with difficulty in a small radius, one of his paws lamed by a long gash that extended from shoulder to heel.

One of the young ladies in the city clerk's office had found him, almost frozen, in a snow drift outside the station and brought him in to find harborage in one of the cells, where a friendly veterinary stitched up the wound in his shoulder. He wasn't hungry—just sick and tired and dirty; rubbing his head dejectedly back and forth on a friendly hand. A trip to the incinerator and a quick death might have marked the period of a once valuable dog's career, if Fate hadn't intervened. At last accounts, he had been promised a good bath and a temporary refuge.

Anyone wishing to adopt a really nice Pomeranian dog couldn't do better than bid for this stray canine.

BROTHER OF ORPHANAGE FACES CHARGE OF SLAYING YOUNG BOY

COLLINS LIVES LIVING DEATH BEHIND ROCKS

Man Who Endured Four Days' Torture and Was Near Relief, is Feared Lost.

SOLID FLOOR ROSE.

Passage to Unfortunate Explorer is Sealed—Rescuers Still Try.

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 5 (Canadian Press).—Floyd Collins is still alive, but he has been permanetly entombed in his sand cave prison 125 feet underground by a rise in the floor of the cave, and all hopes of escape through any natural passage have been abandoned. Four trips into the cave have convinced geologists, coal miners, and military authorities in charge of the work that their only chance to reach Collins is by sinking a shaft from the top of the hill and endeavoring to tunnel to the imprisoned man. Any attempt to mine into the cave, it is agreed, will be fatal to Collins, but the plan has been adopted as a last resort.

The third trip into the cave this morning revealed that the slow rising had continued and when the miners emerged after their fourth underground visit they reported that the passageway had been completely sealed. There had been no more rockfalls or cave-ins, it was stated.

Lifts Solid Rock.

The swelling apparently had lifted the solid rock from the floor to the roof of the cavern. Inasmuch as a considerable portion of the cave leading from the entrance toward the prisoner still remains undisturbed, the belief was expressed that Collins is still alive, although there is a possibility that the closing of the passageway may have crushed him. The movement took place just beyond that part of the cavern which had been timbered by rescurers. John Gerald, who led the last rescue party into the hole said Collins spoke to him from behind the new made wall. He also said that loose rock had fallen on part of Collins body. Just how serious this last fall was, the men could only guess. The general feeling of those around the cavern was that he had perished. Others, however, refused to give up hope.

WOMEN ASK TO BE ON LEVEL OF MEN

U. S. Women's Party Seek Abolition of Protective Legislation.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5. — The oldest tradition of the human race —that the man is the head of the family— was assaulted by women before Congress yesterday.

In the first Congressional hearing on the subject since the first "women's bill of rights" was drawn up in 1848, delegates from 20 States asked the House Judiciary Committee for a favorable report on the equal rights amendment to the Constitution which would remove all legal discrimination between man and woman.

The old common law attitude toward women must be thrown out and the principle of equality substituted. Maud Younger, legislative chairman of the National Woman's party, sponsoring the move, said:

Mrs. Mary Murray, New York subway ticket agent, testified that the "protective" laws of that State prohibiting night-work for women—one of the discriminations complained of—kept her from caring for her children until the Legislature exempted her branch of the industry.

"Protective legislation deprives women of a chance to compete for a living on equal terms with men," Mrs. Murray said. "Protective legislation has thrown thousands of women out of work—widows with dependents, women with invalid husbands, sons or daughters and women who acquired good-for-nothing husbands and were forced to become bread-winners.

"If women do not work they must starve, accept charity or live on prostitution. A woman is not a weakling; she doesn't want protective legislation; all she wants is an even chance."

"It doesn't make any difference whether you men approve or reject this measure," Mabel Vernon, executive secretary of the Woman's party, told the committee. "It is inevitable that this principle be accepted. It is just as inevitable as woman suffrage was."

Eight-Year-Old Boy Died of Burns—Held in a Hot Bath.

NO BAIL GIVEN

Brutally Punished Boy For Results of Intestinal Weakness—Coroner's Enquiry.

MONTREAL, Feb. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Rene Francois D. Vleeschouwer, known as Brother Usmar, of the Huberdeau Orphanage, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Hector Galarneau, the eight-year-old boy who was scalded at the orphanage on January 21 and who died a few days later, was unable late yesterday afternoon to furnish the $5,000 bail demanded by the court and was taken to Bordeaux Jail.

Throughout the charge to the jury by Coroner McMahon and the interval while the jury was out, Brother Usnar sobbed violently, burying his face in his handkerchief. When the unanimous verdict of manslaughter was read, he stumbled to the front of the court and clutched the rail of the witness box, holding on with all the strength he could summon up in order not to fall. He was taken in charge by Provincial Chief of Detectives D. D. Lorrain and was conducted to the courthouse, where he was placed under arrest. The grand jury are being held to deal with the case for the present assizes.

Evidence given by Dr. Derome has that the boy had been held in the boiling water for some instants as not only was the skin scalded but the flesh underneath had begun to cook.

Three boys brought from the institution declared that they and others had been ordered by Brother Usmar to sit upon Galarneau and beat him the morning of the scalding, until his face was covered with blood, while another boy declared he had seen Brother Usmar kick Kalarneau on the way to the laundry where the scalding took place and that Brother Usmar had also kept the boy kneeling on the floor during meal times and getting nothing to eat or kept him continually walking about so that he could not play. Mrs. Galarneau declared her boy was perfectly conscious when he told her about the scalding and that no reports had been made from the school during the past year about the boy's intestinal weakness causing trouble or punishment. If he was given attention there were no disagreeable consequences.

Mrs. Galarneau, mother of the victim, stated that she knew that her boy Hector suffered from an intestinal weakness before he went to the institution. It only affected him badly about once a fortnight, and provided he was able to get quick attention there were never any disagreeable consequences. The boy had been at Huberdeau for one year and three months. During the time immediately preceding his departure for Huberdeau the boy had been kept at home from class and there had never been any difficulty as regards this weakness. Sometimes, when attending school, and having to go some distance to get the necessary attention, disagreeable consequences had taken place.

She had never been informed by the authorities at Huberdeau that this weakness of the boy's was causing him or them any trouble. He always had satisfactory reports.

Timothy ate his meals in the kitchen. He was a respectful creature, although he came from New York. He always said "sir" and "ma'am," until Sally was in fidgets over his deferential speech. He had a mild glance that followed her wherever she went, which the Wreck observed, and, of course, mistook. So he formed a dislike for Timothy, who did not exactly cringe under his obvious displeasure, but who met it with a patient submission that was worse than defiance. There was no harm in Timothy; he merely lied through force of higher example.

But most annoying of all the people at the ranch, so far as the Wreck was concerned, was Chester Underwood. Chester, having discovered Sally on horseback, was rediscovering her in the kitchen. He kept drifting in and out, on pretexts, and sometimes he sat down and watched her as she worked with her sleeves rolled up on brown arms. To Chester the Wreck was merely a person who washed dishes, waited on table, and fell off horses—quite uninteresting and not a claimant for notice.

The washer of dishes found himself growing surly, without knowing why. The able-bodied heir of Jerome Underwood was not worth bothering about, so long as he stuck to his own business and did not annoy the Wreck. He could talk to Sally, if he chose, and if Sally chose to talk to him, which it seemed that she did.

Sally was growing restive. The labor of cooking for a large household did not dismay her, although it was not exactly recreation. She wanted to be moving again, although the time and the means had not presented themselves. But no matter how necessary it might be to remain in hiding, it was also irksome. Being young, she did not have the patience that comes with years.

Anything that broke the routine however, was welcome, even an invitation from Chester for a ride over the hills. She went, and there were just two in the party. Nobody had invited the Wreck, and as it was not Sally's party, he could not fairly expect it. She did not believe that he cared to go, anyhow, for he hated horses. As she and Chester rode off he stood leaning against the frame of the kitchen door glowering at them. It would not have been a good time for anybody to offer him pleasantries.

He felt unaccountable lonesome as Sally's horse disappeared over a rise. All the way from Pittsburg to the Bar-M he never suffered from lonesomeness, although there were days when he scarcely exchanged a word with anybody. But now it seemed that the world conspired to isolate him, and he resented the conspiracy. He had an uncomfortable sense of being deserted as she rode away.

He went back into the kitchen after a while, where Timothy sat in a corner reading a magazine. There were some dishes that belonged in the pantry, and the Wreck started thither with them. His foot tripped against a chair leg, and two of the dishes slid off the top of the pile and splintered on the floor The Wreck stood scowling at them until he heard a snicker from the corner. Timothy was grinning with good-natured amusement.

"Huh?" demanded the Wreck

"Come out of your wages, I guess," observed Timothy. "I bet you must bust quite a lot."

The Wreck placed the remainder of the dishes on the table and selected the top one.

"I'm going to bust more,' he said.

As Timothy dodged the dish he uttered a yell of surprise It hit the wall just behind his chair. A second one was not so well aimed, for it went through a window. But Timothy did not wait for any improvement in the marksmanship. He bolted for the door, which he reached while the fourth dish was in the air. It crashed against the jamb and most of the pieces fell outside.

The Wreck surveyed the marks of his achievement, shrugged his shoulders, lifted the pile of dishes from the table, and resumed his journey to the pantry.

"Damn that Underwood pup," he said.

Timothy had not personally figured in the matter at all, so far as the Wreck was concerned. He was merely a symbol.

Late in the afternoon the Wreck went for a walk. His impulse was to take the trail that led back into the hills; it was in that direction Sally and Chester had ridden. But he sternly compelled himself to follow the wheel tracks that went toward the main road. Let her stay out riding as long as she liked; it was no affair of his.

He did not pay much attention to the trail. His mind was concentrated on the problem of where Charley McSween had hidden the wheel of the flivver. In odd hours he had been searching furtively, but without the least satisfactory result. The flivver was locked in a shed, into which he could have easily broken; but he knew that it was useless to search there. Charley would not have made things quite so simple as that. The wheel was somewhere else, and it would be time enough to break into the shed when he located it. Several times he considered the advisability of trying to thrash the truth out of Charley, but Sally always vetoed the project. She had respect for his prowess, but she was by no means sure that he could whip everybody on the ranch. Even if he did, there was no certainty that Charley would tell.

He was still walking slowly, his eyes staring at the ground, when a drumming sound caught his ears. Instinctively, he paused to listen. Horses. They were coming nearer, too. Probably Sally and Chester had been circling around through the hills, he thought. Well, if that was the case, he had no desire to meet them. He did not want Sally to get the notion in her head that he was eavesdropping or that he had the least interest in anything that she did. So he stepped off the trail.

There were clumps of young spruce on every hand, and he moved around behind one of them, where he could not be readily seen. The hoof-beats continued to grow louder, and the Wreck, crouching, peered through his screen for a view of the trail.

Only one horse, after all, he decided a few seconds later, but it was moving briskly. Then, around a turn in the trail, it appeared. It was a big, black animal, with a long stride, and the man who rode it was also big. A rifle in a holster hung suspended from the saddle. The Wreck, staring curiously, also had time to note that there were two guns at the belt of the rider. Then the black horse drummed on, out of sight.

"Doggone!" said the Wreck aloud, as he stepped from behind his spruce shelter and stared down the trail.

The rider was Bob Wells, the sheriff.

Not long did the Wreck stand in dismayed consideration of his discovery. He clenched his fists and set off at a dog trot toward the ranch house in the wake of the black horse.

The obvious thing to do was to get back to the house as rapidly as possible, and he was doing it. There was Sally to be warned, if ever he got there in time. He groaned as he thought of Sally suddenly confronted by the sheriff.

DRUGS EXCITE THE KIDNEYS, DRINK WATER

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache.

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

False pride has one virtue. It may force you to do something of which you can be proud.

Success has a habit of coming around while you are busy.

INTERESTING BABY BOOK

Undoubtedly the most interesting reading for the young mother is that which deals with the care and feeding of babies, particularly if the subject is treated in simple language for all to understand clearly. We have just received a booklet, "Baby Welfare," which is one of the most interesting and instructive we have seen in a long time. It has chapters on pre-natal care, Feeding of Baby, Bottle Feeding Supplementing Breast Feeding, Diet After First Year, Food Formulas, Sleep, Fresh Air, Exercise, Bathing, Clothing, Baby's Weight and Measurements, with sundry hints as to safeguarding ailments. There is also a page devoted to baby's health against common ailments. There is also a page devoted to Baby's Biography, which should be an interesting record of the little one's activities when it is filled in, and a Weekly Record for Baby's Weight and Height, which the mother can fill in. In the introduction the publishers say that they have purposely omitted suggestions pertaining to medical treatment, knowing that such information should properly come from the family physician when such advice is needed. Mothers desiring a copy of one, free, by writing to The Baby Welfare Department of the Borden Company Limited, 180 St. Paul Street West, Montreal, mentioning this paper.

LANTERN LECTURE ON THE FAR NORTH

Campbellford Visited by Missionary From Mackenzie River.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 5.—Rev Mr. Cristall of Fort McPherson, in McKenzie River delta, inside the Arctic Circle and 2,000 miles north of Edmonton, preached in Christ Church on Sunday morning and addressed the Sunday School in the afternoon.

He then went to Hastings to preach at night returning to Campbellford, on Monday, where he gave a lantern lecture in the Parish Hall.

The hall was packed to listen to this excellent address, with slides showing pictures of scenes through which he passed going and coming from the far north. Mr. Cristall is one of the missionaries of the Anglican Church.

The people he preaches among are Indians of the Louchoux Tribe. Then next to them are the Esquimaux. Upon certain times of the year they have twenty-four hours of Sun shine and again twenty-four hours of darkness and they have only three months of summer.

They have but two mails a year one in winter and one in summer. The winter mail is only letters which are brought in by dog sleighs In summer they have also parcels and papers. The biggest hardship and drawback is the isolation.

The Indians remain in the settlement for only two months of the year, when they all, men woman and children move up north for hunting and trapping. And the missionary follows with them wherever they go. In travelling together there, one goes by rail for 300 miles to Fort McMurray and by boat up the McKenzie River. His next door neighbour is 700 miles away and is at Fort Simpson, where a brother of Rev. G. C. Clarke (Rector of Christ Church in Campbellford) is the missionary.

These Indians under Mr. Cristall's care are all christianized and quite civilized. They have sewing machines, motor boats and canoes which came from Peterboro, Ontario

Mr. Cristall had an exhibit of the furs he wore in the far north also mitts and leggings, in the window of J. B. Ferris' store on Saturday and over till Monday night. There were also articles of bead work made and worn by the Indians. The coldest weather he experienced was 58 below zero. The nearest doctor is about 600 miles away. They have the Bible, Anglican Church prayer book, hymn book and a book of family prayer translated by Archdeacon Mc Donald in their Indian language. These were translated about 50 years ago. Mr. Cristall has 4 native catechists who assist him and if he happens to be away will take charge of his service for him. Besides attending other services everybody attends Sunday School.

The parents learn all the children have to learn so that they can teach the children hymns and motion songs and to read the Bible.

Mr. Cristall sang several hymns that had been translated in their language. Before the Indians were Christians the old people as soon as they could not support themselves they were allowed to die, as was also surplus babies. But after they became Christians all this was altered The children were very highly thought of and loved and the old people were respected and well look ed after. As soon as the Indians become incapable of support they receive rations from the government, flour, fat, tea and tobacco. Mr. Cristall supplies extras himself from the bales sent out by various chapters of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Anglican Church. The only other church in that region is the Roman Catholic Church. The two bodies work very often in union. The Romanists have several hospitals up in that part of the country.

The children whose parents wish them to be educated, are sent to Christian schools at Hay River Mission about 900 miles south where they stay from 5 to 7 years.

One can very readily pick out the children from among them all, who have been away to these schools, by their cleanliness, dress and mode of living. Every one was sorry when Mr. Cristall's instructive and interesting from beginning to end. Mr. Cristall is a native of England and a Londoner. His father is a minister at St. Boniface. Mrs. Cristall is in Toronto, while he is away on his lecture tours. They were married some years ago away up in the North, she coming out from England going up there to him to be married. His father also visited him in their northern home. The children of Christ church were also very much interested in Mr. Cristall's address.

PROTEST QUOTA ON CANADIANS

Trades and Labor Council Passes Resolution—Would License Barbers.

REGULAR MEETING.

The regular meeting of the Trades and Labor Council was held in the Labor Hall, George Street, last evening, with a large number of delegates in attendance, Vice-President Trussler presiding in the absence of President McMurray.

Credentials were received for a number of new delegates. A communication from the Toronto Building Trades Council requested the Trades Council to endorse a protest against the proposed legislation in the United States to place the Canadian-born under quota law for entering that country. It was felt that if this legislation went through it would work a hardship on a large number of trade union card-holders, who were, by the fact of their being trade unionists, desirable citizens, and who would not desire to cross the border, unless there was an opportunity for them to work at their trade or calling. The request was complied with.

The American Federation of Labor wrote announcing the members of the committee who were looking after the raising of a memorial fund for their late esteemed and beloved president, Samuel Gompers.

Bro. H. Gainey moved a resolution, which was duly seconded, that this Council endorse a bill coming before the Legislature this session, proposing the licensing of barbers in Ontario. This proposed bill has already received the endorsation of the Trades Congress of Canada and the Barbers' Federation of Ontario. The resolution was carried.

The meeting adjourned at 9.10, to meet again on Wednesday, February 18, when a full attendance of delegates is requested.

DEBATERS ARGUE USE OF MOVIES

Young People's League at Millbrook Has Interesting Meeting.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 5. — The Young People's League had an unusually interesting programme on Monday evening, under the auspices of the citizenship department, F. H. Alcorn, 5th Vice-President, being in the chair.

Miss Estelle Hetherington conducted a review of the main facts in connection with the beginnings of Methodism on this Continent, using the question and answer method. The league has been studying this subject for some weeks past and the young people have found the time spent each week both educative and interesting.

The item of chief interest was a debate, "Resolved that the movies do more harm than good." Miss Hattie Barnard and Mr. Alcorn took the negative, J. Larmer and G. Elson arguing for the affirmative. The debate was entered into with enthusiasm and keen interest on the part of the listeners was manifested throughout.

The judges were Misses B. Montgomery, L. Luxon and P. Burnham.

The negative won by two points, the score being 16-14.

A series of debates throughout the Peterborough District Leagues has been arranged for, to last until the conference convention next fall when the silver cup, which has been put up for competition, will be presented to the winners.

Millbrook has already won from the leagues of Peterborough by default, the latter organizations refusing to take part in the contest. The leagues of the Cobourg district are taking their share in the competition, and Millbrook will have to take its turn against one or more of these in the near future.

At the recent district convention Miss H. Barnard and Mr. Alcorn were appointed to represent the local league in the series.

Ladies' Society.

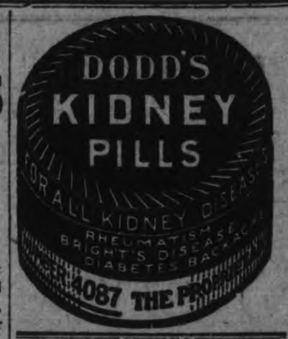
The Ladies' Society of the Methodist Church held its February meeting on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. S. Burnham, Mrs. J. McKnight taking the chair in the absence of the President, Miss Needham, who has been spending the past month in Toronto.

After the opening devotional period, items of business were discussed and a committee appointed to wait upon the Trustee Board of the church relative to some improvements the aid has in view.

A solo by Mrs. G. W. Sayles and a reading, "No Sects in Heaven," by Mrs. A. J. Brown, were much enjoyed.

The amount of sickness in the village and the unfavorable state of the roads lessened the attendance to a considerable degree.

The usual social time was pleasantly spent at the close of the business session.



WEDDING BELLS.

CONDON—O'BRIEN.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Joseph's Church, Douro, on Wednesday, January the seventh, when Bridgie, third daughter of Mrs. Bridget O'Brien, became the bride of John Francis, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Condon, also of Douro.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. M. J. McGuire.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret O'Brien, R.N., while Patrick M. Condon supported the groom.

The grooms' gift to the bride was a rope of pearls, to the bridesmaid a gold bar pin with diamond setting, to the best man a pair of gold cuff links.

After the ceremony the happy couple motored to the home of the brides' mother, where a dainty wedding breakfast was partaken of by about twenty-five of the immediate friends and relatives of the contracting parties.

Later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Condon left on the 3.12 train for Toronto, Niagara and other points. Since their return they are residing on their new farm home, near Warsaw.

BOLAND—ENGLISH

One of the most popular weddings of the season was held in St. Paul's Church, Norwood on Tuesday, Feb. 3rd., when Marie daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Boland was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Joseph J. English son of Mr. and Mrs. John English of Asphodel.

The mass was celebrated by Rev. Father McCarthy.

The bride who was given away by her father looked charming in Copen Blue brocaded cut velvet, a fur coat the gift of her father. She wore blue brocaded shoes and hat to match and carried American beauty roses.

The bridesmaid Miss Marie English, sister of the groom looked very pretty in brown crepe charmeuse satin. She also wore a fur coat, brown satin shoes and hat.

Mr. John Boland brother of the bride ably assisted the groom.

After the ceremony a well appointed wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. About sixty-five guests were present, including the groom's grand father, who is over eighty years of age, Mr. J. Lynch of Hastings.

The home was very prettily decorated with white bells and streamers the tables with roses and carnations.

The groom's gift to the bride was a white gold wrist watch the bridesmaid a gold bar pin with pearl settings. To the groomsman cuff links.

The presents to the young couple were numerous and costly showing the high esteem in which they are held by their many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. English left on the afternoon train mid showers of confetti on a short trip to Toronto and other points, the bride travelling in black velvet. Upon their return they will reside in Asphodel.

ELEVEN DOLLARS FOR 400 NAMES

Autograph Quilt Brought Total of $60 to Roseneath Society.

On Friday night the local C.G.I.T. group held their concert in the town hall, when they realized over sixty dollars. They would undoubtedly have had a much larger crowd but that the heavy snow storms made the roads almost impassable.

The girls deserve great credit for the splendid manner in which they staged their three-act drama "A Southern Cinderella" under the leadership of Mrs. Andrew Brown.

They have been invited to repeat their programme in Keene on Friday night February 6th under the auspices of the L.O.B.A.

Mr. S. A. Tucker acted as chairman for the evening, in his own agreeable manner.

During the intermission between the first and second acts, Mr. Wilfrid Davey sang, "How Do You Do," and Miss Hildred Taylor gave the monologue, "I'm Engaged." This proved to be a very humorous sketch.

Then, between the second and third acts, Mr. Davey again delighted the audience with "Fallow the Swallow,' and on being encored sang "The Kind of a Girl that Men Forget." On both occasions he was accompanied by Miss Vera Varcoe, who also provided the music during the play.

Miss Bernice Brown, although quite a young elocutionist, always receives the very best attention, as she did on this occasion, when she gave "Speak Up Ike and 'Spress Yourself." As an encore she gave "All Exceptin'."

The cast of characters for the play were as follows:

Catharine Hawk, Miss Irene Brown; Caroline Hawk, Miss Bertha A. Clark; Miss Winterbury, Miss Carrie Shannon; Miss Johnie Bell, Miss Laura Sherwin; Mrs. Charteris, Miss Elva Sherwin; Miss Enid Charteris, Miss Mary Braithwaite; Old Colored Mammy, Miss Hildred Taylor.

At the conclusion of the play Mr. W. J. Jibb, the local auctioneer sold the autograph quilt of over four hundred names to Mr. Ezra Sherwin for the sum of eleven dollars. This quilt had already made them about fifty dollars from the sale of the names.

Personals.

Mr. Lewis Roberts, who has been very ill with pneumonia at the home of Mr. Cephos Harper was tapped by Dr. Hayden of Cobourg and Dr. Armstrong of Rosneath on Sunday but without much success. He is still in a very serious condition. During Mr. Roberts illness, Mr. H. Darling of Dartford is supplying at the Montgomery School.

The weather has been very cold and stormy and the roads are in a bad condition.

Mr. Charles Grigg shipped three head of fat cattle on Monday.

A number of farmers are drawing their grain to Hastings and realizing great prices. Fall wheat has sold as high as $1.81 a bushel with rye $1.50 and buckwheat 94 cents.

Butter and eggs are selling at 30 cents and 50 cents respectively in the local stores.

Union services were held in the Methodist Church on Sunday afternoon. Rev. McCord, Presbyterian minister, officiating.

Rev. J. N. Lovelace, Methodist minister, is recovering slowly after his recent illness.

Miss Mary Elder was taken suddenly ill at Mr. Earl Shearer's on Friday night, when he entertained the young people to a dance. She was unable to be moved to her home and is still under the doctor's care.

ART STUDY CLUB STUDIES MILLET

Mrs. F. A. Hodgson Gave Paper on Tuesday Evening.

A very well attended meeting of the Art Study Club was held on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. J. John, Simcoe Street, when the members listened with interest to a paper on "Millet," given by Mrs. F. A. Hodgson.

Jean Francois Millet (named Jean after his father, and Francois for St. Francis of Assisi) was born on October 4th, 1814, in the village of Gruchy, in the Commune of Greville, Normandy, France. The natural religion and poetry which surrounded him during his early years in his home had much to do with his later desire to express himself in artistic ways. In his early youth, he labored in the fields, and drew most of his education from the library of his home. He was an ardent reader of the Bible, of the Lives of the Saints, and of Vergil, and a great lover of the Scotch poet, Robert Burns.

When quite a young man, he went to Cherbourg, where his execution of a couple of drawings which were submitted to the artist Monchel decided his future avocation. Later, he studied in Cherbourg in the studio of Langlois, at whose request the municipal council of the place paid Millet an annuity of four hundred francs towards his education Out of their modest budget his mother and grandmother supplemented this sum, and he started for Paris with six hundred francs in his pocket in the winter of 1837.

In Paris, he studied under Delaroche, and took some time deciding between the genre and historical styles in pointing. Then he finally turned almost exclusively to depicting scenes of country life. Struggling with poverty, he was obliged to carry out orders for signs for mountebanks, and was treated with scant courtesy. He married at an early age, lost his wife shortly afterwards, and married again in 1845. He was the father of nine children.

He lived in Paris until 1848, when the revolutionary outbreak and the cholera epidemic simultaneously drove him, with others, from the city. He then, at the age of thirty-five, settled at Barbizon, a hamlet on the borders of Fontainebleau Forest, and later became known as one of the Barbizon school of painters. Theodore Rosseau was one of his near neighbors and friends. Millet then turned his brush to the delineation of the things of the earth and the life of the rustic, becoming known as the painter of peasant life. In the next few years, he painted such immortal masterpieces as The Sower, The Haymakers, The Gleaners and the Angelus. He was at first regarded as a demogogue and revolutionary for daring to portray the lives of humble toilers, those who, in their occupations, fulfilled the Divine Command "In the sweat of thy brow shalt thou eat thy bread," but later his extraordinary personality made itself felt, and the public began to appreciate him at his true worth.

In 1868 Millet was made a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, and other honors were bestowed upon him. The death of Rosseau about this time helped to undermine a constitution already sapped of its vitality by hard work and privation, and he gradually ceased to paint. His last pictures painted in 1870-1873, were "The Tragic November," "The Church of Greville," and "The Incomparable Spring,' all landscapes without figures. He died on January 20th, 1875, at Barbizon, at the age of sixty years and four months, just a few months before Corot died in Paris, and was buried at Chantilly. Of Millet, it has been said that no painter has done more than he to make his spectators "feel the grandeur of man's mission on earth," grandeur of mans mission on earth," or has shown us "how the trivial can be made to serve in the expression of the sublime." The only painters who can be compared to him are Charles Jacque and Rosa Bonheur.

The next meeting of the Art Study Club will be held on February 17th, at the home of Mrs. R. J. Kidd, Hunter Street, when Miss Beatty will give a paper on "Great Women Painters."

COURAGE.

Courage! What if the snows are deep
And what if the hills are long and steep,
And the days are short and the nights are long,
And the good are weak and the bad are strong.
Courage! The snow is a field of play,
And the longest hill has a well-worn way,
There are songs that shorten the longest night,
There's a day when wrong shall be ruled by right,
So courage! Courage! 'Tis never so far
From a plodded path to a shining star.

PAYING PRISONERS.

The Social Service Council's suggestion that regular wages should be paid to prisoners during their jail terms, the earning to be given single prisoners on their release, and used to support the dependents of married prisoners, is not meeting with popular support.

And little wonder.

Jail sentences are supposed to be imposed for the punishment of the offender and for the warning given to others.

But what would become of the warning and the punishment if this scheme of providing wages for prisoners were to be put into practice?

Already the penitentiaries are providing what amounts to vocational training for their prisoners.

Add to that training the opportunity to earn wages to be saved until the sentence is completed and a penitentiary term would be regarded by a certain type of citizen as something to be sought rather than avoided.

Of course, good citizens, no matter how financially distressed they might be, would not be tempted, but penitentiaries are not maintained to take care of good citizens.

They are for the punishment of men who are not good, and it is not an easy matter to see how the providing of wages for prisoners would add much to the deterrent effect of these institutions.

THE HOCKEY FAN.

The London Advertiser, in an article on the attitude of hockey fans toward the home team and visiting players, points out that there remains a big gap between cheering for a team only when it is winning and good sportsmanship.

That is undoubtedly true, and the statement can be applied to local conditions.

Peterborough has more than its share of people who can only grow enthusiastic over the home players when victory is perching on their banners, and who are quite ready to change if the fortunes of the game happen to leave their favourites in the rear.

Making all due allowances for the desire of the fan to see his home team always win, it is nevertheless difficult to understand how it is possible for such a quick transformation to occur as has been noticed in several of the local games when adverse criticism took the place of enthusiastic support as soon as the visitors flashed in the lead.

It seems almost impossible to get the average fan to understand that this attitude often helps to bring about he finish they dread—in other words, that the quickness with which the supporters desert their favourites, often well before the end of the game, has often been a very material factor in the defeat that ultimately was sustained.

Real sporting fans who stick through all the phases of victory or defeat are few and far between.

Anybody can cheer for a team when it is winning.

THE HANDBOOK EVIL.

The indictment of the handbook evil by Judge Gauld of Hamilton in sentencing a young operator convicted of the theft of $31,780 from a bank, the amount involved being the sum stolen by a branch bank manager and lost in wagers placed with the bookmaker, will draw public attention to this menace.

Much is heard of the evils of race-track gambling, but the handbook method of betting is a much more serious proposition because it offers so much greater facilities.

The race-track bettor only has a few days' opportunities each year; the handbook gambler can wager on horse races every day of the year almost, and the total that changes hands in this illegal wagering must be enormous.

In the Hamilton case the bank manager had lost to a single operator over $30,000 in less than a year, and it is claimed that the bookmaker he dealt with was one of the smaller fry, that there are others in the city whose business is much more extensive.

A Hamilton contemporary remarks that it is said to be possible to make a bet of 25 cents or $25,000 in Hamilton on any horse race in the world.

There might not be a bookmaker who would actually hold a wager of $25,000, but there are many who would accept such a bet and divide it among other operators either in the city or elsewhere.

That is what is known as "lay-off" money, and so extensive is the system that thousands of dollars bet by clients with handbookers are wired to agents at the tracks to be bet in the machines for the sole purpose of keeping the odds low.

The betting public's own money is thus used to protect the bookmaker against loss.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE.

If there was some inexhaustible treasure trove buried at Ottawa into which the Government might plunge to dig up the funds necessary to finance the thing, the Examiner, like everybody else, would throw up its hands to cheer for unemployment insurance.

But there is no mysterious source of revenue in existence—the Federal administration can get the money it spends from only one channel, the people of Canada.

To provide the insurance against unemployment that the Trades and Labour Council is urging would require a large sum of money, and that would mean more taxation.

And more taxation would mean in turn a further crippling of industry and more unemployment.

Canada's economic condition is such as to make any serious thought of unemployment insurance impossible.

After all, there is only one real insurance against insurance anyway, and that is thrift.

The man who during prosperous times, when wages are good and work is plentiful, makes some provision for the days of depression that his experience teaches him are sure to come, is rarely found in the bread-line.

He may be without employment for a while, but his reserve carries him through.

The advocates of Government insurance would like to make it possible for the improvident to spend their money as freely as possible and then tax the thrifty to take care of the spendthrifts when dark days come.

MANUFACTURING EXCUSES.

When politicians become interested in doing things and equally when they become interested in not doing things, however much their action or inaction may be for the country's welfare, they cudgel their brains to formulate excuses, says the Montreal Star.

When the agents of American manufacturers came to Ottawa to persuade the politicians against an embargo on the export of pulpwood the politicians hit upon the plausible excuse that an embargo would deprive the farmers of a market for their wood. Now this excuse is no longer even plausible, because the paper manufacturers of Canada have come forward and have offered to provide that very market by buying the farmers' stores. This action would help to save our forests, but it is almost a foregone conclusion that some other excuse will now be trumped up. Like many other nationals, the average Canadian is concerned almost entirely with what touches his pocket. As for the conservation of our forests and the maintenance of the great forest industries, their preservation is not as much to the average Canadian as the price of a ticket to a cheap movie show. The politicians know this, hence their readiness for any sacrifice of the country's interests, if by that sacrifice they can help party organization. We believe Premier King was impressed, and may be is still impressed, with the argument in favor of an embargo, but certain influences have restrained him.

Our pulpwood will go like our magnificent pine, which is practically a thing of the past. Early settlers made barns, scaffolds and pig-styes of our beautiful, clear pine when cheaper hemlock would have answered every purpose. They ignored every plea for conserving the pine, and now the pine is gone. The sweeping away of our pulpwood will ultimately leave our paper mills without an occupation. They will become piles of rotting wood, crumbling bricks and masses of rusted machinery.

When these things happen citizens will realize that they occurred because our politicians were not honest and the people were indifferent.

WAYWARD YOUTH.

The report of Judge McKinley, that juvenile crime of a serious nature would appear to be decreasing in this community, is reassuring. That it is assuming smaller proportions does not, however, for a moment dispose of the fact that it is still a grave problem. Modern methods of dealing with such cases have been vindicated by results; but the matter will continue to challenge the sagacity of judges and officers in charge of special aspects of the work. We are fortunate in having in this service men and women of good judgment and tact.

A disturbing feature of the record is the number of girls who become wayward. On both sides of the line judges and police officers are perplexed by growing dishonesty and immorality. Judge Charles W. Boote, who has had long experience in one of the most important courts of New York City, has recently made public a review of delinquency among girls he identifies as being:

"First, improper home atmosphere; second, no religious training; third, automobile riding; fourth, love of luxury; fifth, liquor; sixth, movies of wrong type; seventh, sex modesty; eighth, boys with too much money; ninth, immodest dancing; tenth, trashy novels."

Very appropriately, he places home influences in first place. They rise high above all other factors. The daughters of good fathers and good mothers seldom go wrong, for the sufficient reason that they have a sound and enduring moral foundation. "As the twig is bent etc.," is still a truthful and meaning ful axiom. There is another ancient adage about the spared rod (not necessarily corporal punishment) and the spoiled child which has apparently been forgotten in these days when old-fashioned parental control is purely an incidental feature of domestic life.

Modern social conditions are exacting their penalties. Boys and girls slip from the straight and narrow poth much more readily to-day than they did when distractions were fewer and perhaps less demoralizing. Judge Boote is in a position to speak authoritatively about, the pernicious influences of indiscriminate automobile riding, liquor, movies of the wrong type, immodest dancing, appeals to sex-consciousness and so on; yet what he says in that regard has its application in degree to conditions in all our cities.

"Never has the youth of Ottawa had so many temptations to combat, and never have they had so many helpful agencies to assist them along the path of life" is the testimony of Judge McKinley. In such a view of the situation, discouragement battles against hope. From his advantageous position he watches the daily struggle with mingled feelings, and must at times be depressed by the triumph of evil over good. Both corrective and protective measures, he must often realize do not reach the great outstanding causes of juvenile sin—the home, and the environment of boys and girls during their hours of leisure. Society at large must share the responsiblities of the courts and their officers in solving this distressing problem.

Judge Boote does not share the fears of some timid people with respect to several of our recent social habits. He sees more harm in joy riding than the smoking of cigarettes, but does not say anything about the combination of both. To quote his own words: "I do not think the modern style of dress has harmed girls at all, nor do I thing bobbing of the hair or the smoking of cigarettes has anything to do with making girls wayward." Of course not. Such indulgences have little or nothing to do with the roots of the trouble here under consideration. The surface tells us scarcely anything. Always we are thrown back on first principles, and they carry us very definitely in to the home. Next in order are associations, and at that point society at large comes in. It may be that judicial wisdom and authoritative espionage are operating as checking forces; but we must all see that unless our schools and playgrounds as well as the constant example of adults, are operating effectively on the side of morality and rectitude, these agencies cannot do much more than they are now doing.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Toronto has started a battle against the increase in the price of gasoline. Pedestrians, however, are showing no inclination to enlist for service in the newest war.

In spite of all the pleas of less talking and more business it is a safe wager that the sessions at Ottawa and Toronto will be marked by the usual amount of useless oratory.

SCHOOLS ARE CLOSED

Health Conditions and Drifted Roads Stop Education.

BAILIEBORO, Feb. 5.—On account of health and weather conditions the majority of rural schools have been closed a great part of the past two weeks. The mail-carriers on the rural routes have also been unable to make their daily trips on account of snow drifted roads.

The roads now, however, are fairly well broken out, and a tremendous lot of digging had to be done on Monday, after Saturday's terrific blow-up.

During the past two days there has been a lot of traffic on the highways. Farmers are busy drawing away their year's supply of ice from Rice Lake, while others are busily engaged hauling out their wheat to the local elevators, since wheat has gone up in price to one dollar and seventy-five cents per bushel.

ENTER UNION.

Grafton Presbyterians Vote Into United Church—Majority 19.

COBOURG, Feb. 5.— The St. Andrew's Presbyterian church at Grafton, where Rev. S. H. Moyer is pastor, has just completed the vote on church union and has decided to enter the union of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational churches by a vote of forty-nine to thirty. This vote was cast out of a possible voting strength of 83.

For some time past there has been a union Sunday school at Grafton, carried on by the Presbyterians and Methodists, which is proving to be very successful.

Vernonville, the associate charge with Grafton, has not yet voted upon church union, but may begin the vote on Monday of next week. It is understood here that a meeting is to be held on Monday to consider the matter.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Feb. 4. — On the whole today's trade was not too brisk, but there was a steady undertone to prices. Butchers' cows were in good demand, but there was a plentiful supply at unchanged figures. Real good butchers' cows sold at $5 to $5.25 and good mediums $4 to $4.25 a cwt.

Rogers & Maybee were buyers of broken lots of shipping steers, most of which did not go over 1,250 lbs. each. These cost $7.25 to $7.60 a cwt. Export cows were taken at $5.75 a cwt. For a load of feeders a little over 1,000 lbs. each, N. Coutts paid $6.25 and $6.35 a cwt. and a load of 37 light stocker heifers sold at $4.40 a cwt. For a few choice medium weight killing steers Frank Hunnisett paid $7.50 a cwt. Bunches of just useful mixed butchers were taken by the packers at $5.50 to $6 a cwt.

There was a good demand for good to choice handyweight butchers from $6.50 to $7.25 a cwt. Bulls were hard sellers but one taken by the packers brought $5.35 a cwt. Export heifers were taken by Roger & Maybee from $6 to $7 a cwt. The trend to the scales was steady all morning and there will not be a great many cattle left unsold at the end of the day.

The calf market was not as keen today and the medium calves which have been selling out of line with the choice ones were dropped back at least 50 cents a cwt. and buyers claim these are still far too high in comparison with others and that some they have had to take should really go only as grassers. One choice calf sold at 14½ cents a pound.

Very few of the right sort of lambs were on sale and buyers were difficult to get to even make a bid this morning.

A few light lambs sold at 15 and 15½ cents, but the assortment contained only a small number of this class.

The hog run today was fairly heavy but there was no evidence of any change in the price of $10.50 a cwt. f.o.b., which has ruled for the past two weeks.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Feb. 4.—(Canadian Press.)—The demand from United Kingdom buyers for Canadian grain here to-day was of a very limited character, but it was reported that some further business was worked in wheat with the continent, but the trade in barley and oats was dull. The domestic business continued quiet and prices were steady. Ontario No. 2 white oats being quoted at 71 cents, No. 3 grade at 69 cents, and No. 4 grade at 67 cents per bushel ex-store.

The market for millfeed was moderately active and the undertone was steady. A stronger feeling developed in rolled oats and prices advanced 20 cents per bag.

The feature of the local egg market was the weaker feeling that prevailed in the market and prices for fresh eggs declined 2 to 5 cents per dozen, and storage eggs 1 to 4 cents per dozen; while the undertone to the butter market was easier, no actual change occurred in values, but this is expected in the near future. The cheese market was dull and steady, with fodder-made No. 1 goods being quoted at 20 1-4 to 20½ cents per pound, and No. 2 grade at 19 1-4 to 19½ cents per pound.

Beans were quoted at $2.90 per bushel.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—Wheat traders got another glimpse of $2 wheat today as a result of heavy general commission house buying, but above that figure there was heavy profit-taking sales. The close was 7-8 cent to 1 3-8 cents higher with May 1.99 to 1.99 1-4, and July 1.67 7-8 to 168. Corn rose 1-4 to 1 cent; oats declined 1-4 to 1-2 cent, and provisions advanced 7 to 35 cents.

The wheat market displayed considerable activity throughout the day and fluctuated so rapidly within a narrow range that it was almost impossible to execute orders at blackboard figures,

Firmness at Liverpool was chiefly responsible for the initial strength here. Shortly after the market started its ascent, there was a general rush by commission houses to purchase. These buyers were further encouraged by the sharp advances at Winnipeg and Buenos Aires as well as by the fact that the market here recovered so decidedly on Tuesday after its sudden tumble. In a short time, May deliveries had mounted to $2.00 3-8, or 5 1-2 under the high season record of last week. At this point, however, profit-taking set in and brought about a slight reaction which was followed by another dart to $2, just before the close. Commission houses were on both sides of the market, and the excitement was keen as May hovered near the top figures. Offerings became more liberal on the rise and with the heavy short covering of yesterday the market eased off somewhat.

DENTIST ESCAPED LIQUOR PENALTY

Entitled to Buy It in Another Town And Carry It.

KINGSTON, Feb. 5.—On January 20th, a dentist from a neighboring centre, while in Kingston, issued an order in a local drug store for six ounces of liquor. Yesterday he was charged in police court with having liquor in a place other than a private dwelling.

Magistrate Farrell gave his opinion that the accused was entitled to obtain liquor from a drug store owing to his professiop, and that the accused was entitled to have the liquor in his pocket, both of which points were admitted by Mr. C. R. Webster, counsel for the prosecution.

"Now, does the fact that he consumed a portion of this liquor alter his right to have it, does it make an offence under the section of the Act by which he is charged?" asked the Magistrtae.

Mr. Webster admitting that under those conditions the charge would have to be changed from "having liquor" to "drinking liquor" in a public place in order to come under the classification of an offence under the O.T.A. After considerable evidence had been taken the case was dismissed. A companion charged with drinking liquor in a public place, pleaded guilty, and was fined $100.

HEART WAS WEAK NERVES ALL GONE

Mrs. J. H. Hallenbeck, 117½ Welland Avenue, St. Catharines, Ont., writes:—"I was in a gas explosion; it left me with a weak heart, and my nerves were all gone. I suffered everything; couldn't sleep, or endure any excitement, and when left alone I felt as if I could scream. I took dizzy spells, often falling and bruising myself. My mother read about your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and bought me a box, but having taken so many different kinds of medicine it just seemed that I did not have any confidence in any of them. I took one box of H. & N. Pills, and felt so much better I continued with them until I had used five boxes, and after I had taken them I did not need any more. I cannot praise, or recommend, Milburns Heart and Nerve Pills too highly after all they have done for me."

QUEBEC MEMBER WOULD COMBINE THE PROVINCES

Country "Over-Governed," Says Montreal Conservative in Provincial Legislature.

PROPOSES FIVE

Amalgamate the Maritimes Into One, Quebec and Ontario in Another Group.

QUEBEC, Feb. 5.—C. E. Gault, Conservative M.L.A., for St. George, Montreal, resumed the debate on the budget speech yesterday, and reviewed the provincial financial situation.

Mr. Gault believed that we are over governed and thought a good way to help matters would be by combining up some of the provinces, namely, putting the three maritime provinces together, in one province; Ontario and Quebec in one province; Manitoba and Saskatchewan in one, and Alberta and British Columbia into one province. These with Ottawa, would mean five governments in Canada, and that should be sufficient.

He urged that there be an easing off in taxation, so as to bring about a downward tendency in prices.

Mr. Gault said that the country was suffering because of its railway situation a situation brought on because of over generosity on the part of some provinces to railway promoters. The result had been that expensive transcontinental railways had been built, when what had been wanted were merely colonization roads. The late Federal Government through "force majure" had been obliged to take over these roads, and while he did not aprove of public ownership in principle, he believed that the acquisition of the old Grand Trunk had been wise, because of its use as a traffic feeder to the National system. Mr. Gault believed that the best way out was to get rid of the National Railways as soon as circumstances permitted, and that would be when they had a value which they are acquiring. In this way, the country would get back most of what had been invested.

W. S. Bullock, of Shefford, moved the adjournment of the debate.

HASTINGS CHURCH IS MARCHING ON

Summary of Successes in the Year—Pastor's Wish for Future.

(Contributed.)

The annual report of the Hastings Methodist church, shows a decided increase financially.

The amount raised for missions, was $1035.00.

Amount of total givings for the year, $4322.00.

It is expected that the year ending May, 1925, will be the best in the history of the church, as it is the last year the people worship under the name of Methodists.

The church as a part of the great Methodist church is marching as one body into union with the great Presbyterian and Congregational bodies.

The Hastings Methodist church will be the Union Church of Hastings after the 10th of June.

Its doors are open to all believers, especially every true Presbyterian.

We know there have been some hard knocks given the Methodist Church and its members, but every person of intelligence knows that the old church stands for righteousness and truth.

The 10th of June is the date of the marriage of the three great bodies and we believe in time that the great Roman Catholic, Anglican, Baptist, and all bodies, will be one in Christ, on earth, even as it is in heaven.

Our motto, "Love one another," applies to all mankind, and let us say:

"This one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

The pastor, Rev. M. L. Hinton, who has been invited by his board to remain a sixth year, says:

"God bless you all!"

Suffered Stroke in 1923 While Engaged as Rural Mail Carrier.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 5.—The late Alexander Hanna, whose death occurred on Friday, January 30th, after an illness which extended over many months, was born near Glamorgan, in Cavan township, sixty-four years ago, and was one of a family of ten children, five sons and five daughters.

When rural routes were established he removed to Millbrook, receiving the appointment of carrier for Rural Route No. 2, west of the village. The duties of this position he carried on until the 25th day of November, 1923, when he suffered a stroke while returning from his daily round with the mail. Of their three children, one son, Mr. Ernest Hanna, of Peterboro, and one daughter, Mrs. William O'Brian, Millbrook, survive their father, the eldest son, Norman, who won the D.C.M. during the great war, passing away about six months ago.

Of the five sons in the family, but one, Mr. Hugh Hanna, living in Saskatchewan, is left, three others, John, Wesley, and Rev. George Hanna being previously deceased. Five sisters, Mrs. W. Hambly, Tyronne; Mrs. J. Connell, Manvers; Mrs. Robert Payne, Pontypooi; Mrs. Elliott and Mrs. R. Jackson, Peterborough, survive their brother.

The funeral took place from his late residence, Main street, on Monday, February 2nd, a large number of friends gathering at the house for the service of which his pastor, Rev. F. H. Howard, had charge.

The pall-bearers were two cousins, Messrs. A. Elliott, and W. Patrick, of Dunsford; his son-in-law, Mr. W. O'Brian, Millbrook; Messrs. S. Hamilton, J. W. Hamilton and J. McKnight.

Interment was in Zion cemetery.

The high cost of living seldom changes; usually staying around 10 per cent. more than we have.

Most of those in debt got there by trying to live up to what they claimed they are making.

One bright sign that civilization is advancing is people are beginning to realize they should pay doctor bills.

MUCH HARD CASH WASTED EACH DAY

Read This Story And Learn How to Hold on to Your Money.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—(United Press).—You'll probably pay too much income tax if you don't read this story.

Thousands of dollars of excess payments or income taxes have been paid since January 1, the Internal Revenue Bureau says, because the taxpayers aren't taking advantage of one of the most important tax reductions made by Congress last year, and effective this year for the first time.

Most taxpayers notice that the normal rates for small incomes are much lower than last year, and pay accordingly.

But they don't notice this:

"Earned income" only has to pay 75 per cent. of the tax as computed under the regular rate.

Earned income, according to the new law, includes "wages, salaries, professional fees and other amounts received as compensation for services actually rendered."

All net income for 1924 up to the sum of $5,000 is regarded as "earned net income," for the purpose of making this 25 per cent. reduction. The total of "earned net income," however, can be as high as $10,000, but no higher.

For example, a taxpayer who received $2,000 in salary and $3,000 in profit from a real estate deal is entitled to count it as "earned income," and pay three-fourths of the tax on it. A taxpayer who gets a salary of $10,000 is entitled likewise to deduct 25 per cent. A taxpayer with a salary of $5,000, and a real estate deal profit of $5,000, however, is entitled to the deduction only on the $5,000 of salary. A taxpayer whose net salary income for 1925 was $15,000 can deduct the credit on the tax on only $10,000.

The personal exemptions and deductions for dependents are taken out of the income before arriving at the "net income" on which the tax, and, in many cases, the 25 per cent. reduction is decided.

Another relief for business men provided in the new tax law is being disregarded by many returns, the bureau says. This is as follows:

"A taxpayer who is operating a business in which both personal service and capital are material income-producing factors, is entitled to a reasonable allowance as compensation for personal services actually rendered, which amount shall be considered as earned net income. This amount shall not exceed 20 per cent. of his share of the net profits of such trade or business, and in no case can he consider any amount over $10,000 as net income."

On this "earned net income," the businessman is entitled to deduct 25 per cent. of the taxes due. If the share of 20 per cent. of his profits amounts to $10,000 or less, the taxpayer may consider the entire amount "earned income."

Some day they may get radio down to where it doesn't sound as if the needle needed changing.

Almost time to plant a spring garden. Already time to get seed catalogues and start worrying.

Experience is more valuable and used less than most anything.

OVALTINE
TONIC FOOD BEVERAGE
Builds up Brain, Nerves, and Body

Many mothers cannot understand why a child is backward or delicate. They never dream of malnutrition because they don't realize that a child may take apparently an adequate amount of food and yet be undernourished.

Give your children "Ovaltine" daily. "Ovaltine" is made from rich creamy milk, ripe barley malt and fresh eggs, flavoured with cocoa. It supplies in concentrated, easily-digested form, the nutritive values lacking in the usual daily dietary. Children love the delicious flavour.

I.O.D.E. ANNUAL MEETING HELD

Campbellford Chapter Re-elects Mrs. W. H. Ashton as Regent For 1925.

GOOD REPORTS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 5.—The Campbellford Chapter of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire, held their annual meeting in the Public Library on Wednesday afternoon, February 4th, 1925. Mrs. W. H. Ashton, Regent, was in the chair for the business part of the meeting and the reading of reports and general business.

The secretary (Mrs. A. Haig) gave her report as follows: "The annual report of the Campbellford Chapter, No. 306, of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire for the year ending January 31st, 1925. Motto. "Lest We Forget."

Madam Regent and Members—Time sweeps on, and we are again face to face with the fact, that today we are assembled for our annual meeting—the eleventh annual meeting. As we look back over the year, we must admit that from the standpoint of figures, it has not been financially a success. There are other things in life more precious than gold, so if by outlook, action, word or deed, we have left an impress on the things of time, our associations have not been in vain.

To go a little into detail I scanned the minutes of the months and find that in March we had the pleasure of having with us Mr. Holmes, a representative from the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, who gave a clear and lucid account of how the blind of our land are taught to be independent and self-supporting. The outcome of this lecture was the holding of a sale of their basket work on Saturday, March 22nd, when the sum of $26.80 was taken in and forwarded to the Institute as a contribution toward its work.

On this same date the Chapter held a home-cooking sale and tea and again in November a similar sale and tea was held.

This Chapter has held together, chiefly of late for the purpose of promoting the memorial scheme.

In June a committee, consisting of four Regents and Secretary, met the Town Council for the purpose of giving and receiving suggestions and exchanging ideas. So far nothing of a definite nature has materialized, but we are still hopeful. Little by little our memorial account grows. As a Chapter, we have not been unmindful of the real things in life, for the yearly contribution of twenty-five dollars towards the funds of the Children's Shelter was forthcoming, as was also the same amount toward the Public Library.

A children's hour was conducted by the Librarian and the expense borne by the Chapter. Also three ten dollar scholarships were provided for the High School Departmental examinations.

In November the Chapter presented a large Union Jack to the High School; the same was accepted by the Principal, Mr. Greig, and his staff, at a fitting service held in the assembly hall of the High School on Armistice Day.

The above short report I submit on behalf of your Executive. Total membership 49; average attendance 17. Memorial account $1,400.02.

(Signed) Mrs. A. Haig,
Secretary I.O.D.E.

Moved and seconded by Mrs. H. Lowery and Mrs. J. A. Stewart, that the annual report of the secretary be accepted and a vote of thanks from this Chapter be tendered her for her work during the year. Carried, with applause.

Mrs. Ashton also asked for the treasurer's report. It was as follows.

AIR PHOTOGRAPHY OPENS NEW WORLD

Canada's Forests Are Being Mapped With Utmost Accuracy—Great Progress.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Aerial photography in Canada has opened a new world to the map-maker. A. M. Narraway, controller of surveys, topographical survey of Canada, told the Association of Dominion Land Surveyors at the 18th annual convention opened yesterday. Mr. Narraway outlined the work undertaken by the Department of the Interior in surveying by air. "Inaccessible forest or mineralized areas are now accurately mapped with ease and at a very much reduced cost," he said.

Such rapid progress had been made during the past year that over 40,000 square miles had been successfully photographed in various parts of the country from Nova Scotia to Alberta. Maps of the entire areas were in the course of preparation and would be issued early this year.

From the work already completed it was known that so many changes in the shapes of lakes had been discovered and so much additional information had been added that the maps of various parts of Canada, especially those in forested areas, would be almost completely altered, and an entirely new impression of the country would be revealed.

Full information of the location of rock outcrops, the various types of timber, swamp and muskeg lands, was secured at very low cost. The progress made had placed Canada in the front rank in this work and the development of its resources would be greatly expedited.

OLDEST RESIDENT OF ORLAND DEAD

E. J. Town Left Eight Grandchildren to Mourn His Loss.

ORLAND, Feb. 5.—The oldest resident of this vicinity passed away yesterday in the person of E. J. Town.

Mr. Town years ago moved here from Watertown, N.Y., and settled on a farm near where he died. Some years later he purchased a farm about a mile west of there and resided on it until about three years ago, when his house was destroyed by fire.

His wife, Rebecca, predeceased him over 25 years ago and since that time he resided alone till three years ago.

He then went to reside with his grandson, Mr. Geo. Reddom, who resides a mile south of this place.

He was the father of two daughters, Mrs. Henry Sharp, who died a year ago, and Mrs. Wm. Reddom, who is still living.

Besides his daughter, Mrs. Reddom, he leaves eight grandchildren to mourn his loss.

He has suffered for many years with foot troubles, which made it almost impossible for him to walk.

About three months ago, gangrene set in and together with his age led rapidly to his demise.

BEECHAM'S PILLS

FABLES ON HEALTH.

Having learned how his food got into his stomach Mr. Mann of Anytown found in his next lesson on food and its values just how the changes are made and what happens.

As food passes along the alimentary canal most of the material the body can use is extracted and absorbed into the blood. Great chemical changes have taken place thanks to certain agencies known as ferments or enzymes. In the mouth saliva has mechanically transformed the food into a liquid mass that is ready for swallowing.

Gastric juices are located all over the stomach interior and pour out in response to the stimulus for food. The secretion converts the food into soluble form, but the protein is not yet ready for absorption into the blood. Digestion of proteins and starches is compelted in the intestine. The stomach function is a preparatory one.

The important constituents of foods that have to be digested are fats, proteins and carbohydrates. Vitamines, water and soluble salts do not have to be digested, but are absorbed.

The molecules of the fats, etc., break into parts and these simpler solubles pass into the blood and are carried to the cells of the body which have the property of uniting them to form the special kind of protein needed for cell growth.

A really remarkable process, you must agree.

In face of handicaps, Canadian Pacific freight rates are lowest on the continent

ONE of the expensive factors in operating a railway in Canada is that the big movement of grain and livestock is practically confined to four months, from September to December inclusive.

The Canadian Pacific must be prepared to take care of this traffic when it is ready to be moved. It must keep on hand literally thousands of freight cars and hundreds of locomotives, many of which lie idle for eight months in the year.

Not only does this equipment lie idle waiting for the big rush, but most of it must be hauled empty one way because, unfortunately, there is little if any more traffic from the opposite direction than at other seasons of the year. If this equipment could be kept busy, and earning, the year round, operating costs would be greatly reduced.

Yet in face of this handicap and its consequent effect in raising the cost of operation, freight rates in Canada are lower than in any other country, while the earnings of Canadian roads per ton mile are lower, due to the much longer hauls and sparser population in Canada.

Canadian Pacific Railway average receipts per ton per mile for freight in the year 1923 were .929 of one cent.

Railways of the United States average receipts per ton per mile of freight for the year 1923 were 1.125 cents or 21.10% greater than the average of the Canadian Pacific.

Railways of Great Britain average receipts per ton per mile of freight for the year 1922 (the last year reported) were 3,351c., or 260.7% greater than the average of the Canadian Pacific.

Only good management and sound, economical financing of the Canadian Pacific, by which capital charges have been kept at a minimum, have made possible these low rates in face of low per-ton-per-mile earnings.

Canadian Pacific rates are the standard of all rates in Canada, so that the whole public is deriving the benefit of the Canadian Pacific management and financing.

The Canadian Pacific, for forty years, has led the way in the development and settlement of Canada and today, more than ever, it is a dominating force in the progress of the Dominion.

CAMPBELLFORD CHURCH EVENTS

Methodist Board Held Quarterly Meeting—Young People Meet.

W.M.S. ACTIVE.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 5.—The official boards of the Methodist Church met on Tuesday night for their February quarterly business meeting, Rev. W. Elliott in the chair. Twenty-five members were present.

After the recording secretary's report of the minutes and treasurer's report were given, a letter from the Unionists of St. Andrew's was read. This was a letter of appreciation and thanks to the Quarterly Board and Trustee Board of the Methodist Church for their kind hospitality shown them, and signed by Mr. A. M. Rollo, secretary of the Unionists.

Dr. Richardson, treasurer of the choir, brought a cheque of one hundred dollars to the treasurer of the church, a donation to the board from the choir. He also said that the choir will get up a concert some time in March, and half the gross proceeds will be given to the board and he asked the co-operation of the board in helping to make the concert a success as far as a good attendance was concerned.

Moved and seconded by J. A. Irwin and Thos. H. Rowe, that this board tender a hearty vote of gratitude and appreciation to the choir for this splendid donation, and also a promise of co-operation for the concert to be given later. Carried unanimously.

Four young men of the congregation were appointed ushers besides the former ushers, namely, Messrs. Gerald Wilson, Howard Davidson, Wilbert Kingston and Everett English. Reception committees are also to be appointed monthly by the pastor.

Rev. W. Elliott was invited to remain another year by a unanimous standing vote, and words of appreciation were spoken of his services in the church.

Rev. W. Elliott thanked the board for this invitation, and consented to remain.

A number of account were passed and the treasurer instructed to pay them.

Y.P.S. of St. Andrew's.

The meeting of the Young People of St. Andrew's Church was held on Monday evening, J. D. McEachern in the chair.

The meeting opened with the usual devotional exercises. The Scripture lesson from Romans viii. was led by Mr. Thos. Campbell, and was followed by prayer by Mr. Massey.

After the reading of the minutes Miss Lillian Hay was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. E. H. Greig, B.A., as educational vice-president.

As this was the social evening for the month, the usual programme was not followed. A vocal solo, "Just as my mother was," was given by Miss Helen McDonald. This met with hearty applause. An instrumental solo was given by Miss Harriet Little. Later in the evening those present were favored with a solo from Mr. John Storie. Miss Margery Ackerman gave a humorous reading, which was enjoyed by all. The contest brought forward by Miss Leona Peeling caused much rivalry as well as laughter. However, the French class were successful and greatly enjoyed their reward.

Lunch was served at the close of the evening's programme, and the National Anthem sung.

The Young People's League of the Methodist Church will be held next Tuesday instead of Monday, as the Sunday School is having an entertainment next Monday night, when Rev. H. B. Kenny will give an illustrated lecture in the church. There will also be musical numbers.

LILA PARSONS MOST POPULAR

Presented With Gold Wrist Watch by Ladies' Aid of Omemee.

BANQUET TO CHOIR.

OMEMEE, February 3. — On Friday evening, the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Church, entertained the members of the choir to a banquet and social evening in the Sunday school room of the church. Each member had the privilege of inviting a friend and the guests numbered about forty.

About 8 p.m., the guests began to arrive and were very graciously received and made welcome by the reception committee, Mrs. T. A. McPherson and Mrs. T. J. Parsons.

During the time the guests were gathering a number of catchy choruses were sung and when all had arrived the committee in charge, Mrs. William Henderson and Mrs. E. Bradburn, ran off a splendid programme of games and contests which everyone entered into and fully enjoyed. The last number on the programme was a voting contest for which prizes were given. Ballots were passed when each one voted for the most popular gentleman in attendance. Rev. E. W. Rowland secured the most votes and therefore won the prize. Ballots were again passed to vote on the most popular lady and Miss L. Parsons was the lucky winner of a beautiful gold watch, accompanied by the following address from the Ladies' Aid Society.

Omemee, Jan. 30, 1925.

Miss Lila Parsons, Omemee, Ont.:

Dear Miss Parsons—Another year has passed into history since we last met to entertain you and the choir of our beloved church.

We are devoutly grateful that the members of the choir are well and enjoying their work. During the year all have been spared and and this alone is cause for deep thankfulness to God. But more too the past has been marked by harmony and cheerful service. The church has felt secure, knowing that those who lead the congregation in singing all the while are examples of faithfulness and good fellowship. A good singer must be greater than the song he sings.

But while another splendid record has been achieved we are glad to say that you are in no small way responsible for the same. What more can we say than to remind you that your faithfulness has not been forgotten and your able leadership is recognized by the whole membership of the church. While we cannot repay you for what you are doing we would like in some way to register our gratitude, and we pray you accept this wrist watch as a small token of our regard. That you may enjoy good fortune and God's favor is the ardent wish of your many friends.

Signed on behalf of the Ladies' Aid Society: E. W. Rowland, Pastor, Mrs. W. Henderson, President.

Miss Parsons, although taken entirely by surprise, in a very grateful manner thanked the ladies for their kindness and thoughtfulness in presenting her with such a beautiful gift to which she felt she was very undeserving. "See her smiling" was then heartily sung, after which the guests were invited to the banquet table, which was tastefully decorated with flowers and lighted colored candles, when a three course menu was served by Mrs. J. Widdis, Mrs. Wm. Connell, Mrs. R. Williamson and Mrs. J. Bushnell.

When all had done justice to the dainty viands, Miss Parsons, on behalf of the choir moved a hearty vote of thanks to the ladies for the splendid evening's entertainment which was seconded by Mr. Cecil Corneil.

The President, Mrs. Hendren, replied in a neat little speech, assuring the guests that the pleasure was all ours and she hoped we might be spared to enjoy many more such gatherings. The happy gathering then dispersed, loud in their praise of the Methodist Ladies' Aid.

Sleigh Ride.

On Friday, the members of the Anglican Sunday school enjoyed an old-fashioned sleigh ride around the principal streets of the village and needless to say, the boys and girls gave vent to their feelings as their merry voices and laughter could be heard a long distance. After the drive all returned to the church, where an abundance of refreshments were served, in the Sunday school room, followed by a splendid programme of lantern slides.

MINISTERS' MEETING HELD IN MILLBROOK

Rev. Canon Allen the Speaker at February Session.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 3.—The February meeting of the ministerial association was held on Monday afternoon, the newly-elected president, Rev. M. G. B. Williams, occupying the chair.

Rev. Canon Allen was the speaker, his subject being, "Exposition", and his remarks being based upon selected passages from the first ten chapters from St. Paul's First Epistle to the Corinthiars.

Rev. A. McLaughlin of Keene, is to give the address at the March meeting, and in April it is hoped to have Rev. M. C. McKinnon of Knox Church, Peterborough, to speak on the Washington Conference which he is attending. This meeting will probably be open to the public.

Sermon on Union

Considerable interest is taken in the sermon: "Why I am going into the United Church of Canada," which Rev. C. S. Gervan intended preaching on Sunday morning, but which, owing to the blocked state of the roads after Saturday's storm, was postponed until next Sunday at 10.30 a.m. Many of the members of Grace church, who are desirous of hearing their pastor on this subject, and who live in the country would have been prevented attending last Sunday, and for this reason the change of dates was made.

Sacrament Service

The quarterly sacrament service, which has of late been omitted this month at the Methodist church owing to the congregation worshipping in the basement from January until Easter, was observed on Sunday morning, the pastor, Rev. F. Howard, explaining "we are adapting ourselves to present conditions as effectively as possible."

The number of communicants was as large as could be looked for considering the state of the roads, and the amount of sickness in the village.

Rev. J. Wilks assisted Mr. Howard with the communion service.

A duet, "Love Divine," by Mrs. G. W. Sayles and Mr. W. H. Coombe, which took the place of the usual anthem in the regular service, was much appreciated by the congregation.

TARIFF BATTLE AT OPENING SESSION

Present Bill is to Encourage Agricultural Exports.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—(Canadian Press).—The next session of the U.S. Congress, the first session of the newly elected Senate and House, is almost sure to witness a battle over tariffs.

The question at issue will be, in a large measure, whether the tariff question is to be opened up with a view to increasing agricultural rates to a prohibitory point. Any action in this regard will re-act on Canadian exporters of agricultural products. The question of higher duties would have been opened at the present session of Congress were it not for the fact that the time before the session ends, March 4, would have been too short to accomplish anything.

A large part of the agricultural membership in the House and Senate and most of the farm organizations of the United States are still in favor of the principle underlying the present tariff bill—the McNary-Haugen Bill. The purpose of this bill is to encourage agricultural exports and at the same time to shut out of the United States competing agricultural products. The agricultural commission appointed by President Coolidge has been unfriendly to this bill and recently made recommendations that would not be acceptable to the supporters of the bill. This, however, will not prevent the powerful agricultural interests from pressing for legislation providing for higher tariffs. A recent demand for a duty on hides, which are now on the free list, is a symptom of the persistence of the agricultural high tariff advocates.

It will prove impossible to revise the agricultural rates without giving an opportunity for advocates of other tariff changes to air their views. The opening of the tariff bill on the ground that it may lead to a lowering, instead of raising of the rates and a head-on collision between the agricultural factions would be inevitable. If the Democrats unite with the extreme wing of the agricultural bloc they could command a majority and force an opening of the tariff bill to revision.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.

The following are some of the most extremely erroneous doctrines of Christendom, that are taught now and for centuries in the past. The repetition of Satan's lie to Mother Eve, which is the same as saying man is immortal. Connected with this first error comes the blasphemous doctrine of endless torment. Another error that is obviously and flatly opposed to truth is "the trinity." The word "trinity" cannot be found in the Bible. One of our Methodist ministers said if it was not there it ought to be. This egotistic statement can be taken for what it is worth. It is difficult to think how anyone, who has read the Bible carefully, can entertain the above erroneous ideas. Apart from the Scriptures, these false theories are such a combination of absurdity and contradiction, that man's reason and common sense(if allowed to act) must stand abashed. Imagine a son being his own father, and a father being his own son. We read in the Scripture, the "Father sent his Son." It would be absurd to conclude that the Father sent himself. The term "father" means life given, and the term son is one who has received life from the father. Jesus said, "My Father is greater than I." When Jesus was about to be crucified, his disciples left him and fled, but most trying of all was (while hanging on the cross) the realization that God had left him. Then Jesus cried out in agony "My God, "My God" "why hast thou forsaken me?" If the "trinity" theory was true, this was deceptive acting. Who can believe that Jesus was merely praying unto himself? Nay! He prayed unto Him who was able to deliver him from death, and he was heard. Then again it is erroneously taught that Jesus was like Jehovah God, without beginning and without end. The Bible says: "He was the beginning of the creation of God," Rev. 3:14; and that "he is ... of every creature," Col. 1:15. First-born implies the beginning of existence. Begotten son must mean there was a time when he was not begotten. If Jesus was Jehovah God, how extremely absurd about the ideas of Jesus dying. We might go on to enumerate other errors, (but space and time does not permit), showing the folly and absurdity error leads to. There are those who are still preaching error (some honestly and some we are compelled to believe, dishonestly), who flout the whole question, by saying the writer and others are preaching a false "ism." Better do a little investigating of Scripture truths, and exercise reason and common sense.

Voice Of The People

The Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir—Just a few thoughts that have come to me since reading some of the letters in The Examiner during the past week re Church Union.

One letter says "Unity means unity, in spirit and that it never meant anything else." Yes, and we can have it in spirit and in the churches, too, by being united in Christ and this bond will keep us united "Until the day dawn and the shadows flee away."

Another writer is very anxious to have those ministerse (who voted Union and where their churches did not, have resigned for the sake of principle, when they might have held on to their salaries) leave at once for the Northwest with their families, with the weather 40 degrees or more below zero to live perhaps in a shack on the snow-deep prairies. Have a little humanity, if not Chrisitianity, and give them a chance to make good; do not ask them to do what you would not willingly do yourself. Surely they should have the privilege of attending the great Union of Churches, which takes place in Toronto on June 10th, when they and we will get a glimpse of Heaven; yes, a Heaven where there are not denominational differences.

Another criticizes Mr. Pogue for the appeal he made to his congregation. I think I have heard each sermon he has preached on this question and, while he stated definitely why he was going into Union, he asked us all to get down on our knees before God, in earnest prayer, and let our Heavenly Father help us to decide this question for us. And what minister, after seventeen years of preaching the gospel of self-sacrifice would not feel disappointed and broken hearted to think that he had not succeeded in helping his people get a vision of what following Christ really means. We sympathize with the dear old lady who feels so keenly this trouble in our church and who does not feel it these days? But would we hold back our church from fulfilling its God given mission even though we love it best as it is I think the Presbyterian Association will have a lot to answer for in the days to come, for it seems to me that had it not been for their propaganda against Union, all or most of the Presbyterian Churches today would have joined their forces and gone into Union a happy and grateful people.

Yours very sincerely
A Woman Member of St. Paul's.

Editor, of the Examiner:
Dear Sir:

In the Examiner of last Friday appears an article containing a statement by Dr. Pigeon on the Union situation, in which Rev. Dr. Pigeon, speaking of the New United Church, says it " will be far beyond its supporters' dreams."

Is it possible he means to tell us that he went into this thing believing that the disruption of the Presbyterian Church would be even greater than it is? It would seem so, as the whole article expresses satisfaction with the way the vote is going.

It would appear from this statement that Rev. Dr. Pigeon had expected even greater opposition to Church Union than has arisen and in spite of it he, with his associates, plunged ahead expecting, and regardless of, such disastrous results as we see today. What must be thought of such leadership Leaving that phase, let us look at a few other facts:

As I understand if these three negotiating churches agreed to unite each putting in all their assets and liabilities. The Methodists and Congregationalists have already gone in on that basis. Dr. Pigeon has practically delivered all the liabilities of his church, but can he deliver the assets? Will he be able to deliver more than half of the revenue producing assets of the church, approximately 65% of which are located in Ontario? Present returns do not look like it.

How will other negotiating churches who have put their all in, feel when Dr. Pigeon dumps in his liabilities but fails to deliver the full assets?

May we be pardoned for wondering if Rev. Dr. Pigeon is really happy or is he just whistling to keep up his courage and that of his followers? Even a Pigeon cannot fly with only one wing.

Yours Truly
ONLOOKER

UNION OR NON-UNION.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Many minds are now earnestly exercised upon this great question. The word union is a wonderful talisman, were it not that human beings learned to act together—to adopt union—in the infancy of their race, they could never have withstood the opposing forces arrayed against them. Away down in the basic thought of the human mind is the desire to unite, man is by nature gregarious, nearly everybody's heart responded gladly to the call for union, one great, vast, unified body of people to work for the Divine cause. Visions of successful effort and conquest for good seemed to gild the future. But alas, the old saying seems to hold good, "realization never seems to measure up to anticipation." It seems to be a strange contradiction to say, that the greatest deception can be perpetrated by half a truth.

We read in last night's Examiner that Presbyterians should faithfully carry out the Assembly's pledge to join the Union. It is said that when you repeat anything often enough, you get to believe it. The plain fact of the matter is (granting for the moment that the General Assembly had the authority to obliterate the Presbyterian Church, which they never had, the full extent of their power was simply to manage) that the General Assembly after carefully considering the whole matter, decided that with 63,000 votes against Union, it would be wiser not to go on with it. Have they kept faith with their own vote, and with the assurance they thus gave to the people? This pledge which was given wide publicity by the press and carried home to their people by a number of ministers who were conscientiously opposed to the beaurocratic methods of the proposed Union, was not this pledge as sacred and should it not have carried out as faithfully as any later afterthought?

Truly, lust for power carries the cloth a long way. One of the questions for the people to decide is, What is the church? Is the Presbyterian Church the people with the clergy or the clergy only? If it is the clergy only, then of course the people have nothing to say. We have in the past been taught that the Church is composed of redeemed souls and that Christ is the corner stone of the Church. Then if this is still admitted, the people should have a voice. When the vote was first submitted to the people not ten per cent. of them understood the conditions they were voting for, they were carried away by the glamour of the title. But the clergy well understood how biased it was, and fearful that the people would become acquainted with the fact that they were delivering themselves bound hand and foot. They refused to allow the people to meet in the churches to discuss the conditions of Union and the people began to be suspicious, for it is reasonable to conclude that where discussion is not allowed, something must exist that some are trying to hide. And well may they seek to hide it. In the first place they went to the Dominion Parliament and sought to have their act railroaded through without allowing the people to vote on it. We can thank the Parliament that we have this privilege of voting. If you vote for Union you are voting for the act as passed by the Government, and the act says that the settlement committee has full control as to who preaches to you, what he preaches, and for how long a period of years he preaches and that it is obligatory on the part of the churches to pay certain sums that may be charged against them. The people will be required to keep quiet and pay. If these facts were generally known few would be the churches that would deliver themselves bound hand and foot in this matter.

There have been great unionists in the past. Among the greatest of these whose name occurs to the writer, is that of John Graham of Claverhouse. The same arbitrary spirit seems to prevail to-day, but the genius of the age forbids the ancient methods.

WOOLLENS SUFFER FROM LOW TARIFF

Higher Duties Asked For Textile Goods — Secretary Knit Goods Association.

HAMILTON, Feb. 5. — Major Douglas Hallam, secretary of the Canadian Woollen Manufacturers' Association, told members of the Hamilton Purchasing Agents' Association last night that this industry is suffering to a serious degree because of the low tariff of the King Government. He cited how several such plants were compelled to cease operations because of a lack of protection.

"Every able and public-spirited woman in the country must realize the national importance to Canada of safeguarding both our women industrial workers and their sources of employment," said Major Hallam.

"Since time immemorial," he said, "women have spun, woven and made the clothing for the race, and this is why out of the 90,000 workers in the Canadian textile industry about one-half are women.

"Opportunities of industrial employment for Canadian women should be maintained and increased, because to sustain the high standard of living enjoyed by all in Canada it is necessary to provide congenial employment with reasonable wages for women.

"Wages paid women textile workers in European countries range from one-quarter to less than one-half of the wages paid in Canada. These low wages paid abroad are a serious menace to the wage scale and employment of women in Canada, because the main competition comes from factories in Great Britain and on the Continent.

"Over $125,000,000 worth of textile products made abroad are now sold each year in Canada. The money paid for these goods goes out of the country to employ thousands of workers abroad, while many Canadians are living on part-time wages, are out of work, or have to go to the United States. Each woman worker employed abroad to make goods which are brought in and sold in Canada prevents a Canadian woman from obtaining employment. Similarly, each man so employed abroad prejudices the welfare of the women and children dependent on the men workers in the Canadian textile industry.

"The only way the women industrial workers in Canada and the sources of their employment can be safeguarded is by placing the Canadian Customs duties on textile goods at a level to equalize differences in production costs between Canada and European countries."

VISITING HOUSEKEEPERS.

Red Cross Society Forms a New Department to Assist Ailing Mothers.

TORONTO, Feb. 5 Canadian Press).—A new department, to be known as that of the "Visiting Housekeepers," has been added to the activities of the Red Cross, and should prove a real boon in many harrassed households. The function of the Visiting Housekeeper will be to fill the gap created by the illness of a mother in her home. With the growth and advance of the visiting nurse organizations and hospital service of this city, the need in scores of cases is not so much for skilled nursing service as for some one who can wait upon the mother if she is ill at home, get the children off to school and keep the house in running order until the return of the father from work or of the older children from school. For such a purpose, the report stated, "workers need careful selection, training and supervision, for not only must they be capable of undertaking a hard day's work, but they must be able also to fit themselves to the varying conditions under which they find themselves placed."

It is proposed to give them a certain preliminary training in housework and in home nursing, under the Red Cross scheme, in order that they can render efficiently such nursing service as might have been required from any woman member of the patient's family. Such a worker will be, while with the organization, on a salary or weekly wage, and not dependent upon the amount or type of work she is doing.

League opinion here is inclined to view Canada's act as a manifestation of independence in international relations.

Communist Secretary Predicts Early Recognition—Cannot Sit Still.

MOSCOW, Feb. 5. — (United Press).—The United States is about to recognize Russia, Gregory Zinoviev, secretary of the Communist Internationale, predicted in a speech at a party conference to-day.

"America," he said, "cannot calmly regard our entering into direct contact with Japan."

Zinoviev referred to the Russo-Japanese treaty recently signed at Peking.

"Recognition of Russia by the smaller Powers is inconsequential," Zinoviev continued, "but American recognition is of tremendous importance."

The Russian debt to America, he said, was small and not acute. The United States was rich and more interested in concessions and propaganda.

DISPUTE OVER PULP EMBARGO

Canadian Pulpwood Association Not Co-operating With U. S. Publishers.

TAX ON EXPORTS.

QUEBEC, Feb. 5.—Replying to an interview or statement of Mr. Edward Beck, Secretary of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, which appeared in the Press on February 2nd, Mr. Ralph P. Bell, of Halifax N.S., Vice-President of the Canadian Pulpwood Association, in an interview in Quebec says—"Mr. Beck's inference that the Canadian Pulpwood Association is working in co-operation with an organization in the United States known as the National Publishers Association, is entirely a fiction of Mr. Beck's imagination. The Canadian Pulpwood Association has no connection direct or indirect with the organization referred to and was not even aware of the existence of such an association. The very reference Mr. Beck draws, the diference between the arguments advanced by this association as compared with those which he claims were recently presented to the United States Foreign Relations Committee by the American organization mentioned, should in itself be sufficient evidence of the ridiculousness of Mr. Beck's association in this connection."

To Conserve Forests?

Speaking formally in his official position as secretary of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association Mr. Beck says, that in making the recommendation for an export tax, The Canadian Pulp and Paper Association is not actuated by an ulterior motive, but that their action is dictated solely by their grave concern for the conservation of our forests, and that it is the opinion of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association that the suggested export tax would neither deprive Canadian Pulpwood dealers of the United States market nor American manufacturers of Canadian pulpwood, and that its probable immediate effect would be to increase exports of wood to the United States, because, (note well the following reason), "American manufacturers would be anxious to secure as much Canadian wood as possible before the tax became prohibitive".

"Will Mr. Beck be good enough to explain how he reconciles the foregoing with the folowing quoted from the same interview, "The Canadian Paper manufacturers have no ulterior motive. The last thing in the world they desire is to bring ruin upon the American Paper manufacturers when to make more difficult for their American customers to obtain paper or to prevent the holders of freehold pulpwood in Canada from obtaining a fair American price for their wood."

"He says the Canadian pulpwood and paper industry does not want to injure American Paper manufacturers, does not wish to deprive them of wood, and would not, for worlds, want to prevent Canadians from selling their wood in the United States markets, and then proceeds to close his argument with the suggestion that the proposed tax would ultimately be made prohibitive. Mr. Beck says the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association are actuated solely by their patriotic desire for Conservation and in the next breath gives voice to the opinion that the Canadian Paper and Pulp Association believes that the imposition of the suggested tax" would not have the effect of depriving Canadian Pulp Wood dealers of the American market for American manufacturers of Canadian pulpwood?" "But why stress the point? His arguments are illogical, economically unsound and more important still, they do not ring true. If the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association is sincere in its commendable desire for greater conservation of our forests, let them come into the open market and in free and unrestricted competition purchase the wood that is now going to the United States, would conserve their own standing wood at their own risk and expense, instead of asking the government to apply a restrictive regulation that would either in whole or in part place the Canadian wood owner and producer at the mercy of the most powerful industrial group in Canada to-day, the newsprint ring of the Pulp and Paper Association." The Canadian Pulp and Paper Association has voluntarily chosen its own weapons and has stated its own case. It says that it urges this measure solely on the ground of conservation. On the basis of this official interview of Mr. Becks and the statements contained therein as appearing in the Canadian papers of February 2nd, the Canadian Pulpwood Association challenges the Canadian Pulp Paper Association to debate this question before the Press of Canada. At meetings to be held, one in the Maritime Provinces, one in Quebec and one in Ontario, at such times as may be convenient to the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, "The press of Canada has good right and reason to demand that either this challenge be accepted or that they decline to further provide the use of their columns to the advocates of a measure who refuse to appear before them for the purpose of a frank and open discussion of this important question, "the Canadian Pulp Wood Association asserts emphatically and definitely that there is, and never was, any conservation on this issue and that it will welcome the opportunity of demonstrating this to the entire satisfaction of the newspaper proprietors and editors from coast to coast if afforded an opportunity of doing so."

WOOD IS GUILTY.

Says Judge in Home Bank Trial—Sentence Next Week.

TORONTO, Feb. 5. — (Canadian Press)—S. Casey Wood, K.C., director of the Home Bank of Canada, whose trial on charges levelled under the Bank Act was continued last week, was found guilty this morning by Judge Emerson Coatsworth of negligently signing, approving and concurring in the monthly statement of the bank for February, 1923, as well as the annual statement of the bank issued May 31 in that year.

His Honor announced that he would sentence the director on Tuesday next along with R. P. Gough, vice-president of the institution, and J. F. M. Stewart, another director.

NEED MORE DOCTORS.

Outlying Districts of Manitoba in Greatest Need of Medical Attention.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 5. — (Canadian Press).—That "in view of the great need of medical attention and care in the outlying districts of the province, the local Council of Women do petition the Provincial Legislature to maintain the present nursing staff, and to increase, if possible, the appropriation for provincial health nursing," was the resolution recently passed by the local Council of Women. A resolution was also passed to be sent to the Executive of the National Council of Women, suggesting re-organization of that body as the Council has grown so rapidly and so many changes have occurred since its inauguration.

THE BLUE SUNDAY.

Puritan Day Sunday is Now Sought in Albany.

ALBANY, Feb. 5. — (Canadian Press).—A return to the "Blue Sunday" of Puritan days is sought in a bill now before the Assembly. It was introduced at the request of the Lord's Day Alliance.

The bill would prohibit barbering, labor and all sports on Sunday except with the express approval of the voters. Theatrical performances, motion picture exhibitions, public or social dancing and skating would be specifically prohibited on the Sabbath when an admission fee is charged.

This is the first of a series of "blue law" measures planned for introduction at this session.

Try to Curb Bread Price.

French Government Will Introduce a Bill to Ease Up Supplies.

PARIS, Feb. 5. — (Canadian Press).—The problem of how to curb the rising price of bread is greatly pre-occupying the Government, which has decided to introduce a bill with the object of facilitating wheat and bread supplies. It is expected that the bill, if it does not completely check the upward movement, will at least serve to keep the price of bread within reasonable bounds.

FEELING OLD AT FORTY

You Can Regain Your Vitality by Building Up Your Blood.

Middle age comes too soon if you let the care of lifes exhaust your blood, leaving you tired and worn out. Women, especially, are apt to neglect their health. All their anxiety is usually for other people. Housework consumes their vitality. They become middle-aged too soon and suffer in the process, merely because their blood is exhausted.

Not so the woman who realizes that the real unselfishness is to preserve her youth as long as she can. She does not cause anxiety to those who love her by being ill, or by always having headaches or backaches, or a pain in her side. Her blood is kept in good order—rich, red and pure; she is cheerful and active.

The vitality and youthfulness that abundance of good blood gives can all be yours if you like. To make rich ,red blood you have only to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. You will soon feel the new blood tingling in your veins; your headaches and backaches will go, your appetite will improve; you will be happy yourself and give happiness to others.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville.

This Little Brandon Lassie Is Never "Dosed" for Colds

The Browns Now Use the "External" Treatment for Croup and Cold Troubles.

Mrs. John Brown, of 426 24th St., Brandon, Man., is the mother of this fine little girl and one of the many Canadian mothers who now use the vaporizing salve, Vicks VapoRub, in treating the colds of all the family. After using Vicks for some time Mrs. Brown writes:

"I have eight small children—aged from one to twelve years—and can certainly say that Vicks is the only cold remedy I have in the house all winter. If the cold is in the childs' head I just put a little up each nostril and it gives relief in a short time. If it is in the chest I rub Vicks well in at night and by morning the cold has almost disappeared. I also use Vicks for chilblains and for burns—in fact, I use it too for severe headaches and find relief in a very short time. I always recommend Vicks to my friends especially those who have children."

Vicks is the eternal direct treatment for cold troubles—absorbed like a liniment and inhaled as a vapor. It is the ideal treatment for children's colds, just as good, too, for adults.

Very Surprising Golf "Come-Back" of the Dethroned Tennis Queen

Science Explains Her Uncanny Ability to Win on the Links After Her Decisive Defeat on the Court

Remarkable Camera-Analysis of Miss Browne Completing a Follow-Through With Her Brassie. The Precision of Her Poise Proves That Admirable Golf Technique May Be Acquired By a Retired Tennis Champion.

Miss Glenna Collett, 1923 American Golf Champion, Whose Defeat on the Links by the Ex-Tennis Queen, Mary K. Browne, Astounded the Entire World of Sports.

MARY K. BROWNE, of California, American tennis champion ten years ago, and since retired, invaded the East this Fall in a heroic effort to "come back" and regain the national title.

She is said to be thirty-five years old, but looked under thirty when her friends welcomed her at Forest Hills, Long Island, —and was splendidly "fit."

She played smashing tennis, but really had no chance to win. She beat several high-ranking contenders, but when she came to Helen Wills she went down with the inevitability of fate, 6—2, 6—0.

Immediately thereafter, she did a very remarkable thing.

"All right," said she. "I can't win the tennis title, so I'll go out and try to take the championship in golf!"

Into the press went the racket, and out of the bag came the brassie, and presently, after a little practice, on September 5,

Mary K. Browne astonished the entire world of sports by beating the national woman golf champion, Miss Glenna Collett, in the American title tournament, at the Rhode Island Country Club.

To be sure, Miss Browne was defeated in the finals, but the point is that she really had no chance to regain the tennis championship, and that she missed the golf championship only by a few strokes.

And this point is arousing just as much interest among scientists, physicians and physical culture experts as it is in the world of sports.

Sketches Illustrating Divergence of Physical Effort in Golf and Tennis. Note Muscular Activity of Tennis-Player as Contrasted with Gradual Movement of Golfer.

It has revived animated discussions as to the relative differences between golf and tennis, and has raised the question as to whether there is any specific reason why an all-round athlete, retired for years, should be able to make a better comeback in golf than in the other game.

Here is an analysis by an expert in both sports which may answer that question:

Golf and tennis are similar in the following particulars:

In each, the essence of a "play" or "shot" consists of striking a ball with an especially designed instrument, in such a way that its speed and direction are controlled and in certain cases to impart a spinning motion to the ball while it is in the air.

In each there is a variety of "strokes" to be mastered, and these strokes, in golf and tennis alike, require a certain position of the feet and of the body. They require form. The racket or club, similarly, though with different technique, must be drawn back for the stroke in certain sweeping areas, and after it comes in contact with the ball there must be a certain "follow through" in order to assure the right direction and spin.

Above all, in both golf and tennis, there must be accurate "timing." To play either game in form requires a complete rhythm as well defined as in music or in "classical dancing"—though in a good player this "timing" or "rhythm" becomes unconscious and natural.

Interesting "Close-Up" of Miss Browne, Emphasizing Her Determined Mouth and Forceful Chin, Indicative of the Stamina Which Enabled Her to "Come Back" as an Athlete.

In golf the player has practically limitless time in which to address the ball and make his shot. Within the limits of courtesy and mutual tolerance he can stroll around it and look at it from the four points of the compass.

In tennis, once the ball is in play, the shots must be made under stress and strain, with great rapidity, the player and his opponent leaping about and in practically continuous motion.

And the greatest difference of all—which will probably have a determining influence on Miss Mary Browne's subsequent athletic career—is that tennis requires greater endurance, greater expenditure of strength, greater power of "wind" and muscle.

In an eighteen-hole round of golf, a good player makes approximately eighty strokes—the better he is, the fewer strokes he makes.

In three sets of tennis, a good player makes approximately from 1,000 to 1,500 strokes—assuming that he is playing with an opponent of equal skill—and the better he is, if his opponent is equally good, the more strokes he makes.

And it is by the combination of all these comparative reasons that experts predict that if Mary Browne stages another athletic come-back for a national championship next year or the year following, she is much more likely to win it on a golf fairway than on the tennis court.

Away back in 1912, Mary Browne came East from California, a mere slip of a girl, with her hair in long, black braids, and, to everybody's astonishment, romped away with all the tennis honors in the national woman's field.

She won the national singles with her smashing defeat of Mrs. Hazel Wightman, then champion.

She won the women's doubles, with another California girl champion as her partner, and then she took the mixed doubles, aided by a promising young chap by the name of William Tilden.

Her instructors had been her brother, Nat, and Miss May Sutton, the famous California star.

Mary K. Browne, during the next three years, met and defeated all contenders for the championship, including Eleanora Sears, and retained her title through 1914.

That was the year Mrs. Mallory (then Molla Bjurstedt) made her great debut as American contender. Mary Browne was not defeated in actual play with Molla, but defaulted to her, voluntarily relinquishing the title she had successfully defended for three years.

In 1914, just ten years ago, Miss Browne retired from the field of competitive championship tennis to enter the world of business, via the paying teller's cage in one of John D. Rockefeller's banks in California.

At that time Mary Browne was regarded as probably the greatest woman tennis player America had ever produced. It was an open question as to whether she could have beaten Mrs. Mallory, and that question presently was solved in an interesting way.

Soon after America's entry into the war, in 1917, the Red Cross, in need of funds, appealed to Miss Browne and Molla Mallory to tour the country in a series of exhibition tournaments to raise money to care for wounded soldiers in France.

Both of the women patriotically responded; a series of great exhibitions resulted, and Mary Browne won most of the matches. Since then she has been defeated in play by Mrs. Mallory, but at that time she had the better of it.

Then Miss Browne retired again—if purely exhibition matches could be called coming out of retirement—and nothing more was heard of her in national championship play until 1921.

She was known as stylist par excellence of tennis, her volleying strokes and net game being noted for their perfection. She is one of the few women who crowd to the net at every opportunity. Molla Mallory stands in deep back and slams. Helen Wills is best in back. But Mary came to the front.

PETERBORO AND VISITING RINKS NEARING FINALS OF BONSPIEL

George Morrow and Ross Dobbin Were Still Up in Two Competitions When Third Day's Play Resumed This Morning—Some of the Visitors Were Still "Sweeping" About 4 P.M.

FOUR-CUP SERIES IN FULL SWING

The Peterborough Curling Club's bonspiel reached its full tide yesterday with four competitions in progress at the Charlotte and Brock Street rinks, and by evening the ebb set in as the fittest surviving rinks drew towards the breakers of the semi-finals, after passages that had been close and heavy enough, through the sixteens or third round and the first stages.

George Morrow and Ross Dobbin were carrying the colors of Peterboro toward the finals this morning in both the Morrow and Matthews-Blackwell trophy series. In the Morrow field, the donor of the cup himself was playing in the eights this morning against Dr. Harvie of Orillia, and in the same stage Geo. Hill and Ross Dobbin were fighting for a place in the semi-finals, the winner of the first pair meeting the winner of the second later in the day. In the meantime Alex Kay of the local club and C. Truman of Claremont were in the fours or semi-finals, the winner of this game waiting for the Morrow vs Harvie and Dobbin vs Hill engagements to produce a finalist rink.

Peterboro, on paper, had the advantage in this competition with four crack rinks still in the running against the two surviving visitors, the veteran Orillia Doctor and Truman of Claremont.

Matthews-Blackwell.

The score sheet for the Matthews-Blackwell trophy early this morning showed three home and three visiting rinks still in the money, George Morrow and Ross Dobbin were away out in the semi-finals and pitched against each other while trailing in the eights round were Hare of Oshawa against Edmunds of Millbrook and Billy Oke of Port Hope facing Louie Bowes of Peterboro.

Played Late.

Meanwhile the visiting rinks with the Waddell trophy all to themselves elected late last night to carry the battle farther into the wee small hours than ever and some of them took the ice after 1 a.m. in order to speed up winnowing process. It meant that the defeated rinks could get hom by the morning trains instead of waiting until late today for decisions. The Peterboro trophy schedule was also well advanced, and many of the skips were groaning just about the usual bedtime hour from kinks and aches that were yelling for rest and a hot tub as a balm for the unaccustomed strenuosity of a long string of games that simply had to be played.

"Boys oh boys" said George Morrow as he mounted the stairs after beating W.H. Wood of Lindsay in a rattling game that was anybody's right up to the last stone.

"Come back next year," the bonspiel chairman (Morrow) invited. "That was the best curling I've had so far."

"We'll be back if we're alive," was the response from one of the Lindsay curlers, and they all took the immobile escalator to the "roof garden" where Tommy Hooper dispensed steaming soup, coffee and other refreshments with cheerful greetings and gratulation for victors and vanquished.

Maybe the Adanac Quartette didn't sneak down from Toronto, but the choruses during the evening sounded rich in tenors and bases, sweet harmonies resounding from above until Jack Renwich wondered whether he could sign some of them up for his choir.

Youngsters Did Well.

Walter Rye's Collegiate rink was one of the features of the bonspiel. They were finally beaten in the Morrow series last night by Truman of Claremont after winning 18-8 from Hare of Oshawa and 12-8 from Fred Easson of Keene. The rink handled themselves splendidly and Skip Rye appeared as cool on the tee as any veteran.

The visitors were heaped with all the games they wanted, the ice was in great shape, although as the weather moderated the stones began to draw more widely, and everybody seemingly had two big days of curling.

Results up to last night at 12 o'clock were as follows:

THREE GIANTS ARE CLEARED OF BLAME

Kelly, Frisch and Young Completely Exonerated.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Three New York Giant players — Frankie Frisch, Ross Young and George L. Kelly—named by Jimmy O'Connell as implicated in his attempt to bribe Heinie Sand, Philadelphia National League shortstop, were completely exonerated by Assistant District Attorney George E. Brothers in a report made to District Attorney Banton yesterday following the termination of the states' investigation of the scandal. The assistant District Attorney contends that O'Connell may be guilty of a violation of the penal law governing such cases, by virtlue of his own testimony and the testimony of Sand, but that the question of indicting O'Connell would await the return of Commissioner Landis from Panama, where he went on a brief vacation.

Mr. Brothers also contended that O'Connell's testimony does not place a stain on the record of Cozy Dolan also named by O'Connell as being the instigator in the bribe, but that Dolan's status remains unchanged due to the indecisiveness of his answers during the hearing before Landis and his own investigation.

"There is no legal evidence to justify the belief that Kelly, Frisch and Young had anything whatsoever to do with this alleged bribe," said Mr. Brothers.

NINE-YEAR BOY JUMPS 105 FEET

Little Arthur Johnson Made Perfect Landing on Revelstoke Ski Slide.

WINTER SPORTS

REVELSTOKE B.C., Feb. 5.—Lined in front of the world's highest ski-hill here Wednesday afternoon, a thousand winter sport devotees from all points in Western America saw little Arthur Johnson, "baby wonder of the ski world," whirl 105 feet through space and make a perfect landing on the side of Mount Revelstoke. This feat of the nine-year-old wonder, was the big thrill of the opening day of the world's ski-jumping championships, which are being held here Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week.

The Canadian Pacific Railway is running extra trains to bring in the crowds this year.

Seventy boys aged 9 to 16, went over the take-off without a mishap, though several sensational spills were witnessed. Some of the youngsters were mere tots, but they displayed that brand of youthful nerve which does not survive into middle age.

Miss Isabel Coursier, who holds the world's ladies record of 171 feet, made a trial jump of 100 feet, preparatory to her contest to hold on to her crown here Wednesday.

E. Endren, of Trail, B.C., won the seven mile ski-run during the morning events in 32 minutes and 41 seconds, winning out by 15 seconds over the veteran champion, J. Cunnarson, who has won this event during the last ten years. The ladies' open ski race of one mile was won by Mrs. J. Cunnarson in 7 minutes and 32 seconds, which was exceptionally good time, since the cross country events included climbing the lower reaches of Mount Revelstoke. The boys' three mile cross country race on skis was won by R. Hume in 24 minutes and 45 seconds.

The revelstoke carnival opened on the deepest snowfall in British Columbia since 1910, thirteen feet of snow having fallen this winter, seven feet of which fell last month, making the present depth on the surrounding country eight feet deep on the level.

GIANTS' CAST-OFF HAD BIG SEASON

Jesse Barnes, With Tail-End Braves, Upset McGraw's Judgment.

BY BILLY EVANS

When a pitcher on a misfit, tail-end club bears down throughout the season and gives the best he has, he is entitled to at least favorable mention. Such is the case of Jesse Barnes, the senior member of the Barnes' pitching family.

Barnes, it will be recalled, paid the penalty of one of John J. McGraw's numerous deals with the Boston Braves a year ago.

When Mac feels that he has a veteran who is skidding he negotiates with the Boston Braves. Barnes, although aiding the Giants to their pennants in 1921, 1922 and 1923, was shipped to the Braves last winter.

And yet lean Jesse, moving from a pennant winner to a tail-ender, did not sulk. He was one of the best pitchers in the National League last season.

Barnes Ranks With Leaders

With a team that only won 52 games, Barnes hurled 15 victories and was charged with 20 defeats. Vance with 28, Grimes with 22, Carl Mays with 20, Ray Kremer with 18, Pete Donohue with 16, Virgil Barnes with 16 and Tony Kaufmann with 16 were the only right-handers in the National League to win more games than Barnes.

In pitching efficiency Barnes ranked with the leaders with a mark of .320.

There was Jack Bentley of the Giants who had a record of 16 victional League who do not agree ponents averaged 5.02 earned runs off the husky southpaw.

There are six managers in the National League who do not agrees Jesse Barnes is through, for it is known that the owners of the Braves have been flooded with trade offers for the right-hander this winter.

Barnes made the Giants swallow three bitter pills last season, scoring three victories over his former team.

Carl Mays of the Reds faced the Giants four times and was beaten in each trip to the hill.

Tony Kaufmann, Walter Reuther and Johnny Stuart, who also stand high in pitching circles, were beaten four out of five times by the Giants.

BARRIE RINK WON TANKARD

Greasy Ice Made Judgment Difficult—Margin of 14 Shots.

BURDEN SERIES.

TORONTO, Feb. 5. — (Canadian Press).—Playing on greasy ice, the kind that is difficult to get a foothold in the hacks and hard to judge the weight, the Barrie Curling Club yesterday afternoon, at the Granite Club, defeated Owen Sound in the Ontario Silver Tankard finals by a margin of 14 shots.

These two rinks qualified for the finals when they disposed of Brampton and Stratford in the morning on good curling ice, but with a rising temperature it was apparent at noon that the surface would not be conducive to good curling in the afternoon, and the finalists at one stage considered postponing the event until a later date, but after consideration it was decided that owing to the distance the two clubs had to travel, to go on with the game.

President William Turnbull, of the Ontario Curling Association, presented the Tankard and prizes to the winners, the players calling upon Mr. Jackson, a member of the Barrie Curling Club, to respond.

Play has reached the semi-finals in the Burden Trophy, and these games will be played to-day at the Oakwood Club, with the finals in the afternoon. The draw for the semi-finals follows:

Peterboro vs. St. Thomas.
Brampon vs. Owen Sound.

CURE FOR DIABETES

This May Be Found By Purifying Insulin.

PASADENA, Cal., Feb. 5. — A positive cure for diabetes through elimination of impurities in so-called pure insulin, is being sought here at the California Institute of Technology by Dr. John J. Abel, professor of pharmocology and physiological chemistry of Johns Hopkins University.

For some time physicians and scientists have been administering insulin believing it to be pure, said Dr. Abel. Recently he found that even the purest contained foreign materials. He then obtained leave of absence and came here to continue his search for means of eliminating these impurities.

If it is possible to obtain insulin in an absolutely pure and free state, its effect on the human body will be far more positive than it is at the present time, Dr. Abel said.

KINGSTON PROS AFTER STADIUM

Cherry, Gallagher and Compeau Named for Lee's Team.

KINGSTON, Feb.4.— In connection with the operation of a professional base ball club in Kingston this summer, it is an open secret that efforts have been made to get the Richardson Stadium as a playing field, and if plans go through as it is hoped the local pros. will disport there, provided the authorities at Queen's give consent.

"Knotty" Lee has examined the field and stated that it is amply large enough for a baseball field. By placing the home plate at end of the field in front of the press box, the infield, could be so arranged as to give a fairly long right field. By this means the center field and left field would be plenty long enough.

Mr. Lee points out that his plans would not mean any damage to the playing field. He would not have the infield "skinned", but merely the running paths, and the pitcher's and catcher's box, thus having a grassy infield. The field would also be vacated about the middle of September, thus not interfering with the rugby season.

The Athletic Board of control, at their meeting had the matter under consideration, and deferred action until a later meeting. It is, however, pointed out by local fans that it is a pity that the stadium should be used only for four or five times a year for rugby, and then remain idle the rest of the year.

Nevertheless "Knotty" Lee states that in any event the team will operate here. He has received three or four offers of fields, and will have everything ready for the opening of the season. It is known that on his team there will be three Kingstonians, Gallagher, Cherry and Compeau, while several Kingstonians, now out of the city will also be on the team. In addition there will be several budding stars from higher pro leagues, all of whom will be training in the south and will be in the pink of condition for the opening of the season. "Knotty" himself plans to take his team south to train so that Kingston will see a well-conditioned team when the season opens.

SECOND PETES PLAY TONIGHT

Intermediates Meet Lakefield Team in Sudden Death O.H.A. Playoff.

The first Intermediate O.H.A. game of the season is on the cards for tonight when the local intermediates play Kennedy's Colts of the Lakefield District League. The locals have had a long wait for this game but have been practicing faithfully. The Colts have gathered up the cream of the Lakefield talent and are confident that they can win right in Peterboro. The winner of this game will play either Tweed or Havelock on Saturday afternoon at the Brock.

HAMILTON SCORED RAGGED VICTORY

Increased Lead by Defeating Canadiens 3 to 0—Forbes Brilliant.

MONTREAL, Feb. 5.— (Canadian Press). Hamilton increased their lead at the head of the National Hockey League race here last night when they defeated the champion Canadiens, 3 to 0 and thus widened the gap in the race between these two clubs for first place to seven points.

It was not a brilliant hockey game. The teams started cautiously awaiting breaks.

Hamilton's first two goals were scored while Coutu, in one case, and Sprague Cleghorn in another, were serving penalties. Canadiens deserved a better showing in the scoring columns but they found Forbes, a most brilliant figure in Tiger net.

ST. PATS IN THIRD PLACE.

Teams Spent 36 Minutes on Bench in First Period.

TORONTO, Feb. 5.— (Canadian Press).—St. Patricks regained third place in the N.H.L. standing last night by defeating Montreal Maroons 3 to 2 in a league fixture at the arena which was featured more by strenuous tactics than high class hockey. But, as usual, the lack of hockey was made up for by the closeness of the struggle and the many individual encounters which enlivened the proceedings and resulted in fifteen penalties, two of which were majors. The offences ranged from tripping and talking to slashing and cross checking and most of them were handed out in the first period, when the two teams served 36 minutes between them on the bench.

FAST JUNIOR GAME ON FRIDAY NIGHT

Bowmanville Should Give the Youngsters a Real Battle.

Bowmanville Juniors will be here tomorrow night thirsting for revenge for the trimming handed out on their own ice by the Junior Petes. They have a crew of huskies who swept through the fast Lakeshore group without trouble and are inclined to consider their defeat of Monday night as being somewhat fluky. The local youngsters are out to prove that they can repeat the dose and the fur should fly from the very first gong. The Petes are right at the top of their game and the fans should not miss this opportunity of looking over the Seniors of years to come.

SHALL LOCAL SOCCER PLAYERS AFFILIATE?

Question Will Be Settled at Meeting Next Monday Evening.

At present, local soccer circles is all astir over the question of affiliation to Ontario Football Association. It has been the custom of the P. and D.F.A. since the inauguration of the soccer league in the city to be included in organized football, but William Cooke, three times president of P. and D.F.A., has always debated the point financially, ever since his entry into Executive board many years ago.

At last Monday evening's annual meeting, the retiring president's address was very frankly and truthfully placed before the incoming executive because no return is forthcoming for the finance spent annually. No doubt, this is the truth and deserves the attention of every soccer enthusiast as well as player who will be implicated in more ways than one. Every player should make it his business to be at the next meeting, to place his views before the gathering, for or against.

Opinions Differ.

Different expressions of opinion was divulged during the debate on the subject, in regards to the player's status, teams finances and suspension that may be forthcoming as an unorganized association. One member of the board upheld his principle of organized soccer and stated, "We shall be rated the same as the C.F.A.—an outlaw body. Thats my own opinion."

Finance! Finance!!

The questions is money! The P. and D.F.A. has been paying affiliation fees for years that have wrought havoc on the asset column, now they wan't to kill the liability wholesale. There is nothing for the money spent, therefore, it is wrong. Then, there is the question of players registration, transfer and status as a bona-fide soccer player in the Province. It is up to the soccer enthusiasts themselves to decide this important question at the adjourned annual meeting to be held in the Chamber of Commerce Rooms, on Monday evening, February 9th, at 8 o'clock.

SOCCER NOTES.

There was only three teams represented at the annual meeting, Canadian Woollens, Quaker Oats and Thistle. It was stated that the G.W.V.A. would not enter this year but in all probability another will make a four team league.

The Quaker Oats teams are holding a basket social in the Ladies' Tea Rooms, in the Quaker Oats plant, on Friday evening.

Many retirements are slated again this year of players who will stand on the touch-line and watch the other fellows. Of course, when it comes to the time we may see them don the sweater.

Canadian Woollens have secured the services of Procter, who played for Brantford against Peterboro in the Plenty Cup here last year. He is a right half of high standard.

It is rumored that Charlie Griffin, the ex-G.G.E.-G.W.V.A. goal-keeper will adore himself with a maroon and goal sweater this year.

HASTINGS WON FROM MARMOR.

Good Brand of Hockey Displayed in Game at Hastings.

SCORE WAS 4-2

HASTINGS, Feb. 5.—The Hastings Hockey team defeated Marmora on local ice on Tuesday evening, when the game ended, the score being 4-2.

The first period provided the fans with a lot of interesting hockey. Both teams checked well and the play was fairly even, each team securing one goal. "Scotty" Clopper, the local defence man went right through in ten minutes of play and scored the first goal.

Marmora scored five minutes after.

In the second period both teams worked wonderfully well and although several shots were aimed at each goal not one of them beat either goalie. The Marmora goalie might well be termed the star player as he stopped a drove of shots, which looked like sure counters.

Joe Gould, on wing, played a whale of a game and Lynn Hill the centre man was as usual very effective.

The last period opened up strong and a real brand of hockey was displayed by the players, both teams aiming hard to break the tie. The locals were successful when in four minutes Clopper scored and six minutes later Stevenson also scored.

Marmora got in on enlarging the score and in thirteen minutes after the ringing of the bell brought their score up to two. With three minutes yet to play Hill tallied another for the locals.

The visitors were a clean bunch of players and very little rough stuff was displayed, thereby causing few penalties.

Mr. M. Whitty of Stirling handled the game splendidly and gave good satisfaction to both teams.

The teams:

Marmora—Goal, Hulin; right defence, Neil; left defence, Dullock; centre, McWilliams; left wing, H. Ackers; left wing, Wallis; spare, J. Ackers.

Hastings—Goal, N. Scriver; right defence, I. Doonan; left defence, S. Clapper; centre, L. Hill; right wing, J. Gould; left wing, J. Waye; spare, Stevenson.

GOOD TEAM FOR INTERMEDIATES

Grover Halpin Rounds Up Strong Line for To-night's Game.

Grover Halpin has rounded up a strong line-up for the first appearance of his intermediate team to-night at Brock Street Rink, in an Intermediate O.H.A. fixture against Lakefield. The Petes will have the following roster:

Goaol—Templett.
Defence—Halpin, Lackey.
Centre—E. Williams.
Wings—La Pierre, Foley, Holland, McPherson.

With Templett, the senior subgoaler in the nets and Halpin and Lackey in front of him, the defence should be strong, while there is plenty of speed on the forward line. Foley has been with the Seniors all season ,although has not figured in a Senior O.A.H. game. La Pierre was with Timmins last year, and Scotty McPherson with the Peterboro Intermediates, while Williams and Holland are graduates from last year's Junior team.

The Intermediates had a rattling practice game with the Seniors last night, and showed good form. They should round out into a strong aggregation.

Joe Dwyer will referee to-night's game, which is a sudden death affair; the winner to play Tweed or Havelock here on Saturday afternoon.

Tonight's game is called for 8.30 o'clock sharp.

PARKDALE ARE EVEN WITH VARSITY

Parkdale's victory in Hamilton last night put the Paddlers up on even terms with Varsity again, and the next meeting between the two will about decide which team will get into the group play off. As the group stands now, the Petes are a game ahead of Parkdale and Varsity and all three have two games each to play. If the Petes win both games they are sure of first place; if they win only one they are sure of second and if they were beaten in Hamilton and by Varsity here they could not get worse than a tie for second place.

The Standing:

	Won.	Lost.	To Play
Peterboro	5	1	2
Varsity	4	2	2
Parkdale	4	2	2
Hamilton	1	5	2
Aura Lee	1	5	2

WILL DEMPSEY MARRY?

Champ Sets Hearts A-flutter When He Takes Girl and Baggage.

LOS ANGELES, February 5. — Reportorial agitation over the marriage plans of Jack Dempsey, heavyweight ring champion, bubbled up anew when Dempsey's motor car paused in front of Miss Estelle Taylor's home long enough late yesterday to permit the actress, her maid and a heap of baggage, to be transferred from the sidewalk to the tonneau.

After the car had vanished excitement in screen and sporting circles grew by leaps and bounds until Jack Kearns, the champions's manager, revealed that Dempsey was going to San Diego to second one o his pugilistic friends in a boxing bout.

Kearns added that Dempsey's mother went along too.

The explanation gave the investigators a chance to get their second wind, after which they took up the chase again, with the remark that one does not usually take one's mother and fiancee to see a second rate fight, even it one is interested in that sort of thing.

CIVIL MARRIAGE LAW JUDGMENT

Decision in Case of Catholic Married to Man of Another Faith.

DECLARED VALID.

Judge Points Out Dilemma Caused by Anomaly.

QUEBEC, Feb. 5.—Holding that the civil law is supreme in marriage cases, Mr. Justice Belleau in the Superior Court declared valid the marriage celebrated by an Anglican minister of Jeanne Plante, a French-Canadian Catholic, to William Zannis, an orothodox Greek. The ecclesiastical tribunal of the Catholic Church had refused to deal with the case when application for annulment was made, on the ground that there was no marriage at all. Five children were born of the union, three of whom are living.

The husband opposed the request of his wife, on the ground that decisions of the Privy Council and jurisprudence in general could not be interfered with, and that, notwithstanding the fact that one of the contracting paries was a Catholic and that the ceremony had been performed by a minister of the Church of England, he was duly married.

His Lordship, reviewing the facts, said that the question put to him was "to decide as to the validity in the eyes of the law of a marriage between a Catholic and a non-Catholic before a minister of Protestant religion after a license from the publication of banns had been obtained. In other words, that of the validity of a marriage, contracted by a Catholic outside of the participation of the Catholic Church."

Cites Tremblay Case.

Further on His Lordship said that the doctrine of the Catholic Church was that marriage was a divine institution which had been elevated by the Church to the 'dignity of a sacrament. According to the "Ne Temere" decree, which had been given the force of a general law in 1908, marriage in the conditions affecting the two parties in the case was not valid.

Quoting cases, Mr. Justice Belleau cited that of Depatie-Tremblay. His Lordship explained that in this case the decision had been like a thunderbolt in a clear sky. He commented on the ruling of the Privy Council, which concluded by stating, "The law did not interfere in any way with the jurisdiction of any ecclesiastical courts of the Roman Catholic religion over the members of that communion so far as questions of conscience were concerned, but it give to them no civil operation."

Suggesting remedies to what he claims to be dangerous legislation, Justice Belleau then states that the formalities of marriage do not depend on England, on the treaties, or on the constitution of 1867, but on the provinces.

"Let us say with regret," says his lordship, "it is the work of our own legislation, compiled by Catholic jurists in general, to which code of law our Catholic legislature has given a sanction and has allowed to subsist ever since, notwithstanding the solemn warning given in the judgment of the privy council.

'What can we say, and what excuse have we got? By subsection 12 of section 92 of the British North America Act, all what regards formalities concerning the celebration of marriage is of the exclusive competency of provinces, which nobody can contest.'

Suggests Legislative Action.

After referring to decisions supporting his views on that subject, his lordship suggests: "I do not think that the interpretation I have given has ever been contested, and I wonder, under those conditions, what can prevent the legislature of our province giving force of law to the regulations of the Catholic church regarding the validity of marriage, recognizing at the same time the same privilege for the dissenting churches if they wish to use it. Every one would benefit from it, and consciences would be greatly relieved. It is in the spirit of our legislation to give to all creeds what we want for ourselves. I am convinced that the Protestant element would accept willingly a change which would bring satisfaction to Catholic consciences, without interfering with the liberties of others. Under the provisions of the Edict of Nantes in France, the Protestant marriages were performed by Protestant ministers, and the Catholic marriages by a Catholic priest. The Protestants found that law liberal and fair to every one."

Then his lordship added that the present legislation might provoke unhappy marriages, and also help people getting married without due consent.

In closing he referred to the effect of his decision as far as the Catholic party was concerned, as she would be, by obeying the judgment acting against her conscience. As far as he was concerned himself, he had to go against his own church, was facing a dilemma by which, as a Catholic, to obey jurisprudence he and he once more called the attention of the legislature to the anomaly.

The marriage was duly declared valid, and the petition of the petitioner dismissed with costs.

ANTIS REFUTE UNION CLAIMS

Say More People Have Voted Against Union in Ontario Than For.

CHALLENGE GIVEN.

TORONTO, Feb. 5.—The Presbyterian Church Association issued the following statement to-day:

As Dr. Pidgeon, convener of the Union Committee, has recently stated in an interview with the press, that even excluding those congregations which are said to be entering Union without a vote, there is a majority of several thousands in Ontario for Union, the following correction is issued by the Presbyterian Church Association:

Total votes for Union in Ontario up to and including February 2, 1925—47,604.

Total votes in Ontario against Union—37,413.

It is particularly desirable in the interest of all concerned, that the Union Committee produce the evidence for the statement made by the convenor. The Presbyterian Church Association is prepared to publish its list of Ontario congregations which have actually voted for and against, till this date.

Until the same date, 62 congregations and mission stations in Ontario are reported as having resolved to enter Union without a vote. The following facts are to be noted:

(1) The names of these congregations have been given mainly on the authority of the Union Bureau, no evidence of the fact beyond their mere statement having been offered.

(2) Any or all of these congregations may yet vote before June 10th.

(3) The total number of communicants in these congregations is 3,721 and among them are many members who, if a vote were taken, would vote against Union.

(4) Yet even if all the communicants were assumed to be Unionists and added to the actual Union vote in the Province, the grand total for Union would be 51,325, leaving a majority still against Union of 6,088.

HERE'S A FILM THAT RECALLS BOYHOOD DAYS

Influence National Heroes Have On Youngsters is Vividly Depicted.

There's many an official of high rating in the business world who was just once just an alley kid—and often times a tough kid at that.

And that fact hasn't been overlooked by the press agents who have their own little axes to grind. The results of the efforts of the press agents are well apparent. There is scarcely a prominent figure in the world's affairs who does not have the interest of the public centering around his life, especially his boyhood.

The same thing holds true in the kingdom of sport. For every champion in every line of sport there is a world of interest in the individual himself.

So when the baseball public commenced to cast its favor toward one Bat Shugrue, home-run king of the Pacific Coast Baseball League and hero of "Trifling With Honor," the Universal-Jewel production which will open at the Royal Theatre today, Kelsey Lewis, a writer for a Sports news syndicate, conceived the idea of writing a series of articles on the life of Bat Shugrue.

The result of the published articles was the remoulding of the life of a tough kid of the alleys who tried to live in reality the kind of life that the newspaper articles described in the autobiography of the famous baseball player.

G. T. SOMERS,
Crown Life Insurance Company.

William Slavens McNutt evolved a story of unusual human interest when he write the story for Collier's Weekly.

The story was adapted to the screen by Frank Beresford and Raymond L. Schrock and produced at Universal City under the direction of Harry A. Pollard with an all-star cast.

The gripping interest of the story has been entirely sustained in the picture which affords a high quality entertainment.

A strong cast is headed by such well-known players as Rockcliffe Fellowes, Fritzi Ridgeway, Buddy Messinger, Hayden Stevenson, Emmett King, Wiliam Welsh, Frederick Stanton and William Robert Daly.

AT THE CAPITOL

For its mid-week offering, the Capitol has an interesting feature picture in "Love's Wilderness," starring the lovely Corinne Griffith, and her co-actors, Holmes Herbert and David Torrence. The role of the heroine, Linda Lou, as essayed by Corinne Griffith, is an entirely new type for this star, and she gives an admirable presentation of the romantic little Southern girl, lured into a hasty marriage that takes her to the wilds of the Canadian North-West. Paul Lestrange, her reckless young husband, deserts her at the call of adventure and she marries David Tennant, her first love.

The action of the play starts at this point, with a twice-married heroine as the main figure in the triangular drama. To Devil's Island she goes with her husband and finds there the errant Paul, a convict doomed to life imprisonment. Some stirring and unusual scenes, filmed in the Malayan jungles, ensue, and a satisfactory finale comes to pass only after numerous thrilling episodes. It is an interesting picture, with novel backgrounds, an appealing heroine, and an entertaining theme.

The usual short reels are as good as ever. There is a novel "Radio" film, and a hilarious comedy, starring Harry Langon, in "The Cat's Meow."

"PETER PAN," PARAMOUNT FILM, COMING TO CAPITOL

Found—an American boy who doesn't want to grow up and be president.

He is "Peter Pan" in Herbert Brenon's production for Paramount of J. M. Barrie's popular fantasy.

Because Peter heard his mother say that one day he would grow up and be president, he ran away from home the day he was born.

"I won't grow up and be president I want to remain a boy and have fun," says the wonderful little woodland sprite whose story has appealed to millions since it first appeared on the stage of the Duke of York theatre, London, December twenty-seventh, 1904

Betty Bronson, selected by Barrie himself, plays the role of "Peter Pan." Ernest Torrence, Cryril Chadwick, Virginia Brown Faire and Anna May Wong are featured in the production which will be shown tomorrow and Saturday at the Capitol Theatre.

Willis Goldbeck wrote the scenario and Roy Pomeroy assisted Brenon on the technical end of the picture.

"DUMB DORA."

Anyone who is curious about the title of the one-act comedy that is being added to the regular picture programme at the Capitol Theatre on next Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday nights, and on Wednesday afternoon, will be unable to locate the significance of the two words in the ordinary dictionary. A "dumb Dora" is a slang term that is applied to a certain type. If you would like to obtain a little information on the type, come and see the play next week. It will be put on in snappy fashion under the direction of Mrs. W. McKee Bingham, with an additional attraction in the songs of Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park, who is enacting the role of Miss Lillian Booth, a singer in the cast. Spring gowns will be supplied by Barrie's, Limited, and stage furnishings by R. Hall & Son, Limited.

AT THE REGENT

"The Narrow Street," one of the season's "best sellers" from the pen of Edwin Bateman Morris, has been re-created on the screen by Warner Bros., and will begin its engagement at the Regent Theatre to-day.

Possessing all the qualities of mystery, romance and humour that made it a "best seller" it is expected that the picture will more than live up to the written word by translating the whimsical interest of the novel on to the screen.

Warner Bros., have been particularly happy in their choice of players to interpret the roles of the leading characters, who it will be remembered proved the surprising combination of a staid bachelor, unaccustomed to social superficiality and a dashing maid of mysterious identity.

Matt Moore, whose name needs no introduction to the theatre going public, will be seen in the part of the bachelor Simon Haldane, and knowing his penchant for humorous interpretations, the bashful hero promises to prove very enjoyable.

Dorothy Devore, on the other hand has been chosen to portray Doris who injects pep into the erstwhile colorless life of Simon. She appears suddenly in his home, out of a bitter storm, and throws herself on his mercy for refuge. This characterization calls for sparkle and snap and it is expected that Dorothy Devore, with her Christie Comedy experience, will more than fill the bill.

William Beaudine has directed "The Narrow Street," which was adapted for the screen by Julien Josephson, David Butler, Russell Simpson, Gertrude Short, Tempe Pigott, Kate Toncray and other notables complete the cast.

COST OF LIVING IS BIG PROBLEM

Speech from the Throne Outlines Problems Before Parliament.

FREIGHT RATES.

OTTAWA, Feb. 5. — Canadian Press. — Governor-General Lord Byng of Vimy, opened the Fourth session of Canada's fourteenth Parliament.

It was an opening marked by all the historic old ceremonial but opening in an air of political uncertainties.

The questions in minds of members were: Would the session be a bitter battle ground preliminary to dissolution and a general election, or would it drag through five months, and the life of the persent Parliament end next year, having run its constitutional course?

It was a brilliant scene as the Governor-General rose in the Senate Chamber to read the Speech from the Throne, and thus outline the government's proposed legislative programme for the session.

"The problem of the cost of living is the most important that the Ministers have before them at the present time,' said the Speech from the Throne. The ultimate solution lay in increased production and wider markets, it was declared, and with this object in view every effort was being made, said the speech, to attract the right class of immigrants to Canada, and to secure their settlement on the land.

The Speech continued: "It is the opinion of my advisers that the attention of Parliament at the present session should be directed more particularly to the desirability of affecting a freer movement of commodities through an equalization of railway freight rates between the provinces and localities, and the lowering of the carrying charges upon shipments by water of products of the farm, mine, forest, fisheries and of our manufacturing industries.

"Some measure of control of transportation by land and sea is obviously essential to the promotion of inter-Imperial trade, the expansion of export trade generally and the development of Canadian trade by Canadian ports.

"The procedure it may be advisable to follow with respect to railway freight rates will in some measure necessarily depend upon the decision of the Supreme Court in the appeal respecting the Crow's Nest Pass agreement."

With regard to ocean freight rates action is being taken to overcome the restraints on export trade due to the exactions of a powerful steam ship combine known as the North Atlantic Steamship Conference.

"Your approval will be asked of a measure aimed at affording the government of Canada control of ocean rates."

"It is the intention of the Government to so equip our important ports on the St. Lawrence route, and on both the Atlantic and the Pacific coasts so as to enable them to meet all requirements of modern navigation."

ENTERTAINING COMEDY.

The Adventures of Grandpa Took Big Audience by Storm.

Last evening, the first performance of "The Adventures of Grandpa," an entertaining three-act comedy was given in the parish hall of St. Luke's Church by the A.Y.P.A. of the church, under direction of Mr. William Hepburn. The comedy will be repeated this evening.

There was a good attendance in the hall last evening, and much interest shown in the Adventures of Grandpa, a gentleman living in Springville who comes to Ashburnham to visit his grandson, whom he wishes to endow with a wife.

The career of Grandpa was faithfully portrayed by Mr. Wm. Hepburn, while others in the cast were Messrs. Gordon Maniece, Cecil Hope, Roland Crout, Victor Sedgewick, Mrs. Hepburn, and the Misses Queenie Hope, Spenceley, Zoe Doyle.

Between acts, specialty numbers were given, in songs by Mr. and Mrs. Hepburn and Cecil Hope, readings by Queenie Hope and instrumental selections by Mr. W. C. Thompson.

Mr. Ormie Heap acted as stage manager, Rev. G. J. Bousfield as chairman of the entertainment.

"The Adventures of Grandpa", will be repeated this evening in the Parish Hall.

DOOM OF WORLD SOUNDS FRIDAY

Adventists Claim To-morrow is Doomsday—Sell Their Worldly Goods.

ONLY 144,000 SAFE.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (Canadian Press).—Praying, fasting and singing hymns, a little band of Seventh Day Adventists on Long Island today are confidently awaiting the approach of tomorrow—which they believe will be the Doomsday of the world.

Led by Robert Reidt, who calls himself the Apostle of Doom, and who for fourteen years has been expecting the end of the world, the little group of thirteen men, women and children—including a family of four negroes—are prepared for the coming of the predicted millenium. Most of them have sold their worldly goods, even part of their clothing and are spending the last few days subsisting only on carrots and water. The group tomorrow will go to a hill top near the East Patchogue, Long Island, from where Raidt and his followers expect to be taken in a cloud chariot to the woods near San Diego, California, where they say 144,000 "Chosen of the Lord," will be gathered together. All other people will perish, according to their predictions.

The leaders of the Regular Seventh Day Adventists' Church have declared that those who have fixed the date of the millenium for tomorrow are laboring under a misconception of the church's belief. The date, they say, is "extremely premature."

TWO LITTLE GIRLS WERE FOUND SLAIN

Missing Since August, Bodies Uncovered Yesterday Under Brush.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 5.—(Canadian Press). — The murder of two little girls, revealed yesterday, months after their disappearance, occupied the attention of the authorities here to-day. The search for May and Nina Martin, sisters, of 12 and 8, who wandered away from home on August 23 last, with 65 cents taken from their baby sister's bank, ended yesterday when their bodies were found in a field scarcely a mile from the sunny front yard in which they last had played with their dolls.

They lay huddled together in a shallow ditch under the brush and weeds which apparently had concealed them from hundreds of searchers who months ago aided the police and deputy sheriffs in a supposedly minute inspection of the vicinity. Their torn clothing indicated a struggle had preceded death, and an autopsy indicated they had been attacked and slain probably by strangling.

A search was begun for the man who last summer annoyed women and girls in that neighborhood.

He is believed to be the man sought for several recent attacks on girls in other sections of the city. He habitually entices his victims into a small coupe. When the Martin girls were reported missing a neighbor said she had seen them leaving a school playground in a coupe.

Are You a Radio Fan? Is a Test For Jurors

CHICAGO, Feb. 5. — (Canadian Press).—The question, "Are you a radio fan?" made its appearance yesterday as a test for prospective jurors in the opening of the trial of W. E. D. Stokes, New York millionaire; Daniel F. Nugent, New York attorney, and others. The defendants are charged with conspiracy to defame Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, of Denver.

Charles Rathbun, counsel for Stokes, who introduced the radio question, asked the veniremen if they had heard the "delightful dissertation" upon the Stokes case broadcast by Charles E. Erbstein, counsel for Mrs. Stokes. Although the veniremen answered in the negative, one said he had heard Mr. Erbstein sing over the radio.

RELEASE YOUNG WOMAN.

Charge of Vagrancy Enlarged One Week—Probationary Period.

In police court this morning, the young woman who was remanded on a charge of vagrancy a week ago, and against whom a charge of insanity had also been made, and dropped after doctors' examination, appeared once again before Magistrate Langley, on the first charge. J. A. O'Brien, on request of the Great War Veterans' Association, spoke on behalf of the girl, laying before the magistrate information gleaned from the physicians who examined her for mental defiency. In their opinion, certain medical treatment would be beneficial in restoring her mental balance.

Chief of Police Newhall asserted that he felt responsible for the safety of the people whose lives the girl had threatened, and declined to shoulder the risk of allowing her to be at large in her present condition.

Magistrate Langley, after consideration of the circumstances, decided to enlarge the case for a week, giving custody of the girl to her brother and sister-in-law, and asking Mrs. A. Smith, the police matron, to visit her at least once a day. The young woman promised to behave during the interval.

CONFERENCE ON SENATE REFORM BEFORE COMMONS DISCUSSES IT

Proposed Amendment to the Constitution to Be Submitted to Conference Between the Federal and Provincial Governments—Five New Members Introduced at Opening of the House.

FREIGHT AND OCEAN RATES ON AGENDA

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 6.—(Canadian Press Despatch).—The last gun of the Royal Salute had been fired and another parliamentary session is under way. The King's will has been made known to his Commoners through the Speech from the Throne and the people's elected representatives will begin on Monday to discuss the "humble" speech in acceptance, which is the invariable forerunner to the general work of Canada's principal Legislature.

Chief among the measures forecast in the King's Speech are those dealing with freight rates on land and sea. Senate reform, the most outstanding of the legislation expected for the session, is to be submitted to a conference between Federal and Provincial Governments before Parliament is asked to consider in detail an amendment to the Constitution of Canada, "with respect to the constitution and powers" of the Upper House.

Legislation Outlined.

In brief, the Speech from the Throne indicates that the Government intends to ask Parliament for legislation to give:

(1) Equalization of freight rates between Provinces and localities.

(2) Government control of ocean rates.

(3) Improvement in equipment of ports on both coasts and on the St. Lawrence River.

(4) Colonization and settlement (which implies railroad construction) in the Peace River district.

(5) An act to amend the Grain Act.

Pronouncements already made by leaders of the two Opposition parties indicate that the official Conservative Opposition will stick to its policy of protection for all industries, including farming and fishing. The Progressive (Farmer) party will focus its attention this session on a demand for lower freight rates from and to Western Canada.

Five New Members.

Five new members of the House of Commons were introduced and took their seats. Eloquent tribute was paid by the three party leaders to the memory of two members who died during the recess, C. A. Gauvreau, Temiscouata, and J. A. Morrissey, Northumberland. The usual routine proceedings in the House of Commons incidental to opening day were proceeded with, and the House adjourned before five o'clock until Monday afternoon.'

When Mr. Speaker Lemieux announced the appointment of the former Assistant Clerk, Arthur Beauchesne, to the Clerk's chair, and the appointment of T. A. Fraser, former newspaperman, to be Assistant Clerk, there was vigorous applause from every part of the House. When the new Assistant Clerk, who watched the proceedings of Parliament for many years from the press gallery, rose to announce "First ready of the first bill," the House momentarily forgot its dignity and banged desks in approval.

Cheers for Hanna.

Of the six new members elected since last session, only Grote Stirling (Conservative, Yale) was unable to be present. Those who took their seats yesterday were: H. J. Hushion (Liberal, St. Antoine), introduced by the Prime Minister and Hon. P. J. A. Cardin; Sir Eugene Fiest (Liberal, Rimouski), introduced by the Prime Minister and Hon. Ernest Lapointe; W. G. Snowball (Liberal, Northumberland), introduced by Hon. A. B. Copp and Pius Michaud; C. E. Hanna (Liberal, West Hastings), introduced by the Prime Minister and Hon. James Murdock; and J. F. Fouliot (Liberal, Teniscouata), introduced by the Prime Minister and Hon. Ernest Lapointe. The entry of Mr. Hanna was the signal for a prolonged demonstration from Government benches.

KINGSTON $5,000 INSURANCE CASE IS TRANSFERRED NOW TO APPEAL COURT

Appellant Argues in Favor of His Claim Point Used Against Him.

MAY BE DIVIDED

KINGSTON, Feb. 6 (Canadian Press).—It was announced Thursday that an appeal will be taken by A. B. Cunningham, K.C., counsel for John Bennett, father of the late Mrs. Roberts, from the judgment rendered by Mr. Justice Mowat in the supreme court on Tuesday, dismissing Mr. Bennett's claim for the $5,000 insurance carried by Mr. Roberts, who, it will be recalled, was killed together with his wife and two children, when their automobile was struck by a C.N.R. train at Findlay Station several months ago.

The judge held that there was nothing in the evidence to show that Mrs. Roberts had survived her husband. In the case of the present appeal, the interesting point will develop that even if the plaintiff cannot prove that Mrs. Roberts survived, the defendants on the other hand from the evidence submitted, will not be able to prove that Mr. Roberts survived.

Under the circumstances, it is said, that the $5,000 insurance money may be equally divided between the two estates.

Every day now the weather is doing something it hasn't done since way back yonder long ago.

CAUCUS FAVORS TARIFF POLICY

Conservative Members Indorse Hon. Arthur Meighen's Notice of Motion.

LEADER PRESENT

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 6.—(By Canadian Press). — Hearty approval of the policy expressed in a notice of motion published Wednesday by Right Hon. Arthur Meighen was given Thursday by the first Conservative caucus of the session. The leader of the official opposition called the caucus to order and explained his reasons for announcing the Conservative Party's determination to press for the recognition of a strong protective tariff for all Canadian industries, including farming.

Mr. Meighen was called away for an hour, during which the gathering discussed the memorandum. At the close, the leader dropped in for a few minutes and was greeted with applause and cheers.

"Did they approve?" said Mr. Meighen afterward, "I should say they did. I never saw anything more unanimous."

A group of Conservative members asked afterwards if Mr. Meighen had been confirmed in the leadership, answered "of course".

Latvia is Swept by Anti-Alcohol Wave—Hotels Raided.

RIGA, Latvia, Feb 6 (Associated Press)—The anti-alcohol wave is sweeping over Latvia. A law has been passed which is tantamount to prohibition, and it has been seized upon by the city authorities of Riga to descend upon some 50 hotels and restaurants on the grounds that they were selling liquor. The city fathers are now considering whether these places should not be made to close down for good.

MOTHER-IN-LAW KILLS DAUGHTER'S HUSBAND

Eloped With Girl, Then Took Her Back Home.

WALTERS, Okla., Feb. 6.—George Hicks, 19, who eloped with Cora Forrest, 15, several months ago, was shot and killed by the girl's mother, Mrs. A. D. Forrest, as he returned to her home with his wife. Five bullets penetrated his body. Mrs. Forrest is in jail.

Hicks was shot as he stepped upon the porch of the Forrest home.

When the youth eloped with Miss Forrest her parents caused his arrest on a charge of having falsified her age in obtaining a license. The girl testified, however, that he stated her age as she has represented it to him, and he was acquitted.

Following the trial Hicks went with his bride to Atoka, and the couple had been at the home of his parents there until they returned here Wednesday.

URGING REDUCTION OF FREIGHT RATES

Lumbermen Propose That Government Force 10 Per Cent Cut.

QUEBEC, Feb. 6 (Canadian Press).—A strong appeal to the directors of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association, in convention here, was made yesterday by J. H. Marquail, of Campbelltown, N.B., to have a delegation of 50 or 60 members appointed to go to Ottawa and lay before the government the very pressing need of a reduction in freight, express and telegraph rates, all of which played an important part in the cost of lumber transportation.

The lumbermen should demand, he said, that the government should compel the railways to accept a 10 per cent. reduction in their rates to start with, and let the railways set to work and reduce their cost of operation as much as possible if such a reduction seriously affected them.

Since the war the Canadian Pacific Railway had not suffered any losses, according to their annual reports, whereas many lumbermen, especially in Eastern Canada, had been wiped out.

He demanded that this special delegation be sent to Ottawa within the next two weeks and continue to press their demands thereafter until they got results.

MORE CANADIAN MEAT IS NEEDED IN OLD COUNTRY

Increased Importation of Cattle From Dominion Advocated to Food Commission.

GREATER DEMAND

British People Buying More of Better Cuts—Popular Taste Changed.

LONDON, Feb. 6 (Canadian Press cable).—More extensive importation of Canadian cattle was urged by Secretary Hughes of the Co-operative Retail Butchers' Association, giving evidence yesterday before the Royal Commission on food prices. He said England had not yet felt the full effect of the removal of the embargo on cattle from the Dominion. Butcher trade managers who testified before the commission were also of the opinion that this would cause a reduction in the price of meat killed in England. If there were absolutely free importation of Canadian cattle, the Dominion would send more animals, which would have a tendency to lower prices.

Mr. Hughes and the retail meat managers testified to the change in the popular taste for meat. That the British public, especially the working classes, bought imported meat from necessity and not from choice, however, was their contention. Mr. Hughes, whose association with its 41 societies, controls 70 shops, doing an annual trade of forty million pounds of meat, said that people would no longer have cold meat dished up daily; they ate steaks, chops and small choice cuts, not the cheaper and larger boiling pieces as they did in pre-way days. This change in the popular taste, coupled with the shortage in stock and the increased population, had a marked effect on meat prices, but he was of the opinion that the shortage was artificially created by the operations of the control boards in the various meat-producing countries.

Thomas H. Ryland, president of the National Farmers' Union, a member of the commission, quoted figures to show that the price of meat had not altered as a result of the importation of Canadian cattle.

Mr. Hughes said the retail meat trade managers hoped that a larger number of Canadian cattle would be imported to supply the home market. He denied he had been misled by the campaign in the press; and reiterated his opinion that the British worker did not buy chilled frozen imported meat from choice.

WHERE AGNES STANDS.

Miss MacPhail Unlikely to Attend Progressive Caucus.

OTTAWA, Feb. 6. — (Canadian Press).—Whatever may be the attitude of other members of the "ginger group," it is unlikely that Miss Agnes MacPhail will attend the Progressive caucus. "With me," she said yesterday, "it is a question whether I shall retain my own individuality or be a pale shadow of the Government."

Church To Open Room; Mothers Check Babies

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Feb. 6.—Beginning next Sunday mothers who are members of the Ventnor Community Church may check their little ones at the church entrance until the services are over, the church announced today.

"We found that a good many mothers stayed away from church because the children became restless and disturbed the services," said Leroy Berglund, a church officer. "We have therefore established the church nursery, which will be in charge of Miss Mary Raith, who will care for the children while their parents are attending the service."

Miss Raith has mailed cards telling of the innovation to all mothers in the parish.

$10,000 INVOLVED IN INVESTIGATION; UTILITIES COMMISSION TO AID COUNCIL

Consent of Peterborough Utilities Commission to City's Action a Complete Answer to the Grounds on Which Mr. Justice Middleton Gave Decision.

My attention has been drawn to a letter written by Mr. E. H. D. Hall, solicitor for the Peterborough Utilities Commission, which appeared in your issue of Wednesday, the 4th inst.

I note the fact that Mr. E. H. D. Hall says in his letter: "I understand that neither Mr. Hall nor Mr. Wearing were in court when Mr. Robinson made his statement substantially, as reported in Monday's Examiner, indicating clearly to the court that the Utilities Commission wished the investigation to be proceeded with. This took place when the court opened and the case was called, but at that time neither Mr. Hall nor Mr. Wearing was in court."

This, under the circumstances, is a most extraordinary explanation and clearly indicates most extraordinary conduct on the part of counsel for the Campbell Milling Co. and of counsel for the Public Utilities Commission, BECAUSE MR. WEARING AND I WERE BOTH IN COURT ONE-HALF HOUR BEFORE THE CASE COULD BE PROPERLY CALLED. The notice of motion was made returnable at 11 o'clock a.m., and both Mr. Wearing and I were in court at 10.30 a.m. Previously to that I was in the Library collecting the statutes and authorities that were to be referred to on the argument. Some satisfactory explanation is due to Mr. Wearing and me why any statement or argument should have taken place behind our backs and before the case was due to be called.

I was not even aware of the resolution of the Utilities Commission that Mr. E. H. D. Hall refers to instructing Mr. C. C. Robinson, K.C., to attend upon the hearing of the application of the Campbell Flour Mills Co., and "to say that the local commission preferred to have the investigation proceeded with, and to state that the investigation if proceeded with should be a complete one with the Campbell Flour Mills Co.'s officers and employees liable to be called to give evidence."

I was not aware that any such statement had been made to Mr. Justice Middleton, nor was it referred to on the argument which took place in court when both Mr. Wearing and I were present. The ground upon which Mr. Justice Middleton gave his judgment was that he did not think it was competent for the Municipal Council to direct an enquiry before the county judge into matters entrusted to the Peterborough Utilities Commission. Had we known that such a statement had been made by Mr. Robinson to Mr. Justice Middleton we certainly would have urged the further argument that the consent of the Peterborough Utilities Commission to the investigation was a complete answer to the grounds upon which Mr. Justice Middleton proposed to, and did, decide the case.

The City Council gave instructions to Mr. Wearing, the City Solicitor, to appeal against the decision of Mr. Justice Middleton to the Appellate Division, and it goes without saying that the active assistance and support of the local Utilities Commission on such appeal will greatly assist the City Council in arriving at the truth. It will assist the City Council in obtaining information upon sworn testimony as to whether or not the Campbell Milling Co. has received $10,000 worth of electric power from this city that they have not paid for and that this city has, in fact, paid for to the Hydro-electric Power Commission.

DIED AFTER BANQUET

War Veteran Found Dead—Eight Are Ill.

GLACE BAY, N.S., February 6.—(Canadian Press).—Donald Lynk, 40 a decorated war veteran and lately chief electrician of the Dominion Coal Company's works here, was found dead Thursday in the electrical shop of the Stirling yard, a part of the plant in which he was employed. Lynk went there following a banquet which he attended Wednesday night and is believed to have been poisoned by something he ate there, since eight of his companions who attended the same banquet were reported ill yesterday. An inquest and autopsy have been ordered.

GIVES AUSTRIAN PROGRESS.

League Commissioner Finds Crisis Less Severe Than in 1922.

VIENNA, Feb. 6.— The twenty-fifth report on Austria submitted to the League of Nations by Commissioner Zimmermann is more favorable than the preceding one. It says the present crisis is less severe than in 1922, considerable progress having been made in important respects, though the number of unemployed is high, due partly to the customs policy of the succession States and partly to over-burdened industrial production caused by excessive State expenditures.

In informed circles in Vienna it is said that all the reports of an impending federation of Austria with the succession States, either political or economic, are absolutely unfounded.

TOTAL BANK DEBITS.

Twenty-seven Billions at Canadian Clearing Houses.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 6.—(Canadian Press).—Total bank debits to individual accounts at the clearing house centres of Canada in 1924 were $27,839,000,000. In 1923 the figures were $16,999,000,000. The 1924 figures does not include the transfers of money on those branch banks which are outside of clearing house centres, but, says a report of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, "it constitutes the largest and best sample ever compiled of the volume and trend of business in the Dominion."

BULGARIANS ARE NOW STARVING

The Wheat Shortage in Balkans is General—Pinched Purses.

VIENNA, Feb. 6 (United Press). —Semi-starvation exists in parts of Bulgaria and the Zankov government is purchasing emergency grain to alleviate the distress.

Throughout the Balkans the wheat shortage is general, with pinched purses unequal to the duty of buying grain at the price peak recorded in Chicago. All Central European states are warring against grain speculators, but the actual supply of wheat is unequal to the demands which must be placed upon it with or without speculation.

An official estimate by the Roumanian government put the crop shortage in that country at 380,000 tons of grain, as last year the government requisitioned so much grain that the farmers became disgusted and planted but one-third the normal acreage.

FEDERAL UNION OF FARMERS IS MORRISON PLAN

Secretary of U.F.O. Addressed United Farmers of Quebec at Convention.

"BACK BENCHERS"

Produce Wealth But Let Middlemen Market Farm Products.

MONTREAL, Feb. 6. — At the concluding session of the United Farmers of Quebec Convention here Thursday J. J. Morrison, Secretary of the United Farmers of Ontario, suggested in an address that it is high time agriculturists throughout the Dominion take advantage of their Provincial organizations to merge into one solid body representative of Canada from coast to coast.

Farmers, he said, were habitual back benchers, but there was no reason why they should be. They alone held the wealth of their industry, yet they employed middlemen for marketing purposes. Co-operative selling should be instituted, and the lack of that phase of organization had harmed the industry as a whole.

J. W. Ward of Winnipeg, secretary of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, also emphasized the necessity for pushing co-operative effort to the limit. He announced that at the next meeting of the Council to be held in Toronto on March 2, the matter would be debated by delegates from Ontario, Quebec, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta.

MAIDS HE SWINDLED ASSIST HIM IN JAIL

All Forgave Him When They Saw Him in Tears.

BERLIN, Feb. 6.—A super Don Juan is revealed in Berlin in the person of "Handsome Oscar," who has been lodged in jail on a charge of having swindled numerous maids and widows of divers amounts of money and jewels under promises of marriage.

"Handsome Oscar," whose last name is Becker, was arrested after complaints were made by at least a dozen women. They all forgave him, however, as soon as they were brought face to face with him at police headquarters and saw his handsome eyes fill with tears.

But one stony-hearted one insisted that Oscar must be punished, and so Oscar was kept behind the bars.

Now the rest of the deceived women have formed an association of Oscar's fiancees, and the members visit him daily to supply him with the best delicacies Berlin has to offer.

PRINCE TO TRAIN ON BOARD REPULSE

Will Get Into Shape for the Strenuous Gaities of Argentine Tour.

LONDON, Feb. 5—The Prince of Wales will make his forthcoming journey to Argentina and South Africa in the battle cruiser H. M. S. Repulse, a sister ship of the Renown which carried him on his official tour to India and Japan in 1922.

As the Repulse is fitted out for a flag-ship it is expected that a ranking admiral will be selected to command her. Most of the ships' complement of 1,220 officers and men have been chosen. The officers, for the most part, are serving on the Repulse at the present time. About half of the enlisted men are those who have served on the Repulse for two years and the remainder will be hon or men of the navy.

The Repulse has been ordered into the yards for a complete overhauling and painting. A special suite for the prince is being fitted out of the apartments adjoining the admiral's quarters, and a gymnasium room is being built for him. There will be also special rooms for the newspaper correspondents who will accompany the prince. The royal traveler will eat his meals with the chief officer's mess, instead of having a private dining room as on the Renown, and the daily menu will conform with the usual navy regulations.

According to present plans the Repulse will sail March 25.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

CAN'T TAX CHURCHES.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—"Statements have been made that the United Church of Canada will have power to 'assess' congregations and 'collect' by legal process. In reply to such statements, the General Assembly's Committee on Church Union has received the following advice from its legal counsel:

"'I understand that statements are being made by some speakers opposing Union to the effect that the United Church of Canada will have power to impose taxation upon congregations for its purpose, and force them by legal process to pay the amount so imposed. At one meeting the question was asked, How will you feel when the tax collector hands you your slip? These statements are not true. If all of the provisions of the Basis of Union and of the Act of Parliament, 1924, Chapter 100, are examined, it will appear that there is nothing therein conferring such power upon the United Church.'

"This statement is signed by G. W. Mason, K.C., and should finally dispose of this matter.

"J. H. EDMISON,
"Secretary of General Assembly's Committee on Church Union."

LAW AND MARRIAGE.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—A great many people seem to have a very mixed idea of the marriage question now so dramatically received in Quebec, where a Catholic superior court judge has found, following the recent case of Delpatle v. Tremblay (Privy Council), that all people married under provincial civil law are validly married.

Many people seem to think that whereas the civil law recognizes the competency of the Church in marriage, the Church will not recognize the competency of those approved by the civil law where the parties going through the ceremony are Catholics. This, I do not think, is the true meaning, which I take to be that Catholics cannot remain Catholics and be married elsewhere than by the Church. This ex facto means that no Catholic, in good standing, can be married by the civil authority, or by those approved by it, and remain a Catholic. The very moment Catholics stand up to be so married they are no longer Catholics. So that the ban of the Church is really laid upon the people of that faith and not upon the civil law. This is quite a different matter and easily understood.

J. H. BURNHAM.

CHURCH UNION.

Sir,—In reply to letter of Onlooker, in your issue of yesterday, I would ask: Did not the General Assembly pledge themselves, or, at least, persistently affirm, that no union would ever be considered unless there was practically a unanimously expressed desire for it? Now, I am sure all can see that it is not wanted by thousands of people. This is no real union, but only a caricature of one, and that, under present circumstances, there should be no consummation of union just now. The time has not yet come for it. The best of feelings exist between the Presbyterians and Methodists, and there could be the heartiest co-operation with each other without organic union. Doctrinally, the two bodies are very far apart, and many of both Methodists and Presbyterians, I am sure, must feel that their differences would stand in the way of complete sympathy and harmony. The true course for each individual member to take is, not to yield to dictation from anyone, but to vote according to conscience and as he sincerely believes would be for the best interests of all concerned.

THREE FAITHS JOIN TO TEACH RELIGION

Catholics, Protestants and Jews Work Out a New Plan.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Dr. William J. O'Shea, Superintendent of Schools, said that Public School 46, St. Nicholas Avenue and 156th Street, had been tentatively selected by representatives of the Catholic, Protestant and Jewish faiths for an experiment in giving religious instruction to school children outside school hours and at places apart from the school. The date for beginning the experiment has not been set.

The plan has not been worked out in detail, but it is proposed to establish Catholic, Protestant and Jewish religious schools near the public school. The children of the various faiths will be invited to attend these schools once a week after dismissal from public schools.

Superintendent O'Shea said that it was not intended now to dismiss classes early to enable the pupils to receive religious training.

"But," he added, "I can't say how things will develop."

Conferences between representatives of the three faiths have been going on for six months. There have been discussions by Cardinal Hays, the Rev. Dr. Walter M. Hewlet of the New York Federation of Churches and Rabbi David de Sola Pool. According to Dr. Howlett, it is the first time that Catholics, Protestants and Jews have co-operated on a large scale in this city regarding religion.

KLAN TO OUST JUDGE LINDSEY

Denver's Famous Juvenile Court Judge Defied the Night Shirt Knights.

MAJORITY CUT.

By HAROLD MATSON.

DENVER, Feb. 6.—Judge Ben Lindsey must go.

The powers that rule Colorado have decreed it.

The powers are the units of the Ku Klux Klan.

By its recent victory at the polls the klan controls the government of the State.

Because of his bitter opposition to the klan, and by reason of the subtle power of the juvenile court over which he presides, the klan is said to look upon Lindsey as its worst enemy within the State.

Two Plans.

Two offensives have been begun against Lindsey.

The first is a post election contest, based on the charge that there were illegalities in the voting.

The second is a proposed law to abolish the court, based on the theory that better results would be forthcoming through a unified court system.

All cases, juvenile and otherwise, would be handled by the district court, which would be increased from seven to nine judges.

The klan feels that it won a moral victory over Lindsey in the recent elections. But it seeks more than a mere moral conquest.

In undertaking to oust him, the klan is trying something that has been tried before.

The klan backed Royal C. Graham, county judge, for Lindsey's post. Lindsey came through with 117 more votes.

But in the past, Lindsey had rolled into office with his majorities counted in the thousands.

Then the klan announced that it would demand recount of the ballots.

Should this fail, the abolition of the court would be the next attempt.

People of Denver express little doubt that Lindsey actually is doomed.

He can challenge the result of the recount, if it is unfavorable.

But to carry through his challenge he must finance a third count, which might cost $50,000.

Even if he did just that, he still would face the attempt to remove him by abolishing the court.

"Here's Why."

In either case, Lindsey admits, the klan can win.

"Why does the klan want my office?" Judge Lindsey asks. "Because I defied them. More seriously, however, because the juvenile court, in their hands, would be the most powerful weapon they could hold.

"Dealing with particularly private affairs, the court would give them an opportunity to pry into the personal affairs of most any person."

BEN HUR TRIP FOR MOVIES A FAILURE

Fred Niblo Returned From Italy Defeated by Labor.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.— Fred Niblo, motion picture director with a company of high salaried players went to Italy eight months ago to film the major portions of the scenic version of "Ben Hur."

In Italy 14,000 men were engaged at an average of $2.50 a day to build scenery and act as supers. The principal mission of the company was to film the chariot race scenes.

Trip a Failure

Niblo and his company came back on the Cunard liner Berengaria yesterday practically empty handed. They are headed for California. Niblo, plainly discouraged said:

"We are going to the coast to do "Ben Hur'. We have been in Italy for eight months, hoping to accomplish something, but labor difficulties have prevented us. We will have to film the chariot races in California, which can be done there better than in Italy.

"I don't know what the expense of our trip to Italy has been, but it will result in the cost of filming 'Ben Hur' running to close to $3,000,000."

Niblo was reluctant to place the blame for the failure to film the picture on the Fascisti government but Mae McAvoy one of the leading actresses was more voluble. She said:

"Although I was in Italy for eight months, ready to work nearly all the time I was there. I was only able to get in five days. The people we employed were always fighting among themselves—the Fascisti and the anti-Fascisti. All sorts of obstacles were placed in our path.

"For instance, our company had to sign an insurance contract. Under it all employees who were injured at work were to receive full pay. Half of the 14,000 we had working for us were more or less 'injured' all the time, and we had to go on paying them. Those supers and workmen thought we were there forever, and that they would have jobs as long as they lived.

"When they learned that we would only remain a certain number of months, many of them hurt themselves just to get the insurance."

Among others who returned in the party were Carmel Myers, Claire McDowell and Kathleen Key. Francis X. Bushman, they said, will return on another steamer.

FERGUSON FAVORS IT.

Military Training Has Distinct Advantages, he Considers, in Reason.

TORONTO, Feb 6. — Premier Ferguson is not in favor of the abolition of military training in the public schools, as advocated by the U.F.O., in their list of legislature requests.

Discussing the subject yesterday, Mr. Ferguson expressed the opinion that so long as military training was not carried too far—so long as the instructors did not attempt to make soldiers of all the boys in their care—there were in it distinct advantages for the future men of Ontario of physical and diciplinary improvement.

New Peer Adds "Asquith" to "Earl of Oxford."

LONDON, Feb. 6. — H. H. Asquith former Prime Minister, who is to be elevated to the peerage next month, has finally chosen the title of Earl of Oxford and Asquith, according to an announcement made ere yesterday afternoon by his wife, Mrs. Margot Asquith.

The addition of "Asquith" to the title of "Earl of Oxford"—the title originally chosen by Asquith, is made, it is understood, to assure the validity and incontestability of his earldom in case a claimant to the now extinct title of Earl of Oxford should come forward at any future time.

WILLIAM EBERT WAS STOWAWAY

Uncle is President of Germany—Willie is Quite Informal.

SENT BACK.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (Canadian Press).—His uncle is president of the Republic of Germany, but Willie Ebert, aged 21, decided he would rather try to make his way unaided in the United States, according to the immigration authorities of Boston. He made his way as far as Boston, but his arrival was decidedly informal—so much so that he was officially pronounced a stowaway.

He reached that city on Janury 11th on the Norwegian freighter Tallisman. Yesterday, he was escorted politely upon the Albert Ballin of the Hamburg-American Line and was sent back to Germany.

Ebert was accompanied by his friend Auguste Eizenhofer, also aged 21.

When their ship reached Boston, they were found in one of the bunkers without covering for their heads or feet. Clothing of each consisted of shirt and trousers. They had been without food for two days.

NO INTENTION TO FORCE OUT PRICE

Chairman of Workmen's Compensation Board Doing Good Work, Says Premier.

TORONTO, Feb. 6 (Canadian Press).—"The story is absolutely without foundation," stated Premier Ferguson, last night, when spoken to with reference to a statement in an evening paper, that S. Price, K.C., chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Board, was being relieved of his duties via the superannuation route. "There is no truth whatever in the statement that Mr. Price is being forced out of his position" said the premier.

"His long tenure of office there has been highly satisfactory to the government and also to contributors and workmen interested. There has been no suggestion of irregularities in the board's accounts or investments, which are constantly valued and audited."

While totally scouting suggestion of the forced retirement of Mr. Price, the Premier said that the "question of his retirement for reasons of health had come up some time ago.

Mr. Price has been chairman of the board for ten years.

A NATURAL STEAM WELL DISCOVERED

May Harness the Power For Use by Californian Municipalities.

THE GEYSERS, Calif., Feb. 6.—(Canadian Press).—Workmen drilling here have brought in a natural steam well at a depth of 461 feet, the force of which shot hot water and steam to a height of nearly 300 feet. The roar of escaping steam was heard for a great distance. A 200-pound weight was tossed high in the air, as was a winch and other equipment used in drilling.

Efforts will be made to harness the steam to provide electrical energy for municipalities and homes in this district.

The well is in Sonoma County, north of San Francisco.

HIGHER TEA PRICES EXPECTED ANY DAY

The estimated increase in the consumption of tea in 1924 and 1923 has amounted to over 39 million pounds. An increase in production of only seventeen million pounds during the same period has resulted in tea prices advancing in primary markets from ten to fourteen cents per pound since last summer. The price to the consumer today is on the basis of much lower primary costs, so a general increase to tea drinkers is inevitable in the near future.

THIS OFFICE BOY BREAKS TRADITION

No Hero Boy Stuff in Rise to Presidency, Says One.

By GENE COHN.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Office boys, it would seem, are divided into two classes: those who "shoot craps" and those who become presidents of the concern.

Ernest Sturm, 45, belongs to the latter class.

He has reached the position where the words "chairman of the boards" appears on his door in the offices of the American Eagle, Continental and Fidelity-Phenix Fire Insurance Companies, a concern which boasts $103,000,000 in assets.

But the story of his life is not encouraging to those who would follow the Horatio Alger method of ascent. In the fictionized version it may seem thrilling to come up from the ranks by saving the daughter of a millionaire, or discovering a bomb-tosser in the safe deposit vault, but in the language of Sturm there is one outstanding word: "STUDY!"

Thus, when many another office boy was killing an evening playing pool or going to the movies, Sturm was mastering law. In order to get into a college class he had to master such high school courses as algebra and geometry on the side, to say nothing of Latin, for his had been merely a grammar school education.

He knew he had to have an education to reach the top, and he went after it. In every spare moment he studied.

And that is his advice to other office boys, wherever this story may be read.

"There's just as good a chance for the boy of today as there was for his father and his grandfather," says Sturm, "but he must get in and educate himself. I should say that a good knowledge of the law is one of the best of foundations."

There is an "office boy" tradition in Sturm's firm.

Sturm was hired by a man who had started as an office boy. Some 80 per cent. of the officers have come up from the ranks.

There are, at present, about 33 office boys in the imposing offices that front the busiest portion of the Wall Street section. To them Sturm gives the same advice he offers to boys in any portion of the map:

"I believe in early marriage, but sound marriage. It provides an additional incentive to struggle. The sense of responsibility is important, too.

"And study. Knowledge means power. There may be short cuts, but I haven't found them. I have found work and study of outstanding importance."

Sturm believes a few hobbies on the side are essential for relaxation and recreation.

Thus he is a skilful and inveterate bowler. But he likes work. And that, he says, is important.

"If you really like work it won't tire you. Hours will mean nothing."

WHITE AND BLACK

Bars Low-Cut Gowns And High-Cut Sleeves

BERLIN, Feb. 6.—The growing audacity of German women in their manner of dressing has so aroused Cardinal Prince-Bishop Bertram of Breslau that he has issued a scathing proclamation denouncing modern fashions and declaring that in future women wearing what he deems improper garments will not be allowed to get married in the churches of his diocese.

This is the culmination of the Cardinal's views and not the first statement elicited from him by German "near flappers," "flappers" and "super-flappers."

Modern women's styles are "an insult to Christian decency, prompted by a heathenish cultivation of nudity" which leads among other things to "obscene behavior at bathing resorts and elsewhere," he holds.

The Cardinal ordains that all women wishing to enjoy his approval must have the upper part of their bodies clothed to the neck and the lower part to below the knee, with sleeves reaching beyond the elbow. There must be no more wearing of transparent fabric, he adds, and coming "barefoot" to church services unless this is due to poverty.

Women who do not observe these admonition will be excluded henceforth not only from getting married in the Breslau diocese churches but also from all other church ceremonies.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1925.

THE LATE W. B. WARNE.

The death of Mr. W. B. Warne, although not unexpected, has nevertheless cast a gloom over a very large circle of friends and acquaintances to whom the deceased had endeared himself by reason of his many estimable qualities.

Mr. Warne was one of the best known and most highly respected of the younger business men of the city, and had built up for himself as a druggist an enviable reputation for fair dealing and honesty in his relations with all with whom he came in contact.

He enjoyed the confidence not only of the buying public but of his fellow-druggists and the local world of business generally, and his passing represents a gap in the ranks that will be indeed difficult to fill.

Mr. Warne was a good citizen and a good business man, and the loss of men of his calibre is always severely felt by the community from which they pass.

In offering to the bereaved relatives a message of condolence the Examiner feels that it is voicing the general opinion of the very many citizens who called the late W. B. Warne friend.

THE U. F. O. PROGRAMME.

The Legislature Committee of the U. F. O. is asking the Ontario Government to pass a large amount of legislation, some of it good, some harmless and some not worthy of the attention of the Government.

In the latter category the Examiner would put the request for the abandoning of cadet training, and the suggestion that "as a memorial to the youth who lost their lives in 1914-18 that school text-books be purged of all their glorification of war."

The Examiner, of course, does not believe that war should be glorified in school books or in any other way, but it does believe that school children who are the sons and daughters of men who fought for Canada should be told something of the hardships and suffering that Canada's soldiers underwent, and something, too, of the glory they won by their unflinching bravery in that great test.

As for cadet training it is ridiculous to claim that it develops militaristic ideas among the pupils.

It simply gives them a little idea of discipline, makes them carry themselves a little better and adds some zest to the school routine.

On a different line but equally objectionable is the U. F. O. clause suggesting an approach to a flat rate for Hydro.

Such a development would be impossible without knocking the props from in under the whole Hydro scheme.

A MYTH EXPLODED.

You sometimes hear the statement made that the people of today are not made of the same heroic stuff as their ancestors, that the modern folk are soft and fine-grained and unable to stand up under the same circumstances as were those of the "good old days."

The war did much to change that viewpoint.

Young men who had never done a day's hard work in their lives underwent unheard of hardships—and many of them died as gamely as ever men died in the days when knights were bold.

And recent events show that peace as well as war can produce its heroes.

Within the last few weeks there have been stories of epic bravery and endurance that nothing in the annals of the brave days of old could surpass.

The school teacher standing in the flame-swept Oklahoma school building tossing children out of the window to safety until the fire reached her, and she disappeared; the little newspaper reporter crawling 150 feet into a cave and scooping the earth away with his hands in a heroic effort to release a man entrapped by a falling rock, working until he collapsed, and returning three times to the task; the heroic dog team drivers speeding on through blinding blizzards that obliterated the trails, and through temperature often as low as 30 degrees below zero, carrying the precious anti-toxin serum 700 miles to plague-stricken Nome—match these epics with anything in history or fiction and the myth that the man of today is a weakling must disappear.

THE REAL PROBLEMS.

The Examiner referred in several articles recently to the emphasis placed on Senate reform as likely to be a big feature of the Government's programme during the Federal session, expressing the opinion that there were other problems of much greater importance that should receive the attention of the administration.

The Calgary Herald sums up some of these questions very neatly, as follows:

Efficient budgeting.
Better control of expenditure.
Reduction of the national debt.
Reduction of taxation.
Immigration.
Loss of population.
A new freight rate structure.
The problem of transportation over long hauls.
Restoration of confidence in Canadian industry.

There are nine questions, the solution of any one of which is of much greater value to the people of Canada in the present situation than tinkering with the Senate.

The system by which the Upper Chamber is chosen, holds offices and takes part in public affairs may be far from perfect, but the Senate cannot be blamed for the conditions that exist in Canada today, nor can the problems that are demanding attention be solved by a change in the constitution of the Upper Chamber should that be possible.

Let our legislators at Ottawa get down to the real business for which the country is demanding attention.

CANADIAN POLICY TO DEVELOP CANADA.

The National Publishers' Association has filed a protest with the United States Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in which is set forth the claim that an embargo on pulpwood being shipped from Canada to United States will imperil "the friendly relations which have so many years existed between Canada and the United States."

This association of American publishers says the idea behind the agitation is that American paper mills shall be ultimately forced to establish their plants in Canada, "under the domination of the Canadian paper industry."

The statement that the idea behind the embargo is to have pulpwood manufactured into the finished article before it is allowed to leave this country is quite correct, and it is an idea for which no Canadian is called upon to offer any apology.

Canada is a young nation starting out to find her place in the world. She has many things to sell, but when she turns to United States it is found that there is a great tariff wall over which these articles cannot be shoved, unless they be some few items that are lacking in the natural resources of United States. It becomes the duty of Canada to determine what course she will pursue, whether the future is to be one in which she shall be a producer of raw materials on which the skilled workers of other nations shall apply their well-paid time, or whether this country shall not take the products that are peculiar to this land, fashion them into the finished product and then offer them to the markets of the world. The former would give us a certain amount of employment, but not much. The latter would give us more; it would create a national enterprise, and would be working along natural, and not forced, lines.

United States should not misinterpret the adoption of a Canadian policy. Washington decides the policy for the republic, and it does not ask Ottawa what it thinks about it beforehand. The development of United States is the one thing the policy framers have in mind, and with that the people of Canada find no fault.

The attitude of United States toward our No. 1 northern wheat is quite different to the stand of U. S. publishers regarding our pulpwood. They want our raw wood; they say so, and add that any attempt to keep it here until it becomes the finished article will lead to "seriously interrupting the friendly relations" between the two countries. But these same papers, printed from pulpwood taken from Canadian limits, uphold a policy which says that the United States does not want Canadian wheat, and the reason is that they are afraid of it because it is so much better than that grown in the wheat belts of United States. So they put up a good stiff tariff of 42 cents per bushel to keep it out, and the millers take in just enough of our good wheat to tone up their softer grain so they can compete with us in the world markets. Our wheat to United States is a matter of convenience to that country. The fact that the farmer of the Canadian West would like to sell it to them is not considered.

The policy of United States picking and choosing among our natural products, taking a little of this, much of that, and discarding entirely many others, is not a Canadian-made policy. It is one that is framed with the idea of developing United States to the limit; it aims to use this country to supply some of the things United States cannot produce. If the republic had plenty of pulpwood on its own acres the chances are that they would not take a stick of it from this country.

The National Publishers' Association is not making any worthy contribution to the cause of international good-will, of which it speaks so pointedly in the letter to the U. S. Senate. It is made to appear that this good-will depends on United States being able to take just as much raw material out of this country as it desires, and that Canada has not the right to the opinion that the best interests of this young nation are to be served by turning that pulpwood into paper in this country before allowing it to pass to the markets of the world.

If we are to have a country worthy of the tradition of the men who founded it, we must have a policy with a distinctly Canadian flavor; that policy must be framed at Ottawa, and it must have in mind the development of Canada as a maker of the finished articles from the resources that are peculiar to this country. It is not an unreasonable policy; in it there is not a word of hostility toward United States or any other country. It is simply determining the lines along which we shall work as a young nation seeking to make our way so that we shall be able to find our rightful place among the nations of the world, and provide profitable employment for the men of this country, too many of whom in the past have been forced to seek it elsewhere.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

A housewife estimates that the sweeping done at the Peterborough bonspiel would keep half the houses in Peterborough clean for two months. But what's the use?

With the opening of Parliament Ottawa once more will regard itself as the most important place in Canada.

One sure way of having an open winter would be to have the Peterborough Curling Club stage a bonspiel every week.

A THOUGHT.

THE SPREADER.

On a well-equipped farm you will find a machine that can be attached to the low-down wagon and it is called a "spreader."

In every big, in every little town, you will find men and women that might be placed in the category of the "spreader."

They run about from place to place spreading gossip, which is the dirtiest kind of dirt.

Gossip helps nobody and harms everyrbody. It is about the meanest manifestation of dirty work that a human can do and not be exiled.

The last recital of a scandalmonger no more represents the original story than the biggest ocean liner resembles a Missouri River mud scow. Gossip exists on exaggeration.

I always figure that a man that will tell me a nasty story about another man, will do some dirty "spreading" about me as soon as I escape his presence.

The mouth of a gossip demands dirt just the same as a razor-back hog is always at home in a mud hole.

The name "spreader" only half suggests what every decent person thinks of the gossip.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5. — Efforts to dispose of wheat purchased by speculators looking for higher levels, today sent values to a new low record on the present downturn. At the finish wheat showed a net loss of 3¼ to 7c, with May $1.92 1-4 to $1.92 5-8 and July $1.62½ to $1.62 3-4; corn was off 1 3-4 to 2¼c, oats 3-4 to 1 5-8c down, while provisions varied from 12c lower to 5c higher. It was a bearish market for wheat from the start. A dip in values at Liverpool resulting from a report that Argentine shipments this week would be more than 7,000,000 bushels, was largely responsible for the initial downturn here. Bearish news continued to sift into the pits, and declines became more pronounced, the May delivery just before the close touching $1.91 5-8 or more than seven cents under the previous close and 2c lower than the record low price of a few days ago. Buenos Aires showed a slump as a result of more favorable weather for the movement of the crop there, and Washington advices telling that bills were to be introduced in Congress toward an investigation of the recent upturn of wheat served to increase pessimistic sentiment.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, Feb. 5. — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here today as follows:

Sterling demand, $4.79.

Arrivals of American fresh are increasing, cars being reported as either arrived or rolling Toronto and Montreal. One car of American fresh firats, which has arrived at Monteral in consignment is jobbing at 54 to 55c; a car of British Columbia fresh extras is at Montreal which cost 55c f.o.b. Vancouver.

Toronto, fresh specials, jobbing 66c, extras 63c, firsts 57.

Montreal unchanged.

Quebec, jobbing storage firsts, 54c to 56c firsts 50c, seconds 45c.

Ottawa, jobbing, storage extras, 53t o 55c, firsts 50c to 52c, seconds 40 to 42c.

MONTREAL GRAIN.

MONTREAL, February 5. — Extreme dullness marked the foreign trade in Canadian grain here to-day. The domestic market was inactive. A weaker feeling developed in oats, and prices were reduced 2c per bush. with Ontario No. 2 white being quoted at 69c, No. 3 grade at 67c, and No. 4 grade at 65c per bushel ex store.

The flour market was featured by the easier tendency that prevailed in spring wheat grades and prices scored a decline of 30c per barrel Winter wheat flour was unchanged.

There was no further development in the egg situation but the condition of the market was somewhat unsettled and the prospects were that lower prices would rule in the near future.

The trade in butter was quiet but prices were unchanged. The undertone to the cheese market was firm with fodder made No. 1 goods quoted at 20¼ to 20½c per lb., and No. 2 grade at 19 1-4 to 19 1-2c per lb.

The trade in crop beans was quiet and the trend was unchanged at $2.90 per bushel.

WHEAT BOARD FOR BRITAIN DISPUTED

Might Reud the Empire By Patronage to the Dominions.

LONDON, Feb. 6. — (Canadian Press Cable).—A lengthy argument between Chairman Sir Halford MacKinder and E. F. Wise, former principal assistant secretary to the Ministry of Food, occurred before the food commission yesterday on the subject of the establishment of wheat board. The chairman was of the opinion that such a board would be a statutory monopolistic consumers' pool with enormous power which would control the markets Britain would give.

The body having the power to give patronage now to this part of the empire, now to that and being responsible to the government would quickly involve the government in quarels with other countries and the system would end in the breaking up of the Empire. If you wish to cure all that, you will have to take over the growing of wheat and become the universal provider," said Sir Halford.

Mr. Wise retorted that this was extraordinary doctrine from a man who had devoted years to the support of Imperial Preference as the best means of developing the Empire. Sir Halford subsequently asked what good Mr. Wise thought his scheme was going to do. In reply Mr. Wise instanced the speculation in wheat in America and said he thought the formation of a board would result in economy by the elimination of wasteful margins between the producer and consumer.

4 out of 5 are marked

There's no way to get around it. Dental statistics show that four out of every five over 40—and thousands younger, too—are victims of Pyorrhea. Do you want to avoid this dread disease?

Prevent tooth decay below the gum-line

As the soil nourishes the tree roots, the gums nourish the teeth. And as the tree decays if you bare the roots, so do the teeth decay when gum shrinkage starts in.

This condition—one of the first stages of Pyorrhea—is very common and something that ordinary tooth pastes are powerless to prevent. If not checked promptly it will lead to loss of teeth and serious organic diseases.

If used in time and used consistently twice daily, Forhan's will prevent Pyorrhea or check its progress. It will preserve the gums in their pink, normal, healthy condition, safeguard your health and keep your mouth clean, fresh and wholesome.

Forhan's is more than a tooth paste; it checks Pyorrhea. Thousands have found it beneficial for years. For your own sake ask for and get Forhan's For the Gums. At all druggists, 35c and 60c in tubes.

LOOKING OVER AN OLD NEWSPAPER

F. H. Dobbin Analyses a Peterborough Gazette of Eighty Years Ago.

The papers are full of intimations of gatherings and votings, and decisions, all tabulated to show how the Union Church movement is progressing, and on the other hand how many congregations have decided to stay out and pursue their way in serenity and concord. All of this will supply most interesting reading fifty years hence, and it may be that people will wonder why there should be made such a stir and dispute over the proposition. By that time the troubles will all have been smothed out, just as has proved to be the case in movements of the past. For we all have to live, do business and mingle together, borrow one anothers rakes and wheelbarrows, trade recipes and impart information, as has been the way of the world since civilization first impinged on this old globe. If we pick up some printed record of what was going on seventy or eighty years ago we shall find that people were interested in pretty much the same things and went about doing things in pretty much the same way.

A friend brings to me a copy of the Peterborough Weekly Gazette, printed in 1845, and of 3rd of October of that year. A four page sheet, creditable for the years and as yet well preserved, for paper of the times was made from rags and had the vitality of fibre and toughness. The other paper was the Weekly Despatch, and between the two existed a rather acute bitterness, which found expression in editorial virulence. Writing of one another things that stung. As was ever the habit of editors, until the craft learned some modicum of sense.

It is eighty years since the congregation of St. John's Church, having erected the church building and settled down decorously to worship, found it needed a lot of things, which the services of the Anglican Church considers right and proper, There was the matter of Communion Plate, ardently longed for, and besides, the stone walls of the church, ony ten years since erection, needed a decorative touch to mellow the rough aspect of the interior. And there was talk of a bell, and hopes for a clock, and presently an organ, and where these things were to come from goodness knew, but wouldn't tell, for very material things such as the clerical stipend, the general upkeep, grading of the church hill, half-a-mile of fencing and other matters were right in the foreground. Pretty much the same with all churches, which were struggling along ten years after the town plot had been settled. And as we are making use of the venerable paper it may be stated as a matter of interest tht the editor was Rev. J. H. Dunsford, grandfather of Mr. W. H. Dunsford, of the Bank of Commerce, in this city. The paper did not make the clerical editor a living, but was conducted as a side line, he being able and willing to write. The paper was published "for a Company of Propreitors," whoever they might be, is not disclosed.

Early in October of 1845 officials of the church and ladies of the congregation came together with the purpose in view of taking action to provide funds, tackling the matter of the Communion Plate first. Taking time for preparation, and allowing for individual and earnest work, on the part of those interested, it was decided to insert in the weekly papers full and sufficient notice that a Bazaar was being planned for and to be held during the month of January of the year following. The bazaar to be held in the Court House, (not so long finished), which building at the time offered about the only room that would be sufficiently large for the purpose and also the use of several smaller rooms adjoining and convenient. As a matter of fact the venture proved most successful, and the plate so procured is in use today, its long and venerable years lending to it added lustre and interest.

Following is the advertisement. The printer has promised to do his "darndest", as the boys say, to reproduce the types in use, and something of the quaint flavor of the setting of the copy. The faces of the types, (the part that makes the impression on paper), are quit familiar to the writer of this screed for when Robert Romaine came to the town, in 1853 and began publication of the Weekly Review, he added to the plant he brought what was left of that of the Gazette and most of the Despacth, thus getting rid of a couple of competitors at one swoop. When the writer, as a boy of fourteen years of age, started as the cub apprentice, many of the types were found, poked into corners, and dust covered, and rather disdained by the journeymen in the office. No doubt all these types have been "fired" long ago. But the comp. assures me he will do his best to perpetrate ugliness in typographical display.

of Vocal and Instrumental Music,

Will be given on the Evening of the day of the Bazaar, at which BARON DeFLEUR, is expected to preside.

Peterborough, 12th September, 1845.

Dated at Peterboro, September 11th, 1845.

The bazaar was held in due form and importance, and proved to be financially a success. The plate was presently provided and a fair sum was allotted to other improvements. During the twenty years to follow the congregation worked with utmost diligence and personal effort to improve the surroundings and to meet the pressing needs of the rectorate.

The advertising columns contain many announcements that seem quaint and queerly put but in conformity with the best publicity efforts of the period. One of an important character relates to the prospectus of the Coborne District Grammar chool, issued under the authority of Rev. Robert J. C. Taylor, M.A. as Principal. Associated with him is Henry Baldwin, B.A., an assistant Master and Instructor. Rev. Mr. Taylor was Rector of Peterborough, and was a man of very large attainments in the field of education, and offers testimonials from many eminent people to such effect. For many years familiarly and even affectionately known as "Parson Taylor", he was both deft and energetic in the conduct of the school. It may be of interest to state that the above mentioned educational institution was the successor of the first school of any pretensions in the district and which Rev. Mr. Taylor had conducted for several years as the "Peterborough Government School." The advertisement takes up the space of six or seven inches in a rather broad column, but is overmuch to reproduce here. The language used in expressing the intentions of the school is very formal and precise. The writer of the advertisement appeals to the residents as follows:

"To those resident at a distance, or to recently arrived emigrants, who have not decided on their ultimate destination, and who are often influenced in their decision by a desire of living in the vicinity of a school, where their children can be fitted for mercantile pursuits, or the learned professions, to such it may be here proper to state, that Peterborough, the capital of the Colborne district, is a large and rapidly increasing county town, easy of access, either by stage or by steamboat, and is remarkable for its beautiful and healthy situation."

Living in the town was a certain William McBurney. A man of parts, and a rather rigid sense of personal and civic duty. So much so that on the incorporation of the town in 1850, and certain public situations and offices were given out, the last to be formally settled was that of poundkeeper. The position promised to be one of considerable chance for altercations and disputes, and all hands shied away from the appointment. With a fine sense of civic responsibility William McBurney offered to take the office and perform, if Robert Sharpe would share with him the duties, and it was so ordained. Proved to be a very useful pair and rigidly enforced the provisions of the by-law. When it is recollected that all domestic animals roamed at large, that the "poor man's cow" had the franchise of the streets in the way of pasturage, and often erupted into gardens, paying no attention to the fences, there was plenty of opportunity for disputes and much proving up of ownership, with a view to consequent damages.

But it would seem that William McBurney became much peeved, on occasion. 'Some sort of a wrangle had been going on, and parties thereto had apparently kept out of the courts, but McBurney lost patience and inserted in the weekly Gazette the following defiance, which caused much local comment:

Arbitration.

"To contradict part of the nine hundred and ninety-nine lies which have been told, I hereby again state, that I am willing to leave all matters in dispute between William Lundy and myself, to arbitration, any time before the Twentieth Day of October, next. After that date Henry Sherwood, Esq., shall be my attorney for adjustment of the same.

"William McBurney."

A distinct advance was apparent in the upbuilding of the town in its earlier years when brick came to be used in construction work, thus replacing wood, which had been, except in the case of stone buildings, the rule. Three of the earliest block buildings are yet in service. The old Globe Hotel, on Charlotte Street, nearly opposite the opening of Louis Street. The brick house at the corner of Simcoe and Queen Streets (north side of Simcoe), built by Thomas Leonard, the fine old brick house, now on municipal property, put up by Marcello Mowrey, south of Hunter Street bridge and near the building known as that of the Rapid Tool Company. These houses were built at the beginning of the forties, (1840 to 1844), the brick being brought in from Cobourg over the snow roads. But we find that in 1845 a firm by the name of Mogg & Curran advertise that they have for sale so many as 200,000 stock bricks, of superior quality to any seen in the district, and offer to sell the same for cash or approved notes. The yard was stated to be half-a-mile north of Peterborough, and near Benson's Mills. If the bricks were made at and where the yard is indicated to have been it is difficult to conceive that a bed of brick clay could be found in the neighborhood, as the whole area, north of Smith Street, is one continuous stratum of gravel. The price of the brick was at ten shillings the thousand, about $2.50 of money of to-day.

The attention of the profession of druggists and dispensing chemists is respectfully called to the array of patent medicines of the time, and on sale. All were compounded and manufactured in the States, across the border, and immense quantities were sold. Several English preparations of renown were also procurable. Old timers, who have quaffed these decoctions are invited to read the list following and identify: Moffatt's Life Pills and Bitters. Koof's Medicinal Bitters. Sand's Sarsaparilla. Dalley's Pain Extractor. Tiger Pills, or Poor Man's Doctor. Winer's Vermifuge. Sherman's Worm Lozenges. Lin's Balm of China. Holloway's Pills and Ointment. Bristol's Extract Sarsaparilla. Rowland's Maccasar Oil. Parr's Life Pills. Lin's Temperance Bitters and Pills. Winer's Essence of Horehound and Elecampane. Sir Astley Cooper's Antibilious Pills.

Many other concoctions were on sale. Bitters were supposed to be derived from essences of roots and herbs preserved in liquor. Such offered to the man of temperance proclivities, but with a longing to "take something," a liquid that eased his conscience and tickled his inwards, effectually. Thus robbing Peter to pay Paul, as it were. It was not until years afterward that the once familiar Ayer's Sarsaparilla, Burdock Blood Bitters, Perry's Pine Tar Cordial, and the eminent Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup adorned the shelves of the dispensing druggist and the country grocer. This latter compound had to be ruled off the market, for it grew to be nothing less that a strong decoction of opium, and very detrimental to young children, administered to keep the infants quiet.

It was at least fifteen years afterwards that a famous potion came into sale and proved for thirty years to be one of the most popular, known as "Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound," appealed to women, entirely, and never appealed in vain. Attached to the labels on the bottles were a long list of ailments for which the contents were a sure cure. People bought the stuff and drained it by the quart. One of the first patent remedies to be put up in attractive form, and much advertised, it grew into universal favor. As to its efficacy there was large doubt, but it was easy to prescribe and smooth to take. Nearly every back yard contained several discarded bottles. A mark of advancing civilization, same as the empty corn beef can found in the upper reaches of the Canadian North West. The advertisements of the Pinkham remedy, carried at the head of the lettering a picture of a very nice and amiable mature lady, arrayed in best black with a dainty lace collar. This picture alone inspired confidence. In the days of which we are making relation, and afterwards, pictures or cuts, were very scarce in country printing offices. That of Lydia Pinkham proved to be indispensable. When any woman of more than provincial importance came before the public, such as Florence Nightingale, Jenny Lind, or even in a pinch, Helen of Troy, the intelligent compositor would fetch the cut and so adorn the article to his great satisfaction. In such respect Lydia Pinkham was a life saver.

CAIN AND ABEL STORY SEEN IN FARM MYSTERY

Shotgun Wrecks Happy Family Circle—Slayer Not Discovered.

THROUGH WINDOW.

Man Was Too Fond of His Brother's Wife, Says Prosecutor—Guilt Denied.

(By GEORGE BRITT)

MILLVILLE, N.J., Feb. 5.—The Moores in their small farming community three miles out of town used to be a prize exhibit of a big, happy unbroken family circle— until that fateful shotgun blast.

There were mother and father and the three boys, Thomas, Jr. 23, John 21 and Howard 19, and the daughter Bertha 17.

When Tom married he brought his wife, Hilda back there to live at the home place. And the marriage brought the happiness of babies again to the house. There were Sadie who now is 5, and little Tommy 3.

A shotgun wrecked all that. Tom was sitting at the bedside of his mother, who had been sick, smoking his pipe and talking to her and to some neighbors. It was nearly bedtime, about 9.30 p.m. Without warning a shot gun blazed outside the window, crashing the glass, spraying birdshot through the room, terrorizing the women and blotting out Tom's life

Who is the murderer has not been proved. Howard Moore is under arrest, charged with killing his brother Pretty Hilda, the girl widow, is pointed as the motive.

Prosecutor Thomas Tuso, the avenger in this Cain and Abel theory insists that everything was not so serene on the Moore farm as it appeared outwardly. Thomas Moore, Sr., was afraid that Howard was too fond of his brothers' wife, it is now being claimed. Only a few months ago, Prosecutor Tuso says, the father asked the advice of a friend and remarked dolefully:

"If something isn't done soon, something terrible is going to happen."

MRS. HILDA MOORE,

Both Tom and Howard Moore had been schoolboy sweethearts and admirers of Hilda at the Millville High School. But Tom was the elder and was a school athletic hero and he won her. They were married when he was but 18 and she 14. Tom and Hilda and Howard all lived under the same roof.

"I loved Howard, but only as a brother," Hilda admits now. "I loved Tom, too. I don't believe Howard killed him."

The young wife had gone to a picture show with Baby Sadie the night of the shooting and did not return until her husband had been dead for half an hour. Howard also was absent at the time. He drove up in his flivver a few minutes later and says he did not hear the shot.

Sentiment in the entire community is intense and divided. The broken father is stricking by his accused son and says he believes him innocent. The other brother, John, likewise is loyal, saying "I don't believe the police are giving Howard a square deal."

The police claim they found in the snow outside the fateful window a footprint which corresponds to one of Howards' shoes. They say, also, they found one of the shotguns in the farmhouse had been fired recently. The father himself went to Howard's cell in the jail here, fell on his knees, clasped him in his arms and begged him to confess if he were guilty.

"I didn't do it; before God, I didn't," is all Howard will say.

The youth has refused to take off either hat or overcoat in his cell, as if expecting every minute to be released. He touches little food, smokes nervously, and talks almost not at all.

MORE DEATH RAYS

Following announcement of the invention of a "death ray," by H. Grindell-Matthews, others have come forth with similar ideas, some claiming priority to that of Matthews. Prof. T. S. Wall of Sheffield says he has patented such a ray, and a Londoner says he has had one like it for nearly a year. The British air service says it has been experimenting with it for the last two years and also has a protection against this ray.

Women To Rule Traffic From Towers In Streets

PORT CHESTER, N.Y., Feb. 6.—Women have qualified in other towns as capable members of police departments, both as patrolmen and detectives, but this town, it is believed, will soon have the first woman traffic police.

The village trustees determined to appoint two after the plan was proposed by Chief of Police James Donovan and supported enthusiastically by Daniel J. Roney, chairman of the Police Committee.

The jobs will pay $1,500 a year and the work will be divided into two shifts of eight hours a day. The traffic policewomen will be stationed in a warm, electrically heated signal tower similar to those in New York City.

RAID BY POLES IS LOOKED FOR

May Invade Danzig Any Moment—Cassubians Reported to be Arming.

DANZIG, Feb. 6 (Canadian Press).—A Polish raid into Danzig territory is expected momentarily by the excited population of this city, because of the outburst of rage manifested by Poland over the League of Nations prohibition of Polish postal service here.

The opera bouffe situation caused by the Polish government's insistence on its right to have letter boxes and uniformed letter carriers in Danzig streets is becoming serious, owing to well founded rumors of warlike activity in the Polish province of Cassubia, immedately adjonng the free port.

The Cassubans are reported to be arming and organizing bands for the invasion of Danzig.

The people of Danzig, however, are prepared for the worst.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

RADIO RECEPTION.

Dear Sir.—You have not been greatly troubled with correspondence on radio subjects, and I therefore presume to address you in connection with radio broadcast reception.

Peterboro as well as all other cities is more or less troubled by sets which radiate. The owners of these sets are in many cases no doubt ignorant of the fact that when a receiving set is in an oscillating or howling condition it may be heard in other sets for several miles. It can well be imagined then what it means to other sets near at hand.

To take a concrete example — there is in the north end one set which causes a great deal of interference, of which, it is only charitable to suppose, the operator knows nothing. He confines his attention mostly to the higher wave lengths, picking out some especially good programme, as, for instance, the WGY-WJZ combination, or WEAF, which is coming in with a strong signal. He puts his set into an oscillating condition and then spends an hour or two trying to "get in" and failing utterly, to the great discomfiture of those near by who are also anxious to hear the programme. His powerful interfering signal at times completely blankets or cancels the incoming signal. It is a marvel that any set, however broad in its tuning, and even in an oscillating condition, cannot tune in quickly to the extraordinarily strong signals which evade this individual, as, for instance, the WJZ-WGY concerts on Feb. 1st. In contrast it is refreshing to hear another set, equally powerful, tune in. It is done with two movements of the dial only, as a rule.

Fortunately more and more sets are now being used which are non-radiating, and in time, as the public becomes better informed, the interference will become less and less. At the same time those who have squealing sets will learn more and more to tune, without the squeal.

Thanking you for the space, I am, yours truly,

PERSECUTED.

LAW'S CONFLICT DEPRIVES WOMEN OF CITIZENSHIP

Former English Women Who Married United States Citizens.

NATIONAL OUTCASTS

Recognized by Neither England Nor United States—Number Increasing.

LONDON, Feb. 6 (Associated Press)—There is a steadily growing group of women living in England who are women without a country. They are former English women whom their government disowns on their marriage to a citizen of the United States and whom the United States refuses to recognize as citizens since the enactment of the bill forcing foreign women marrying Americans to retain their foreign citizenship unless naturalized in America.

At the time the bill was enacted the number of English women married to Americans in England was very small and little notice was taken of the hardships forced upon them. Now these nationally outcast women in England number about 5,000 and their predicament is constantly being brought to the notice of the British government and the United States consular authorities in England.

Neither the government nor the consuls will grant passports to these women although requests are made daily for this privilege. The British government, according to their law believes that the woman becomes an American citizen on marriage and therefore refuses passport facilities. The American consuls have relented to the extent of issuing letters explaining that the person cited is married to an American citizen, requesting that passport privileges be granted. The consuls refuse to accept any responsibility, however, and it is entirely on the suffrage of foreign governments that these women are allowed to enter foreign countries. The letter is required to be vised as passports, but even despite this precaution, many holders have been refused admission to European countries, particularly in the Balkan states.

Several attempts to have the matter satisfactorily settled have been made by Anglo-American organizations in England but just now there is no disposition on the part of either government to change the existing laws. The last English government considered the question and went so far as to agree to place the matter before parliament, but the present Conservative government is not taking any steps in that direction.

Most of the women affected have no opportunity of residing in the United States for the year required to obtain American citizenship and it is for this class that an appeal will shortly be made by an American women's organization in London to the American government to modify the existing law so as to allow a "declaration of intent" to be substituted for the residential period in America.

The number of these women without a country is increasing at the rate of about 500 a year.

AMERICANS OUT OF CONFERENCE

Nations Reject U. S. Plan as Idealistic and Impossible.

OPIUM CONFERENCE.

GENEVA, Feb. 6. — (Canadian Press).—The American delegation withdrew from the League of Nations anti-drug conference to-day.

This action was taken on the authority of President Coolidge after a so-called super-conference of 16 nations had discussed a report rejecting practically all the proposals submitted at Geneva by Congressman Stephen Porter and his colleagues.

Plenary Session.

Refusing to attend this conference or to affix the signature of the United States to any of the conventions drawn up in three months of work against drugs, the Americans awaited only word from Washington authorizing them to withdraw. When this came, Porter informed the conference leaders that the United States would take no further part in drafting the conventions which will be presented at a plenary session to-day or to-morrow.

Demands Idealistic.

The American delegation presented a programme at Geneva which included fixing a date for all nations to abolish opium smoking and a plan to limit narcotic production to the world scientific needs.

By those nations which profit from international narcotic trade, the demands were described as "idealistic" and were rejected.

TO QUIT COLOGNE TOWNS.

Berlin Hears of British Plan to Withdraw Troops From Six.

BERLIN, Feb. 6.—British troops will be withdrawn from several towns in the Cologne zone Saturday, according to a report reaching Berlin.

The towns to be evacuated, it is stated, are Wermelskirchen, Schaberg, Graefrath, Engelskirchen and Ohligs. One British office will remain at Ohligs with one interpreter.

British military police will continue on duty in the area to be evacuated, according to the report, and passport formalities will still be enforced.

25 CRIMINALS RULE GANGSTERS

Chicago Over-Run by Crime, While Police Are Hampered.

ROOM AT TOP

(Copyright, 1925, by United Press.)

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—Chicago, burdened with a criminal gang system as intricate as the old Feudal Fiefs, could be cleaned up if the police were not hampered by "politics, big business and respectable citizenry," Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlain, operating director of the Chicago Crime Commission, told the United Press in an exclusive interview.

"There are approximately twenty-five 'master' crimnals in this city," Chamberlain asserted. "It would be easy for the police to shadow these twenty-five men, and if they worked as efficiently as the gangsters themselves Chicago would be rid of crime and criminals.

25 Lords of Crime.

"These twenty-five men are the 'lords 'of crime. The exact their tribute from their vassals, who in turn take their share from the lowers serfs. Stop the lords and the whole system is broken up.

"The criminal business is a strange thing. It used to be Moss Enright that was the master gangster—the fellow who could handle a gun. It was Mike Merlo who 'fixed' things politically. At that time there was a young but very efficient safe-blower named Dean O'Banion, who as a vassal, paying part of his crime profits to Enright and Merlo.

"Enright was killed. Merlo passed out of the picture. O'Banion by the sheer accuracy of his six-shooter, arose to a place of power His 'fixer' was Johnny Torrio.

Always Room at Top.

"Now O'Banion has been killed and Torrio seriously wounded. But crime will continue, because the system provides room at the top for the young criminals who have 'made good' in their profession. O'Banion's shoes and Torrio's shoes will be filled by others."

In 1924 there were 347 murders in Cook county, which was 77 more than in 1923 and 147 more than in 1921.

There were 1,755 robberies in 1924, as compared with 1,402 in 1923.

Crime is on the increase, Col. Chamberlain said, "because police are not allowed or are afraid to do their duty, because they know that the lords' of crime have political power and can force them out of their jobs."
workers were out.

MARMORA NEWS.

Young People's League Had Interesting Programme—Address on "Praise."

MARMORA Feb. 6.—An interesting programme was put on at the Young People's League on Wednesday evening. Miss M. Topper presided. After devotional exercises, the Rev. D. R. Clare gave a splendid address on "Praise." He said that all worship may be divided into three sections, Praise, Prayer and Preaching. Praise, to be real, is unconscious action or attribute of the mind. Conscious praise approacheth to flattery. True praise comes from sub-consciousness of the mind. Praise is reciprocal. We may praise God and at the same time be a praise to Him. True praise is that which goes up to God from the rgiht type of personality. The end of the Gospel is that we may be a praise to Him. All singing is not praise. Worshipful praise must be a mental process. We sing "O for a thousand tongues to sing," when perhaps the one tongue we have is not doing its best in praising God. In singing we must concentrate on the thought of the hymn. True praise is only expressed in harmonies. God is the creator of music and you cannot express real praise without being harmonious and thus coming the nearest in this world in that respect to the praise rendering character of the angel.

The roll call came next, members responding w ith a Biblical quotation n pairse. Then followed an intersting and noval hymn contest, in which the honours and wards went to the pastor. Taken all through, it was an hour most profitably spent.

CITY CANNOT BORROW.

QUEBEC, Feb. 6.— The city of Quebec referendum to borrow $300,000 for public works, voted upon last December, and contested in court, was formally declared null and void by Mr. Justice Gibsone Thursday.

MINERS LIVING ON AIR DURING A COAL STRIKE

Only 82 1-2 Cents a Week for Food Ration in Virgina Fight.

BABIES DIE.

Evicted From Homes, the Families Live in Tents and Shacks.

MAMMOTH, W. Va., Feb. 6. — Five thousand men, women and children are living in tents and improvised shacks in the West Virginia mountains, on a food ration that costs 82 1-2 cents a week.

They are the striking coal miners and their families.

As part of the long warfare between the coal companies and the union mine workers, approximately 1,500 families have been evicted from their homes this winter, in the region surrounding Charleston, the State capital.

It was on December 16 that the sheriff and his deputies appeared in this little mining town of Mammoth. They went from one "company house" to another, setting the scant furnishings out in the road.

The evictions were by court order.

To shelter the miners and their wives and children from the snows and chill mountain winds, union headquarters at Charleston rushed tents to the Kanawha River valley.

Food Every Two Weeks.

Food for the shivering strikers and their broods comes once every two weeks by truck from Charleston. The cost per person is 82 1-2 cents a week, and in a majority of instances this is the entire food supply of these families.

Small children are not considered "persons."

"The men can't hunt on these lands," explained Mrs. Frank Goddard, mother of seven youngsters, "because the lands belong to the coal companies and they are patrolled by guards and by State troopers."

Mrs. Goddard is a typical striker's wife. She had just moved with her family from one of the tents to a little abandoned Baptist church, which is shared by another family of seven.

Here is a two-weeks' ration for the Goddard family—a family of nine:

Eight pounds of salt pork, bacon or canned meats.
Eight pounds of cornmeal or oatmeal.
Twenty-four pounds of flour.
Eight to ten pounds of beans.
Four pounds of sugar.
Two pounds of lard.
Two pounds of coffee, a half-pound of baking soda and a handful of salt and pepper.

That is about 7 1-2 ounces of food per day per person, counting the lard and everything.

Three Babies Die.

Three babies died of pneumonia after the evictions. Makeshift "bungalows," small shacks for two families each, have been built by the union, but many of the families still live in tents, five, six and seven to a tent.

"We just eat bread and coffee for breakfast generally," said Mrs. Goddard, "and some days that's all we have. Sometimes the children get a dish of oatmeal once a day and eat bread the other meals. The older children get beans.

"We have to nurse the babies as long as we can, because it's so hard to get cows' milk for them."

The present strike followed the refusal of the mine operators to abide by the scale agreed upon by "closed shop" companies and the United Mine Workers in the central competitive field. Open shop operators in this field offer to pay the lower 1917 scale, stating that it is impossible for them to operate under the current Jacksonville agreement.

HOW THE BODY EATS.

Selects Foods Needed For Development—Man's Responsibility.

Every man, woman and child should have strong muscles, firm bones, solid teeth, steady nerves and good red blood, Mrs. Mann learned in her first lesson on foods for health.

Fortunatley nature brings most children into the world with the power to digest foods, with veins and arteries to carry this food to parts of the body, after it is digested.

And the various parts of the body have the power to select the foods needed. Teeth select calcium, muscles select protein, fat, iron, phosphorus, other substances and so on.

Thus if the proper foods are selected by the individual, the parts of the body will take care of themselves.

There should be food for strength, food to build up resistance against disease, food to give a spring to the step and put energy and ambition within.

For these every normal man, woman and child needs milk, vegetables, fruit, cereals and probably fat and eggs, Mrs. Mann learned.

MANY BIG PROBLEMS CONFRONT BRITISH PARLIAMENT SESSION

Expected to Enact Laws of Vital Interest in the World.

PREFERENCE ISSUE.

Churchill Credited With Desire to Knock Shilling Off Income Tax.

By CLIFFORD L. DAY.

LONDON, Feb. 6 (United Press).—Great problems confront the British Parliament when it convenes February 10, after a two months' Christmas vacation.

The Conservative (Tory) party will have a chance to show what it can do with the strongest majority that party has held in a British Parliament for more than 100 years.

The public is watching the session with even keener interest perhaps, than it displayed a year ago when the empire's first Labor administration took office. It was certain then that the Laborites were too weak numerically in Parliament to alter much the existing state of things· today the Conservatives are powerful enough to do just about as they please.

It appears that domestic problems will take precedence in its deliberations, although a number of vital foreign questions still are hanging fire. Outstanding features promised to include, primarily: The Budget, Tariff Policy, Unemployment, Cost of Living, Agriculture, Housing, Industrial Disputes, Interallied Debts, Ireland, Geneva, Protocol, Russia, Mexico.

The man in the street is waiting to see, mainly, what alleviation in taxes may be forthcoming in the budget to be submitted by the new Chancellor of the Exchequer, Winston Churchill.

The Income Tax.

Churchill is credited with a desire to knock a shilling per pound off the income-tax. If he does that both the masses and the classes will rise up and call him blessed, for the total taxation per capita in Great Britain is now more than $75 per year. The income-tax alone is a veritable nightmare.

Whatever Churchill's good intentions may be, however, treasury returns so far have indicated that sixpence is the closest shaving in this respect that the Federal exchequer can permit. But, if some unforeseen windfall develops in the meantime—such as an unusually heavy trade boom or a big incoming debt payment—the chancellor's reported desire may yet be satisfied. It is considered hardly likely that other noteworthy tax reductions will be attempted.

As regards the adoption of far-reaching imperial preference, whereby goods and products from and to the dominions would be accorded tariff favoritism, it is believed unlikely that much of anything can be accomplished before summer. Premier Baldwin and many of his followers are strongly behind the scheme, and its effects might conceivably be of considerable moment to the United States, South American countries and others who deal prominently with Britain or her possessions.

When imperial preference does come, it is generally believed it probably will be in the form of a new Safeguarding of Industries Act. According to reliable political quarters, it is aimed that the new one shall be more elastic than that in force at present. Whereas the present act has applied only to countries suffering with depreciated currencies, apparently it is intended to make the forthcoming law apply to all countries alike. Germany has been the principal victim under the present legislation.

Yet inauguration of the desired preference is hedged about with innumerable difficulties. For instance, critics state, it would apparently impose the same duties on German steel as in steel from the United States, which, it is believed, would work out impractically. Furthermore, Baldwin has pledged that he will not introduce out-and-out protection tariffs and Churchill has promised there will be no general tariff in another form.

Quarters close to the government have suggested the possibility of instituting a form of limited protection, wherein the burden of proof would rest with individual industries. Each desiring protection, under this forecast, would have to produce proof of specific disabilities before being taken under cover.

Unemployment Problem.

The success of Baldwin's administration in this respect probably will, automatically, determine what it can do toward dispersing the army of unemployed, still numbering well over a million. It appears, however, that other factors in the world situation will play no small part in cutting down the number of Britishers who are on the dole. The general trade recuperation already resulting from the Dawes plan has had ample reflex here. Business has been picking up during the last few months.

But, besides trade booms and imperial preference, it is understood Baldwin has other ideas up his sleeve for the possible alleviation of unemployment. He has, however, so far clung tenaciously to the policy of encouraging home industry as his chief projected remedy for idleness.

A barrage of interpellations is also certain on the increased cost of living. It is not unlikely, however, that the government investigating committee headed by Sir Aucland Geddes will soon have a tentative report ready regarding the rising prices of food.

Closely allied to the food problem, the question of assistance for agriculture is bound to arise at this session. Baldwin already has announced his intention of summoning a representative conference of farmers to discuss measures. Subsidy or some form of protection have been suggested in certain Conservative circles.

Housing also remains an acute problem in Parliament. It is probable the first legislation transacted will be passage of a bill extending the expiry of the Rent Restrictions Act from this year to 1928.

Strikes Threatened.

Workmen in a number of industries are so disgruntled that the prospect of continued industrial peace is no better now than it was early in 1924. The coalminers, railwaymen, and builders are again clamoring for higher wages or better conditions, or both. Employes in the engineering and shipbuilding industries are making similar demands as well as are even the postal workers.

The list of domestic problems of the session probably will be further augmented by a report of the Irish boundary commission. This would set off a fitful lot of fireworks.

In foreign affairs, the Geneva Protocol and the interallied debts head the session programme for the present.

As for the protocol, the government has apparently been embarrassed by the refusal of the dominions to shoulder the responsibility for action. An imperial conference in March was sought as a means of discussing the advisability of Britain's artifying the Geneva pact.

Russia undoubtedly will bob up again. Chamberlain probably will be asked about his reported efforts to co-operate with France and Italy against Bolshevism. The government has openly declared it will not submit the MacDonald Russian treaties for ratification. It has, however, significantly left the recognition of the Soviet hand and has broadly hinted the door is still open for negotiation of alternative treaties.

Relations With Mexico.

It is more than likely that something will be done before adjournment to patch up the differences with Mexico.

Altogether, it looks like the present session will drag along with the usual ingredient of high-powered debate. Labor has fewer seats than it had last year at this time and the Liberal contingent is a mere shadow of its former self, but both factions are exceedingly active.

The session probably will continue until about the end of July.

GIRL OF 13 FINDS HERSELF WITHOUT A COUNTRY AS DOORS ARE CLOSED TO HER

LEFT HOME IN BATTLE CREEK MICHIGAN TO VISIT AUNT IN TORONTO, CANADA.

RETURNING HOME, U.S. IMMIGRATION OFFICIALS REFUSE TO LET HER ENTER COUNTRY

MARY-GOGOFF

SENT BACK TO TORONTO

NOT GOOD ENOUGH FOR THE U.S. THE CANADIANS DON'T WANT HER — A GIRL WITHOUT A COUNTRY.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Feb. 5.—Little Mary Gogoff, 13, is a pawn of nations.

Though her parents are wealthy, Mary finds herself a "waif of the world," the centre of a controversy between nations as to where she will be permitted to live.

She is now in Toronto, Canada, and United States immigration authorities will not permit her to return here, where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Gogoff, reside.

And Canada officials say if she isn't good enough for the United States she can't remain there.

All because Mary has defective sight and hearing and because her father has not taken out his first citizenship papers.

Mary went to visit her aunt in Toronto last fall to recuperate following an illness of scarlet fever which impaired her two senses.

She started home for Christmas, and her parents went to Detroit to meet her.

But immigration authorities said no — she could not cross into the United States.

Then Canadian officers got busy. She couldn't stay in that country either—they would deport her. But where?

Mary was born in Macedonia, but a Balkan war had changed Europe's map since her emigration to America. Macedonia, once a Turkish province, was now ruled by Greece.

Turkey wouldn't have her—neither would Greece. It seemed like the only way to satisfy all immigration authorities was to take Mary into mid-ocean and leave her.

Then the Battle Creek Federation of Women's Clubs took a hand. They have petitioned Secretary of Labor Davis and he has said that the girl's hearing will be reopened.

The clubs in their petition point out that Mary had been a pupil in the public schools and had contracted the disease which impaired her faculties while living in the United States.

The child's father, who has built up a large fortune in the past 11 years, says he will spend every cent, if necessary, to have Mary returned to the family home here.

DIFFERENT TYPES OF PUPPY OWNERS

Be Kind to the Cannie—Cowed Dog Loses Half Its Value.

Some men are not worthy of the high honor of owing a dog. Some just neglect the animal. Their dogs are housed anyhow. They are fed on odd house scraps instead of wholesome dog cakes, hound meal, terrier meal and other biscuit foods which a dog needs to keep it healthy. They get little or no exercise and the owner vaguely wonders why his dog compares so badly with those of other folk.

Then there are individuals who believe in stern discipline with their dogs. Discipline is good but it is just as possible to break a dog's spirit as it is to break a human being's. Nothing is more pitiable than a cowed, frightened animal that dreads its owner's eye. And such an animal loses half its value as a protector of a house or as a sporting dog.

A contrast to these are the men who spoil their dogs. Some never tatemps to train their dogs at all. Their pett can do no wrong. Nothing is more disagreeable than a walk with an ill-trained, disobedient dog—nothing is a bigger nuisance than such a dog about the house. An untrained dog, like an untrained child, is a public pest.

A coddled dog—and here one thinks chiefly of lady dog-owners—is generally an unhealthy dog. Any veterinary surgeon will tell you that he gets three times the number of cases from the pet dog class than any other. They are as overfed and irrationally fed as they are under-exercised. They are so shielded from the world that the least chance exposure gives them chills. And generally, the petted, coddled dog is bad-tempered and untrustworthy.

But I know very many men who are a master and friends of their dogs, who without being harsh or cruel have their pets well in hand, who without coddling them injudiciously see that their animals are well fed, housed and looked after. It is a pleasure to go to their houses and meet both them and their dogs.

I have in mind one who is the ideal owner. When he starts off for business in the morning his dog has his first run with him. It leaves him at the station gate and goes straight home for another enjoyable run with the children to school. Then soon after nine the dog has his first meal—not the house scraps that too many dog owners give—but good sound biscuit foods. A rule is made that the dog's drinking water is changed three times a day. A dog will drink twice as much if the water be kept cool and clean, and a healthy dog can scarcely have too much water.

Then when maids or mistress go out shopping in the morning the dog goes with them. A dog loves outings as much as a child, and that suits its health just as they do a child's. After school the children are encouraged to take the dog out. At six o'clock it has its second meal—the heaviest meal of the day—consisting of soaked dog biscuit, hound meal, terrier meal, or other biscuit food mixed with a little meat and gravy, and now and then an addition of cooked vegetables. A large sized bone is given now and then, for bones, like dog biscuits, are excellent for the teeth.

Last thing at night its owner takes it for a brisk run. A dog is far less likely to get chills if he goes to sleep warm after exercise.

And on Saturdays and Sundays the dog has extra long walks and exercise.

As a consequence, the dog is perfectly healthy, well-trained and obedient—a real friend of the family.

Nothing is more amply repaid than a little thought and kindly commonsense applied to the care of a dog.

ONE BLUEBEARD SECRET IS OUT

Finding of Laudrau's Victims Kills Theory of His Innocence.

SPIDER AND FLY

PARIS, Feb. 6.—The discovery of the skeleton of a woman buried in a wood near the village of Villennes, some miles from Paris, has revealed one of the thirteen victims of Landru, the French Bluebeard, guillotined about two years ago.

Soon after the discovery of the body, the inhabitants of Villennes remembered that they lived in the next village to Vernouillet, where the famous French Bluebeard had his villa. Within the lonely house, standing in its own garden, horrible crimes were perpetrated. It was there that the bodies of two small dogs belonging to one of his victims were found, buried among the flower-beds. It was the discovery of these remains that first caused Landru to be suspected of a whole series of crimes, including the murder of thirteen women.

Landru was often employed in moving-jobs. He and his son of his first and only lawful wife, a mere youth, made most of their income by shifting the goods and chattels of neighbors and others from place to place. Landru's long, covered van was naturally well known to everyone at Villennes, and more especially to the peasant population, often anxious to find a van of the right size to take loads of vegetables, milk cans, butter, or fruit to the market.

It seems that Landru was extremely partial to the Falaise Woods, where the woman's skeleton was found, although the road that crosses them is usually bad, and little frequented, the real high road running lower down, almost on a level with the Seine. Now the explanation of his peculiar taste for ill-famed, ill-frequented woods is forthcoming.

Spider and Fly.

Landru's methods of tempting his victims into his pretty, lonely villas were peculiar to himself. Somehow or other, he always made friends with women in public places, in public conveyances, such as the Underground, for choice. There is no sort of doubt that he got into conversation with hundreds of females, always of the same type.

He selected women of just over forty, whose charms were waning, and who were very anxious to find an understanding man, who would give them a home, even if he could not promise the fresh love of a younger swain. Feeling that the spring, and even summer, had passed, these women did not look too closely into the character of the man who courted them. Sometimes they were widows, sometimes spinsters, but one and all had some means.

No doubt Landru made approaches to many women who were in utter poverty, but he quickly abandoned them, on finding that there was nothing to be "made." Curiously enough, he always managed to select very lonely women, who had no near relatives in the neighborhood of Paris, and no one to care what became of them.

It was only after some years' activity that Landru's villas got the reputation of being bournes from which no woman every returned. And had it not been for his cynicism is taking a return ticket for himself, and merely a single for the lady, on each of the fatal occasions, it is probable that he would never have been convicted.

Landru's Orderly Ways.

Landru kept a joint diary and account book. Here he noted the date upon which he got to know each successive sweetheart, for he promised marriage to all and sundry, with perfect indifference to the fact that he already had a wife and family at home. Afterwards he made an entry of her first week-end visit in the country. On this occasion he took a return ticket for himself and the woman.

When, however, he had managed to get her savings into his own hands, when everything was signed and settled, he carried the woman off for a change of air, into the country, for the last time. She never returned, for she had a single ticket only. The neighbors spoke of seeing thick streams of grey smoke rising from Landru's chimneys.

But scientists were not agreed as to the possibility of his being able to carry out the operation in his stove, although it was a large one, without attracting attention by the smell. Although charred bones were found in Landru's garden, they proved to be those of animals and not of human beings, and certainly the case against this charmer of women was merely circumstantial.

The finding of one of Landru's victims in the woods near Vernouillet will put an end to all the host of speculations about Landru's possible innocence. For it will be full proof that he killed his sweethearts, and distributed their bodies somewhere in the neighborhood, only using his famous stove for burning their clothes. Vernouillet and Villennes are on the outskirts of the Forest of Saint Germain, a place of ill-repute. It is certain that Landru could have found sufficient lonely spots in this vast forest for the bestowal of hundreds of women had he so desired.

NOT SO BAD.

It has often been said that the poor man who steals a loaf of bread receives worse punishment under the law than the rich man who steals a large sum of money. There may have been cases in proof of such an assertion, but it doesn't follow that justice always bows to the wealthy and forgets the poor. For instance, there is the case of Mrs. Mary Boeheme, 24 years old, who lives with her husband and four children, the eldest four years old, in two rooms in a Brooklyn rooming house.

Mrs. Boeheme's husband had been ill two weeks. Funds were exhausted. The children were crying for food, having tasted none for more than 24 hours. Mrs. Boeheme took some rolls and milk belonging to another person and she was arrested on a charge of petit larceny. Was she sent to jail? Not for a minute.

When policemen heard her story they subscribed $15 in a few minutes and sent a member of the force to her house with food. No one appeared to press the larceny charge against her and she was discharged. When she returned home she found her landlady, who had not known of her desperate plight, caring for her children. And further, to improve matters, Mr. Boeheme had returned to work.

Not such a bad world after all.

WOMAN'S BEST FRIEND IS HER MIRROR.

By GILDA GRAY.

The best friend and severest critic of every woman is her mirror.

Reformers rarely consult me before campaigning against prevalent evils, but if they did, I should try to make it an absolute necessity for every home to have a full-length mirror, conspicuously hung.

A friend of mine whom I had not seen for about three years, and must have taken on at least 25 pounds in the meantime, recently came into my dressing room and the first thing she saw was her own reflection in my glass.

She nearly fainted. "I had no idea I was so stout," she wailed. "There isn't a glass in my house that shows more than half of me at a time. I'm going to reduce, beginning this very day!"

Flesh comes upon us so insidiously, particularly if we live comfortably and easily, that we need constantly to be reminded that the extreme curve is no longer the line of beauty.

Mirror Can't Lie.

Your best friends won't always tell you how you look, and if they do they don't always remain your best, but the mirror will not flatter or equivocate. And if you will exercise before the mirror, you can see just where your most vigorous exercises should be concentrated.

To reduce the thighs, kicking exercises are invaluable. These are less tiresome and just as effective if you have a chair beside you and rest one hand on it as you kick. Kick as high as you can to the front, then to the back and then at the side, and repeat as many times as you will.

With your knee bent, bring the upper part of your leg up until it touches your chest. And never neglect the old favorite, touching the floor with the tips of your fingers. All the bending, stretching and pulling you do in this way will not only improve your figure, but benefit the very organs of your body that give you the most trouble if they are not kept healthy.

For a Double Chin.

A double chin never adds to any woman's charm, but it is one of the ills the woman inclined to flesh is heir to. If you happen to have tendencies that way try this, let your head drop back on your spine as far as it will and in that position go through exaggerated motions of chewing. Put your hand up and feel the strain on your muscles and you won't be surprised when chin number two disappears.

After you finish this, go over the chin and throat with a piece of ice wrapped in a towel.

If flesh gathers on your shoulders and the back of your neck, try this: Place your fingers on the points of your shoulders and then rotate the shoulders in a circle, backward, forward, down and up.

Flesh on the upper arms is very difficult to get rid of, except by general reduction, but here is a simple exercise that is as effective as any. Clench your fists as tight as you can and revolve on the wrists until they ache.

Reducing Ankles.

Reducing the ankles is also difficult, but it is decidedly worth trying. Rise as far on your tiptoes as you can and hold the position as long as you can, then go back to position and try again. Running on tiptoe is also excellent. So is this: Sit on the floor holding your knees with clasped hands and rotate the foot from the ankle as many times as you can without becoming too tired.

Keep a tape line about and keep track of your measurements. You would be surprised to realize how easily it is to lose an extra inch here or there. And if you have lost one, you deserve the satisfaction of knowing it.

PLANS HELD UP.

Sewage Disposal Plant Cannot Start Until Plans Are Approved.

Queried this morning as to the progress being made with plans for the sewage disposal plant, R. H. Parsons, City Engineer, informed The Examiner that approval of them had not yet been received from Mr. F. A. Dallyn, of Toronto, who is ill at the present time. He is expected back in his office at the end of the week.

PEKING NOW HAS CARS.

PEKING, China, Feb. 5.—Eight brand new street cars, all dolled up in pink, lavender, orange and green rosettes, are operating for the first time in the ancient city of Peking.

Triumphal inauguration ceremonies were conducted when the beribboned trams made their first appearance, while Government soldiers were on guard to protect the cars from jealous rikisha coolies.

Pushers of barrows and leaders of camels stood amazed as the cars glided by comfortably filled with officials and dignitaries.

Over the broad expanse of marble where once emperors marched on foot to offer prayers for their nation, past walls which had stopped invading foes, the cars passed, amid great celebration of those who could understand the epochal trip.

The next day the first casualty occurred—a policeman was run over while trying to keep the curious crowds off the tracks.

FIND VALUABLE STATUE

Medieval Sculptor Turned Out Perfect Example of Portraiture.

LINCOLN, Eng., Feb. 6.—For long regarded as of very little value, the statue of Queen Margaret on the side of the south porch of the cathedral here, has now been acclaimed by an authority on architecture as "possibly the finest and most perfect example of medieval portrait sculpture left in Europe."

Search is now being made for the name of the sculptor. After 600 years of exposure only the hands and the lower parts of the draperies are appreciably damaged. A suggestion that the statue should be removed from its present exposed position and place in a specially prepared niche at the back of the altar screen in the Angel Choir has not been favorably received by the dean and chapter, but it has been enclosed in a wooden case to prevent further damage.

You are a hard and energetic worker, and yet your health is not the best, often being endangered by your arduous laborse. If you are a woman you are inclined to be a bit high brow, but your nature is such that this can be corrected easily if you desire.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

CARNIVAL HELD AT MILLBROOK

Many Beautiful Costumes Worn at First Fete of Ice Season.

PRIZE WINNERS.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 5.— The first carnival of the season was held at the open air rink on Attwooll and Sheppard's pond, on Tuesday evening, and proved a decided success from every viewpoint.

Considering the severe cold the attendance, both of those in costume and of spectators, was good, and the rink committee, Messrs. A. McCorry, W. Pitt, and A. Sloan, are to be congratulated upon providing so enjoyable an occasion.

Music furnished by the Millbrook band, under the leadership of G. A. Duncan, added much to the pleasure of the evening, the onlookers showing their appreciation and the skaters, especially, finding that this attraction increased considerably their enjoyment of a popular sport. The limited space at the covered rink gives no opportunity for having the band on the two evenings each week, Friday and Saturday, when the curlers relinquish the ice for the skaters' use.

The judges were: Messrs. J. W. Hutchison, J. N. McGill and T. Harkness, and the list of prize winners includes:

Best Ladies' Fancy Dress Costume: 1, Miss B. Montgomery (Lieutenant), pair silk stockings; 2 Miss Kathleen Lancashire (Eastern Lady), box of bon-bons.

Best Comic Dress, Ladies: 1 Mrs. G. W. Sayles (Black Dinah), wall mirror; 2 Mrs. Williams, Peterborough (Brownie), box of bon-bons.

Best Gentleman's Fancy Dress Costume: 1 Archie Johnston (Northwest Mounted Police), Gillette razor; 2 Lawrence Winslow (Charlie Chaplin) necktie.

Best Comic Costume, Gentleman's: 1 Harold Hunter (Clown), suitcase; 2, Raymond Hutchison, necktie.

Best Lady Skater: 1 Miss Susie McCorry (Sports Costume), fountain pen; 2, Miss K. Lancashire, box of bon-bons.

Best Skating Couple: 1 C. Nattrass and Miss McCorry, necktie, box of stationery; 2 Mr. and Mrs. W. Kennedy, Victrola record, necktie.

Best Lady Speed Skater: Miss Phyllis Brown (Sports Costume), box of bon-bons.

Best Gent Spede Skater: Lawrence Ingram, subscription to Mirror and Reporter for one year; 2, Crocker Brothers, neckties.

Best Gentleman Skater: Gordon Reynolds (Lieutenant), box of cigarettes, holder and ash tray; 2, S. McCorry, box of stationery.

SULPHUR IS BEST TO CEAR SKIN

Any breaking out of skin irritation on face, neck or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation that instantly brings ease from the itching, burning and irritation.

Mentho-Sulphur heals eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. It seldom fails to relieve the torment or disfigurement. A little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be obtained at any drug store. It is used like cold cream.

OMEMEE CHURCH POLLING VOTES

St. Andrew's Congregation Adopt Secret Ballot in Deciding Union Question.

W.M.S. MEETING

OMEMEE, Feb. 6.—A meeting of St. Andrew's congregation was held in the Sunday School room on Wednesday evening, Feb. 4th, with a splendid attendance of members and adherents present. This meeting was for the purpose of further discussing the Church Union issue. It was unanimously decided to use the secret ballot, and the poll opened immediately at the close of the meeting, and will remain open one hour each day for the next two weeks. On Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings the hours for voting will be from 7 to 8, while on Wednesday and Friday the poll will be open from 3 to 4 p.m.

The following officers were elected:

Poll Clerk—Mr. H. Lamb.

Assistant Poll Clerk—Mr. L. Windrim.

Scrutineers—Mrs. O. G. Williamson, Mrs. E. H. Mitchell and Messrs. R. Boyd, T. Magee, S. T. Wilson and F. G. Sandy.

Presbyterian W.M.S.

The regular monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of the Presbyterian Church was held at the home of Mrs. O. G. Williamson on Wednesday afternoon. The President, Mrs. Black, occupied the chair and conducted the devotional exercises. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the Secretary, after which correspondence was read referring to the allotment to the society for a girl of sixteen to be sent with the annual bale next summer.

Mrs. Black had her quilt strip made, which was used as a sample for those who had not contributed a strip in former years.

The Secretary was requested to write a letter to Mrs. S. J. Mackey, Honorary President, conveying the regret of the society for her inability to be present, owing to sickness in the family. Mr. Mowatt Black also was remembered.

It was decided to observe the Day of Prayer on Feb. 27th at 3 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Williamson, the programme to be followed as far as possible.

The roll call was responded to by a verse of Scripture containing the word "Kingdom," and the Scripture lesson and hymns were in keeping with the subject.

Mrs. H. Lamb read the chapter from the Study Book dealing with the "Growth of the Native Church in North Formosa."

Refreshments were served at the close by the hostess.

Mrs. L. Windrim will have charge of the next meeting, the word "Righteousness" having been chosen for consideration.

Personals.

Miss Ethel Deyell of Peterborough visited her brother, Mr. D. Deyell, on Wednesday evening.

THROWN FROM CUTTER

Roy Fry and Sister Escaped Unhurt in Accident.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, Feb. 5.—What might have been a rather serious accident occurred on Sunday afternoon when Mr. Roy Fry and his sister, Jennie, were returning home from church. Just as they had turned off the road and were passing through the gap into Mr. Dan. Petherick's field, the cutter ran up on the bank and turned completely over, hurling its occupants into the snow-bank, doing slight injury.

L.O.L. No. 2322 held their first meeting of the month in Sentinel Hall on Tuesday evening. W.M. Bro. Wilfred Spencer being absent, Bro. R. Meiklejohn, P.M., acted in his place.

Some of the roads in this district were badly blocked as a result of the heavy snowfall and strong northwest winds on Saturday and Sunday last. The road was abandoned and a track was broken through the fields in several places.

Those who have travelled the tenth line this last week will find a vast improvement since Mr. John Simpson made the trip down and up the line with the gang-plow fastened behind the sleighs. On his way down he ploughed out one track, and on his way back he ploughed out the other, making both tracks wide enough for a horse to travel along freely, and also ploughing out the depth of snow that had settled there.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Petherick and daughter Freda visited friends in Rawdon on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Mackenzie entertained a number of young people from Campbellford on Friday evening.

Mr. Stewart Nelson of Seymour West was the guest of Miss Verna Barnum on Sunday last.

Among those who attended the district meeting of the L.O.L. at Warkworth on Tuesday were Bro. Wilfred Spencer, Bro. Alf. Barnum and Bro. Herbert Spencer.

Messrs. Earl and Everett Fairman spent the week-end at their home in Seymour West.

Mr. Thos. Fry attended the meeting of the Quarterly Board of the Methodist Church in Campbellford on Monday.

Miss Gladys Simpson entertained a number of friends on Monday evening.

Messrs. Robert Irwin and John Simpson have begun operations in their forest at Crow River.

DRILL YIELDS STEAM WELL.

Throws Hot Water 300 Feet into the Air North of San Francisco.

THE GEYSERS, Cal., Feb. 6.—Old Mother Nature's steam kettle bubbled over yesterday through the aid of artificial stimulation.

Workmen drilling here brought in a natural steam well at a depth of 461 feet, the force of which shot hot water and steam to a height of nearly 300 feet. The roar of escaping steam was heard for great distances around. A 200-pound weight was tossed high in the air, as was a winch and other drilling equipment.

The well, with another, was being drilled by a private concern. Efforts will be made to harness the steam to provide electrical energy for municipalities in this district. The well is located in Sonoma County, north of San Francisco.

W. WEBSTER CHIEF OF FIRE BRIGADE

Lakefield Firemen Elect Officers and Review Successful Year.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 6.—A meeting of the Lakefield Volunteer Fire Brigade was held in the Council Chamber on Tuesday night, Feb. 3rd, at 7.30, for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year. The following were elected:

Fire Chief—W. L. Webster.
Assistant Fire Chief—W. Murduff.
Deputy Fire Chief—W. Robinson.
Capt. of Hose Squad — T. A. Simpson.
Capt. of Chemical Squad — C. Ridpath.
Lieut. of Hose Squad—F. Webster.
Lieut. of Chemical Squad—L. Sabatino.
Engineers—G. Scriver, W. Leggott, S. Grylls.
Treasurer—F. Darling.
Secretary—E. Robertshaw.

It was decided to hold a card party on Feb. 19th. The past year has been one of progress in the brigade and several important additions have been made to the equipment, including a sleigh for better transportation of the engine in winter. The brigade has also increased its efficiency by experience gained at fires during the year and has fully merited the praise it received, not only from local sources, but also from outsiders, who have borne witness to the splendid fire fighting done by the brigade.

During 1924 the brigade, besides the usual number of chimney fires, were called in January to Gordon Hendren's house, in June to the Brown Boat Factory and in November to the House of Refuge barn. These are only three instances, and while in each case the buildings were too far gone when the alarm was rung in to be saved, the surrounding buildings were saved and the damage limited. In each of these fires the brigade were on duty all night. At the fire at A. V. Hill's grocery a number of public-spirited citizens assisted the brigade by providing hot coffee and food, which were most acceptable.

The greatest need at present is a fire alarm, and the necessity is for the village at large, not only for the brigade. Let the slogan for 1925 for the village be, "Get a fire alarm."

Bridge Party.

Mrs. A. W. Mackenzie was the hostess of a delightful bridge party on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. T. B. Marling won the first prize and Mrs. J. C. Strickland won the consolation prize.

In honor of Mrs. Peter Baptie's eighty-third birthday, which fell on Monday, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Sutton entertained a family dinner party at which were as many members of the connection who were able to be present. A number of Mrs. Baptie's friends called informally in the afternoon and evening to wish her a happy birthday.

95th Birthday.

Miss Jane Gordon celebrated her ninety-fifth birthday on Wednesday and was the recipient of many good wishes. Miss Gordon, in spite of her great age, is still active and has retained all her faculties and occupies a definite place in the village life.

Address on Sunday.

An address will be given on Sunday afternoon in the Town Hall at 4 o'clock by Rev. Ira W. Pierce of Toronto on the relief work among the Armenians. A good attendance is requested. There will be no admission fee.

Terribly distressing and wearing on the system is the cough that comes on at night and you cough, cough all night long and can't get to sleep.

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP WILL GIVE YOU RELIEF

Mrs. John Lyman, Enterprise, Ont., writes: "After having had whooping cough I contracted bronchitis, and for days and nights I coughed continually, and could get no rest or sleep, but after taking one bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup I found great relief, and after having taken several bottles I was relieved of my trouble."

This valuable cold and cough remedy has been on the market for the past 35 years; you don't experiment when you buy it; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

WATCH LONDON CLUBS.

Scotland Yard Men Gather Evidence For Home Secretary.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—Proprietors of the night clubs and habitues of these resorts suffered a jolt the other day upon learning that Scotland Yard has had its eye upon them for weeks.

Detectives disguised as guests and attired in evening dress have been in regular attendance at all the principal clubs, gathering evidence for the Home Secretary, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, who is preparing a bill for Parliament under which the police would have greater powers of supervision.

The detectives have been powerless to act, even when they witnessed the selling of liquor out of hours, as according to the present law the police must have a search warrant before acting. It is this phase of the situation which the Home Secretary hopes to remedy by Parliamentary action.

There were two early morning raids over the week-end and it is now reported that the owners of the night clubs are planning to remove to the fashionable West End, Kensington and other suburbs, as the police are making it too hot for them in the downtown districts.

REVOLT STILL STIRS BRAZIL

All Southern Country Is Under State of Siege—Not Martial Law.

CENSOR PAPERS.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Feb. 6. Associated Press.—All of southern Brazil is still under a state of siege. President Arthur Bernardes has signed a decree extending to April 30 the special form of federal control which the Brazilian constitution authorizes in times of internal revolt. The states included in the extension are Rio de Janeiro, Sao Paulo, Matto Grosso, Parana, Santa Catharina, Rio Grande do Sul and the federal district in the south and Amazonas, Para and Sergipe in the north.

These measures are not to be confused with martial law, and should not convey the idea that business is necessarily interrupted. According to a recent opinion written by Dr. G. Natal, a justice of the Federal Supreme Court, "the state of seige temporarily suspends the constitutional prerogatives guaranteeing individual liberty in normal times, authorizing the arrest and detention of participants in internal disturbances, which the state of siege is intended to check."

The federal government since July of last year has censored newspapers and foreign press associations arrested and detained without trial many private citizens as well as army and navy men and appointed a dictator for Amazonas at the request of the people in that state.

Always sift flour before you measure it. It is particularly necessary when making pastry.

FIRST PICK YOUR HUSBAND

Advice of Mary Roberts Rinehart — She Followed the Counsel of a Certain Young Doctor and Married Him —First Step to Career.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Back in pre-flapper days. Mary Roberts, a girl of 17, who was very modern in her ideas, decided she would never marry.

She longed for the thrills of independence and a career, and decided to become a trained nurse.

Mary, who was the first girl in Pittsburgh to ride a bicycle, reached this decision suddenly and definitely one day.

She at once went to the family doctor to ask where she could find the best course for nurses. The doctor at that time was taking a much-needed rest and when Mary Roberts, with her dreams of aiding mankind, through the nurse's profession, entered his office she didn't find the kind old physician who had prescribed for her ills since she was a tiny baby.

In his place was a young physician, just out of medical college. His name was Dr. Stanley Rinehart.

Mary Roberts decided she might as well ask this young and handsome doctor what he thought of her ambition to become a nurse. So she did.

All young doctors assume a serious, professional air, and Dr. Rinehart was no exception to this rule. His manner was somewhat condescending, as the young girl, full of life and pep and distractingly attractive, told him of her plans and asked him for his advice.

He reminded her that nursing was a serious, difficult work, requiring a mature mind and a trained hand. A girl could not become a real trained nurse in a day—the profession required long, hard study, and even longer actual experience in the hospital.

His Advice.

And then came the shock for Mary.

"See here," he said in a rather stern manner, "you get married and settle down and raise a family—that's every woman's real profession.

Mary Roberts laughed at the nerve of the young doctor. She went right out of the office and registered for a nurse's course.

Two years later she graduated from the nurses' school. A few weeks after that she took the doctor's advice very literally. She married him.

Three fine sons were born to the happy couple, and he old urge for a career returned.

Wanted to Write.

This time Mary Roberts Rinehart wanted to write. While balancing babies on her knees, little ryhmes and stories kept going through her head and bothering her to the point that between naps and baths she would put the ideas down on paper.

It was her regular practice not only to ask Dr. Rinehart's advice, but to follow it;. So she showed her husband her first efforts, and this time he advised her to go ahead with this work. She pegged away with two fingers on the typewriter and added that to her household duties.

The first check she ever received was redeemable for only $25, at any bank, but it represented a million dollars worth of encouragement and enthusiasm. With the proceeds she bought her husband a Christmas present. And though she made a dazzling amount since, here is what she says of her husband:

First Pick Your Husband.

"His belief in me, his steadiness and his sanity and his humor have kept me going now and then when my little world of letters had shaken under my feet.

"I sometimes think if I were advising a young woman as to a career I should say, 'First pick your husband'."

Dr. Rinehart has gone ahead in his own profession, done invaluable research in tuberculosis for the government on his own account, and his achievements in his chosen field are as distinctive as those of his wife, though less heralded.

The home life of the Rineharts, the close corporation of father, mother and three sons, their delightful trips and what one of the boys calls their "regular Pollyanna sort of an existence" is amost more spectacular in these days of social unrest and general discontent than the careers of either parents. And again Mrs. Rinehart has written.

"Today I would forfeit every particle of my success that has come to me rather than lose any part, even the smallest, of my famiy life. It is on the foundation of Home that I have builded.

"It is not easy to put my philosophy in two words, but if it could be done, the two words would be Love and Work. And that, after all, is the foundation of every normal life."

THE FAMILY QUARREL

Marriage Not a Bed of Roses—Plain Kitchen Garden For Every Day Use.

(By Cynthia Grey.)

The cross word is the unsolved puzzle of married life.

Why two eople who cannot be happy apart should bicker and quarrel when they are together, is as profound a mystery as dual personality or a story by Conan Doyle.

Of course no one expects a married couple to honeymoon all their lives.

For people cannot remain madly in love with each other forever any more than they could live on the top of Pike's peak forever. The heart couldn't stand the rarefied atmosphere!

Love—in cold fact—is not like love in books, a thing of chills and fever. It is something better, a deep understanding comradeship.

And marriage is—or should be—a partnership to which the wife brings sweetness and light; the husband, protection and pay envelope.

* * *

The wife who quarrels with her mate or lets him quarrel with her, is no kind of a wife at all.

By this, I do not mean that people should chirp "lovebird" and little squirrel" to each other.

For instance, there is the woman who forgets to kiss her husband when he steps into the vestibule at night, but greets him with this sort of monologue:

"Now, don't ask me if dinner is ready! Because it isn't. The gas is low, and the baby has yelled all day. I'm worn to a frazzle--and, oh, dear! why can't I have somebody to help me with the work like every other woman in the block?"

The husband who can digest his veal loaf and scalloped potatoes after such a tirade is a Sandow or a Sampson. And few husbands are.

People are not yet angels. We are only passing out of the cave-man stage; and sometimes a thunderstorm is needed to clear away the domestic cloud. But every quarrel takes part of the silver lining with it, to show the ugliness underneath.

* * *

La Bruyere said that "Love comes all of a sudden." But it doesn't go all of a sudden.

Especially in marriage, it died a slow and lingering death, poisoned by nagging and quarreling.

It wouldn't be so bad if only the wife and husband were concerned. But usually there is a family of little children who are dragged into the combat.

Early in life they learn to take sides with Father or Mother, instead of looking to both for comfort and peace. If it there have to be family battles they should be fought out of sight and hearing of the children.

I know of a wife and husband who fought for years over the husband's perfectly harmless desire to have dinner once or twice a month with his men friends.

The wife couldn't believe that these dinners were innocent. She pictured them as the sort of orgies the Roman emperors and their dancing girls used to have.

She made a confidant of her young son.

The result is that the boy grew up "tied to his mother's apron strings." He never dared displease her by spending his time with the other boys as a natural child would.

In plain words he is a mollycoddle. His mother has unfitted him for life by holding his perectly normal father up to him as a horrible example. That boy is a casualty of the Great Family War..

* * *

The big trouble is that most of us expect marriage to be a bed of roses. It isn't. It's a plain little kitchen garden for everyday use.

And it must be weeded and tended if it is to live and grow. Family jars are like thistles .Where they thrive nothing worth while can survive.

It is true that most of the great lovers of history quarrelled — Anthony and Cleopatra, Napoleon and Josephine, Mary Stuart and the Earl of Bothwell.

But all of them separated in the end, too! For no matter how great love is, the little nagging quarrel will kill it in the end.

The Fashions Of The Fair

By HEDDA HOYT.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Feb. 4. — (United Press).—For young misses in their 'teens the suspender skirt is designed. The skirt is usually made of heavy, durable material and dark blue is the most effective color. Suspenders may begin from the normal waistline or be attached to a rear and front bib effect. The white peasant blouse worked in cross-stitch in brilliant colors is a very lovely choice for the blouse portion.

* * *

It is predicted that white shoes and hosiery will be worn this summer, since many women are tiring of the regular sports shoe of contrasting colored leather on white.

* * *

Two-toned felt hats with two silk taffeta roses posed at one side of the narrow brim are numerous on Fifth avenue. Felt hats remain very popular but newer models use flowers as a trimming.

* * *

Women who find the straight-lined and unbelted frock unbecoming will welcome the little narrow suede belts which are being worn with the straight-lined frock. Belts are placed at a low waistline when worn at all.

* * *

In buying rouge remember that most makes of rouge come in several shades and it is best to purchase a light shade for day wear and a more brilliant shade for night wear. Some stores are showing the effect of rouge under day and night lights. The same rouge which one wears during the day is often too pale when worn under electric lights. And, of course, a vivid rouge which might appear becoming at night is often too conspicuous for daytime.

* * *

Long cloth coats will be the popular wraps for spring. Short fur coats, it is believed, will not be very popular. Tan, navy, almond green and amber will be leading shades. Navy blue and green is a favorite coat combination and many of the advance coats use three shades of the same color. Lines are straight and collars will be untrimmed by fur since fur is concentrated upon the hem-borders.

* * *

Red continues to be the most striking color worn on Fifth avenue, red necklaces and minor accessories are numerous.

* * *

In spite of the fact that this season is one of brilliant color, young girls are turning to tans, browns, greys and sand. Dull green is also popular with the debs.

* * *

Monkey fur is continually being used in some odd way as a trimming. For the spring of 1925 we will see it used on sheer fabrics. Frocks of printed georgette or chiffon in which black is the predominating color note are using bands of monkey fur about the flaring hem-line or as a tunic border and the effect is startling lovely.

* * *

Spring will be a season of blues! Navy is to be most popular for day wear, and turquoise, Madonna, light blue and newly named shades of blues will prevail for evening wear. It has been some time since blue has been a popular evening shade, but several shows in New York are featuring light blue gowns and Fifth avenue windows are all showing blues in various shades.

* * *

If the home-dressmaker is considering making ensemble suit she would do well to chose velveteen as her material since it is one of the smartest fabrics just now and makes up to better effect than do more tailored weaves.

LAW PROPOSED TO END GOSSIP AROUSES WOMEN

Silly and Ridiculous They Say of Measure Started in Kentucky.

SOME GOOD EFFECT

Impossible to Eliminate Personalties From Conversation —Is Ridiculed.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 6.—The alluring phrases "you can't say—" and "they tell me—" soon may be as contraband as a drink of Scotch.... Bridge addicts soon may be driven to bootlegging their conversation, beginning: "Now if you repeat thi , don't say that I told you!"

Such is the boresome state of affairs which women see looming. With the legislative war on gossip, which was started in Kentucky, now spreading to Missouri and Nebraska, there is no telling where these men reformers will stop.

"Silly" and "ridiculous" are the terms which Missouri club leaders gently apply to the proposed anti-gossiping bill which Representative Harry C. Yates of St. Joseph has announced he will introduce in the State Legislature.

Whispering Harmful.

And yet one leader of a State body, Mrs. Glenn D. Brown of Kansas City, president of the Parliamentarians of Missouri, believes the law would have a beneficial moral effect. She says:

"The big thing that is hindering women in politics and in club work is that they can't put aside personalities and petty jealousies.

"As soon as a woman begins to accomplish anything, the others begin backbiting and whispering. Personal jealousies and gossip keep women from getting anywhere politically. That is the real reason women in this country don't have the political or civic power they should have.

Foolish, Says Another.

"Of course, an anti-gossiping law never could be enforced, but I think its moral effect might be good."

Over in Nebraska the very introduction of such a measure is being opposed, because, as Senator John Robertson maintains, "it could never be passed as long as lawyers, newspaper men and legislators thrive on it."

Mrs. Harry N. Ess, president of the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs, said she thought the proposed measure one of the "biggest fool things" of which she ever had heard. She said:

"How can this line be drawn between gossip and ordinary conversation? Who is to be the judge of what is gossip? It is ridiculous to talk of eliminating personalities from conversation. It would be a sorry day if persons were not permitted to express their interest in the lives of other persons and if they ceased to be interested in their neighbors affairs."

Men are Included.

Mrs Ess added that she did not see why the proposed law should be interpreted as hitting at women. She continued:

"Gossip, as interpreted in the most derogatory sense, is so more of an attribute of women than of men. It used to be that women gossiped more than men, but that was because they had nothing else to do. Now the average woman has so many interests outside herself that she does not have time to indulge in petty personalities. The women's club movement in this country eliminated gossip before legislators got to it."

Mrs. H. H. McCleur, national president of the American War Mothers, said legislators have so many weighty matters facing them that they can ill afford to spend their time with such a trivial matter as an anti-gossip bill.

A FAIR DAUGHTER OF NIPPON

Miss Kaoe Kondo, though born in America, truly represents the daughters of the land of the wistaria and the samurai. For this Japanese beauty is of the type whose dainty beauty has made the girl of Nippon known throughout the world.

NEW COLOURS FOR SPRING FASHIONS.

From the beauty and romance of old Spain, from the vibrancy the daring and the essential spirt of youth that characterized modern Spanish art has come the inspiration for shades that dominate the color theme of spring, 1925, as shown by the new color card just released to the trade by The Textile Association.

In introducing this new card the association has strongly emphasized the Spanish note which in no small measure contributes to the colorfulness of the modes of spring. The range of colors is wide and comprises 86 shades subdivided into 14 wool shades and 72 silk the latter group including 6 colors designated as shoe and leather shades.

Nature paints with a lavish hand in Spain and no less prodigal in their use of color are her modern artists who portray the feeling, the movement, the youth and gaiety that is associated with the land of music and mantillas.

Rich, magnetas, sumptuous greens orange almost overpowering in its intensity and the subtle reds that distinguish the canvases of Zuloaga, these have played their part in the development of new shades for the spring and summer season and are to be found in a collection of twelve tones that reflect the feeling for color and an appreciation of its vaule which each year becomes more widespread, a fact due in no small measure to the efforts of The Textile Association to establish and standardize seasonal colors.

The glowing sun tones that blaze from the canvasses of Sorolla, his intense blue of sky and water, his brilliant flame shades that catch and hold the eye are introduced and in more sombre vein but equally beautiful and important are the cloudy blues, the deep toned hues of terra cotta, of bronze with its hint of gold, of dull reds and garnet tones that made the art of Velasquez Murillo and Goya treasures not only of their own era but of posterity.

It is not alone in painting that inspiration has been sought but pottery, centuries old, with deep creamy surfaces and curious and lovely motifs in browns and blues gold-flecked and lined with color has furnished rare tones that are accurately reproduced for modern purposes.

The authenticity of these Spanish and Moorish colors is the result of a prolonged study of the collections of the Spanish museum and the Brooklyn Museum of Art.

Under the classification of "Dancing Shades" is a group of colors obviously French in origin and feeling for the delicate pastel tones, hydrangea pins and blues, ephemeral green and mauve; the yellows and turquoise that suggest the springtime of youth are colors that fittingly express the spirit of the period of Louis XV when such famous and fragile court beauties as Pompadour and Dubarry wielded a power...

...plicated in these days of suffragists ... their manner and their dress to subtly emphasize their femininity.

Reflecting the vogue for natural tones is a collection of a dozen sand shades, their names alone sufficient indication of their origin. Lido calls to mind the sandy stretch on the shores of the Adriatic which has become the summer playground of the fashionables of Europe. Biarritz brings visions of a crescent beach where in the season royalty disports itself and the fashions of the smart world are launched. Coming a bit nearer home are shades appropriately designated as Long Beach, Sand Dune and Seaside.

The flower colorings of Bluet and Cornflower as well as the pink tinted orchid shades and the vivid purplish pinks known as Thistlebloom and Phlox emphasize the seasonal character of the spring card the interest in which is augumented by the inclusion of scintillating coral tones called Conch Shell and Fiesta and the ecclesiastical group of reddish purples composed of Ecclesiastic, Monsignor and Patriach.

Marmora, Aden and Pospharous are names given to certain shades of green whose translucency is that of deep sea water and a subtlety in keeping with the sophisticated simplicity of the present fashions is evidenced in a trio of new greys, French grey turtle dove and smoked pearl. The fashionable blond tints are represented by shades called Pablo, Terrapin and Tortoise Shell while more glowing yellows and browns are known as Indian Orange, Nasturtium and Chrysanthemum.

In the colors advocated for woolens the importance of sand and stone tones is stressed, particularly those which are on the order of a rosy tan. Under this heading is a group which includes such names as Travertine, Limestone, Polo Tan, Rosewood and Sonora, an intriguing shade of ashes of rose.

There are two new shades of grey known as Prince Grey and Seahawk as well as two green of particular interest by reason of their grey undertones. A definite place of importance is given new sport shades one of which is a blue called International another a deep rich gold color known as Dubloon and Mosque a shade between rose and orange.

Six new colors in the shoe and leather group have been officially adopted by the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers Association and The National Shoe Retailers Association in co-operation with The Textile Color Card Association as the standard shades for the fashionable footwear of Spring 1925. These shades are Priscilla Grey, Grey, English Grey, Sudan, a new sand tone, Madrid, a light Spanish brown and Vassar and Rugby Tan, two colors especialy suitable to Russian Calf.

More poet news. Japan admits she has 60,000, possibly knowing it would be discovered anyway.

Turkey has started a radio broadcasting station, which may become the latest Turkish atrocity.

VIRGIN RESOURCES DECREASING FAST

Young Growth as Well as Mature Timber Should Be Protected.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 6 (Canadian Press).—"Our virgin resources are being rapidly depleted, and unless drastic measures are taken to protect the young growth, as well as the mature timber, from further destruction, a serious reduction in the use of wood in Canada is inevitable within the next 25 years," declared Roland D. Craig, of the Dominion Forest Branch, Department of Interior, at the annual convention of the Association of Dominion Land Surveyors yesterday.

Although one-third of the land area of Canada was essentially forest land, incapable of profitable agricultural development but suitable for growing forests, wasteful exploitation and fire had worked havoc with an area which was sufficient to supply in perpetuity many times Canadians' present requirement. Forest industries, like agriculture, depended on the renewable products of the soil, and, in Canada, were secforest resources was being extended production.

Yet, the Canadian stock had been allowed to become low; the extent of which was not definitely known, but a knowledge of the country's forest reosurces was being extended as fast as possible, by means of extensiv. and intensive surveys.

Four main classes of forest surveys were recognized, stated Mr. Craig, based on their intensiveness. The first was preliminary reconnaissance, the object of which was to determine the use to which land was best adapted and to obtain general information as to its resources. This could be conducted by making observations along water courses, or other avenues of travel; but the airplane now offered a very effecient means of carrying out these surveys.

The second was general reconnaissance, where only a rough estimate of the forest resources was required, but a fairly accurate map of the types and topography was required for administrative purposes. Aircraft have proved valuable for this work, but a small percentage of the area, usually in strips a mile or so apart, was actually cruised on the ground.

Stock taking survey, represented a third class, and necessitated an accurate estimate of the merchantable timber for the purpose of valuation. This entailed the cruising of from 2 1-2 to 10 per cent of the area.

The final class was the working plan survey, which was the most intensive, requiring in addition to an accurate estimate of the standing timber, the determination of a felling budget, based on the rate of growth of the forest.

TO PROLONG LIFE BY CARE MOUTH

Oralogist Says Focal Infections Are Chief Sources Disease.

Dr. Bertram Ball, Director of the Institute of Oralogy, in an address before the American Education Exposition, said that one hundred years of vigorous life will be within reach of the majority of the generation now in the cradle. This will come about, he said, because of the rapid development of the idea of stopping disease at the door of the body. It will be due largely to the closer co-operation of the medical, dental, dietary and kindred healing sciences, he thought, and which, he pointed out, are already becoming known as preventive sciences and health builders instead of merely the human repair department.

"It will soon be about as hard for enemy germs to enter the body and secure supremacy as it is for cholera or yellow fever to slip past Uncle Sam's quarantine," he said. "It is the destructive germ, not work, that cuts the years short of the hundred mark and reduces the body and mind power tremendously. The microscope, incubator and test tube are searching him out and tagging him even though he masquerades.

"The new health specifications are being made out with scientific accuracy never dreamed of before, and tradition and guesswork are going into the discard before the light of biochemistry. The oralogist is following the lead of the architect in giving us fireproof construction, not because of sentiment, but because of the economic factor. Think of what the addition of just one year to the productive life of the average New Yorker alone will amount to in millions of dollars.

"The body is becoming known by its elements and the proper arrangement of the same. Soon the young individual who comes into the world in a normal condition will be glad to and able to keep that way, because he will have been taught the way to do it and with what materials, both physical and mental. Good health will be a part of man's religion, education, business and patriotism.

"Science is now showing us that the gamut of disease from rheumatism to melancholia is largely due to the assassin of health, focal infection. In oralogy the healing sciences co-operate to treat disease by immediately locating the causes of the symptoms and of remedying the same."

WHY DEATH?

Prof. M. F. Guyer of the University of Wisconsin, believes that death can be averted. He bases his belief on the fact that he has been able to keep cells and tissues of a human body alive for an indefinite period. He uses a chemical solution containing lithium chloride. Death, he says, results from parasitic accumulations in human cells, and can be corected by rejuvenating the tissues.

The NERVOUS WRECK

The Wreck found himself running with a steadiness that surprised him. He did not try to sprint. He could not overtake the black horse, anyhow, and there would be nothing to gain if he did. Not being able to guess just how far he had walked, he conserved himself. Step after step he plugged away, slowing a bit on the up-grades, letting himself out on the down-grades and fighting hard for his second wind. The main thing was to get there as soon as he could. After that it would be time to see what there was to be done about Bob Wells.

When the trail emerged at last from the spruce he came to a halt, panting sharply as he stared in the direction of the ranch buildings. The land was open all the rest of the way to the house, and there was no concealment, if he needed any, so he deemed it wise to make a reconnaisance. He had no notion of being headlong about anything, for his mind was cool, despite his anxiety about Sally Morgan. If she had returned from the ride there was no telling what might have happened. He could see no sign of the sheriff or the black horse; probably they were around at the front of the house. He could not see anybody. So he struck out at a bold walk to cover the few hundred yards that intervened between himself and the kitchen door. By the time he reached the goal he had recovered his breath.

The first thing he did was to peer cautiously into the kitchen. Nobody in sight, not even Timothy. There was no kettle on the stove, which meant that Sally was still away. He was tempted to steal through the house and see if the sheriff was out front, but abandoned the idea, because he could see nothing to ge gained, even if he made the discovery. After a moment of thought he turned his steps in the direction of the coral.

The black horse was there, still saddled. The Wreck stared grimly at the beast, which he had seen before at the Bar-M, and of which he knew the sheriff was uncommonly proud. Bob Wells was undoubtedly up at the house, talking to Underwood and hearing new lies about the hold-up. Sally was still somewhere out on the trail with Chester Underwood. There was nothing for the Wreck but waiting.

He sat on the grass and propped his back against the corral fence, keeping watch upon the trail that led back to the hills, and also upon the house. If he saw the sheriff coming for his horse he would disappear behind the nearest shed. If Sally came first he would be there to warn her. He found little comfort in inaction, but it was the only course for the present.

Half an hour later, still huddled against the fence, he thought he saw a dust cloud on the back trail. Polishing his spectacles, he restored them to his nose for another observation. Sure enough, there were two riders coming. They were coming at a gallop, too, and soon they were so near that he could identify Sally beyond any mistake. There was a fine grace and confidence in the way Sally handled herself in a saddle, and it was not lost even upon the Wreck, poor horseman that he was. She could ride rings around Chester Underwood.

He climbed to his feet as Sally swung herself out of the saddle, and she saw him for the first time. She flashed her quirt in salute.

"Hello, Henry. We've had a bully ride."

"Uhuh," he answered with a nod.

The Wreck was trying to give her a warning before she might betray herself into an indiscretion. Not being adept at expressing his thoughts, save in words, the best he could do was to fashion his features into a queer, baleful grimace. Sally was puzzled, and she showed it by a wrinkling of her forehead, which signified inquiry.

Chester slid off his horse, so that for an instant his back was turned. The Wreck quickly laid a forefinger against his lips and jerked his head in the direction of the corral.

Sally looked, then stared, her mouth opening slowly. She knew the black horse out of a million. Bob Wells! Swiftly her glance swung in the direction of the house.

"Well, said Chester, "shall we go up to the house? I'll see you all the way home, you know."

Sally recovered herself and smiled.

"You go ahead," she said. "Thanks ever so much for the ride. I want to talk to Henry for a minute."

CHAPTER XIII.

A Woman's Place.

When Chester was beyond earshot she turned to the Wreck and almost smothered him in an avalanche of questions. He told it rapidly, while Sally kept an anxious eye on the house. When he finished she sent another glance in the direction of the black horse, who was unconscious of having created a sensation profound and disturbing.

"You don't suppose he's tracked us?"

mused Sally.

"How could he?"

"I don't see how he could either. But Bob's awfully smart when it comes to being sheriff. If he knows we're here, the jig's up, of course."

Scorn and defiance shone in the eyes of the Wreck.

"It's a hundred to one he doesn't know we're here," he said. "It's a thousand to one he hasn't any idea who he's after. He probably came for some information. And they're all lying so hard he'll never find out anything."

"Hope so," said Sally, doubtfully. "How long do you suppose he's going to stay?"

"Haven't an idea. Not long, I guess, unless he's loafing on his job."

"Oh, Bob never loafs. He's too active. He's a real sheriff."

The Wreck was tired of hearing the sheriff's virtues related, but he sidestepped an argument on the point.

"Well, what are you going to do?" he asked. "Go out in the hills and hide?"

"No-o. We can't do that. But do we dare go up to the house?"

"If we don't, who gets the supper?"

"Oh, I suppose we do," she said, wearily. "But if Bob should happen to walk into the kitchen——" She finished it with a gesture.

"He won't. He's busy with Underwood. Got to take a chance, anyhow."

"Yes; we've got to."

They walked briskly to the house, praying that the sheriff would stay somewhere around the front until they reached the kitchen. Sally did not breathe comfortably until she made certain that the kitchen was empty. The Wreck moved over to the pantry door and bolted it.

"Only one door to watch now," he said.

"Unbolt it, Henry. Suppose he comes in the other way? I'm going through that pantry in one jump. And vice versa, if he comes in from the pantry. I'm not going to be bottled up."

He unbolted the door and Sally went nervously about the work of getting supper.

"You'd better be careful there's nobody in the living-room when you set the table," she warned him. "Take a good look first."

It happened there was nobody in the living-room. As nearly as the Wreck could judge, the sheriff and Mr. Underwood were sitting out front. Every minute or so Sally went to a window that commanded a view of the corral to see whether the black horse was still there. It always was. She was overcoming her first dismay, and in place of it was growing angry.

The old unreasoning resentment against Bob Bells was returning. It made no difference if he did not know who he was pursuing: from the standpoint of Sally it was no less unpleasant. Nor was she any too certain that he would abandon the chase if he knew, for he was conscientious to the leaning-backward point—a regular bull-dog. He had a habit of talking about enforcing the law impartially against all evil-doers: he even boasted about it. She remembered when it seemed to sound very well; but that was before she had a posse on her trail. She wondered how far Bob Wells would really go, if he learned the truth. She was none too sure.

When Charley McSween came in she jumped at the sound of his step and a fork clattered on the floor.

"That's company," said Charley. "And it happens we've got company, ma'am. The sheriff of this sovereign and God-fearin' county has dropped in to get a little mite more information about these desperadoes that he's expectin' to exterminate. I just eased in to tell you he's stayin' to supper. Set another plate in the dinin'-room, Henry. He's goin' to eat with the family."

"One more doesn't make any difference," said Sally, with an effort at lightness.

"It does with the sheriff, ma'am. He's a powerful eater. I've seen him work. He's a powerful talker, too. He's been workin' up a real good appetite, talkin' to Mr. Underwood. It seems he's aimin' to do great things in the line of makin' the county safe for democracy. He's been tellin' quite a lot about some of the things he has done already, and the samples is impressive. He's got a posse down the road a piece, waitin' for developments. To-morrow, as near as I can make out, they're going to raise hell among the wicked."

Sally winced inwardly. Charley was putting things in his own words, of course; but somehow it sounded strangly as if Bob Wells himself were talking.

"So you'd best get plenty, ma'am," concluded Charley, "for he sure has talked himself empty."

All of this brought a grin to the face of the Wreck, which Sally observed, but did not dare resent. But she turned to him abruptly when Charley went out, her mind filled with another thought.

"If he stays for supper, that means you can't wait on the table, Henry."

"I'm not kicking."

"Maybe not. But who's going to take your place? I can't."

"I should say not. I guess we can get one of the boys."

Sally shook her head. She knew cow punchers.

"Timothy!" said the Wreck, suddenly.

"But I wonder if he will," she mused.

"He will; don't worry."

"Have you been fighting with Timothy?" and she eyed him suspiciously.

"Lord no! Timothy won't fight anybody. But he'll wait on the table."

She knew that something has passed between the Wreck and Timothy. She might have guessed if she had counted the dishes.

"There'll have to be a reason for it," she said. "You'll have to be sick. You'll have to go down to the bunk house and stay there.

"And suppose this sheriff comes in while you're up here alone?"

"Oh, I can take care of myself."

He did not like the idea of leaving her to face possible consequences, but he could see that it might be necessary. It would take a real reason to avert any possible speculations in the mind of Charley McSween, who still had a way of reverting to the fact that Henry Williams was not "very strong," and who always grinned faintly when he mentioned it.

The Wreck found Timothy in the shed where they kept the big car. He was passing the time in grinding valves. There was a faint look of alarm in his eyes as he beheld the thrower of dishes.

"You're to wait on the table tonight," said the Wreck bluntly. "Better go up to the kitchen now."

"Me wait on the table? I never did. I don't know how. What for?"

"Because I'm sick."

"You don't look sick," said Timothy. "And you didn't act sick a while back."

"I'm sick," repeated the Wreck. "How I look has nothing to do with it. It's nerves. One of my spells is coming on. It was beginning this afternoon—just beginning, you understand?"

The look that he gave Timothy bored him like an auger.

"I tried to walk it off, but I couldn't. It's coming on again. It gets worse. If I don't get to bed there's no telling——"

Timothy began wiping his hands on a ball of cotton waste.

"I'll wait on the table," he said, gloomily. "Only, if I don't do it right they haven't got any license to bawl me out. You better go get into bed right away."

The Wreck went off to the bunk house, where he stretched himself on the blankets and tried to get interested in an old magazine. He felt like a man who had retreated under fire, but he knew there was nothing else to do. What worried him most was the possibility that Sally might face a crisis alone. If anything happened he wanted to be there.

Sally did not find Timothy particularly deft, although he seemed to be willing enough, once she had an apron on him. She instructed him in some of the rudiments, and had him practicing at the kitchen table, with imaginary guests to be served.

"It's only for this evening, I'm sure," she said. "Henry is almost certain to be better in the morning."

Timothy said he hoped so, because the boss was always fussy about how his meals were served, having lived in New York most of his life.

Sally felt easier in mind when he reported that the family and the sheriff were at the table. It gave her a breathing spell. She knew that Bob was not likely to get up from the table so long as there was anything more to be served. Eating, to him, was a pleasurable job of stoking, as she had learned from plenty of experience at the Bar-M. He was even slightly vain of his achievments as a trencherman: Charley had been entirely right about it. So she kept Timothy busy between kitchen and dining-room, carrying things that made him so hungry to look at that he could scarcely wait for his own turn.

In fact, he did not wait, for on one of his trips back to the kitchen, Sally observed that he was munching something. He brazenly admitted that he had been "snitching" a biscuit or two.

"They look so good, ma'am," he said with an apologetic smile. And I'm pretty empty. Besides that, it gets on your nerves to hear 'em boosting the food when all you're supposed to do is carry it round."

Of course she could not be angry.

"Who is boosting it?" she asked.

"The boss and the sheriff are both doing it," said Timothy. "But you've got to admit they make good everything they say, by the way they lick into it."

It did not surprise her to hear that Bob Wells was enjoying himself. What a joke it was! If he only knew! It was some satisfaction to know that you were doing a good job, even if you were conscripted.

Timothy kept her informed of the progress of supper, and also made a report of the conversation.

"It turns out," he said, "that other parties beside us have been getting held up. The country gets awful wild when you're this far from New York."

"Other parties?" said Sally.

"Yes, ma'am. The sheriff has been telling the boss about it. There were two other automobiles stuck up somewhere around here within the past couple of weeks. As near as I can make out from what the sheriff tells the boss, it's a new sort of game. First they had Indians out here that scalped people that was quite a while back. Then they ran the Indians out, or civilized 'em, and things went along all right until they had road agents holding up stages. Well, they got the best of the road agents after several parties had got killed, and the business sort of died out.

"And then—the sheriff has been going right into the history of all of it—there was a new bunch got to working on the trains. I can remember reading about them in the papers myself. They used to go through the trains and take everything that everybody had, and anybody that didn't give up got shot. It took quite a while to get rid of all the train-robbers, but finally they did and everything looked peaceful. And now they've begun on the automobiles."

"Really?" exclaimed Sally.

In The Morning Her Tongue Was Coated HadBad Taste In Mouth

Miss Pearle L. Zinck, Barss Corner, N.S., writes:—"I was awfully troubled with my liver, and used to get such dizzy spells I would have to sit down while I was doing my work.

In the morning, when I used to get up, my tongue was coated and I had a bad taste in my mouth and often times, throughout the day, I was troubled with pains in my stomach.

I suffered in this way until a friend of mine who had used your MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS, told me of having taken them, so I decided to try them, and I can truthfully say that they certainly did me a lot of good.

I cannot recommend them too highly to all those who suffer as I did."

You can procure Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills at all druggists or dealers; put up, for the past 30 years by the T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The Art Of Poisoner

By MIRIAM TEICHNER.

Ten countries, one reads in a recent dispatch, are contributing to the modernization of the Java State Railway, which is equipped with passenger cars and traillers at section that includes the cities of Batavia and Meester Cornelius. All-steel bodies are to come from Holland; window glass, wheels and axles from Belgium; Switzerland is supplying wireless devices, and Canada the asbestos linings. The truck springs are from Germany, the air brakes from England, while the United States will furnish the major part of the electrical equipment.

All this suggests safety and comfort and a modern atmosphere. But there is another Java—the island of the dark tropics with a medieval heart. It is the Java whose Emperor, the Soe-Soe-Hoe-Nan, ruling in the ancient city of Soerakarta, traces his ancestry back to the monkey kings; the Java that countenances the subtle trade of the poisoner and dealer in poisons; the Java of harems and mosques, of exotic dances and the weird music of the gamalong.

Native life in Java, where Hollanders rule with due regard to ancient customs, is highly fascinating to the foreigner, though he does not, as a rule, get far below its surface. Not so Mrs. John Arthur Fowler, whose husband for the last eighteen years has been Trade Commissioner to the Dutch East Indies, the Federated Malay States, the Phillippines, French Indo-China and other settlements of the Far East. Mrs. Fowler, who is living in New York at present, had an unusual opportunity to study the life and customs of various Oriental races. In China, Mrs. Fowler and her husband occupied the house in which the Empress-Dowager was born, just outside the Imperial Wall of Peking. She tells of her friendship with Mme. Dhan, formerly lady-in-waiting to that much-feared old dragon of an Empress. She witnessed the sword dances in Vali, a diminutive island that points one of its starfish corners at the eastern tip of Java, and she tells of her two years' study of the Javanese temple dances.

Evolution of the Dances.

Centuries before Hinduism found a foothold in Java, and was in turn superseded by the Moslem cult, the Javanese dances were held in shadowy forest temples. Hinduism took them for its own, and imbued them with religious significance. When the Moslem came, the dances were taken by the emperors within the palace walls. For centuries they have been seen by none but emperors and the guests of emperors. To others they are a legend, a dream of beauty screened from proletarian eyes. Gradually they have lost much of their religious symbolism. They are now what probably they were in their dim origins, the visualization of the litany of ancient Arabic poems and love songs. They are witnessed by only the chosen few; the imitation that finds its way into the world outside the palace gates is as a cobblestone compared to a diamond.

Like the dances that have become endowed with legendary significance and splendor, so, too, are the emperors who have nurtured and protected them. It pays the Dutch Government, Mrs. Fowler says, to maintain the Soe-Soe-Hoe-Nan of Java in all of his dazzling magnificance. The menage inside of his castle walls is said to number more than 10,000 people. The Emperor is paid more money by the Dutch Government than Queen Wilhelmina herself receives. And this is because the Hoe-Nan is as spiritually necessary to his people as the sun is necessary to their physical well-being. He is legend and tradition and religion and splendor; he represents the beauty and pageantry of life. And so he lives in his marble palace—he and his four wives and his secondary wives and his countless concubines—and on his white marble throne smiles at the beauty of the temple dances of Java.

Every tiny girl who plays on the streets of a Javanese village may attain, some day, to the glory of becoming a dancing girl within the walls of Kraton, or palace, and later a member of the Hoe-Nan's harem. It is a consummation devoutly to be wished by Javanese mothers. Almost from the day of birth, the fingers, wrists and ankles of baby girls are manipulated, that they may be slim and supple for the dance. If the little girl has not come to the favorable attention of the Gara—he who makes daily trips in search of lovely children for the palace of the Emperor—by the time she is 10, hope is past. She becomes, then, just an ordinary little girl. If she is chosen, she lives through years of an exacting regime and difficult training within the palace walls.

It was Mrs. Fowler's good fortune to attend the palace rehearsals. She studied the dances, too, under a lurah, one of the teachers, who in her youth had been a secondary wife to the present Emperor's father. She grew to know so much of the dances, their meaning, origin and traditions, that she was asked to write a book upon them by the Dutch Government. Before her work was finished, a man and a woman who had tried to help in assembling the material had been neatly poisoned.

The Emperor himself aided Mrs. Fowler in pursuing her researches. He speaks excellent English, has absorbed a proportion of Occidental culture, and does not share the desire of many Javanese to keep their dances shrouded in mystery. The enthusiasm of the Hoe-Nan for the dissemination of Javanese secrets is not, however, shared by members of his harem and his daughters. Is was through their machinations, Mrs. Fowler believes, that the price paid for the information published in her book was so high.

When the Fowler party first went to the Imperial Palace for a formal view of the dances they were met by the Dutch Provincial Governor outside the palace gates. Through one compound after another the party was led to the somewhat incongruous music of a military band. Then, at last, the Pandappa was reached, and here the band and the atmosphere of Western civilization, which had seemed to pervade the compounds, were no more.

The Pandappa is a pillared reception hall of white marble. More than 200 feet square, it is open to the winds of heaven on four sides; its roof, rising to a point, is of carved tjitti wood, brilliant in blue and gold. The marble floor is worn to a lustrous polish by centuries of the padding of bare brown feet. Trees sway about the Pandappa and the moon makes shadows of ebony and silver.

Crooning and sobbing through the soft, tropical night was the music of the gamalong. An orchestra of many pieces, it plays unseen, a throbbing music of reeds and strings and many-toned gongs. The Emperor, his turban flashing an incredible diamond, received his guests on a platform of white marble. The four great chairs upon it, intricately carved and surmounted by golden crowns, were for the Emperor, his Empress, the Dutch Governor-General and his wife.

Two Groups of Dancers.

The dances were performed by two groups of girls—the "Scrimpi" or princesses of the royal blood, and the "Bedojas" or members of the harem. Not the shadow of a cloud may fall on the beauty of the temple dancers. They are all very young. When a girl has gone beyond the age of her first young beauty a marriage is arranged for her by the Emperor. In the event, however, of her having borne him a child, she remains in the palace as a secondary wife.

The slim figures of the Javanese girls sway in imitation of flower stalks and saplings in the wind. The sensuous music of the gamalong is the wind of these flowers, and each Arabic poem of love has its own rhythm and melody. "One who reads a poem," says the Javanese, "must hear its music." These girls dance as if inspired by some delicate music heard only with the ear of the spirit. Their waists are slightly padded to eliminate all natural curves, and the illusion of stalk or sapling is perfectly maintained. The body sways, not from the waist or hips, but in a wide arc from the ankles. Most of the movement is with the head, poised like a flower on the delicate neck stem, and with hands and arms that have learned the lessons of grace and flexibility from babyhood.

The Price of Knowledge.

Mrs. Fowler, obliged to leave Soerakarta—the natives and Dutch residents calls it "Solo" for short—for a short stay in Batavia, commissioned a Dutch friend, Mrs. Bea van Helsingen, to take a photographer to the palace for pictures of the dancers. The imperial permission had been granted. The photographs were made and the photographer left the city for his home in a neighboring town. Two days later Mrs. van Helsingen was dead, killed with a subtle poison administered by an unknown hand.

Mrs. Fowler, returning to Solo, was grievously shocked by the death of her friend. She was warned by the Dutch not to continue in her own research, but she was determined.

"I must see the Sacred Dance," she said. The Katawang or Sacred Dance is most carefully guarded from profaning eyes. It described the vision of a legendary Hoe-Nan—a tale of the marriage of a goddess and how angels stood upon the earth. The request was unprecedented. Nevertheless the Emperor gave his consent. Mrs. Fowler witnessed the Sacred Dance.

"It would help me very greatly in my work," she told H. D. Killian, a Dutch resident who accompanied her. "if I could have a translation of the songs to which these dances are performed."

"It shall be arranged," Mr. Killian promised her.

Mrs. Fowler waited a day or two and did not receive the promised manuscript. She wrote a word of inquiry to Mr. Killian. It was his wife who replied. "I regret to tell you," she wrote, "that my dear husband died last night. He was mysteriously poisoned."

Mother Of Twenty-four Can't Remember All Ages

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 6.—Mrs. Paula Espena didn't know the exact age of her daughter, Paula, the complaining witness in the criminal assault case against Jesus Bracamonte in Judge Arthur Keetch's court.

"Why don't you know?" asked the Court.

"After the eighteenth I lost count of the ages," replied Mrs. Espena. "Paula, she was the twenty-second."

"How many others are there?"

"Only twenty-four in all."

Bracamonte, it was charged, made the usual promises to the complaining witness but had neglected to marry her. His attorney, James J. Jerome, said he was willing.

"All right, then, I'll give you probation. Marry her," the Court decreed.

LOOKS LIKE SWEEP OUTSIDE TORONTO

Moderator of Church Reviews the Balloting—Antis Badly Scattered.

HALIFAX, Feb. 6.—The Unionists feel that outside of Ontario and parts of Quebec they have practically swept the dominion," is the statement of Rev. Dr. Clarence McKinnon, moderator of the Presbyterian general assembly, who has just returned home after a tour of Canada.

"I spent two weeks recently in Ontario," said the moderator. "There is a good deal of excitement there over the union question. Both sides have their surprises and disappointments."

"Will not the real strength of the Presbyterian non-currents be in Ontario?" he was asked. "Yes, it will be practically an Ontario church," he replied.

Dr. McKinnon referred to the tiny proportion of preaching stations in the western provinces that had voted out of union. As Alberta, Saskatchewan and British Columbia comprise an area equal to that of Britain, France, Spain, Germany, Italy, Portugal and Greece, it is difficult to see how these few congregations scattered over so great an area could function as a Presbyterian church. The cost of travel alone would make meetings of Presbytery impracticable.

The situation in Nova Scotia, he said, is strikingly similar. If one church in Halifax, for instance, were to vote out, it would have to be put under the Pictou Presbytery, and it would be hard for the Presbyterian system to work out at such a distance. Many of the preaching places would go in automatically, without a vote at all, he predicted.

"The church union movement is undoubtedly one of the most remarkable religious phenomena of the present age,' he said. "When you consider how strong are the ties of tradition, and how easy it is to stir up sectarian prejudice, and what a lot of extraordinary suspicions have been aroused, its progress is remarkable." He enumerated some of the suspicions that had been sown in the minds of the people, the fable that the new United Church, like a state church, could collect its ministers' salaries as a direct taxation scheme, the fear that ministers could be forced on unwilling congregation by a settlement committee, and the allegation that the great verities of the Christian faith were being abandoned. "In view of this it is a great tribute to the practical judgment of the Canadian people that nine-tenths of the three denominations concerned are entering into union, undeterred by these fears and convinced that union is in the best interests of Canada and the Kingdom of God."

RADIO TESTS SEEM TO ASSURE RECUERS THAT COLLINS LIVES

Tunnel Being Bored to Cut Natural Passage Near Buried Man.

HIS OWN STORY.

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 6. (Canadian Press).—Andrew Lee Collins, eldest brother of the sand cave entombed prisoner, Floyd Collins, arrived during the night from Illinois, and has found a new cave near the scene of the present rescue work. A party of men have gone underground on an immediate exploration trip.

To Be Married Today

The Louisville Courier-Journal today publishes a despatch that Collins was to have been married today to Alma Clark, aged 22. Last night Miss Clark stood on the hill top, tearfully watching heroic efforts to rescue her lover.

CAVE CITY, Feb. 6 (Canadian Press.—All hope of reaching him through the natural passage is gone. Sappers today were making a new entrance to the sand cave in an attempt to reach Floyd Collins, entombed since last Friday morning.

A long day of digging was ahead of them and whether Collins was dead or alive, none has knowledge, since the cave-in on Wednesday night blocked the passage.

The general belief was that he has succumbed either being crushed to death, or by suffocation or by pneumonia, any of which would end his long fight to live.

Early today, however, radio has been resorted to in hopes the cave would give up its secret. A two-stage audi frequency amplifier was connected in the lighting circuit leading into the cave and was known to be intact.

The lights were turned off and with the head sets clamped to their ears, experimenters listened for any sound that might be interpreted as coming from Collins. After the test the men said that they had hear distinct sounds, believed by them to have been caused by the jarring of the carbon filament in the electric light bulb fastened about Collins' neck. It was commented that if alive Collins had probably moved when the light went out, thus shaking the filament.

Work on the new shaft was begun yesterday, and early today a hole ten feet deep had been made. The work was slowed up by the necessity of timbering the shaft as it is deepened. It has been estimated that Collins is lying 55 feet below the surface. Estimates as to the time it will take to sink a shaft vary from 24 to 72 hours.

The new opening is expected to reach the natural passage some 18 feet behind Collins. In this way, the workers hope to enter the shaft on the side of the rock which is holding Collins.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 4.—"I was crawling out of Sand Cave, which is the most beautiful I have ever seen, when, soon after ascending a steep wall, I dislodged a huge rock. It caught my left foot. That was ten o'clock Friday morning."

Thus begins Floyd Collins' own story of his experiences of the last five days, trapped in a narrow passage far under ground.

"The first night I spent in yelling at the top of my voice," he said.

"I knew my chance was slim, but I couldn't give up without doing something. So I just shouted and shouted.

"After a long time I was unable to call out any more, I got tired, but I struggled on, though, until I finally lost consciousness. Maybe I slept, I do not know. But I felt better when I awoke.

Finally Heard Voice.

"'Surely,' I thought, 'No man was ever trapped like this.' I prayed as hard as I could, I begged God to send help to me. Finally I heard a voice, and it sounded better than anything I ever heard. I called back and got an answer, and found it was Jewell Esters. He couldn't get to me, but before long Clyde Hester came back to me. He told me it was Saturday morning. I told Clyde to get word to my brothers, Homer and Marshall, and to my father. He left.

"My brothers came down Saturday afternoon and saw how I was fixed. They tried to dig me out but they couldn't.

Saturday night I felt better. A blanket had been brought to me and it helped me to keep out the cold. I was numb all over, but I felt warmer after I was covered. I couldn't move and I was getting awfully weak.

"Sunday, after attempt after attempt to save me had failed, I began to lose confidence. I prayed continuously. Sometimes I would be in a stupor. I could hear people coming in but they seemed far away. I could hear voices, but I could not remember what was said.

Was Night of Agony

"Sunday night I slept some. I dreamed of angels and awoke praying.

"Monday was the first day when strangers came back to me. I kept working around, whenever I felt strong enough, thinking I could twist myself free. But each time I could hear pebbles falling into the deep hole right behind me. It caused me to shudder. I kept thinking ing what would happen if the rock above me would fall. I kept trying to drive my mind to something else, but it wasn't any use. How could I? You've been here and you know —you know why.

"I couldn't do much to help those who came to help me, but I knew a lot of people were willing to do all in their power. This gave me courage.

"Monday night was a night of agony. My foot pained awful. It felt like it was going to break off. If I as much as wiggled a toe pain shot through me.

Still Hoped for Release.

'I dont know how long it was before my brother came in with something to eat, but it seemed like ages. I had some whiskey and it warmed me up a whole lot. I could talk for a while, but it wasn't long before I was unconscious or asleep, I don't know which.

"'Tuesday morning,' I thought to myself, 'four days down here and no nearer freedom than I was the first day. How will it end Will I get out or ——' I couldn't think of it. 'I have faced death before. It doesn't frighten me. But it is so long. Oh, God, be merciful.'

"Tuesday night I felt better than at any time since I was caught. I was mighty weak for a few hours—mighty work. So many plans have been tried, so many people and so little had been done, that I am beginning to get fearful again.

"I kept praying. I know I am going to get out. I feel like it. Something tells me to be brave and I am going to be.

"Now fellow (this is what he calls me) you better go out and get warm.

"But come back. You are small and I believe you are going to get me out.

"I want you to tell everybody outside that I love everyone of them, and I'm happy because so many are trying to help me. Tell them I am not going to give up; that I am going to fight and be patient and never forget them. You go out now, but don't leave me too long. I want you with me and I'll keep helping all I can do to move some of this rock."

DOCTORS BY INHERITANCE

Chinese Physician Tells of Practice at Home—Curious Facts.

The Chinese people were among the first to use various drugs and herbs in the treatment of illness. In fact, there are a great many things known to the Chinese physicians concerning the medicinial powers of various drugs that are not generally known by the Occidental physicians, according to Dr. T. K. Lee, a young Chinese physician from Signapore.

"Among the Chinese, it is the custom for the son to follow the profession of his father. Therefore, a doctor's son in turn becomes a doctor and the prescription book becomes the family's chief regard and asset and is passed along through generation after generation of doctors—provided the family is fortunate enough to continue having sons born in it.

"About 80 per cent. of the population of Signapore is Chinese. The Chinese were first attracted to the island by the discovery of rich tin mines, and the vast rubber plantations. That was two or three hundred years ago, and the Chinese have remained in Signapore from that time.

"The Malay Peninsula supplies to the world about three-fourths of all its tin. There are still great quantities of tin in the earth and tin mining is still a big industry. In the old days the process of extractng tin from the earth was laborious and primitive but now the most modern methods are used and the most modern machinery imported from Europe.

"So far, there has been little or no business contact between the people of Signapore and the people of the United States, but it is a contact I think should be built up.

"Signapore is one of the nine largest seaports in the world. It presents a most cosmopolitan aspect. In the city are to be seen modern dwellings and Chinese temples, while in her harbor lie ships of every size, shape and description from all the world's ports.

"Educational opportunities are very good in Signapore. We have the government schools which bring the student up to the point of matriculation. For colleges and universities we still have to go to Europe or to China, but there is now a project under way to raise funds for the building of a college in Singapore. This is to be known as the Raffles College, named after Sir Stanford Raffles, the founder of the City of Singapore. So far several million dollars have been raised for the college.

WHEAT PRICES CRASH.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 6.—(Canadian Press.)—With an unexpected crash, wheat prices went skidding to-day for the third break within two weeks, when May future dropped to $1.95 1-2 cents shortly before 11 o'clock, for a net loss of 8 1-2 cents from the high scored earlier in the session.

The spectacular decline came with sudden force, sweeping prices downward to new levels within a period of five minutes. Liquidations were of an almost unprecedented volume, and traders were confronted with the same situation which characterized former recessions— they were unable to get out. Speculators saw further inroads made into the profits piled up during the sensational rise, which carried wheat of May to $2.20.

A SUDDEN COLLAPSE

CHICAGO, Feb. 6 (Canadian Wheat prices suddenly collapsed today. May delivery dropped to as low as $1.85 a bushel almost 21 cents under last week's high price record. Increased selling on an early upturn revealed that the market was without any adequate support from speculative buyers.

TURKS REFUSE ALL MEDIATION

Say Intervention in Grecian Dispute Would Be Intolerable.

REPLY GIVEN.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 6—(Canadian Press).—The Turkish Government today handed to the Greek charge d'affairs in Angora its reply to the Greek note regarding the expulsion from Constantinople of the Ecumenical Patriarch of the Greek Catholic Church. The reply reflects the suggestion that the dispute be referred to the international court at The Hague, insists that the question is purely internal, and declares that any intervention by outside Powers would be intolerable.

Some Effect.

PARIS, Feb. 6 (Canadian Press) —Efforts of France and Great Britain have had a considerably calming effect upon the Greco-Turkish conflict, according to official circles, although the dispute over the expulsion from Constantinople of the Greek Patriarch appears still far from a settlement.

Women Voters Impatient About Election Returns

CHARLOTTE, N.C., Feb. 5—North Carolina will not have to wait a week or more for the results of the next general election, if the women have anything to say about it.

Through the Legislative Council of Women Voters, the women of the state are making a fight to have the Australian ballot adopted for the state at large by the general assembly now in session. A bulletin issued by the council, which is composed of the Federation of Women's Clubs, Parent-Teacher Association, Business and Professional Women, League of Women Voters and other organizations, sets out the benefits to be gained by the Australian ballot and the disadvantages of the present wide-open system in vogue in 83 of the 100 counties of the state.

At the general election last November there were 14 ballots and in each polling place in the state, except where the Australian ballot is in use, there were eight ballot boxes. In many instances ballots were not counted, according to reports, until Friday or Saturday after the election.

POISON KILLED TWO STUDENTS

Strychnine Found in Capsules Mixed as Cold Remedy.

POLICE BUSY.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 6. Associated Press. — Strychnine mixed in capsules compounded at the University of Ohio Dispensary for colds, was to-night held responsible for the death of one student, David I. Pusken of Canton, possibly the cause of the death of another student, C. H. Hulls of Logan, and the reason for the illness of many others, in the last four days.

Definite trace of strychnine found late to-day in the stomach of Pusken, who died very suddenly Sunday, strengthened the belief of the university officials that the poison was probably intentionally put in the medicine.

As a result, university officials this afternoon turned the official investigation of the situation over to the Columbus police authorities. Police Prosecutor John J. Chester, Jr., and other officials late this afternoon conferred with university officials but did not disclose any new developments in the case.

University officials promptly placed every facility of the institution at the disposal of the police instigators and pledged their heartiest co-operation. President W. O. Thompson, after issuing a statement, insisting that there was no cause for alarm or for parents withdrawing their children from the university, did these things:

1—Directed that a complete chemical analysis of all remaining medicine of the kind issued to the students affected, should be made.

2—Ordered that all further issuance of such medicine remaining in the College of Pharmancy dispensary, where it was made up, should cease.

Only One Capsule Contained Poison.

Columbus police officials to-night questioned Dean E. F. McCampbell, of the College of Medicine, George D. Thompson, also of Canton, the last student taken violently ill, and arranged to-morrow to question all students in the College of Pharmacy, who have been on duty in the dispensary in the last two weeks.

Discovery of definite traces of strychnine in the stomach of Puskin made it certain that the poison was involved in at least three of the five or more serious cases which have developed since last Thursday. But chemical tests of nearly two-thirds of the capsules issued for treatment of colds failed to reveal any trace of the poison except in one capsule.

This capsule, one of a number issued to Timtohy J. McCarthy, of Fremont, a football player, last week, was said to contain nothing but poison. It is believed to have been a similar capsule which caused McCarthy to become violently ill last Thursday.

Poison also was found in the contents of the stomach of Thompson who was taken suddenly ill yesterday under circumstances similar to those in the other cases. But other capsules in Thompson's possession were found to be free from poison.

The exact cause of the death of Charles H. Hulls of Logan, Ohio, who died last Saturday in convulsions, and of the violent illness of Harold E. Gillig of Tiffin, Ohio, a sophomore, has not been determined. Capsules of the kind given the other three students named were prescribed for these students.

Hull's death was at first ascribed to tetantus.

FIRE DEPARTMENT REPORT

Fire Chief George Gimblett, on Monday night, presented his third annual report to the City Council as follows:—

Alarms, Fires and Losses.

During the year the Department responded to 436 alarms, as follows: Telephone, 349; box, 49; verbal, 36, and private, 2. This is an increase of nine alarms more than in 1923. Of the above number of calls for the Department, 50 fires were of a more or less serious nature, and were responsible for a loss of $27,385.33.

During the year the Department laid 10,300 feet 2½" hose, 2,000 feet chemical hose, 1,174 feet ladders, 1,232 gallons chemical and 5 quarts of pyrene were used.

During the year there were three calls for the pulmotor in addition to the above number of alarms.

Apparatus.

The apparatus of the Department consists of the following: Chief's car, motor-combination, motor hose, hose wagon, ladder truck. The following is kept in reserve: 800-gallon Waterous steamer, horse-drawn hose wagon, cutter, sleigh and bobs.

Horses.

There are two horses in the Department, and during the year they required the services of the veterinary three times.

Discipline.

The conduct of the members of the Department during the past year has been very good, with the following exceptions: Late, 5; insolence, 3; absent from alarms, 5; absent without leave, 1; neglect of duty, 6; under the influence of liquor, 1; insubordination, 2.

Recommendations

I would recommend that a bungalow fire station be built in the south end as a larger percentage of alarms come from this district than any other section in the city.

I would recommend that a triple-combination-pumper be purchased, as, in the case of a large fire in the mercantile district or one of the large factories, a pumper could be hooked right onto the hydrant, whereas now I have to send back to the station for the steamer and valuable time is lost.

I recommended these for your consideration the last two years, but nothing has been done as yet. I hope you will be able to see your way to take these matters up this year as the efficiency of the Department will be greatly added to by the above additions.

I would recommend that 1,000 feet of 2½" hose (Paragon Brand) be purchased to keep the supply up to the standard and to replace hose worn.

There are 8,150 feet of 2½" hose in the Department: 2,000 feet first-class, 5,400 feet second-class, and 750 feet to be discarded as unfit for further use.

There should be a chassis purchased and placed under the ladder truck and the horses disposed of.

A new Chief's car should be purchased to replace the present Ford, as it is getting pretty well worn out.

More fire alarm boxes and standards should be added to the system.

I would recommend that the Council take up ways and means of providing a pension fund, similar to those in the larger cities, whereby the men and their families will be provided for in case of death or disability.

The yard in the rear should be paved the better to carry on the Department drills.

Improvements.

Two five-way light standards were put up outside the station; 30-foot ladder; 14-16 Pompier laddier; combination plaster hook; tin roof-cutter; combination door opener and hose stop; 2 insulated Cartman hose holders.

In closing my third annual report, I desire to tender my thanks to his Worship the Mayor, the City Council, and the chairman and members of the Fire, Water and Light Committee for kindnesses shown me in the discharge of my duties as chief engineer of the Fire Department.

I also wish to tender my thanks to the City Clerk and other City officials, Police Department, and the press for the very impartial manner in which they reported the workings of the Department. I also wish to thank the members of the Fire Department for the able manner in which they carried out their duties and their loyal support during 1924.

I hope you will be able to grant my recommendations; if not all, then some of them as it will be for a more efficient department.

The total number of inspections for the year was 2,581.

Denounces Soviet Chiefs.

Most Unscrupulous Set the World Has Ever Seen, Says British M.P.

LONDON, Feb. 6. — Sir Philip Dawson, M.P., who has just returned from the Russian borderland, where he has been conducting inquiries on behalf of an industrial group of the House of Commons, speaking to-night, said he had an opportunity of interviewing members of Governments and representatives of trade and industry of the border countries and he had come back with an unholy fear of what would result in this country if the Socialist doctrine were put into force.

The people who control Russia today were extremely able men, among the most intellectual and misinformed men in the whole world, he said, but were also the most unscruplous set of individuals the world ever had seen. They had one idea in their heads and that was to bring about at all costs a world revolution.

Referring to the recent trouble in Eshthonia, Sir Phillip said had it not been for the stable British Government and fear of the British Government and fear of the British Navy the Bolsheviki would have carried out their threatened suppression of Esthonia.

A leading General there told him they had found a list giving names of 143,000 persons, representing 10 per cent. of the population of all classes, who were to be shot when the Communists obtained control of the country.

Portia's father was old-fashioned

IN THE days of Shakespeare's famous heroine, buying and selling were contests of wits. In Venice, haggling and dickering were the vogue. Along the Rialto, sharp practice was the rule. Every purchase of silk or spices was made at the buyer's risk. One had to be a shrewd judge of values and one's fellows to escape trickery.

Portia's father—a merchant—was used to the ideas of guess, luck and accident. So much so, indeed, that it seemed natural to him to entrust the choice of his daughter's husband to three closed caskets and a lucky guess!

Nowadays, we do not transact business blindly—nor leave important decisions to chance. It is not necessary for us to gamble when we buy. Commodities are identified for us by trade-marks. Manufacturers go to the advertising columns to tell us about their products. Merchants describe their merchandise—price, quality and service.

By reading advertisements, we get a knowledge of goods and stores that we can depend on. Advertising reduces chance, in buying, to a minimum.

Lakefield Win 6-5 in Overtime Period

FRANK CAREW OF LINDSAY WON PETERBORO CUP IN BONSPIEL

Defeated D. W. Coyle, of Cobourg by 11-10 in Final Game.

OTHER RESULTS.

George Morrow in Final for Own Cup Against Alex Kay.

Winning the Peterboro Cup yesterday afternoon from D. W. Coyle of Cobourg by 11 shots to 10, Frank Carew of Lindsay qualified for the finals of the Waddell Cup competition last night when he defeated J. C. Strickland of Lakefield by 12 to 6 in the semi-final round which was concluded about 1.30 a.m. (to-day). This morning at 8.30 Carew and Billy Delaney started the first stones in the 16-end final game, which assured to the Bonspiel visitors two of the trophies with their both first and second prizes.

The performance of the Carew rink was the outstanding feature of the third day of the tournament. They had come into their own after a pair of reverses in the Morrow and Matthews - Blackwell competitions, and settling down into bonspiel form they cut a wide swath through the other two contests, Thursday they packed five games away, leaving a string of victims in their wage, earning one trophy and reaching out for the other, which was decided later in to-day's clean-up games.

And incidentally Skip Carew and his rink gave a splendid example of sportsmanship all through the Bonspiel, when losing and winning alike. They maintained the record of the Lindsay Club which invariably carries off one or other of the Peterboro trophies or prizes to the runners-up, they contributed largely to the friendly spirit and harmonious relations in which the games were played, and unobtrusively, too, they upheld the best Flavelle traditions in sportsmanship and strengthened the good opinion in which Frank Carew, his rink mates and fellow-clubmen are generally held by Peterboro curlers.

The historic old Peterboro Cup was the first to be disposed of, although its games were last getting under way. The visiting curlers had this contest almost as much to themselves as the Waddell Cup games. The semi-final encounters were both ding-dong affairs, in which Coyle of Cobourg eliminated C. Peacock of Oshawa by 11 to 9, and Carew put out R. A. Thurston of Bobcaygeon by 10 to 8.

The finalist rinks were:

Cobourg.	Lindsay
J. Peterson	W. Bryson
C. Mitchell	W. Todd
W. Higgenbothem	W. Langdon
D. W. Coyle	F. J. Carew
Skip 10	Skip 11

The second prizes, four sweaters, were presented to Skip Coyle and his rink by Jimmy Metheral, secretary of the Bonspiel Committee, who congratulated the Cobourg rink upon their success, and expressed the wish that they return next year.

THE WADDELL TROPHY.

The third or eighth round in the Waddell Trophy registered the following results:

Cobourg	Claremont
W. Delaney—10.	R. Besse—7
Lakefield	Lindsay
D. Charlton—8	F. Williams—10
Millbrook	Lindsay
R. Edmunds—10	F. Carew—12
Lakefield	Lakefield
J. C. Strickland—8	C. S. Tanner—7

Semi-Finals.

Cobourg	Lindsay
W. Delaney—11	F. Williams—10
Lakefield	Lindsay
J. C. Strickland—6	F. J. Carew—12

This left Delaney and Carew for the finals this morning. Jack Strickland bore Lakefield's last hopes in the Bonspiel, and although he started fairly strong, Carew ran up an unbroken string of counters that left no doubt of the outcome as the second half of the game produced but little change in the scoring.

R. Edmunds of Millbrook, who reached the finals with Ross Dobbin in the Matthews - Blackwell gave Carew a close run in the third round of the Waddell series. Carew won by 12 to 10, with four shots in the last two ends, three of them in the 11th. The board showed:

Carew .. .. 0102032031—12
Edmunds .. .. 2050100200—10

Edmunds had a chance right up to the last stone, but his vice, who was skipping the rink in that competition missed an outside shot with his final stone, and it transpired that his play was based on a misconception that Edmunds had another shot inside and counting.

THE MORROW COMPETITION

Alex. Kay stepped out as the finalist against George Morrow for the Morrow Cup. Both skips agreed last night upon an indefinite postponement of this battle, in view of the moderation of the weather, but there were prospects even then that they would cross brooms today. Morrow qualified by handing Geo. Hill at 13-7 trimming, in a game that seemed closer than the score indicates. Hill had John Brightman viceing for him. Jack Wiley playing second and Malcolm McIntyre lead.

The Morrow rink is a well-balanced quartette with "Manse" Comstock in front, Archie Moore second, Bill Taylor vice, and Morrow at the tee.

Kay has previously jolted Truman of Claremont out of the running with the aid of Walter Oke his vice, Bill Montgomery second, and Leo Ackford lead. Kay had beaten De Laney of Cobourg in the third round and had quietly but regularly turned in solid victories on his cards throughout the competition. Kay and Oke alternate as skips according to some plan of their own, and they have been together so long that they make a formidable combination for any other pair to clash with.

Matthews-Blackwell.

Bob Edmunds of Millbrook and Ross Dobbin sifted through semi-finals of the Matthews-Blackwell series.

Edmunds in the third round trimmed Eddie Hare of Oshawa by 10-9 in two extra ends, the first being a blank. Lou Bowes defaulted to Billy Oke of Port Hope, Morrow beat Wood of Lindsay, and Dobbin worsted J. Sedgwick both by 13-9.

In the fours Edmunds turned in a 16-8 card against Oke and Dobbin handed Morrow his first defeat excepting in the Waddell test games. That was another 13-9 score. Dobbin had Tommy Donaldson vice, R. Carman second and N. Routley lead.

JUNIOR GAME TO-NIGHT.

Bowmanville Here For Return in Second Round.

Bowmanville Juniors hook up with the Peterboro Juniors at Brock Street Rink in the second game of the round to-night at 8.30. With heavy going, the husky Bowmanville crew hope to make up the deficit of three goals which they incurred in their home game on Monday. "Nip" Dwan of Toronto has been appointed to handle the encounter, and the fans should see a close and exciting game. The winner will enter the Eastern Ontario finals against either Trenton or Brockville.

NEWCASTLE UNITED LOST TO LEICESTER

35,000 Packed Grounds — Cup Holders Downed 1-0.

LONDON, Feb. 6 (Canadian Press). — In a sensational game Leicester City yesterday eliminated Newcastle United from the English Football Association Cup competitions by 1 goal to 0. Newcastle United are the cup holders. The match yesterday was a replay of a second round game in which the teams drew last Saturday.

The score Saturday was 2-2.

The game attracted a record attendance for the Leicester grounds and 35,000 people jammed themselves into the enclosure before the gates were closed. The weather conditions were pleasant though the turf was rather soft. Newcastle kicked off against a strong wind. Leicester had the better of the opening plays but several attacks were spoiled by offsides. Bradley, the Newcastle goalie, was soon called on to save from a close range shot by Carr. Wadsworth played a heady game for Leicester, but at this stage of the match the Newcastle defence was very strong. However, Leicester was playing a beautiful game and a score had to come. After half an hour's play Carr scored. Leicester went on the defensive for a while and Newcastle attacked feverishly. Godderidge saved a hot shot from Urwin and Cowan shot over the bar. Leicester finished the half brilliantly, Carr putting in a fine kick which Bradley just managed to tip over the bar.

Newcastle attacked almost savagely at the beginning of the second half and Leicester had a trying time. Black, the City right back, gave a remarkable performance, however, and Godderidge was called on to save very few shots. Those which did penetrate to him, he looked after neatly and safely, particularly two vicious kicks from McDonald and Spencer.

Leicester City meets Hull in the third round.

LAKEFIELD WON OVERTIME GAME

Intermediate Petes Defeated 6 to 5 on Wet Ice—Poor Hockey.

MANY PENALTIES

The 1925 hockey season was a short one for the Peterboro Intermediates when Kennedy's Colts of Lakefield eliminated them last night from the race in the first game of the season, by the score of 6 to 5. The game was played on water ice and was productive of little good hockey. Both teams resorted to slashing and at times there were more men in the penalty box than on the ice. Joe Dwyer made his debut as an O.H.A. referee and he was inclined to be lenient.

Neither team showed any combination, being hindered by the slush, and individual rushes ended when the puck carrier overskated the rubber. The puck was advanced in most cases by a series of golf shots or on a number of short rushes.

For the locals Williams, MacPherson and Halpin were the best. Lackey made a number of effective rushes and was a hard man to pass on the defense. Foley was good in the first period but was too fast for the puck in the final periods. Tamplet made a good showing in goal although a little slow in clearing. Holland subbed well on the forward line.

Several fights were threatened as a result of the chopping tactics but prompt banishment of the offenders saved the situation. It was a very difficult game to handle but Referee Dwyer made a good job of it and very few kicks were heard.

The Line Up.

Referee—Joe Dwyer.

Play started to range from end to end and both goalkeepers were tested during the first few moments. MacPherson drew a penalty for crosschecking and while he was off Louie Sabatino slammed one past Tamplet from a mix-up in front of the nets. He grabbed the puck from the face-off and beat the local goalie again with a long shot. From the face-off Foley went down and tested Graham and Williams shoved in the rebound. After eleven minutes of end-to-end rushes Halpin scored on a pass from Foley. One minute later Foley scored on a rebound of Lackeys shot for the last score of the period.

The second period was a slugging match, six penalties being handed out before Jack Sabatino bulged the net for the only goal of the period after fifteen minutes woodchopping.

In the third period both teams experienced a great deal of trouble with the rolling puck and golf shots were the order of the day. Louie and Jack Sabatino were chased in close succession and while they were off Williams scored from a scrimage. Louie Sabatino had hardly returned when he got it back with a close-in shot. Northey added to the score right after, working in to the goal mouth before shooting. MacPherson evened matters again when he drifted a long shot from the wing past Graham, catching that usually aert goalie napping. Williams and L. Sabatino were chased for a bumping match but no damage was done during their absence.

The Overtime.

The overtime period had hardly commenced before Webster scored from a scramble in front of the nets and for the remaining eight minutes the Colts played a defensive game. The Petes were right in on top of Graham several times but he saved several likely looking counters.

The Scoring.

ST. PETER'S TEAM PLAY IN PORT HOPE TODAY

Sudden Death Game With Cobourg in School League.

The St. Peter's hockey team play a sudden death game with Cobourg tomorrow morning in Port Hope. This game will decide the Eastern championship of the Ontario Intercollegiate Hockey Association and the winner will meet the representative of the Oshawa-Bowmanville district which will likely prove to be Oshawa Collegiate in the semi-finals.

Cobourg put out Port Hope and if they carry players on their lineup like those on their basketball team that played P.C.I. here last Saturday, they will be big and rangy.

Bill Prindible's S.P.S. have had several workouts and are in fair shape for the struggle. However, their weak point is in lack of weight. The Cobourg boys will have to heave them pretty fast at Jack LeBarr, to get many by the junior goalie.

SCOTLAND VS. WALES.

Fourth of International Rugby Games on Saturday.

LONDON, Feb. 6 (Canadian Press Cable.—The fourth game of the international Rugby series will be played off at Swansea on Saturday, when Scotland travel to Wales for the thirty-sixth match played since the inauguration of Rugby football games between these two countries in 1883. In the forty-two years existence of such contests, Scotland has the margin of one win, having been victorious in 17 games, to 16 for the Welshmen; two contests having been drawn. The gaps in the annual play occurred during the war years when no encounters were staged, and once or twice earlier when the Scottish and Welsh Unions were at loggerheads.

In the current season, Wales have succumbed in one game, that played against England when the English fifteen won by 12 points to 6. On the other hand, Scotland, who by virtue of their scoring ability head the standings for the moment, registered 25 points against 4 for France, and thus enter Saturday's encounter favorites.

LAKEFIELD CURLING.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 6.—The Curling Club will play this week the President and Vice-President games to determine who will pay for the annual supper.

50 SKI CHAMPIONS IN MOVIE.

A picture of unusual thrills, said to be the most remarkable picture of its kind ever produced will be a featured attraction at the Royal Theatre Monday in "The Chase," which has been called "The Picture of a Thousand Thrills."

The picture was taken around St. Moritz, Switzerland, the internationally known winter resort of Europe, during one of the recent skimeets such as are held there each year. After the meet was finished, the producers of the picture prevailed upon the contestants to take part in a picture which would feature their thrilling and dangerous sport.

These dare-devils of the Alps are shown in feats of their favorite sport which are unlike the popular conception of the possibilities of the wooden runners. They swoop down slopes with express train speed, leaping chasms, streams and even over houses in their amazing exhibitions of skill and strength.

There is a well defined story about which the performance of the principals hinges and patrons of the theatre are assured of seeing one of the most remarkable and thrilling pictures ever presented to American theatre audiences.

SKI HISTORY IS MADE IN CANADA

All Ski Jumping Records Broken in Big Meet at Revelstoke.

REVELSTOKE, B.C., Feb. 6.—Ski history that may never be repeated again was made here Wednesday afternoon, when everyone of the world's 'ski jumping records, both amateur and professional, were broken during the closing hours of the world's championship contests on the famous Mount Revelstoke Hill ,the largest in existence.

Nel. Nelson, amateur champioin of Canada, broke the world's professional record by 11 feet. He left the dangerous take-off at a speed of 10 miles an hour and came to earth again 240 feet away, thus breaking the world's record of 229 feet made here in 1921 by Henry Hall of Detroit.

The visitors spent three hours in the city.

Short calls were made at the Parliament Buildings and one or two Curling Rinks where games were in progress. Even a larger crowd than met the visitors saw them off on the third stage of their journey en route for Calgary.

PETERBOROUGH RINK LOST OUT IN EXTRA END

Last Minute Rally of Old Rivals from Owen Sound Won.

BURDEN TROPHY.

Three on Extra End Added to Four in Last End, Did Trick.

TORONTO, Feb. 6. — To Owen Sound goes the honor of becoming the first holders of the new Burden Trophy, the Grey County boys staging a last minute rally that gave them five shots on the last end, or enough to tie up the game, and in the extra end they won out by one shot. All this came after Peterboro had the Greys twelve shots down with three ends to go, and history once more repeated, for it was Owen Sound who beat Peterboro in the Tankard finals in 1917, and it was Owen Sound who put Peterboro out of the Tankard this year by 3 shots.

By mutual consent the four semi finalists yesterday morning agreed to only play twelve ends on the watery ice, Peterboro disposing of St. Thomas by 10 shots, while Owen Sound won from Brampton by 11 shots. The ice, despite the mild weather, held up remarkably well at Oakwood.

The finals provided good curling despite the watery surface and there was the usual just missing by fractions when the weight—hard to get on such ice—was misjudged. Moffatt just missed a five end on one occasion by an eyelash. On the other hand, there were plenty of fast shots played that would be considered good ones on fast ice, Sturgeon especially shooting in good form. However, the twelfth end was a nightmare for Peterboro, failure to get the broom being responsible for the game going an extra end. Best had two open shots at Moffatt's counter, and each time got wide when he was lying two seconds and wrecked one over the hog line. Over on the other sheet Connal's front end fell down badly, and were short, and when the skips went to play Telford was lying four. The latter elected to draw in another, but just grazed by the outside rings. Connal ran out Telford's second shot, and the latter passed out Connal's stone, but was lucky in getting it, as his stone cut unexpectedly over the hog line, and, wicking off a stone in front, came dead on the Peterboro stone. Connal with the last stone endeavored to pass it through, but got narrow, and slipping through a narrow port, passed on through.

Sudden Change in Extra End.

The extra end was remarkable for the sudden change in the ends. Moffatt was lying two when he went to play, but failed to guard, and Best knocked them both out and lay two himself. Over on the other rink Peterboro was lying two, but pinch hitter "Reddy" Telford came through a narrow port, and knocking the pair out, lay two. Here both rinks started playing 'rag.' Moffatt with his last picked out Peterboro's second shot, while Connal on the other sheet for Peterboro with the last stone of the end endeavored to draw down through a narrow port to the shot. He put it away well, but after getting through the port it cut fast to the outside of the shot, with the result that he drove it on to Peterboro's third shot, giving Owen Sound three in place of two, as his stone glanced out. This put it up to Best with his last rock. His only chance was to wick off Moffatt's second shot in front on the second ring over on to Moffatt's third shot on the second back ring, but he was just a trifle heavy, although he got the back stone to lay two.

Vice-President Thomas Rennie of the O.C.A. presented the Burden Trophy and prizes to the winners, Skips Telford and Moffatt replying, they stating that they remained over to compete in the competition because it was a new trophy, and the Owen Sound club felt that in justice to the donor the rinks should take part in the competition. Skip Best replied for Peterboro, and remarked that had he known earlier he would certainly have persuaded Owen Sound to go home. Scores:

GORMAN LOSES THROUGH FALLS

Champion's Chances Spoiled in Skating Events at Saranac Lake.

CANADIANS WIN.

SARANAC LAKE, N.Y., Feb. 6—Charles Gorman of St. John, N.B., international champion, was a victim of ill luck in the speed skating events today and failed to score a single point as the result of two hard falls in the three-quarter mile and two-mile events. Valentine Bialis of Chicago, by taking the two-mile event and placing second in the three-quarter mile went into the lead for the championship with a total of 70 points Francis Allen, of Chicago, won the three-quarter mile Ross Robinson, of Toronto, was third, coming from behind to beat Joe Moore in the last lap.

Gorman took second place in his heat of the shorter race standing up but a very bad fall in the final sent him from the course. After falling in the final of the two-mile race he pluckily scrambled to his feet and caught the pack, but was unable to place. The Canadian champion's falls shook him up badly and he may have trouble in returning to form for the five-mile and 440 events tomorrow, both of which he must win to have any chance of retaining his title.

The point standiug tonight showed Bialis 70, Francis Allen of Chicago 60, Richard Donovan of Saranac Lake 50, and Gorman 20.

Canadian Juniors Win

Canadian boy skaters all but cleaned up; Willie Logan of St. John won the 440 for boys of eighteen, but was disqualified by Referee Bratton for fouling at the turn. The offence was unintentional but so interfered with another skater that the official could not overlook it. C. O'Connor, of St. John, fell when he appeared to have a good chance to place. H. Smythe, Jr. of Moncton, won the half-mile fo boys of 16; Thomas Tebo of St. John, takirng second place. George Fowler, of St. John won the one-sixth mile for boys of 14, while Francis Logan of the same city, captured the race of the same distance for boys of 12. Undismayed by his disqualification in the 440 Willie Logan skated a beautiful race in the half-mile for boys, winning after a terrific sprint in the last lap. Edgar Snodgrass, of St. John, took third place in the event.

The work of the Canadian juniors was so clean-cut and decisive that it brought round after round of applause from the spectators. Experts expressed the opinion that the boys were qualified for senior events immediately, some of them showing speed and endurance than championship competitors. Results.

THEATRES

AT THE ROYAL

"TRIFLING WITH HONOR" SCORES AN INSTANT HIT.

New Universal - Jewel Has Stellar Cast; Story First Appeared in Collier's Weekly.

"Trifling With Honor," the photo-drama which was shown for the first time locally at the Royal Theatre yesterday, has a distinct appeal to the average motion picture fan in that it is so thoroughly human.

It is the story of a man who looked upon life with friendless eyes, but who was heralded as a hero in the world of baseball and held the esteem of thousands of fans. The subtle effect of this esteem had tangibility in the form of a boyish hero worship in the extreme which literally forced the man to warm up to his world's applause and live up to the dreams of his fondest admirers.

But Shugrue had left a dark mark in the world as the "Gas Pipe Kid," and it cost him a term in San Quentin. He was paroled for good behavior, but there was no change in his character when he walked through the steel gate to freedom except an increased hatred for the laws that sent him to prison. To mask his identity he changed his mode of living and turned to professional baseball.

He became the crack hitter in the league and the favorite in every game in which he played. But his was a twisted nature, and the spark of fire that flamed so highly on the baseball diamond burned to a low ebb in his life away from the ball field. He was still a "rounder" at heart and lived the life, termed in street parlance of a "rounder."

But when it came to a showdown between "making a killing" by double-crossing his own team and remaining true to the ideals believed of him by his boyish hero worshippers, Bat Shugrue "went to bat" with himself—and won a moral victory.

The story was written for Collier's Weekly by William Slavens McNutt, and was directed at Universal City by Harry Pollard. The cast includes Rockcliffe Fellowes, Fritzi Ridgeway, Buddy Messinger, Hayden Stephenson and other popular players.

FERRIS SISTERS CLEVER CHILDREN.

The large audience last night at the Royal were enthusiastic in their applause for the Ferris Duo, two child dancers. Although their offering ran about twenty minutes it was much too he seen these kiddies could have held the stage much longer than that. The patrons were hungry for more. Their offering consists of songs, dances, and Baby Dolly, only five years old, does all the tricks and stunts performed by the professional contortionists. You can take our word for it, this is something unusual and should not be missed.

They will appear at each matinee and evening performance for the balance of this week.

AT THE CAPITOL.

J. M. BARRIE'S "PETER PAN" ON SCREEN AT LAST AT CAPITOL TODAY.

"Peter Pan," the boy who wouldn't grow up, has come to take you to the land of make-believe on the screen.

The Herbert Brenon-Paramount production of James M. Barrie's immortal fantasy is one of the cleanest, cleverest and most entertaining pictures you've ever been given the opportunity to see.

Betty Bronson, selected by Barrie himself to portray the title role, heads a strong cast of featured players which includes Ernest Torrence, Cyril Chadwick, Virginia Brown Faire and Anna May Wong.

No need to go into the story here. Willis Goldbeck wrote the screen play which tells of a little boy who always wanted to remain young and have fun. He flies through the nursery window of a modern day home, teaches the three children he finds there how to fly and carries them off to his underground home and the Little Lost Boys in the Never Never Land.

The picture shows, as the stage production never could their adventures with the Indians and pirates. Every word picture the author painted in the story has been visualized on the screen—even to the children flying over the house-tops. Roy Pometoy, who obtained such marvellous effects in "The Ten Commandments," saw to this. You've never witnessed anything quite like it before in your life and it will be a long time before you see such a picture again.

Go see "Peter Pan" today at the Capitol, then you'll understand why the piece has been playing to standing room only for the past twenty-one years on the legitimate stage.

Others in the cast of the production include Esther Ralston, George Ali ,Mary Brian, Philippe de Lacey and Jack Murphy.

CHILDREN'S TREAT.

The new manager of the Capitol Theatre is extending, through The Examiner, an invitation to the children of St. Vincent's Orphanage and the Shelter to be his guests at the Saturday matinee of "Peter Pan." The children of the city should take the opportunity of attending the Saturday matinee and seeing the frolicsome Peter on the screen.

"DUMB DORA."

Don't forget the added attraction at the Capitol Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights and Wednesday afternoon, in the new one-act comedy, "Dumb Dora." This is an amusing little playlet, with an entertaining theme, and is being rehearsed in splendid fashion by a talented cast of local people. It has additional interest in the songs by Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park, soprano, and a dance on the stage by the hero and heroine. There will be new and beautiful spring gowns shown from Barrie's, Limited, and the stage furnishings are from the Richard Hall store.

AT THE REGENT

"THE NARROW STREET."

With Matt Moore as the eccentric bachelor and Dorothy Devore portraying the sparkling naiveness of youth, whose mysterious comings and goings lend themselves to many strange situations, "The Narrow Street," which opened at the Regent Theatre yesterday, should make its appeal to all movie-going audiences.

Both Matt Moore and Dorothy Devore have proven their popularity time and time again, Mr. Moore in all conceivable roles from villain to hero, and Miss Devore in those whimsical characterizations that made the Christie Comedies wholesome and enjoyable.

But, in "The Narrow Street," they prove an irresistible combination, inasmuch as the theme of the motion picture, which was adapted for the screen from the novel by Edwin Bateman Morris, is as full of funny twists and quirks as the title itself.

Shy, bashful with the ladies, Simon Haldane, who is the bachelor in the case, finds himself unexpectedly the husband of Doris, who appears in his home one night, and refuses to leave. He assumes the title of "husband" to more effectively protect her from her enemies and then finds himself in wrong, from all angles.

The crescendo of comic situations are woven together to form a climax of hilarious fun, by William Beaudine, director. Julien Josephson adapted "The Narrow Street" for the screen.

David Butler, Russell Simpson, Gertrude Short, Tempe Pigott, Kate Toncray, George Pearce and Madame Sultewan form the balance of the strong cast that enacts this "best seller" on the silver sheet.

KELLY A REGULAR FOR FIVE SEASONS

Succeeded Hal Chase as First Baseman in 1920.

George Kelly, the Giants' first baseman, whose name was recently linked with that of the banished Jimmy O'Connell in the basketball incident on the Coast, did not become the Giants' regular first baseman until 1920, although he first joined the local National League club in 1915. He has now been a regular for five full seasons and has already taken part in four world's series.

Kelly started his professional baseball career with the Victoria Club of the North-Western League in 1914. He played first base and in the outfield for that club during his first season and he took part in a total of 141 games, batting for an average of .250. He started the following season with the same club and playen in ninety-nine games, batting for a mark of .304. On Aug. 20 of that year he was sold to the Giants for a reported price of $1,200. During the remainder of that season while with the New York Club, Kelly played in only seventeen games and had a batting average of .158.

Kelly remained with the Giants during the entire season of 1916 but he participated in only forty-nine contests during that campaign. He also started the following pennant race with the Giants but he was loaned to the Pirates early in the season and later in the same year he was returned to the Giants, who in turn sent him to the Rochester Club of the International League on an optional agreement. While with Rochester that year he played first base and also in the outfield. He took part in only thirty-two games and batted for an even .300.

During most of the season of 1919 Kelly remained with the Rochester Club. He became the regular first baseman of the team that year and played in 103 games, batting for an average of .356. Late in that season he was re-purchased by the Giants, and before the 1919 season ended he played in 32 games with the New York Club. His batting average for those contests was .200.

After Hal Chase had been deposed as the Giants' regular first baseman, Kelly got the assignment at the start of the season of 1920. He played in a total of 155 games during that year and batted for a mark of .266. In the following season he played in 149 games as the Giants' regular first baseman. His batting average for that campaign was .308. In 1922 Kelly continued as the Giants' regular first baseman and during that season he boosted his batting average to .328. During 1923 Kelly took part in 145 games and batted .307. During the 1924 campaign Kelly was used at second base and in the outfield as well as at first base. When Kelly was not playing first base the Giants used Bill Terry, who had been obtained from the Toledo Club of the American Association, in that position. Kelly played in a total of 144 games during the past year and had a batting percentage of .323.

The Giants' first baseman enjoys the distinction of being the only player who ever hit three home runs in each of two different games. He first did this feat on September 17, 1923, and duplicated it in a contest during the 1924 pennant race. Only thirteen players in addition to Kelly have ever made three home runs in one game. Eleven of these were National League players, one an American League player and one an American Association player.

The feat was first performed by Edward Williamson of the Chicago National League Club in 1884. Later in that season two other players did the stunt. It was done again in 1886, 1888, 1894 and 1897. From the time that J. C. Beckley of the Cincinnati National League Club performed the trick in 1897, no player in either major league hit three homers in one game until April 22, 1922, when Ken Williams hit for the circuit three times in one contest. The feat was also done by Butch Henline of the Philadelphia National League club in 1922 and by Cy Williams of the Phillies, as well as by Kelly in 1923. Kelly was the only player to perform the trick during the 1924 campaign.

The record for home runs by one player in a single game is four. This mark was set by R. L. Lowe of the Boston National League club in 1894. It was equalled two years later by Ed Delehanty of the Philadelphia National League club. This record has never been tied since that time.

HAGEN SHOWS HARRIS HOW

Champion Golfer Gives a Lesson in Driving to Baseball's Youthful Champ Manager.

LEFT TO RIGHT—WALTER HAGEN, STANLEY HARRIS, CLARKE GRIFFITH.

Manager Bucky Harris and Owner Clarke Griffith of the Washington club are addicts of the golf game. During the regular season neither favors golf for the players.

In order to satisfy their craving for the game and be able to put the ban on it when the season starts, both started for the National's training camp at Tampa, Fla., well in advance of reporting time.

When the players arrive on the scene they will have had their fill and be able to knock off. Here we have the great Walter Hagen, British open golf champion, who is a "dyed-in-the-wool" baseball fan, telling Harris and Griffith how to get distance to their drives.

CLEVER CHILD ARTISTS.

Audience at Royal Applaud With Much Enthusiasm.

An added attraction to the picture programme at the Royal Theatre for this week-end is the double act by the Ferris Sisters, two extremely clever child artists. The audience at the Royal last night applauded with much enthusiasm the work of these small girls.

The older of the duo, a girl of twelve years of age, has a number of good songs and dances, and her five-year-old sister was greeted with much applause, in a song and dance act, that includes some exceptionally feats of contortion and acrobatic stunts. The cleverness and youth of the little performer made a big hit with her audience.

ARGUMENT RESUMED.

Intention of Parliament is Under Examination.

OTTAWA, February 6. — Canadian Press. — The intention of parliament in creating a board of railway commissioners in 1903, was under examination in the Supreme Court this morning, in the case of the appeal of the praitie provinces against the board's setting aside of the Crow's Nest Pass act.

Eugene Lafleur, K.C., counsel for the respondents, the Canadian Railway Association, resumed argument, contending that the act of 1903, was designed to place the collection of all freight tolls in the hands of a railway board. He contended that this intention though radical, was carried into effect in the construction of the railway act. He was most reluctant to ascribe to parliament the purpose of creating the confusion that had resulted from interpretation of the Crow's Nest Act as a special act and not subject to the railway board.

CHAMBER COMMERCE REGULAR MEETING

Endeavour to Secure Better Protection for Citizens Against Transient Trader.

The capitalizing by Canadian merchants of the United States Customs regulations which permits returning American tourists to enter the States with Canadian goods to a value not exceeding one hundred dollars ($100) free of duty, was discussed Thursday night at the regular meeting of the Executive Council of the Chamber of Commerce, the subject being brought up by Mr. Jos. J. Duffus. Confirmation of this regulation will be secured before any action is taken.

Vancouver and Montreal merchants are making a bid for this business from the tourist, particularly drawing the attention of the visitor to goods which can be purchased cheaper in Canada than the United States.

Canadian Exhibits.

The value of Canadian exhibits as a good form of advertising in the United States was stressed in a report made by the Secretary of the Trent Waterway Exhibit at New York, and recommendations are being forwarded to the Dominion and Provincial Governments to increase this form of exhibits to attract American tourists and capital to Canada.

Transient Traders Act.

To more adequately protect the permanent merchants of the city and the people generally from the itinerant transient trader and peddler, the secretary will represent the Chamber on a deputation before the Statute Revision Committee of the Ontario Legislature in Toronto on Saturday, requesting amendments to the present acts.

Power Situation.

In support of a resolution adopted by the Ontario Municipal Electric Association, the Executive Council is forwarding to the Dominion Government the following resolution:

Whereas, upon investigation of the power situation in the Central Ontario power system we find that at the normal rate of increase in consumption, all available supply, including that derived from future developments on this system, will be taxed to the limit by the year 1927, which would then preclude any further economical development of industry in this district, and

Whereas, a proposal has been submitted to the Dominion Government for the approval of plans for the development of electrical energy at or near Morrisburg on the St. Lawrence River, by the Province of Ontario, which when approved will take a few years to complete before delivery of power is made possible.

Therefore resolved, that we, the Chamber of Commerce of the City of Peterboro, would respectfully urge the Dominion Government to approve of the above mentioned plans at as early a date as possible, believing such action to be not only to the best interests of Ontario but to the Dominion as a whole.

Cost of Provincial Highways.

Support to a resolution adopted by the Galt Chamber of Commerce was requested, urging the Provincial Government to relieve urban municipalities, separated from the counties in the province, from payment of any portion of the cost of Provincial Highways, and was referred to the following committee for investigation and report:

Chairman, G. A. Gillespie; Mayor J. J. Turner, W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P.; J. J. Duffus, R. H. Parsons, City Engineer.

Expert Tariff Board.

Following a resolution forwarded by the Peterborough Chamber last year to the Dominion Government referring to establishment of a permanent expert tariff board, the executive council were pleased to note that the Hon. G. P. Graham, acting prime minister, had given assurance that a renewal of efforts would be made to establish this board to advise the Federal Government on fiscal matters, and to assess the value of representations made on tariff matters.

Miss Ruth Clemens of Kitchener, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. Clifton Carruthers, 205 Brock street.

Miss Lauretta Marchen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Marchen, 108 Stewart Street, was tendered a miscellaneous shower at her home last evening by about thirty of her girl friends. Miss Marchen, whose marriage takes place to-morrow, received many useful and beautiful gifts, including a handsome cabinet of flat silver from The Examiner staff. The evening was pleasantly spent in the enjoyment of games and music and dainty refreshments.

Madame Goulet and her son, Sifroy, have returned home after a trip to Florida, where they visited Miami, Tampa and St. Petersburg.

A very jolly surprise party took place at the residence of Mrs. Z. Burnham, in Otonabee, last evening, the occasion being Mrs. Burnham's eighty-first birthday. Twenty-five of her friends drove out in two big sleighs and spent a pleasant evening, dancing the Sir Roger de Coverley, singing Auld Lang Syne, and partaking of a dainty supper. Mrs. Burnham, who received many pretty gifts and quantities of beautiful flowers, looked extremely handsome in a black silk gown and cream Spanish lace shawl. The party was arranged by Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Amys, Mr. E. A. Peck and Mr. R. Fair.

Miss Mildred Drope, who is at present in Toronto, is leaving shortly to take a positon in Port Arthur, where she has received an appointment from the Red Cross Society, to act as their nurse in the Rainy River District.

R. E. Preston of Midland is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Hoffman, Hunter Street West.

Mrs. Duncan Walker, Miss Emma Morrow and Miss Luella Jobbitt are in Ottawa, where they attended yesterday the official ceremonies connected with the opening of Parliament, and also attended the Governor-General's drawing room and the Speaker's reception. The fourth session of Canada's Fourteenth Parliament opened in a scene of brilliance and beauty. Her Excellency, Lady Byng, who was escorted into the Senate Chamber by Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, "was stately in an exquisitely modelled gown of wine-colored Nottingham lace, with a long train, the folds held with an ivory and diamond ornament. She wore a diamond maple leaf tiara and diamond necklace, and the Orders of the Royal Red Cross and of Elizabeth of Belgium. The gowns of the other ladies were equally beautiful.

OBITUARY.

EDWARD WELSH

The death occurred at midnight in St. Joseph's Hospital, of Edward Welsh, a life-long resident of Douro, in his 74th year. Funeral announcements later.

HARRY KELLY.

The death of Harry Kelly took place at Nicholls Hospital yesterday after a long and painful illness. The deceased was a veteran of the Great War, having enlisted with the 59th Battalion C.E.F. He is survived by a sorrowing wife and eight children, all of whom reside in the city.

The funeral will take place under the auspices of the local branch of the G.W.V.A. Service will be held at All Saints' Church at 3 p.m. on Saturday. The service will be conducted by the Rev. D. J. Paterson.

All ex-service men who can possibly attend are requested to attend the service at All Saints' Church at 3 p.m.

JOSEPH CHARLES BARNARD.

The death occurred last evening, at his late residence, 549 Bethune Street, of one of the oldest residents of the city, Joseph Charles Barnard, in his 93rd year. Mr. Barnard, who succumbed after a short illness of about a week's duration, was born in South Monaghan in 1832, and lived practically all his life in that township and in Peterboro city, where he has resided for the past twenty-six years, since his retirement from active farming life.

On January 5th of last year, Mr. Barnard, with his wife, since deceased, celebrated the 64th anniversary of their wedding, which took place on January 5th, 1860, in the village of Keene. Both were natives of South Monaghan Township, where Mr. Barnard was one of the pioneer settlers, and where he made the lime and bricks for the house to which he took his bride. Both were lifelong members of the Baptist denomination, and faithful attendants at Murray Street Church.

Of a family of five children, four survive: Two sons, Howard C. and Ernest J. of South Monaghan, and two daughters, Mrs. Porter S. White and Miss M. Josephine, both of this city. A third daughter died three years ago. The late Mr. Barnard's wife pre-deceased him seven months ago, at the age of 83 years. There is also one sister, Mrs. George Nurse, in Toronto.

The funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon, with services at the house at half-past 2 o'clock, conducted by Rev. C. W. Rose, and interment in the Little Lake Cemetery.

NEWFOUNDLAND MINERS OBJECT TO PUNCHING TIME CLOCK AND DEMAND 8 HOUR DAY ALTERNATIVE

Island Government Threatens Split With British Empire Steel Corporation Over Miners' Complaint—"Do Without the Industry If Better Can't Be Done."

COMPANY GIVES MEN UNTIL MONDAY.

Will Be Paid Off If They Don't Return to Work—New System Establishes Ten Hour Day Regardless of Work Done.

ST. JOHN'S Nfld., Feb. 7.—(Canadian Press).—A strike of all the Bell Island Mines of the British Empire Steel Corporation here and a threatened split between the Newfoundland government and the corporation resulted Friday from the action of the latter in introducing the time clock system in the mines. The men refuse to go to work unless the old system is restored or an alternative of an eight hour day with the clock system. The corporation declared that the new system of clock punching was introduced in the interests of safety and time saving and have advised the men's representatives, it was announced last night, that unless the men return to work by February 9, they will all be paid off.

Breach of Agreement

The situation of the men has been laid before the minister of justice with the result that the Prime Minister has sent the following message to Roy Wolvin, president of the British Empire Steel Corporation:—

"You gave us to understand the men's condition certainly would be no worse than before. Putting these new regulations into force without even consulting us or the men appears to be a breach of agreement and is the last straw. With the already dissatisfied miners it seems to us just as well do without this industry if better cannot be done. Unless conditions are made satisfactory to the miners the government does not feel bound to confirm agreement."

Full Time Required

When the regulation was first put in force the government asked the corporation officials for particulars, and were advised that the new system requires the men to work full time, whereas under the previous arrangement loaders returned to the surface after loading twenty cars per pair ,and drillers were considered to have done a day's work after drilling 72 to 120 feet.

Under the new system the men would work ten hours daily regard less of the amount of work accomplished.

President's Comment

MONTREAL, Feb. 7.—"There is nothing to it; no unusual regulations have been introduced for anyone to be concerned about," was the only comment which R. M. Wolvin, President of the British Empire Steel Corporation, had to make last night, when questioned concerning the refusal of the iron miners of Bell Island, Nfld., to work under a time clock system introduced by the corporation, and concerning a protest to Mr. Wolvin from the Premier Munroe of Newfoundland.

'WHITE ELK' CUT DASH IN EUROPE

Fake Indian Chief, Remembered in Lindsay, Ends in Swiss Prison.

ONE LOAN $40,000.

LINDSAY, Feb. 7.—"White Elk," the Indian chief, who made Lindsay his camping ground in September 1923, and who played on the susceptibilities of many pale faces much to their sorrow, is again in the limelight after a somewhat thrilling career in Europe, where he was dined, feted and lionized in Britain and on the continent. A copy of the London (England) Graphic to hand contains the following item which will make interesting history:—

"After being feted and received with great ceremony in all the big cities and many of the small towns in Italy, a mysterious individual who styled himself a Redskin Chief," head of the White Elk tribe, has been bundled into prison at Bellin gona, Switzerland.

"He landed in Italy in the fantastic dress of an Indian chief, and for five months the newspapers vied with each other in putting him on the highest pedestal.

"He threw bank notes to boys in the streets, and mayors and corporations with bands turned out to meet him where ever he went. Italy was fascinated, more especially because he announced that he was a great admirer of Mussolini, and wanted to become a Fascist. He applied for an audience with the Pope, but instead received a portrait.

"But, with the stage filled with all the glitter and pomp ,behind the scenes he favored an old Austrian family with his acquaintance, and extracted a loan of £8,000.

"The money eventually gave out, and he was next heard of in Switzerland, where a Neuchstel hotelkeeper discovered that he could not pay his bills.

"He is now in prison as Edgar Le Planti, of Connecticut, who landed in Europe from the United States on cinema business. He is to be expelled from the country."

BUSINESS WOULD BIND THE EMPIRE

Australia's Treasurer Advocates Trade Relations in Winnipeg Speech.

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Describing the British Empire as the greatest force toward the realization of world's peace, Hon. Dr. Earle Page, treasurer of the Australian Commonwealth, declared before the Canadian Club here Friday that before this status of the Empire could be actually accomplished, all the members of it must be more closely knit together.

He believed that more cordial trade relations between Canada and Australia would be of mutual benefit. "We are united by sentiment, blood relationship and tradition. We could be even closer allied by our trade interests," he said.

In Australia, there prevailed a wonderful faith in the Empire, Dr. Page asserted, but it was through inter-Dominion trade that the Empire would be raised to a self-contained power with such unity, it would become the greatest force for world peace ever known.

GOVERNMENT TO FIGHT COMBINE IN OCEAN RATES

Subsidy of Million Dollars Year Said to be Ottawa Proposal.

TEN NEW SHIPS.

To Be Put in Atlantic Service by the Peterson Interests.

OTTAWA, Feb. 7.—The subsidy which the Dominion Government proposes to pay to the shipping interests headed by Sir William Petersen, which are to put a fleet of ten new ships in the Atlantic trade to and from Canada, is somewhat in excess of a million dollars annually, it as learned Friday.

What in effect is being done is to buy a reduction ot Atlantic rates, the Government to control them in consideration of the subsidy. The avowed purpose is to "smash the North Atlantic combine" so far as its rates affect the Dominion.

The prospective legislation which calls for an empowering Act is much discussed today. Conservatives are critical and draw a comparison between the attemped control of lake rates and what is now proposed. The former methods failed to work and had to be modified, but in that instance no subsidized boats were used. The proposed control related to shipping already engaged in the service owned by American or Canadian interests.

In the present proposal, a competitive line will be introduced. Western members expressed themselves as favorable to the principle of competition and rate control, assuming that it will lead to a reduction of rates for which the call in their country has been clamorous, but they will want full details.

Ordinarily, very vigorous opposition might be expected from concerns as powerful as those in the North Atlantic Shipping Conference and may be forthcoming in this case, but there is some milk in the cocoanut which may modify the resistance. A subsidy is likewise to be available to other shipping concerns if, as a condition, they submit to control of rates by the Government.

The ocean rates taken in conjunction with railway rates promise to make transportation costs the most formidable feature of the session. Regarding the former the question will be pressed by the Conservatives as to the effect the new competition would have on the state-owned merchant marine and to what extent its deficit may be increased. As respects the rates on land, there will be nothing until the Supreme Court decides the Crow's Nest case in which argument was concluded yesterday.

Comments from the Bench cause the legal fraternity to surmise that the Act may be upheld but with a restricted application upholding the discriminatory factors causing the whole trouble.

Combine May Act.

LONDON, Feb. 7 — (Canadian Press Cable).—Shipping circles here are not disposed to offer an open comment on the proposal of the Canadian government to subsidize the Peterson line, although some such move was anticipated several months back. There is every reason to believe, however, that the action of the Canadian government will result in the Atlantic combine using all its influence and power to institute counteracting measures.

The question of governmental supervision or control of ocean freight rates may come early into the arena of Imperial politics. One prominent person, who attended all the Geneva conferences on shipping and Labor and who also paid a visit to Canada is reported to have declared that this question will arouse an issue of the greatest political importance in the near future.

Scientists Keeping Alive Rancors of World War

GOETTINGEN, Feb. 7. — (Associated Press). — German scientists are still being ignored in connection with international congresses, though the world war is over, according to a compilation of facts presented by the German Universities Association.

During 1923 and 1924, the report points out, 91 international scientific and technical congresses took place. In the case of 58 of them no Germans were invited; in the case of the remaining 33 certain allied countries, notably France and Belgium, either refrained entirely from sending delegates as soon as it became known that Germans also were to participate, or else sent unrepresentative delegations.

SYDNEY MINERS PROPOSE TERMS OF EMPLOYMENT

Continue Work at Rates of January 15 if Full EnquiryMade.

SOUP KITCHENS.

Offer to Conciliation Board Considering British Empire Steel Workers' Conditions.

SYDNEY, N.S., Feb. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Following the final adjournment here at noon Friday of the special convention of District 26, United Mine Workers, called for the consideration of the wage difficulty with British Empire Steel Corporation, the following communication bearing on the proposition advanced to the company by the miners at Thursday's session was handed to Dr. J. W. Robertson, member of the Minfield conciliation board by President McLeod, on behalf of the District Executive:—

"Sir,—You realize that a very serious situation exists here. Probably it profits for us to call attention to the fact that we have been shouting for years that the British Empire Steel Corporation was ruining not only us but the entire community here. We merely refer to it to link the present with the past. At the present you may see for yourself soup kitchens, bread lines, people feeding from the refuse dumps, suffering and starvation. The situation is naked. Look at it. These are our people brought to this conditon by British Empire Steel Corporation. Your board appears anxious to bring about an improvement. We had nothing to do with the constitution of your board and we have been skeptical of any good it might do as it has been customary to whitewash British Empire Steel Corporation and dam us.

Ask for Enquiry

"However, if your board is sincere we will do our part. We will temporarily continue the present status pending proper remedial measures as follows:

"Continue work at the rates paid January 15, 1925, for a period not exceeding four (4) months from January 16, 1925, upon the following conditions:

"First— within the period of four (4) months from January 16, 1925, a full, fair and impartial investigation will be made into the organization, administration and financing of the corporation, in all their branches, including its costs of production, transportation, and distribution, and appropriate action taken upon the result of that investigation.

Four Days a Week

"Second—All our members during the above period of four (4) months be given employment of not less than four (4) days a week, or wages in lieu of employment at the places they customarily offer themselves for work.

"We do not think we should be asked to accept the corporation's unsupported guarantee of fulfillment of this proposal for it has not been a custom with it in the past faithfully to observe the undertakings which it gives its employees.

"You are aware that we feel that the rates of wages of our members should be revised upwards, and in some instances substantially so. Yet we make this proposal to do our part to meet the present emergency."

DIED ON TRAIN.

John Murphy Was on Way to Consult Doctor—Expired in Coach

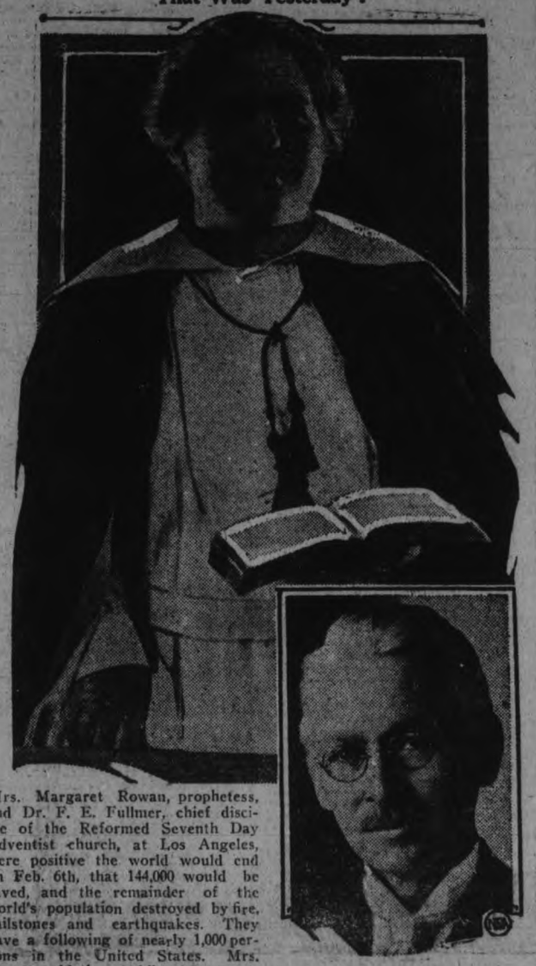
KINGSTON, Feb. 7—(Special).—Death came very suddenly Thursday to John Murphy, a prominent resident of Erinsville. He had been in ill-health and died while on a C.N.R. train on his way to Kingston to consult a doctor. He took suddenly ill and died in his seat. He was unmarried. He has two sisters in Watertown, N.Y., and one brother in Montana. The remains were forwarded to Erinsville for interment.

THE WEATHER

The present mild spell is about the first we have experienced in an otherwise severe winter, and is universal over the continent, even in the farthest north. The temperature has gone a little above the freezing point, but hardly sufficiently to constitute a "thaw." On Sunday evening we are to have another eclipse, this time of the moon. The moon will rise between five and six o'clock partly eclipsed, and if the evening should be clear will be well worth watching. The sun will be in the west, the moon in the east, with the earth between, the shadow of the earth appearing on the face of the moon.—W. P.

VAIN PROPHETS OF EARTH'S DOOM.

Friday, February 6 the World and All But 144,000 Was to Have Been Destroyed, They Proclaimed— That Was Yesterday!



Mrs. Margaret Rowan, prophetess, and Dr. F. E. Fullmer, chief disciple of the Reformed Seventh Day Adventist church, at Los Angeles, were positive the world would end on Feb. 6th, that 144,000 would be saved, and the remainder of the world's population destroyed by fire, hailstones and earthquakes. They have a following of nearly 1,000 persons in the United States. Mrs. Rowan said the world's end was revealed to her in a vision.

QUEBEC PUBLIC BUILDINGS NEED FIRE APPARATUS

Many of Them Are Fire Traps, Fire Prevention Officers Report.

VIGILANCE HELPS.

Sprinkler Systems Recommended—Such Protection Should Be Made Compulsory.

QUEBEC, Feb. 7. — (Canadian Press). — "The Buildings are fire traps and if they ever get a real start they will be a holocaust. Noth ing but the constant watchfulness of a very loyal staff who appreciate their responsibilities saves the face of the situation."

This indictment is contained in a letter from Fire Chief Donnelly, of the Quebec Fire Department, in his report on visits made by him and fire prevention officers to hospitals, asylums, orphanages, convents, homes for the aged and infirm refugees, and reformatories, throughout the province.

There were 853 institutions visited, housing some 6,200 people.

The letter continues: "After careful investigation, the conclusion was reached that in the event of a serious fire in any one of these establishments numberless lives would be sacrificed.

These institutions, the chief says, are all potential furnaces and fire would spread with appalling rapidity. In one five-storey buiding 100 boys and 160 inmates sleep on the upper floor from which there is no means of escape other than an open stairway that runs from the basement.

"It is criminal folly to pretend that safety in such places can be bought with a few ten dollar fire extinguishers or a hundred dollar fire escape," the reports adds, concluding "I would recommend automatic sprinklers for protection, which are the only means of positive ly safeguarding the inmates of our institutions, and that that this form of protection should be made compulsory is an unquestioned fact."

UNION BUREAU NEW STATEMENT

Denies Correctness of Presbyterian Church Association Statement —New Facts.

NOT A PLEBISCITE.

(Special to The Examiner).

TORONTO, Feb. 7.—In reference to a statement issued to the press by the Presbyterian Church Association regarding the votes cast by certain congregations in Ontario for and against entering the United Church of Canada, the bureau of the joint committee of Church Union issues the following reply:

1. Dr. Pidgeon, the convenor of the Church Union committee made no such statement as the association credits him with.

2. The statement referred to was issued from this bureau and was accurate on the date on which it was made.

3. The figures of voting as at February 4th, given by the association can be proved from official documents to be inaccurate.

4. Your readers are reminded again that the church is not taking a plebiscite on Union.

5. The Presbyterian Church in Canada is going into Union, losing such congregations as voted non-concurrence.

6. The figures given by the association can have interest only for those who are setting up a new Presbyterian Church, whose strength in Ontario, according to the association, is at February 4th less than 60,000. The total membership of the Presbyterian Church in this province is 203,707.

SEEK OIL CONCESSIONS

SOFIA, Feb. 7.—Many foreigners have applied for the right to prospect for petroleum in various parts of Bulgaria. The committee on commerce of Parliament considered a mass of these applications the other day. The indications are that foreigners will receive concessions for digging oil wells, provided the rights of the state in natural resources are well guarded.

CARRY LAW NORTH.

Civilization Will Visit Primitive Inhabitants of Canada's North.

QUEBEC, Feb. 7 — (Canadian Press).—The carrying of Canadian law and civilization to the primitive inhabitants of the far north is believed to be projected by a visit of Captain Bernier, the well-known arctic navigator, to Ottawa, where it is understood he has been called by Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, and Hon. Ernest Lapoint, Minister of Justice. It is believed that the government have in mind the sending of missionary treachers into the northern islands to establish schools.

SOME UNION LEADERS.

Paris and Huron Presbyteries Pronounce Favorably on Church Union.

Toronto, Feb. 7.—The Presbytery of Paris, out of a total membership of 8,017, has recorded only 1,518 votes against entering the United Church of Canada, says a statement from the Union Committee. Nine congregations have not yet reported, but in all of these the Union sentiment is strong, some hoping to enter the United Church without taking a vote.

In the Presbytery of Huron the determination on the part of congregations to enter the United Church, is eve nmore pronounced. Out of a total membership of 4,741, only 920 have voted not to go with the Presbyterian Church into Union. Three charges and one mission field are yet to declare themselves, but it is confidently expected that all these will favor the United Church.

These two Presbyteries gave a total of $43,694 toward the Missionary and Benevolent work of the Church, while the amount contributed by those intending to remain outside of the Union movement is $5,982.

CROW'S NEST RATES APPEAL CONCLUDED

Argument Concluded Late Friday in Supreme Court.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 7 (Canadian Press).—The Crow's Nest Pass appeal is now in the hands of the Supreme Court of Canada. When the court rose last evening, after a sitting protracted beyond the usual hour of rising in order to complete argument, one of the most important rate appeals in recent years had been made.

The afternoon was occupied by W. N. Tilley, K.C., counsel for the Canadian Pacific Railway, who concluded his argument in opposition to the appeal; Alistair Fraser, counsel for the Canadian National Railways, and H. J. Symington, K.C., counsel for the Prairie Provinces, in rebuttal.

Mr. Tilley emphasized the point that the Crow's Nest Pass agreement was merely a contract between the Government and the C.P.R., and that it lacked statutory force. While the rates specified in it were not binding on the railway, they did not bind the Government, nor did they bind the Railway Commission when it came into existence in 1903.

Mr. Fraser argued that the railways were entitled to just and reasonable rates, and that the rates provided in the Crow's Nest Pass agreement were unjust and unreasonable.

Mr. Symington repeated his contention that Crow's Nest rates were statutory rates which could be increased only by Act of Parliament. The Railway Commission had no jurisdiction over these rates.

No indication as to the date when judgment will be handed out was given.

NO RECEIPT STAMP; FINE FORTY DOLLARS

Failure to Comply With Demand for 2-Cent Stamp Cost a Lot.

FORT WILLIAM, Feb. 7.—Failure to attach a two-cent stamp to business receipts issued cost a local merchant a $40 fine in the Fort William Police Court. Customs and Excise officials were the complainants and evidence showed that several receipts had been issued for sums of money in excess of $10, without the necessary stamp, making the merchant liable to a maximum fine of $100 in each instance. Had the Customs Department desired to press matters and prosecute the merchant in each case, a fine of several hundred dollars would have been assessed, said the court. As it was a charge was laid on only one infraction of the Act and because it was the first case of its kind to come before the court in this district the maximum fine was not imposed.

FEEBLE OLD MAN BADLY FROZEN ALONE IN HOME

May Not Recover in Lindsay Hospital From Frost.

LINDSAY, Feb. 7.—As a result of the extreme frost of a few days ago and the inability to help himself, Benjamin Cowie, who lives near Bolsover, Victoria County, is in the hospital awaiting the result of attention as to whether he will lose both feet and an arm as the result of frost bites.

Cowie is a man well on to the eighty mark, and lived alone in a poorly appointed house. For some days he had not been seen, and the neighbors finally decided to investigate. On entering the house the old man was found huddled beside the stove in which no fire had been for a long time, he beingtoo feeble to help himself. He was found to be badly frozen. Owing to his advanced age and the fact that his limbs were badly frozen, little hope is held out for his recovery.

SOME IMPROVEMENT.

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 7.—(Canadian Press). — The weekly trade report of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association, Limited, states:

St. John: Both wholesale and retail trade reported fair. Collections fair. Weather seasonable.

Montreal: Fair conditions are reported in wholesale and retail trade. Collections slow. Improvement is noted in buying of dry goods, hardware, boots and shoes.

Toronto: Wholesale trade — Dry goods are holding up quite well in some lines, particularly grocery, conditions are somewhat unsettled. Retail trade—Business is fairly good in the larger stores, sales are predominant, but are being taken up fairly well by the customer. In some cases things are a little quiet, but are offset by one or two other lines, such as rubber, where activity is good.

Winnipeg: Wholesale trade conditions fairly satisfactory. February sales are being put on to dispose of surplus stocks, which are stimulating retail trade conditions. Collections fair to slow.

Regina: Steady improvement is shown in some lines, but retail trade is quiet generally. Collections slow.

Calgary: Business in both wholesale and retail lines continues to show an improvement over the same period last year. Collection fair to good.

Edmonton: Wholesale and retail trade quiet; collection well maintained.

GIVES JAIL BIRDS ANOTHER CHANCE

Capetown, S.A., Minister of Justice Released 800 Prisoners To-day.

CAPETOWN, Union of South Africa, February 7. Canadian Press.—A novel social reform, surprising the whole country, is provided by the plan of the Minister of Justice, to give minor prisoners 'another chance.'

The Minister has issued an order for the liberation from all jails of prisoners sentenced prior to Jan. 1, 1925, to periods not exceeding three months, and to prisoners serving sentences for contravention of the liquor laws, whose terms have not more than six months to run.

Approximately 800 prisoners were affected.

Some Re-Arrested.

A release order was sent direct to the prison superintendents, the police not being notified, and many of the released men were re-arrested on the supposition that they had escaped.

Never try to argue with a man who just likes to argue unless you are big enough to hit him in the nose.

TRACTOR ATTRACTS MANY SIGHTSEERS

Caterpillar for Hauling Lumber Proves Nine Days' Wonder.

MARMORA, Feb. 7. — The arrival of the caterpillar tractor which has been leased by Messrs. Thomas Potts and William McCoy from a Toronto firm, has proved a nine-days' wonder in Marmora. Not only are the people of Marmora displaying considerable interest in the matter but the curiosity of neighboring townsfolk has also been around.

The tractor has been obtained for the purpose of hauling the logs cut around their lumber camp established ten miles north, to the yards of the Pearce Company.

On Thursday it made its trial trip and by the beginning of next week it is expected to be working to full capacity, when it is estimated that it will make two trips a day, drawing 10,000 feet of logs each time.

Farmers in the northern part of Marmora Township are pleased to know that the roads will be better for their purposes inasmuch as they will be kept open at a much earlier date than other years.

Mr. W. R. Reynolds made a trip to Belleville on Thursday.

Marmora played Deloro at hockey on the home rink on Thursday evening, winning by 3-0.

HAS PLAN TO STARVE MOSQUITOES TO DEATH

Method Now in Successful Operation in New Jersey.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Feb. 7.—(Canadian Press).—The discovery of a successful method to exterminate mosquitos by starving them to death was announced here yesterday by Dr. William Rudolfo Bio, chemist, before the twelfth annual convention of the New Jersey Mosquito Extermination Association in the Hotel Traymore.

Dr. Rudolfo, who is stationed at the State Agricultural Experiment Station, said that the new method is now in very successful operation in New Jersey.

"When in the wriggler or larvae state," said Dr. Rudolfo, "the mosquito possesses jaws and feeds on bacteria and other minute forms of vegetable and animal life. By putting chemicals in old ponds and creeks this food maker is destroyed, thus robbing young mosquitos of their food. The quantity of chemical required is so small that it will not injure fish or plant life."

Ideas are like people. They need rest. If you work one overtime it becomes nervous and troublesome.

BANKS CHARGE MAN.

Say He Raised $400 by Forgery—Also Stole Money From Mail.

TORONTO, Feb. 7.—(Canadian Press). — Herbert G. Rogers, alias McNally, was arrested yesterday at noon on two charges of forgery and one charge of theft. The Dominion Bank and the Canadian Bank of Commerce are the complainants. The theft charge arises out of the stealing of letters containing cheques from a mail bag, while the forgery charges arise from the endorsing of cheques and their presentation to the banks named. Rogers is alleged to have received upwards of $400 in this way from the banks.

Early Spring Promised By Ducks Flying North

OWEN SOUND, Feb. 7. — (Canadian Press). — There are many indications in this neck of the woods of an early spring. Yesterday afternoon the first flock of wild geese of the season was seen flying northward, followed shortly afterward by a larger flock of wild ducks. This is several weeks earlier than usual, and old residents state that they have never seen them head north quite this early. A resident was walking down First Avenue to-day, when he ran into several green frogs, hopping along over the snow and apparently enjoying themselves. These pond inhabitants are abroad early, and they are said to be a sure harbinger of spring.

AMATEUR GAMBLERS WEPT OVER LOSSES

Winnipeg Grain Exchange Was Scene of Hysterical Excitement During Fall.

WINNIPEG, February 7. — Canadian Press. — "Sold!" This was the ominous message that went to thousands all over western Canada, into the States, and in Ontario.

It was the final crash in the big adventure of making a fortune on a shoe string in wheat speculation.

Thus was the great public largely shaken out of the trade.

So huge was the volume of messages incident to the furious fluctuations that the wire capacity was over whelmed.

Thousands will not know for 24 hours that they have lost their investments and the paper profits they had piled up in their plunging speculations.

Two hundred wildly excited amateur gamblers, many of them women crowded the visitors' gallery on the grain exchange and watched the big clock blink out the decline of 12 cts. that ended their hopes of a fortune.

Some cried aloud and others shed their tears silently, but they all remained until the gong silenced the shouting mass of traders in the pit beneath.

Round Table Parley On Problems Facing Jews

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(United Press).—A round-table conference, in which the most eminent Jewish leaders in England, France, Germany and other countries will participate, to discuss the reconstruction and educational problems presented by the impoverished condition of the Jewish masses in many countries of eastern Europe, has been called the Ort Reconstruction Fund of America, on the occasion of a dinner to be given by that organization at the Hotel Biltmore on Sunday night, February 8.

Governor Alfred E. Smith, as well as Owen D. Young, co-author of the Dawes Plan, will be guests at dinner, to which leading members of Congress and distinguished members of the Protestant and Catholic churches also have been invited.

The European conferences, it is expected, who will join the discussion in New York by radio and by cable, will include most of the well known Jewish leaders abroad who have played a large part in the organization of the Ort campaigns now in progress in England, France, Germany, Belgium, Holland, as well as in the United States. Professor Albert Einstein, author of the relativity; theory Baron Henri de Rothschild, of Paris; Israel Zangwill, British novelist, as well as the Chief Rabbis of England, France, and other countries, will probably join in the across-the-ocean discussion.

CROSS CANADA RECORD.

C. P. R. Train Travels From Montreal to Vancouver in 84 Hours.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Feb. 7. — (Special).—Eighty-four hours and ten minutes from Montreal to Vancouver was the record hung up yesterday by a special Canadian Pacific train which reached here at 10.35, carrying passengers and 500 bags of European mail for the Canadian Pacific S.S. Empress of Asia, which sailed at 2 o'clock for Oriental ports. Both passengers and mail reached St. John on the Mont Laurier on February 1st, having left Liverpool on January 24th, and provided the Empress of Asia docks at Yokohama on schedule, February 18th, they will have made the remarkable fast time of 25 days from England to the Orient.

The Empress of Asia carried 300 passengers and a 3,000-ton cargo, including a large shipment of automobiles for Manila.

WORRIES IN THE HOME.

It is These That Cause Many a Breakdown in Health.

Almost every woman at the head of a home meets daily with little worries in her household affairs. They may be too small to notice an hour afterwards, but it is the same little worries that break down the health of so many women. Their effect may be noticed in nervous headaches, fickle appetite, indigestion, pains in the side or back, and a sallow complexion. To those afflicted in this way Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, by improving and purifying the blood, bring speedy relief. Among thousands of weak women who have tested and proved the merits of this medicine is Mrs. Gustave Hutt, Bruxelles, Man., who says:—"It is with profound thanks that I write to tell you what Dr Williams' Pink Pills have done for me. Before I began taking these pills I was weak, and my blood thin and watery. I was so thin that I looked like a skeleton. I was troubled with headaches and indigestion, did not sleep well, and was terribly constipated. I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I soon found that they were just what I needed. Under their use my appetite returned, my food digested properly and I slept better at night, and gained in flesh as well as strength. The result is that now I am a perfectly healthy woman, and there is no doubt that it is due to the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a supply of which I now always keep in the house, and I would advise other women to do the same."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

JAPAN DRIVES GOOD BARGAIN

Wonder is Raised Whether There Are Secret Concessions With Soviet.

DETAILS LEAK OUT.

PARIS, Feb. 7. — (Canadian Press).—Some details of the Russo-Japanese treaty have become known, showing that Japan drove a good bargain with the Soviet Government. On the surface, it is apparent that the Japanese have gained so much more than the Soviet Government, that doubt has been aroused again as to whether Japan has not made some concessions which are not disclosed.

The wealth of Northern Sakhalin becomes Japanese, though they are obliged, according to the treaty, to evacuate this half of the island on May 15th. Fisheries and timber and mineral concessions are large, relieving Japan of the necessity to go elsewhere for oil, timber and minerals.

More than that of any other member of the family, baby's tender, delicate skin needs the greatest care and attention. The soft soothing oils in Baby's Own Soap make it specially suitable for babies, and its clinging fragrance reminds one of the roses of France which help to inspire it.

HORSE DIED.

Valuable Animal Lost by Charles Stephens of Campbellford.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 7.—Mr. Chas. Stephens, Booth street, who was driving his team on his way to Orland with a load of flour for the Peterboro Cereal Works, on Wednesday, was down as far as A. C. Connor and Sons office, when one of the horses took sick. He took it back to the doctor's but in spite of everything it died in a short time. It was a very valuable horse, being one of a matched team of dapple greys.

MAXWELL

Excels All Other Fours By Right of Excess Values

Stated in the simplest terms, the reason why the new good Maxwell deserves to outsell all other cars in its field is because it offers the greatest value on the market.

It took a great organization, great plants, great facilities and resources to create such values at Maxwell prices, but it also took the engineering genius of the Maxwell-Chrysler staff to develop in a four-cylinder car the qualities you find in the new good Maxwell.

No other four has ever been able to combine 58 miles an hour, an acceleration that sweeps the car from 5 to 25 miles in 8 seconds, a fuel economy that carries you an average of 30 miles with a gallon of gasoline.

No other four produces so much power with so little effort, with such a complete absence of vibration. No other four carries you so comfortably at all speeds and under all road conditions. No other four handles so easily.

These excess values that set the new good Maxwell apart from all other fours cover every phase of performance and ownership. Many of them a single ride reveals.

We are pleased to extend the convenience of time-payments. Ask about Maxwell's attractive plan.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1925.

THE SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

As usual, the Speech from the Throne is remarkable for the things it did not contain rather than for what it did say.

It is never a very clear-cut pronouncement, confining itself to a shadowy outline of some of the legislation the Government intends to bring before Parliament during the session.

In the message, which opened the present session, the most noteworthy feature is the announcement of the intention of the Government to pay particular attention to cheapening transportation both by land and sea, by the equalizing of railway freight rates as between Provinces and localities, in the first case, and by the submission of a measure to give the Government control of ocean freight rates, in the second.

A successful carrying out of this policy, making it possible for Canadian producers to get their products to the world's markets much more cheaply than they can do at present, would be a very material contribution toward general prosperity and toward a lower cost of living.

No tariff changes are hinted at in the Speech, and it is not believed that any material alteration is anticipated.

Such a course will not, of course, please the hard-shelled Progressives, who would like to be told of a downward tariff revision, but they will accept the policy as preferable to the upward revision that Mr. Meighen and his followers advocate.

"A LITTLE KNOWLEDGE," ETC.

Some of the United States newspapers that are endeavouring to build up a circulation in Ontario should be more careful in the preparation of their advertising.

A Buffalo Sunday paper that is staging a popularity contest among Ontario hockey teams as a circulation promotion scheme has its competition divided into different divisions, based on population.

Division No. 1, according to the posters, is for teams representing towns of 5,000 or fewer population.

And what towns do you think the paper has listed in this division?

Well, Peterborough is included, along with Niagara Falls and Stratford and several other Ontario cities.

Apparently the Buffalo man who arranged the competition has but a hazy idea of the Province of Ontario.

When you find Peterborough with 20,944 people, Niagara Falls with 14,764 and Stratford with 16,094 all classified as towns of under 5,000 population, the impression is created that our Buffalo friend should have a few lessons in geography, or else employ a good Canadian to look after his competition.

SMASHING THE RATES.

The Federal Government's scheme to control ocean freight rates in the interests of the Canadian people, the details of which are now being revealed, is an attempt by introducing the element of competition to smash the rates maintained by the shipping companies, which are parties to the North Atlantic Shipping Conference.

Briefly, the Government proposes to subsidize a fleet of ten ships owned by the interests headed by Sir William Peterson of London, the subsidies to be the basis of the ocean rate structure.

It is understood that the rates will be contingent upon the subsidy and reduced in proportion to the amount of such Government assistance.

All sorts of commodities, both imports and exports, are to be included under the scheme, and it is claimed that the rates on cattle, grain and other shipments, as well as on British merchandise coming this way, will be reduced by one-third of the schedule which now obtains on the North Atlantic.

The agreement with the Peterson company gives the Federal Government sole control of the rates, and of the determination of the ports to which the subsidized vessels will operate.

Not only that, but the Government has also the right to make a similar arrangement with existing companies if they are willing to reduce their rates.

For years there have been protests vehement, but vain against high ocean freight rates.

The scheme announced by the Government should have a very material effect in bringing about a speedy and material reduction.

IMMIGRATION.

Immigration is likely to be discussed at some length during the present session of Parliament, it being worthy of note that both the Speech from the Throne and Mr. Meighen's manifesto stressed the importance of this problem.

Statistics issued by the Department of Immigration covering the arrival of new citizens into Canada during the past year will therefore be of more than usual interest.

The total volume showed a falling off from the figure of 1923—the difference being about 13,000, which number, incidentally, approximately represents the number of British harvesters who were brought out in 1923 and were included in the figures of that year.

In spite of the fact that it was understood that the chief effort of immigration officers was devoted to inducing farmers and farm labourers to come to Canada, the total in this class, 50,935, was only 780 in advance of the preceeding year.

And of these 50,935, it is only too obvious that a large percentage has drifted into the cities of Canada.

Fourteen thousand and twenty-two immigrants were classified as labourers, a decrease of 1,914 from 1923, and yet a rather large figure in view of the industrial conditions in Canada.

The fact that 12,871 mechanics became citizens of Canada during the year, even though that number was 8,951 less than the preceeding year, would under normal conditions be a matter for satisfaction, but until there is a business and industrial arrival a further falling off in this class of immigrant will not be regretted.

When there is no question about absorbing industrial workers, Canada will be glad to welcome them with open arms, but just at present there must be a great deal of care exercised in the selection of new citizens.

CANADA, UNITED STATES AND THE AIR.

(The Vancouver Sun.)

If the civilization of this North American Continent is to be made secure, Canada and the United States must get together in some kind of a joint air program to protect their countries from any possible invasion or attack.

Airplanes have so changed the character of wars that today military aggression is not directed against a nation's war machines—the army and navy—but against the civilian population.

These war machines have never represented more than two or three per cent. of the population. From an economic or national standpoint their destruction has never been fatal.

But the airplane represents a new type of warfare capable of destroying not a few battleships or a few battalions, but the whole productive power and the civilization of the country itself.

Everybody knows that today Great Britain is at the mercy of France.

France could soar over the channel with 10,000 planes and destroy England in twenty-four hours so completely that generations would elapse before England could take her place in the world again.

War is hell. And the airplane has made it more hellish than ever.

London remembers even today what happened during the war when only a few German machines swung over the dividing waters like venomous grey ghosts in the night. London remembers seeing calm women transformed into frothing, gibbering idiots and children shocked into paralysis and a living death of fear.

If less than twenty machines could accomplish this, what could thousands do? In the space of a few hours a well equipped enemy could turn this whole Continent into a charnel house of mangled bodies and broken minds.

To prevent such a catastrophe is the common aim of Canada and United States. And it is time they got together to lay plans for it.

POLITICAL PROSPECTS.

Men high in the ranks of various political parties are making election predictions, or at least warning their followers to be prepared for "emergencies." A Federal appeal to the people is considered possible, if not probable; an Ontario contest is hinted and Liberals are already organizing for the campaign; and from Saskatchewan comes word that Premier Dunning will probably seek a new mandate this year.

One can only hope, of course, that the elections come singly. Issues are too strongly intertwined to be judged as they should be judged, if they be served up in bulk form. The spectacle of two Liberal administrations and one Conservative appealing to the electors in a single year, and all on different platforms, would be likely to confuse even the leaders themselves, not to mention the less interested spectators. Imagine, if you can, the situation in the Border Cities were Federal and Provincial campaigns in progress at one and the same, or approximately the same, time!

The formal opening of the Dominion Parliament today gives rise to the expected crop of rumors. There is the usual interest in the Speech from the Throne, but though it is supposed to be a formal expression of Government policy, it is often more remarkable for what it does not say than for what it says. There are definite indications, however, that Senate "reform" and railway rates will constitute leading topics of discussion during the long oratorical contest that gets under way in Ottawa this afternoon. Various suggestions for shearing the Upper House of some of its rights and privileges have been discussed from year to year, but up to now the Red Chamber has pursued the even tenor of its way. Some observers believe that a year hence will find it doing the very same thing. It appears, however, that the Government intends to brandish something that looks like a Senate reform sword. Then if the going becomes too heavy, Mr. King and his colleagues may seize the opportunity to throw themselves on the mercy of the electorate, with the Senate and the need of making it a more democratic institution, as the issue of the hour. Canada has been talking Senate reform for years, but little or nothing has come of the talk. Are we to see a change in 1925? Is it really desirable to have much of a change? The Senate has many supporters and we may look for a battle royal if it becomes an election issue.

So far as conditions appear at the moment, the position of the King Government is reasonably secure. Recent breaks in the political sky, notably that of West Hastings, have been kind to Liberalism and decidedly discouraging to its official opponents. True, Mr. King has little or no party support from the West, but the Progressive balance of power will continue to swing in his favor unless something very serious happens to change it. Viewed from every angle, Mr. King is in a much stronger position than a year or so ago. And just because this is so it may appear to him that the present is the logical time for an appeal to the people and a fresh lease of power.

The Parliamentary session of 1925 should be extremely interesting.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

As an example of an unnecessary statement, it is hard to beat Jack Dempsey's statement that he does not intend to stop fighting after he is married.

The Speech from the Throne having been delivered, the Federal Parliament will now proceed to waste a month on what is technically known as the debate in reply to the Address from the Throne.

One thousand five hundred Montreal garment workers out on strike are spending their leisure hours in dancing. And, as usual, the public will have to pay the fiddler when it is all over.

A lot of people seem to think this will be the last session of the present Parliament. Well, an election would help to take the minds of the unemployed off their troubles.

Premier Ferguson favours military training in the schools, he declares. So the U. F. O. Legislature Committee already has its answer.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

MEN AND HORSES

How closely related is man to the more intelligent of the animals is seen in many of the ailments to which both are prone and the remedies to which they answer.

Doctors and veterinarians are oftentimes surprised to learn of the similarity of their methods of handling the ailments of man and beast.

Sprains, burns, scalds, scratches and many other minor injuries, many everyday ailments, too in men and animals take the same course, and both answer immediately to the same treatment—Absorbine Jr.

Absorbine was first discovered by a very close student of the horse, W. F. Young, and by him, devoted to its cause. Its very exceptional benefits, however, were promptly seized upon for the human race and, in a milder form, the preparation is sold all over the continent today as Absorbine Jr. It is used for men, women and children everywhere as a positive germicide—a germ killer—and a prompt and certain healer of all hurts. It is useful not only for all the purposes served by ordinary liniments and embrocations, but as a mouth-wash and for anything else where a germicide is needed. Don't wait until you need it. Get it in the house today. $1.25 at your druggist's.

A THOUGHT.

JOY AND JAZZ.

Joy and Jazz sit facing each other over the table.

It is a January day. Joy is living her life richly.

Jazz is living her life wastefully.

Joy remarks upon the beauty of the day, and sees in the winter glory a hint of the Creator.

Jazz tries to voice her appreciation, but all that comes forth from painted lips is a rattle of words well sprinkled with "wonderfuls."

Joy radiates a serenity that makes others look her way and sigh in their souls for the peace that seems to be hers.

Jazz merely radiates the superficial. Her gown and hat are the latest freakish mode. Hysteria possesses her and exhibits its mastery in giggles, restless eyes and insane talk with no respect for language. She uses "lovely" six times in three sentences. Imagine Jazz trying to describe a sunset!

Jazz is not only extravagant of words, but of emotions. She whips them into frenzy. The books, the plays, the movies, that interest her, all lash the jaded steed.

If Jazz goes on this way, what will she be like and what will the world be like when she has burned herself out in early life?

Joy endures and lights the pathway all through the years, adding beauty to beauty as the days shorten and life's shadows close.

Joy and Jazz sit facing one another over the table of the present generations.—"More Pep" for January.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Feb. 6—Moderate runs of cattle this week have held a fairly steady market, except for the too prevalent half finished rough butcher cattle. These latter have suffered warning to shippers that if the market continues to be loaded up with too many half finished green steers and heifers further declines in this class may be looked for. For the well finished light or medium weight butcher steer to heifer, 1,000 to 1,200 pounds, there is a good steady to firm market at enhanced prices for the right kind. Supplies in this latter class have been on the short side and the demand is quite active and keen.

The export market this week was comparatively quite. About 500 cattle was the total export quota for the week, shipped out by Rogers and Maybee. the H. P. Kennedy Company shipped through direct from the west, over last weekend 700 cattle to St. John's to be loaded for Liverpool, Belgium and Manchester. It is expected that next week's export requirements will be much heavier, Rogers and Maybee carrying over their later purhases this week for next week's shipment. Export prices have held practically steady from 7.50 to 8.25, exept for some concessions on the week-end purchases to balance up the carry ever costs.

In the small meats section prices were strong the early part of the week but eased off the latter end.

There was a good run of hogs for the week, including a few cars of western hogs. Prices held steady on the basis of $10.50 f.o.b., efforts to cut down a quarter failing of success.

There is a fair enquiry for good short-keep feeders, prices showing a slightly firmer tendency. An ample supply of good quality feeding cattle for future demand is somewhat doubtful, in view of the present high and probably rising feed prices. The agitation in England for the removal of all restrictions on imported cattle from Canada has an important bearing on the question, from the Canadian cattle feeders' point of view. The cattle broker and exporter is in favor, and very much so of the movement for the removal of all restrictions. The cattle feeder is somewhat dubious. From his point of view, the removal of present restriction will mean the unlimited export of our stocker cattle to be fed and finished in the pastures of the old country. The Canadian farmer and feeder who has good grass lands available for feeding purposes, asks where is he going to get his supplies of stocker cattle if practically the whole of the feeding industry is transferred from Canada to Britain. There are thus two sides to the question, the outcome of which is being watched with considerable anxiety in some quarters.

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, Feb. 6. — (Canadian Press). — Prices on local fresh are declining at both Montreal and Toronto. Receipts are said to be very free there, being some increase in Ontario and additional imports of British Columbia fresh and United States fresh are contributing to the easier condition of the market. Another car of Chinese fresh is reported having arrived at Montreal.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6. — (Canadian Press).—Nearly ten cents a bushel fall in the value of wheat took place in Chicago to-day. Extraordinary dearth of new speculative buying was combined with a big influx of orders to sell, and the market pitched sheer down to 1.65, May delivery, almost 21 cents under the top price record last week. After something of a rally, wheat closed nervous, 2 3-4 to 6 3-8 cents net low, May 1.86¼ to 1.86 5-8, and July 1.59 to 159¼. Corn finished 3-4 cent to 1 1-4 cents off, oats ½ to 1 1-8 cents down, and provisions varying from 30 cents decline to 5 cents advance. The outburst of heavy selling in the wheat market began after an early upturn in prices. Gains were only about 2½ cents, but efforts to take advantage of the rise and to get out of the market precipitated a general selling rush that soon became overwhelming in force and brought into operation an unmanageable volume of orders to stop losses. In the semi-panic that ensued, the execution of such orders were often as much as three cents a bushel under the specified limit, but were accounted luck even then.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Feb. 6.—Trading in grain on the local market to-day was not big, and, due to the weakness in prices at Winnipeg, there was a general sagging here with the prospect of a further drop. Cash oats were reduced 2 cents per bushel, but this brought no increase in demand and business was quiet. No. 2 C. W. was quoted at 81c, No. 3 C.W. at 77c No. 1 feed at 75c, No. 2 feed at 70c, and Ontario No. 2 white at 67c per bushel.

Thirty cents per barrel was the recession suffered by the spring wheat grades of flour, making a decrease of 90c a barrel since the first of the month. Business showed no improvement. Car lots were quoted at $10.80 down to $10.10.

Winter wheat flour was steady, due to light offerings from Ontario millers. Choice grades were quoted at $9.20 to $9.30 per barrel, and white corn flour at $8.10 per barrel.

There was no change in millfeed and rolled oats.

A fair amount of business continues to be done in baled hay and car loads of good timothy No. 2 hay sold for $14 and $15 per ton f.o.b. cars here.

The feature of the local egg market was the further weakness in fresh extras and prices registered another decline of 2 cents per dozen. Wholesale jobbing was moderately active, with sales of fresh extras at 60c, firsts at 58c, store extras at 53c, and firsts at 51c per dozen.

The potato market continued steady, with the demand equal to the increased offerings, and No. 1 Green Mountain sold at 95c to $1 per bag of 90 lbs. ex-track.

A general quietness settled on the butter market, the demand being limited. Sales of No. 1 pasteurized creamery were made at 30½c to 31c per lb., down to No. 2 at 28½c to 29c.

Cheese receipts were small and the tone of the market was firm.

Crop beans sold at $2.90 per bushel.

"Yes, ma'am. I don't mean the same bunch, understand? They hung most of the old ones. It seems, the sheriff tells the boss, that in the last two or three years there's been a lot of automobiles coming through this way mostly rich people from the east, like the boss. They go clear on out to the coast and then drive all the way back again. Some of 'em carry quite a lot of valuables, and these new hold-up gangs sometimes make a pretty good profit. The sheriff says they didn't get into his county until quite recently, but he's heard about their goings on outside of it.

"But now they've got into his county and he's quite stirred up. We're the third car in about two weeks. I guess the business is getting good, because it seems the gang is taking on new members. There were six of 'em that stuck us up, you know."

He said it so blandly that Sally was half persuaded he believed it.

"Six," repeated Timothy. "The boss claims only four, but there was two more that he didn't see. I didn't like to contradict him in front of the sheriff, but there were six, all right. I'm going to tell the sheriff when I get a chance, because he ought to have all the clues, so he can get to work right."

"Certainly," said Sally in an absent way.

She was pondering over the surprising intelligence from Timothy and wondering how it affected the case of the Wreck and herself. If there was really a gang at work in the county —and, of course, Bob Wells would not say so unless it were true—it seemed to make their own case much simpler. The exploit of the Wreck would naturally be blamed on those who were in the business for a living. It began to look as if they were hiding from nothing at all.

She slipped into the pantry and closed the door behind her. At the farther end was the other door, that opened into the dining-room. It was a swinging door, with a half-inch space between the edge of it and the frame. She tiptoed forward, brought her ear close to the crack and stood there, breathing softly.

Underwood was talking, but not about bandits. He was talking about Sally's apple pie.

"I'm going to take her back to New York with me and fire my French cook," he announced. "I don't know what sort of a job her husband can fill, but I'll find something for him."

Sally raised her eyebrows, for this was news. And then she heard the familiar, boisterous voice of Bob Wells.

"I don't blame you," said the sheriff. "The lady can certainly cook. You don't get a cook once in a lifetime. When you get 'em, the thing to do is to rope 'em and brand 'em, and then don't let 'em outside the corral. Cooking is a woman's natural job, but they don't all get to be experts. But now and then, if you keep your eyes open, you can find one. Why——"

He paused to chuckle comfortably.

"The fact is, I'm going to marry one," he said.

"Congratulations," remarked the heavy voice of Jerome Underwood.

"That's the way I look at it," said the sheriff lightly. "You take that chicken, those biscuits, that pie—I've got a girl who can cook every bit as well as that. Understand me, she can do a lot more than cook. She's a smart girl, and she's pretty, too. But when it comes to cooking, she doesn't have to take her hat off to anybody. After all, it's the main thing. It's the foundation."

"Absolutely," said the voice of Underwood, out of a full mouth.

CHAPTER XIV.
"The Son of a Gun!"

The Wreck, who had been keeping vigil from a window of the bunk house, saw the tall figure of the sheriff striding down to the corral just as dusk was settling. Next he saw the black horse and its rider headed along the trail that led to the main road. He could hear the sheriff whistling; there was a complacent sound about it that made him scowl.

He waited until the man of the law passed from sight among the distant spruce, then set off at a rapid pace for the ranch house.

Sally had very few words for anybody during the evening. The Wreck vainly tried to maneuver her into a private conversation, but she kept aloof from him. He wanted to hear all she knew about the sheriff's visit, and it puzzled him when he discovered that she was deliberately dodging. Probably she was mooning about things, he figured; women had a way of getting sentimental when there was absolutely no sense in it. He was willing to bet she was half sorry that Bob Wells had not discovered her, although she had been in a wild flurry for fear that he would. It would be just like her. Sentimentality! She wanted a sweetheart, and she didn't want him. If anybody could figure out what a woman really did want, the Wreck was willing to listen.

A couple of the boys drifted in for a late supper, along with Charley McSween. Timothy hung around the kitchen. The Wreck finally gave up the job and went off. He'd be hanged if he'd wash the dishes; let Timothy have a fling at it.

Sally finished her work and went off to bed. She was still angry. "Listeners never hear any good of themselves," kept running in her head. That was not exactly true in her own case. Probably the things she overheard were compliments; she had heard them before and always so regarded them. But——

"So Bob Wells is marrying a cook, is he?" she muttered as she turned off the light in her room. "I'm a smart girl, and I'm pretty; oh, yes. But the cooking is the main thing. It's downright important and necessary; it's the foundation. Oh, wait till I see him!"

Downstairs in the big living room there was an earnest conversation in progress between Chester Underwood and his father. It dealt with a discovery. Chester, roaming about after supper in hope of a word with Sally Morgan, and failing to get it, had drifted idly down among the outbuildings. He had observed before that one of the little sheds, commonly used for storing tools and various odds and ends, was locked. It was unusual to lock anything around the ranch, but he had paid no particular attention to the fact. Now it aroused his curiosity.

The padlock would not yield to a pull. He tried several keys, but none of them would manipulate the lock. Then he picked up a stone and began hammering at the hasp. Eventually it loosened under the attack, and he managed to wrench it out of the wood. Rusty hinges groaned as he swung the door back.

THE WELL LIGHTED CORNER HAS THE WELL WORN CHAIR

WHEN everybody makes a bee line for a certain corner of the living room, or looks with envious eyes on its occupant, it's time to get the other chairs into use. Light will do it, by the generous use of floor and table lamps, well shaded to kill the glare.

You will be surprised at the wonderful difference an extra floor or table lamp makes to your living room.

To obtain the best results, choose wide shades that throw the light upward and downward. Use 50 or 75-watt white Edison Mazda Lamps. Put 25-watt all frosted Edison Mazda Lamps in small decorative table lamps, wall brackets and candlesticks, always using shades.

Near you is an Edison Mazda Lamp store, recognizable by the yellow and blue cartons. There you can obtain real information about good lighting.

White Edison Mazda Lamp most suitable for portable lamp use, as the filament cannot be seen.

KIWANIS VISITED ALL SAINTS' CLUB

Were Guests of Young Men's Athletic Club at the Parish Hall.

The Kiwanis Club were the guests of All Saints Athletic Club for their regular weekly meeting last night. The gathering was held in the Parish Hall and President Charlie Cook turned the gavel over to Kiwanian Rev. J. D. Paterson for the evening. Kiwanian Charles Lacheur welcomed the members in his official capacity of Rector's Warden. During the supper a number of well-received selections were contributed by the Sunday School Orchestra. Mr. H. Gilbert of the orchestra played a trombone solo, and Master Houton sang. Kiwanian Wearing was leader of the community singing with Mr. R. J. Davey at the piano. J. L. Allen was booster for the day and the prizes were awarded to two of the boys, Jack McKone Jr., and James Gimblett.

It had been planned to have Judge Mott of the Toronto Juvenile Court as the speaker but illness prevented him from coming and he sent a very able speaker, Mr. R. S. Hoskin, Chief Probationary Officer of the court, in his place.

In his address to the men and boys gathered before him, Mr. Hoskin said that as poets, statesmen and other notables got inspiration from the monuments and graves of the former great in Westminster Abbey, so should the boys be able to look up to their fathers as examples of all that was best in life. The several hundred cases that came up in the Toronto Juvenile Court last year all showed a lack of proper home training. United States statistics show that whereas 82 per cent. of the children are born physically and mentally fit only 17 per cent. reached maturity without some defect.

The complex system of life in the present day results in a great deal of neglect on the part of the father who goes away to his work six days a week and is too tired on Sunday to bother with his sons.

Kiwanian J. A. McKone expressed the thanks of the club to Mr. Hoskins and Kiwanian Wearing thanked the orchestra, waitresses and all others who had labored to make the affair a success

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

ANTIUNION VOTE INCREASING.

Editor, The Examiner:

Sir,—Eight more Presbyterian congregations in the Peterboro' Presbytery have announced their vote recently on Church Union, with the result that three have entered Union and five have voted to remain Presbyterian. Two important congregations which announced their vote last night were Port Hope, which voted against Union by 237 to 110, and Cobourg, which defeated Union by 188 to 109. In both congregations the ministers were strongly for Union. This makes six congregations in the Presbytery whose ministers were in favor of Union and which have voted against Union. Of the 19 congregations in the Presbytery which have now decided the question by ballot, 12 have voted against Union and 7 for Union. The standing of the vote to date is as follows:

The Presbyteries of Toronto, Hamilton, Stratford, Barrie and Lindsay have all given majorities against Union.

Union Vote Analyzed.

The Church Union Bureau recently published a statement of the vote on Church Union to date. This statement claimed that 1,095 congregations in Canada had voted in favor of Church Union. When the vote is analyzed, however, it is found that of this number, 612—or 55 per cent. of the total—were in the provinces of Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, which contain only 16 per cent. of the total membership of the Presbyterian Church. It is significant, for instance, that in the city of Toronto, which has given a considerable majority against Union, there are more members of the Presbyterian Church than in the synods of Alberta and British Columbia combined, while the Presbytery of Toronto has more members than the synods of Saskatchewan and British Columbia combined.

No person is able to take any pleasure out of such figures as the foregoing, indicating, as they do, the sharp division that has arisen among people who have worked together in peace and good fellowship for many years and who, through what is now generally conceded to have been faulty leadership, have been forced to line up one against the other. Interest is now turned to the probable action of the Ontario Legislature this month on the Church Union Bill in view of the votes which have now been recorded. Until the Legislature passes the Bill, not a cent's worth of property of any Presbyterian congregation of Ontario can be transferred to The United Church.

THE CHURCH UNION PROMISE.

Editor, The Examiner:

Sir,—In a recent issue of The Examiner, an unsigned contributor appealed to Presbyteriand to vote for Church Union on the ground that the Presbyterian Church had promised the other two negotiating churches that Union would be consummated and, therefore, that honor necessitated congregations voting in favor of Union. Your correspondent overlooked two very important points.

First, the promise was made on a broken promise, which invalidated it. Second, it was a conditional promise, as the other two negotiating churches knew.

From the very first of the Church Union movement, it was clearly announced that no effort was to be made to consummate Church Union unless it was found that the membership of the negotiating churches was "virtually unanimous." In 1915, the Church Union Committee, in presenting its report to the General Assembly, stated: "It was universally recognized in the joint committee that a union of the churches, to be real and lasting, must carry the consent of the entire membership."

In 1911, the General Assembly, because of the strong vote opposing Church Union, decided: "In view of the extent of the minority which is not yet convinced that organic union is the best method of expressing the unity desired by all, the Assembly deems it unwise to proceed immediately to consummate the Union, but believes that by further conference and discussion practically unanimous action can be secured within a reasonable time."

The Second Vote.

In 1915, a second vote, on the principle only of Church Union, not on the Bill, was held. This vote showed a greatly increased opposition to Church Union (from 48,278 to 69,913 votes, or 44 per cent. The vote for Church Union increased by only 600 votes). In spite of this increased opposition and of the assurances mentioned (as well as of many others), that Church Union would not be consummated without, as one leader put it, "practical unanimity," the General Assembly, in 1916, ignored the pledges given the people and proceeded to consummate Church Union. Here is where the trouble started. It will be seen that any promise that was given by the General Assembly was given after it had broken its promise to its own membership not to proceed with Church Union unless the membership was virtually unanimous.

A Conditional Promise.

Second: Any promise which the General Assembly gave the other negotiating churches that Church Union would be duly consummated was based on the distinct understanding that the separate congregations of the Presbyterian Church, as of the other negotiating churches, would be given the right to again vote on the question when the Bill incorporating the New Church had been completed and which had not been drafted at that time. The General Assembly had no power to commit the decisions of the individual congregations or to control them in any way. Because conditions have changed during the past ten years and because things have been found in the Bill of which thousands do not approve, a majority of the Presbyterian congregations in Ontario, as well as large numbers in other provinces from coast to coast, are now voting against entering Church Union.

Nobody deplores more than do Presbyterians the unfortunate position in which all the negotiating churches now find themselves. The responsibility for this situation rests squarely upon the shoulders of those Union leaders of the Presbyterian Church who broke their promises to the membership of their church, who, for nine years, refused these members the right to express themselves, and who in many cases, by coercive measures, tried to force Church Union upon the congregations concerned. For these reasons a large number of Presbyterian ministers to-day find themselves at variance with their own congregations and many without pulpits.

ITALY BALANCES HER BUDGET; FRANCE LAGS FAR IN THE REAR

Mussolini Responsible For Gigantic Financial Reforms Which Give the Italian People High Rank Abroad—Italy May Become First Rank Latin Power—Italian Premier Gets Results.

TAXATION TO PAY NATIONAL EXPENSES.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(United Press).— Fascisti government of Italy has succeeded in balancing the national budget, giving to Italy the distinction of being the first continental belligerent in the world war to follow England's example and make taxation pay for national expenditures.

The present Italian fiscal year, with five months more to go, is showing such high yields in taxes that there will be a favorable balance at probably seventy-five million dollars at the end. Last year showed a deficit of about twenty million dollars.

The success of Premier Mussolini in facing the hard acts of financial reform is certain to play a very important part in holding Italian public opinion to his side. Criticisms of the Fascisti from sources outside Italy are based largely on theoretical principles. Mussolini has overthrown theory and has taken his stand on his accomplishments. These are increasingly putting Italy back to her pre-war position, financially and economically.

Whatever Premier Mussolini's methods, he has got results. Italy is now on a firmer financial footing than France and danger of national bankruptcy is disappearing with the balancing of the Roman budget. The movement of Italian exchange to par has still to be accomplished and may prove to be an impossible task. Mussolini has not yet overcome the dififculties of this problem and it is probable instead of a recovery of the gold standard by moving the lire upward there will be a reorganization of Italy's paper currency, somewhat as has occurred in Germany.

However, the question is finally solved, the Fascisti government must be credited with having a remarkable financial showing despite the comparative lack of wealth in Italy. Nevertheless, France has not been able to balance her budget. The huge internal debt of France which is generally regarded as the principal handicap of French financial ministers, is but little more than four times the Italian debt, which is approximately $375,000,000. Therefore, France's greater wealth ought to be able to absorb debt charges as easily as Italy has done.

But, the Fascisti have succeeded in enforcing financial and economic reforms in Italy which the less disciplined government of France has failed to do. The Poincare Ministry, which preceded the present Herriot government, fell because it attempted to put French finances in order by an increase in taxes all around. The French middle classes and peasants would not accept this disciplinary measure. Premier Mussolini has been able to concentrate greater power in his hands than any French prime minister has succeeded in doing; and the result is that Italy's budget has begun to balance, while the French budget still lags behind.

The Fascisti movement's popularity with the Italian nation cannot be understood without an appreciation of the meaning of this accomplishment. Italy and France are rivals for control of future events in the Near East. Italy is poor, but has balanced her budget. France is rich, but still refuses to face the problem of adequate taxation. Premier Mussolini is handicapped by poverty, but he is attracting increasing interest in the Near East because of his successes, due to disciplined concentration on the work in hand.

If the French government does not succeed in coming to an arrangement with the French people for bearing the burden of financial rehabilitation, Italy is likely to take France's place as Europe's leading Latin country. This is Mussolini's ultimate ambition. France's fourfold wealth gives her an enormous advantage; but that can be lost if the French allow the Italians to remain the only budget balancers in continental Europe.

There is only one way to get rid of boils and that is by going right to the seat of the trouble—the blood—as the bad blood must be made pure before the boils will disappear.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

cleanses the system and removes all the foul matter from the blood in a way that few medicines will do.

Mrs. Chas. Rankin, Bulyea, Sask., writes:—"A few years ago my husband had a terrible time with boils. On one arm he had 16 between his elbow and wrist; five on the back of his neck, and several more on different parts of his body. He tried everything he could think of, but got no relief until he took Burdock Blood Bitters, and to his surprise it completely relieved him of his boils in a very short time."

BABY'S WELFARE DURING FEBRUARY

February is one of the hardest months of the year on little ones. It is a month of cold, blustery days that prevent the mother taking her baby out for the fresh air so necessary to its welfare. Baby is consequently confined to the home. More often than not the rooms are overheated and badly ventilated and the little one catches cold or grippe. What is needed to keep the baby well is a gentle laxative that will regulate the stomach and bowels; banish constipation and indigestion and in this way will either prevent or break up colds and grippe. Such a laxative is Baby's Own Tablets. They are mild but thorough in action; are absolutely safe as they are guaranteed to contain no opiates or narcotics. They never fail to be of benefit to little ones and may be given to either the newborn babe or the growing child. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Spiritualists Turn To New Fields To Conquer

LONDON, England, Feb. 7. — (United Press).—Psychic beads are London's latest craze.

The cults of faith-healers, Coue enthusiasts, and spiritualist thus turn new fields to conquer—jewelry and feminine decoration.

Bright necklaces of prismatic wooden beads are now on the market, each bead being of a different color and with a diferent spiritualistic significance, which it is claimed, will aid the discipline of auto-suggeston to effect cures.

The necklace orginated when Dr. Coue suggested that his patients use a string tied with twenty knots—a sort of psychic rosary—for concentrating on his cure.

The new way is to "speak the cure" while touching each of the colored beads in turn. The significance of each color is as follows:

Violet—High religious feeling.
Indigo—Spiritual development.
Blue—Unselfishness.
Yelow—Intellectuality.
Green—Tact and politeness.
Orange —Ambition.
Red—Passion.

London jewelers report a heavy demand for the rainbow beads.

EMBROIDERED

Collars and cuffs embroidered in colored yarns are used on demure lookin' gingham dresses.

EPWORTH LEAGUE MET.

Bethany Young People Had Good Programme—New Members.

BETHANY, Feb. 7. — The Epworth League Service on Wednesday evening was both helpful and inspiring, under the leadership of Leslie Challice, the 1st Vice-President.

The topic on "Devotion" was ably taken by the president, P. C. Brown.

This was followed by a solo, "Jesus Still Remembers You," by Miss Violet Jackson, which was sweetly rendered. Then after readings by Mrs. A. Monk and Mr. E. Bray, pointing out our duty to our fellow men, then follow. I a real treat in the form of a cornet solo by Mr. Greenlaw.

The pastor, Mr. Dafoe, then took charge of the meeting, and while that beautiful consecration hymn was being sung, "Take my Life and let it be," the nine following new members came forward one by one, and signed their names to the membership roll: E. Bray, F. Gigelow, W. Rowland, Jean Thorndyke, Mr. and Mrs. D. Greenlaw, Margaret Jackson, Edward Welch, Willie Sheens.

Then the old and new members joined together in singing "Blest be the Tie that Binds."

Mr. Greenlaw's assistance throughout all the musical numbers was much appreciated.

REVIVING OLD DANCES.

MARYPORT, England, Feb. 7.—(Associated Press).—William Smith of Ewanrigg Hall made a successful attempt recently to reintroduce the old polka into a modern dance programme at the Maryport Farmers' dance. He led off with the wife of another farmer. Both were crack dancers in the days when rural Cumberland danced the country dances, the waltz and the lancers. Their dancing was vigorously applauded by the younger generation of fox trotters, who, later in the evening, enjoyed a turn at the polka.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

A HOUSE DIVIDED.

Editor of Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Not having a High School education, and being only a tiller of the soil, I hesitate to appear in the public press. But I noticed in your issue of the 4th a report of the Lakefield Presbyterian Church on the Union question, and am in a position to know the figures are absolutely correct.

Being one of the 45, I take exception to the voting against uniting with the United Church of Canada, and in doing so I have in mind local conditions. Sixty-two years ago this month the Presbyterian Church was built in Lakefield and dedicated for divine service and religious instruction. At that time the Methodist Church was also established in Lakefield; and all those years these two branches of the great Christian Church have been endeavouring to do the Master's work, peace and harmony prevailing. But what have we today? Looking over Canada, we find unrest and rebellion and many sore hearts.

Poor Lakefield and surrounding country! They have yet a mist before their eyes, not knowing what the outcome of the vote may be. One party is telling us we can carry on as we have always done; another party tells us it is folly to continue two churches. Why not, the latter urges, worship in the Methodist Church, have one large congregation and practice economy.

However, there are many residents of Lakefield and surrounding country who have been worshipping in the Presbyterian Church all their lives, and if asked to make a choice between their dwelling and their church home they would decide in favor of their church.

I know the eyes of the world are on us Presbyterians at the present time, and thousands are not saying, "Behold, how Christians love each other," but "Look how they fight."

Lakefield only represents a small spot on the map of the world, and on this question of Church Union, like at an election, considerable canvassing occurred, and family discord followed. Let me give one instance of family division in this village resulting from the campaign for unity of the two churches:

Father voted against his son, the son against his father, husband against his wife and wife against her husband, brother against his sister and sister against her brother. We then are told in the Good Book that a house divided against itself cannot stand. I think the devil will be well pleased with the present upheaval. A. FAIRBAIRN.

ATTEMPT TO FLEECE CANADIAN OFFICIALS

"Skin Game" Was Successful in One Case—Hoaxer Escaped.

A new "skin game" has been uncovered at Montreal, whereby managers of European concerns have been the victims. The Montreal manager of an English firm got a long distance call from Poughkeepsie, N. Y. He was asked if he would reverse the charges. He accepted, feeling that he might miss something if he did not. He found a very pleasant Englishman at the other end who told him that he had got into difficulties; had been robbed of his roll; that he was the nephew of the head of the English firm, of which our Montreal man was Canadian manager; that he was completely stranded, and knowing that the Montreal man represented his uncle, he thought he might advance him enough money to get on to Chicago, and to enable him to get more money from home. All he wanted was $150 or so. The Montreal man delayed things and called London. It turned out that the Ploughkeepsie man was an imposter. He wired the police there, but he had got away. He was advised that $150 was secured from some other Montreal firm. An arrest is reported in the United States of a man who got money under false pretences in this way.

Dwellings Of Eskimos Comfortably Furnished

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Feb. 7.—(United Press).—The board of education steamer Boxer has just returned from a voyage which took the vessel to Kings Island, a rocky spire of an island rising in the Arctic, 40 miles from the mainland. There are 150 Eskimos on the island, which is of 150 acres. In winter it is swept by terrific blizzards. However, the natives live in cliff dwellings, carved from the rock by earlier tribes and are comfortable during the long winter night.

Many of the cliff dwellings are furnished with the most modern equipment including phonographs, sewing machines and comfortable beds. Being fishermen and craftsmen, the Eskimos use fossil ivory combed from the beaches in summer and the tusks of walrus captured to shape Eskimo ivory art and use the articles as barter for other necessities. They put in the long winters carving the ivory bits and manufacturig skin clothing, all of which they sell readily to traders.

UNDER ONE TRIBUNAL.

Irish Free State Railway Lines Effect a Merger.

DUBLIN, Feb. 7. — (Associated Press).—All the railways in the Free State have combined under a policy of compulsory unification adopted as an alternative to nationalization. There were more than 30 of them altogether, all with boards of directors and independent staffs, and 16 headquarters.

The unification has now been completed under the supervision of a special railway tribunal, and compensation has been paid to the discontinued directors and staffs. The new unified line bears the name of the Great Southern Railway, and its total mileage is 2,052. The amalgamation scheme does not affect the Great Northern Railway which has its headquarters in Belfast and operates principally in the jurisdiction of Northern Ireland. The Free State has power over this line so far as it operates between Dublin and the Ulster border, but has not exercised that authority.

The Railway Tribunal has decreed that the amalgamated company shall reduce charges by 12½ per cent.

JACKIE COOGAN MENACES LIVES MANY CHILDREN

Child Welfare Expert Says Youngsters Imitate Screen Prodigy.

JACKIE REPLIES.

Actions Are Cute, But the Psychological Effect is Bad.

By Jack Feehan

DETROIT, Feb. 7.—Jackie Coogan a menace to children!

Imagine that. This little cinema star who has thrilled the hearts of millions of kiddies—and grown-ups as well—is bold, dangerous creature.

So says Alan Kopelson, child welfare expert, who has just returned from Vienna and Berlin, where he spent five years in studying speech defects of children, and their treatment.

And what has speech defects to do with making Jackie another thorn in mother's crown?

"Coogan, by his antics on the screen makes mimics of our children," Prof. Kopelson explains. "They follow his every action until the root of their own individuality is destroyed.

—AND JACKIE REPLIES

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Feb. 4.—"I am very sorry that the professor thinks my pictures are bad for children," says Jackie Coogan in reply to Alan Kopelson of Detroit, who claims the cinema child is a menace to other children.

"He is the first one who has ever said that. The pictures I appear in are shown in school rooms all over the country.

"My pictures of 'Oliver Twist' and 'A boy in Flanders' are being used as school lessons. Everyone tells me that my pictures make little children happy.

"If the professor thinks I am any different than other boys of my age, he is mistaken. Sometimes I imitate Charlie Chaplin, just for fun, and it doesn't hurt me.

"If he thinks I do only what my director tells me to do in pictures, he's wrong, and I'd like to have him come some time to the studio to watch me.

"Last summer, millions of boys and girls imitated me by becoming crusaders, and in that way we raised a shipload of food for the orphans of the Near East. If every boy and girl in this land would imitate me in this they will grow up better men and women."

"It is just such mimicking which causes stuttering and stammering—one child in a neighborhood who stutters may soon cause others to do likewise, for they consciously or unconsciously follow. When we mimic, especialy a child, the characteristics of the person so mimicked soon become transplanted in us.

"Even Austrian little boys are mimicking Jackie Coogan.

They pull their hats down over one eye and saunter along the streets—hands deep in their pockets—just as he does.

"Their actions are cute, no doubt, but the psychological effect is all bad. For Coogan's antics are not those of a little child. They are the thoughts of a mature director, imbedded in a childish mind through command."

And Kopelson gives another don't for mothers and doting relatives.

"Oo's 'ittle bitsy babp is oo?" should be taboo, he says.

According to Kopelson "baby talk" is the perfectly natural expression of love's young dream.

Somewhat mid-Victorian, to be sure, but still permissable in the proper setting.

Addressed to an infant, however, "baby talk" may leave a life long stigma. "The child will mimic and retard its learning process; and in many cases it will cause the child to stutter and stammer for years.

"Parents and particularly the mother ,should always exercise the greatest care in enunciating and articulating words, in never eliding syllables, in banning slang and in determination never to yield to carelessness in thought as well as speech."

Kopelson was chief assistant to Prof. Theodore S. Flatau, head of the clinic for correction of speech defects attached to the Charite, Berlin's great public hospital.

Curing Adult Stammerers Now.

He is now devoting his efforts to wipe out the stammer from Detroiters and to smooth gutteral "K's" and "G's." Children are not his only patients — many grown ups crowd his waiting room for examination and treatment.

He brought back with him from Berlin new exercises and ingenious devices for perfecting the cure of defects of faulty breathing — the main stammer cause.

One of these devices is the 'Kuhn Maske,' used to induce a patient to inhale and exhale properly. It resembles an ether cone and when placed over the mouth forces air into the unused lower lung lobes, inactive because of faulty breathing of the stammerer.

Speech defects may also result from a bad fall in early childhood, a sharp blow (generally on the head), a bad fright, and sometimes there is a neurotic basis, such as alcoholism in the parent, Kopelson says.

A CAUSE OF WOMEN'S ILLS

WOMEN OFTEN THINK THEY HAVE HEART TROUBLE, INDIGESTION, NERVOUS PROSTRATION, ETC., WHEN IT'S SIMPLY IRON STARVATION OF THE BLOOD.

Many women believe they are weak and nervous as a result of age, worry and overwork; they think that their disturbed digestion, headaches, heart palpitation, shortness of breath, pains across the back, etc., are due to some serious disease instead of the real cause—iron starvation of the blood. This is proven by the fact that when many of these same women take organic iron for awhile all their alarming symptoms quickly disappear and they become strong, robust and healthy. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living cells and tissue. Without it nothing you eat does you the proper amount of good—you do not get the strength out of it.

If you are not strong and well do not wait until you go all to pieces and collapse in a state of nervous prostration, but take some organic iron—Nuxated Iron—at once. But be sure it's organic iron and not metallic iron which people usually take and which is made merely by the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron. Organic NUXATED IRON is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples and it often increases the bodily and mental vigor of weak, wornout women in two weeks' time.

Beware of substitutes. Look for the word "Nuxated" on every package and the letters N.I. on every tablet. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results. At all druggists.

MANY AWAITED END OF WORLD LAST MIDNIGHT

Expected to be Called Up Into Heaven Following a Sign.

ONE SHOT HIMSELF.

Prophet Was Uncertain Whether His Wife Would be Called.

PATTCHOGUE, N. Y., Feb. 7. (Canadian Press.) — The sun rose in the east to-day as it has for untold ages, and shone on the rude home of Robert Reidt, the "Apostle of Doom," despite his fervent predictions that at midnight last night, would come the beginning of the millennium, and the salvation of the "chosen few."

Reidt and his flock of 13 followers, who has lived through as hectic a night as may ever be their lot, were still confident to-day that the "promised sign" of the second coming of Christ is still not far off.

Just when, he would not say, although yesterday he had declared that the end of the world would take fully seven days.

Hopeful all through the night that a sign would come "as a cloud no bigger than your hand," Reidt closely watched the heavens until well into the morning.

When nothing startling had happened at midnight in the east he still felt that the end might come within the next three hours, when it would be midnigt at Hollywood, where is the home of Mrs. Margaret Rowen, the leader of the cult.

This morning Reidt was practically alone. The crowd had dispersed. All that was left was his shack, and his faithful little band. He has sold his home, his automobile and all his belongings.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (Canadian Press).—Throughout the country small groups of men and women waited in simple faith yesterday and last night for the beginning of the end of the world and of all things mortal, confidently expecting some supernatural sign at midnight. Argument, ridicule and threat failed to move them. They were encased in an armor of religious fervor, singing hymns, quoting scriptures, castin their eyes to the heavens they smiled tolerantly at unbelievers and said "wait and see." They expected a literal second coming of Christ to earth. According to their leaders there are 144,000 of these "faithful." The great majority are former Seventh Day Adventists, followers of Mrs. Margaret Rowen, prophetess of Doom. Mrs. Rowen is an unpretentious little housewife of Los Angeles.

Might Take His Wife Too

From Yapahank to Patchogue, the muddy roads were churned with unaccustomed traffic yesterday afternoon, as scores of motorists drove out of their way to pass a little hillside cottage and peer with, where sat Robert Reidt and his flock patiently waiting for the end of the world.

A group of laughing school children ran past, shouting taunts at the pale, solemn-faced youngsters at the window. The Reidt children, ranging in age from 8 to 12, were not sure what it was all about; they only know their father expected some wonderful event and that: "Daddy is going to run to California."

Reidt, apostle of the Reformed Seventh Day Adventists, who expects to be advised by a sign in the eastern sky that Christ was on his way to earth, said yesterday afternoon he will do that very thing if necessary.

"I expect to be advised by a flash in the sky that the time has come for the ascension of the faithful to heaven," said this serious young German-born prophet, who with a baker's dozen of believers expected the millennium shortly after midnight last night.

"When I see the flash, I will face the west and start running."

Reidt did not care where this led him, he said. As a matter of fact, it would take him into the waters of Long Island Sound.

"I shall wind up in the woods near San Diego," he said. It is from this spot that 144,000 of the 'brides of the Lamb' are to be led to heaven.

"If there are two flashes," he added, "it means for my wife to come, too."

Crazed Over Thought.

MONROE, Mich., Feb. 7.—Expressing the fear that the world would come to end end some time yesterday and that his property, worth approximately $35,000, amassed during years of economy, would become worthless, Karl Frederick Danzeisen, 49, a farmer living near Temperance 10 miles from her, shot and seriously wounded his wife at their home and then took his own life with the same revolver.

His wife said that Danziesen had become terror-stricken over predictions the world as to end.

ENTOMBED MAN'S LIGHT BURNS; TROOPERS GUARD OPERATIONS

Brother of Floyd Collins Ordered Away—Held Back Work.

DIG NIGHT AND DAY.

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 7.—(Canadian Press). — While Kentucky troopers parade in the vicinity of the sand cave to maintain order and to prevent any kind of obstruction, miners pick and dig with all the energy they possess at a new shaft to the cave sixty feet below, where Floyd Collins has lain pinioned by a boulder for almost two hundred hours.

Determined that no effort shall interfere in any way with the operations, guardsmen, under Brigadier-General H. H. Denhardt, last night ordered Homer Collins, brother of the entombed man, and John Geralds away from the cave. Geralds was the leader of one of the numerous rescue parties which earlier in the week made fruitless efforts to get Collins through the cave entrance.

Both men were called to troop headquarters, and there told the mine now boring downward was the last chance to reach the prisoner. Their activity, especially Geralds' criticism of the means employed, made their presence undesirable because it slowed up the work.

It would be necessary, therefore, to forcibly eject either man who returned to the cave. Both agreed not to offer further interference.

Shaft is Sinking.

Slowly the shaft, preceded by a diamond point drill, was going down to-day. The diggers are now below the twenty-foot level, and had as much more to go, possibly more. The workers have been digging 48 hours day and night.

Test drilling discontinued to-day after the diamond drill had reached limestone at a depth of forty feet. Dr. Funkhouser, geologist, expressed the opinion that the drill had reached the cap rock of the cave.

Homer Collins, during the night, made a forbidden trip into the cave. He found a light near the "squeeze" still burning, and by turning off all lights outside for a few minutes, said he determined that the entombed man's light still glowed.

"I Killed Him Because I Loved Him," Says Actress Who Shot Her Sweetheart Suffering From Cancer

(By John De Gandt, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS, Feb. 7.—"I killed him because I loved him and wanted to end his suffering," Stanishlau Unimiska, beautiful young Polish actress, declared at her trial for the murder of her fiance. Fashionable Parisians crowded the drab court room to hear Henri Robert, Dean of the French bar, plead for the defence.

Mlle. Unimiska's sweetheart, who she shot as he was dying of cancer in a Paris hospital, was Jean Zvnoesky, prominent novelist of Warsaw.

He came to Paris for treatment last year. The actress cancelled her engagements and followed him. For days, while he suffered untold agony, Mlle. Unimiska sat at her fiancee's bedside. She submitted to a blood transfusion in a vain effort to save his life. Realizing her sweetheart was doomed, the girl listened to her lover plead that she kill him.

Maitre Robert, who was assisted at the trial by Marie Fournier, the youngest woman lawyer in Paris, then drew from the beautiful defendant her story of the murder in detail.

Day after day, Mlle. Unimiska told the court, she had steadfastly refused to kill her lover, making every effort to cheer him up.

"I told him, you will soon be well," she declared. Then came a day when the sufferer's agony was particularly great. A dose of morphine was administered and he slept. "Then I made up my mind to do it."

The actress continued, "I took the revolver—I killed him—I loved him—I am glad I ended his suffering."

The French authorities permitted Mlle. Unimiska to accompany her fiance's body to Poland for the funeral, after which she returned to face trial for his murder.

A verdict was expected to-night.

MODERNS LEARN FROM WRITINGS OF OLD EMPIRES

"The Recovery of Forgotten Empires" Described in Lecture.

BY DR. F. A. B. MERCER.

Women's Canadian Club Learns That Archaeology is Not Dry Study.

Before a good-sized audience in the hall of the Public Library, yesterday afternoon, a lecture on "The Recovery of Forgotten Empires," was given in interesting style by one of the greatest living authorities on the subject, Dr. F. A. B. Mercer, C. E. P. H. D., profesor in Trinty College, Toronto, to the local Women's Canadian Club. The president, Mrs. F. D. Kerr, occuped the chair, and extended warm appreciation to the speaker at the conclusion of a brief address that was listened to with intense interest. The vote of thanks was moved by Mrs. Arthur Stevenson and seconded by Miss Amy Halliday.

The professor treated his subject in entertaining fashion. Saying that archaeology is not the dry study that it may appear to the casual student, he proceeded to outline the various steps taken in proceeding with reconstruction of forgotten empires of the past.

The recovery of the empires of Babylonia and Egypt were referred to, also, the present information being sought as to the lost Empire of the Hittites.

To an English cousul, Henry Rawlinson, the speaker gave the credit for the discovery of the ancient Babylonian empire. This man had read the works of Herodotus and other ancient writers, and caused the excavation of mounts that afterwards proved to be the site of the city of Nineveh, the capital of ancient Syria. In Egypt, a similar condition existed, except that remains of their places and temples occupied positions above the ground, instead of beneath it. Now, in Northern Syria, explorations are going on to recover the lost empire of the Hittites.

The first work in work of this sort after hearing reports of travellers in those regions, decorations of the remains found, the language of those dwellers in forgotten ages. The deciphering of these strange scripts and languages is the initial undertaking. The deciphering of the cuneiform script, the wedge-like written characters of the ancient Babylonians, was a matter of romance and interest to those engaged in it, and was carried out by the discovery that old Persian symbols corresponded to other symbols contained on granite monuments. In Egypt, the famous Rosetta stone formed the keynote for the deciphering of their hieroglyphics, contained in little birds and beasts and flowers ornamenting their ruins. This stone had carved on its surface an order given by one of the Ptolemies, in three different languages, and the discovery that one was the ancient Grenk led to the deciphering of the others.

A similar condition exists to-day among the workers in the ancient Hittite empire, where strange figures, partly phonetic, partly syllabic and partly picturesque, still defy the knowledge of students to read.

In connection with the intensive work done by such students, the professor asserted: "We have more writings to-day dealing with 2000 B. C. than we have of the life of Queen Elizabeth, and we know more about details of life in that age than we do about life at the Court of James the First.'

The next step is the reconstruction of the life and the thought and the civilization of the past. The reconstruction of the history and the wars and the life, the naming of dynasty after dynasty of the ancient Egyptians, came from the huge rolls of pappyrii which these peoples left behind them, so that the life of 3400 B. C. is more clear to the scholar of to-day than that of France in the eleventh and twelfth centuries.

The fourth step is the co-ordination of all that ancient lore, for it has been discovered that the lives and thoughts of these ancient peoples, and their commercial relations intermingled in much the same way as those of nations of to-day. The ancient Hittites caried on business with the ancient Egyptians and Babylonians. The great unity of human life, their modes of life and living, their similar thoughts and passions sorrows and joys, are noted in their re-discovery. Interesting light is thrown on the Bible and its teachings, on such things as the Exodus, for example, by excavations made in these forgotten places, and pictures found representing Jehu, and Sennacherib, attacking Jerusalem and Hezekiah.

To the student, the first letter of our alphabet brings to mind that the first letter of the Grecian, the Assyrian, the Phonenician and the Egyptian alphabets, corresponds to it, calendar recalls the fact that the Egyptians were the first makers of the modern calendar, and numbered their days and hours as we do. The geometrical scholar will find the "pons asinorum,' the familiar problem in the fifth book of his Euclid, worked out by the Egyptians in 760 B. C., the engineer and architect can find things to marvel at to-day in the ingenuity of the Egyptians, building the Great Pyramid of Gizeh, with its great stones, some weighing 350 tons, brought across miles of land, in the wonderful temples of Karnak, where in one instance there are 242 great pillars in the nave each pillar wide enough at the top to accomodate one hundred men, standing side by side; the artist can find much to marvel at and admire in the exquisite lotus-leaf carving in these temples and the business man can study the ledgers and the receipts and bills of exchange of the Babylonians in 536, the years of the Jewish captivity, where the Jews of to-day formed the foundation from the lore of their captors, of their tremendous business sagacity. The lover of literature, of essays and poetry and history, can find in their ancient writings and legends the replica of the account of creation, and in 3300 B. C. Babylonian tablets were inscribed with the identical tale contained the Book of Job.

The speaker also referred to the laws as laid down by the ancient Hammurabi, as being examples for jurists of to-day, and was confirmed in this by a commentator in the audience, Miss S. A. Tomkins, who rose at the conclusion of the address to relate an experinece encountered by her while living in the United States, when a judge, finding no precedent for judgment in modern jurisprudence, referred to the laws of Hammurabi for a satisfactory solution.

CHINA ABANDONS DRUG CONFERENCE

Remaining Delegates Continue Effort to Limit Traffic.

(By Henry Wood—United Press Staff Correspondent).

GENEVA, Feb. 7.—China to-day followed the leadership of the United States and withdraw from the League of Nations drug conference.

When Congressman Stephen Porter, head of the American delegation, made his proposals, which were stamped as "too idealistic" by Allied spokesmen, the Chinese delegates supported him vigorously, and when Porter announced the American withdrawal, China's voice was the voice raised in regretful protest.

The action of the Chinese delegation came as no surprise. For the remaining delegates the conference goes on, and the convention's aim to limit the traffic in drugs will be signed next week.

HER NERVES SO BAD SHE COULD NOT SLEEP

Mrs. Grace Kitchen, St. George, Ont., writes: "After having a severe attack of pneumonia I was left in a weak and run down condition. My nerves were so bad I could not sleep nights, and in the day time I had terrible fainting spells, caused by my heart being weak. Finally I got so bad I had to take to my bed for weeks at a time, but one day I read about

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

so decided to try them.

After taking one box I felt a slight improvement. I have now taken five boxes, and have gained 35 pounds in weight. I am now more than able to do all my own housework as well as considerable outside work. I cannot recommend Milburn's H. & N. Pills too highly for those suffering as I did."

Chinese Follow the Lead Set by United States.

GENEVA, February 7. — The Chinese delegation to-day withdrew from the international opium conference following the lead of the United States delegation yesterday.

A Chinese communication explained that the delegation was withdrawing because of the conference's failure to reach a satisfactory agreement for the suppression of opium smoking in the Far East.

"Strangler" Lewis Was Tossed From the Ring

CHICAGO, Feb. 7. — (Canadian Press).—Edward "Strangler" Lewis, claimant of the world's heavyweight wrestling championship despite his recent defeat by Wayne of Nebraska was tossed from the ring here last night in a rough match with Joe Zickmund. That final indignity gave Lewis victory over a foul.

Lewis was pitched over the ropes last night after Zickmund had struck, bitten and kicked him thirty-five minutes and forty seconds.

Lewis' back was lacerated badly and it was feared some of his ribs were cracked.

Y. W. GETS READY FOR EXHIBITION

Committees Appointed and Preliminary Arrangements Made—Pageant in May.

DRILLS START.

Plans are already under way for another big Y.W.C.A. gymnasium pageant. On Friday afternoon the physical committee and the executive of the "Y" met to make preliminary arrangements. The pageant will be held the first week of May, and everything promises a bigger and better exhibition than ever. The main item of business on Friday was the appointing of committees for the various parts of the work.

The advertising committee is a strong committee and has a big part to play in the success of the pageant. This committee consists of: Mrs. T. Cruikshank (convenor), Mrs. LeClair, Mrs. R. Turner, Mrs. E. E. Harvey and Miss L. Speers.

The ticket committee which will have charge of all means of circulating tickets is composed of: Mrs. Waddell, Mrs. Widdess, Mrs. Porter, Miss M. Elliot, Mrs. C. E. Jamieson, Mrs. H. Wightman and Mrs. W. Oke.

A car committee composed of Miss M. Hamilton, Miss M. Jory, Mrs. W. J. Oke, and Mrs. F. Brownscombe, will assist greatly in saving time on the many errands.

Perhaps the most important committee is the sewing committee which has charge of the making of 350 costumes of bright and pretty colors and designs.

The joint convenorship of this committee consists of Mrs. V. Eastwood, Mrs. R. Denne, Mrs. D. F. Drummond, Mrs. F. L. Robinson, assisted by the following committee of five ladies, one of whom will be in charge of the sewing each day, Miss Large, Mrs. R. Cormack, Mrs. A. Moir, Mrs. N. D. Buchanan, Mrs. G. Wood. The help and interest of board and committee members, mothers of the children and older girls and many others was much appreciated last year and the same help has been promised the sewing committee again this year.

The gymnasium classes are already beginning special drills for the exhibition, and Miss Littlefield, the physical director, assured the committee that the pageant would even exceed its former record of being the best amateur performance put on in Peterboro.

SPRING LIKE AIR AT MARKET TO-DAY

Potatoes Returned After a Temporary Absence — Rabbits, Too.

A real spring-like atmosphere was apparent on the farmers' market this morning. The warm air brought out many buyers and gave a cheerful note even to the bags of turnips that grated many of the carts. Potatoes were out again in full force this morning, after a temporary retirement of a week or so, and might be had at 85 or 90 cents a bag. Beets were 20 cents a peck and red onions 40 cents. Apples were fairly plentiful, with some good-looking Spies at 65 and 75 cents a peck, Bellflowers, over whose merits as a pie-filling a tall man was enthusing to his companion, at 60 cents, and Peewaukees and Ontario Reds at 40 cents a peck.

Along with his supply of roots in neat boxes, one vendor was selling grapefruit at four for a quarter.

In the basket section, butter was priced at 35 and 38 cents a pound, eggs ranged from 50 to 55 cents a dozen, and fowl, fairly plentiful, was selling at 25 cents a pound for chicken, ducks and geese, and 35c for turkey. Three little pure white-coated bunnies, on their way to the roasting-pan or the stew pot, sold for 30 cents apiece.

SATIN FOR SPRING.

The one-piece satin gown made on very straight lines with long sleeves is very practical for spring, since it can be worn under the winter coat or without one in the spring.

LATEST SWEATER.

The new sweater has a neck known as the T-line, which means a round one with a narrow tab extending down the front, forming the fastenig. It is very effective on Jersey dresses and sweaters.

MOON'S ECLIPSE OCCURS SUNDAY

Likely to be Dimly Seen Between 5.30 and 6 O'clock.

NO OBSERVATIONS.

The eclipse of the moon Sunday, while of interest is not, according to Prof. C. A. Chant, professor of astrophysics at Toronto University, as of much inportance to astronomers as an eclipse of the sun.

"There is very little of astronomical value connected with an eclipse of the moon," he said, "because there are very few observations to be made. In fact, beyond providing positive truth as to the shape of the earth, there is not much that is worth noticing at all."

Prof. Chant explained that there is an entire absence of the striking phenomena which accompany an eclipse of the sun. There is no varicolored corona. There are no Bailey's beads. There are no shadow bands. There is no sudden change from daylight to darkness.

Sunday's eclipse of the moon is not to be a total one. It will only be about three-quarters total, and that detracts materially from what little worth it might otherwise have had.

Ontario will only catch a fleeting glimpse of the show, because it is due to start at 3.09 in the afternoon and it will have reached its height at 4.42 p.m., when it is still light and the moon is still below the horizon. The curtain is scheduled to go down at 6.15 p.m. The moon will be slightly above the horizon at that time, but only a tail-end view of the eclipse will be afforded. Nova Scotia will get a better view of it and the eastern continents will see the whole of it.

Won't Make Observations.

"We do not plan to make any observations," says Professor Chant.

Sir Frederick Stupart, director of meteorological laboratory, will not make any observations.

An eclipse of the moon is caused by the passage of the moon through the shadow of the earth—just the opposite of an eclipse of the sun which is due to the interposition of the moon between the sun and the earth.

SLAVES ARE HELD IN INDIAN STATE

But Heaven's Curse Rests Upon the Trade, Says British General.

LONDON, Feb. 7. — (Canadian Press).—There are 51,419 slaves and 15,719 slave owners in Nepal. Publication of these figures to-day came as a startling surprise to the majority of the British public who have been generally unaware of the existence of slavery in this Indian state, which, although independent, is under the aegis of the British Empire.

Maharajah Sir Chandra Shumshere Jung, Prime Minister and defacto ruler of Nepal, who also holds the rank of general in the British Army, has undertaken to suppress the evil, in a speech at the capital, Katmandu, in December, and only now reported here. He appealed for assistance in this task from the people in general.

He declared that "heaven's curse rests upon the slave trade, which is overloaded with the tears of parents and children," and he drew moving pictures of the ruthless treatment of husbands and wives, parents and children by slave owners.

EUROPEAN STARLING LATELY MADE APPEARANCE IN CANADA

Number of Attempts to Introduce This Interesting Bird Have Failed.

HERE TO STAY

A Few Were Seen in Toronto in August, 1920—Its Song is Varied.

The European Starling has lately made its appearance in Canada and in the Ottawa district.

It is native to northern Europe and most of Siberia. A number of attempt have been made to introduce it in America, beginning in 1872 at Cincinnati, Ohio. As early as 1875 the attempt was made at Quebec city, but, apparently, it was not until the introductions of 1890 and 1891 in Central Park, New York City, that the species became established in North America. For a few years the starling survived precariously and no marked increase in numbers or range was noted until 1902. From then to 1916 the increase was progressively rapid. At that point their numbers remained stationary for a while and it seemed as if the species had reached its limit of abundance. Lately, however, it has been increasing and spreading again.

The first occurrence of the starling in Canada was reported from Toronto, where a few were seen in August, 1920. A small flock was noted the following May at Port Stanley, Ont., and one in October at Kingston. In December a larger flock was reported at Chatham, Ont. The spring of 1922, individuals were seen or taken at Lake Magog, Que., Arnprior, Ont., and the first record was made at Ottawa.

At present, 1925, we know that the starling is well established in the Toronto neighborhood; near Hatley, Que., and that considerable flocks were seen last autumn and this winter at Ottawa.

An economic investigation of the food habits of the starling in America was made by the U.S. Biological Survey. It was found to be an insect, fruit and garbage feeder. It eats more insects than any other American bird. The fruit is mostly wild, but the occasional forays of large numbers on orchards has caused considerable complai t. In winter it frequents garbage dumps in the vicinity of cities with crows and the house or "English" sparrows. As a nester it has all the objectionable traits of the house sparrow. It collects the same dirty, unsightly masses of rubbish and is a powerful competitor with the purple martin, bluebird, and other native birds for bird-boxes or natural nest-holes.

The introduction of new species is always a serious matter, no one ever knows just what the effect will be and mistakes once made can seldom be rectified. Most successful introductions have been matters of later regret as in the case of the house sparrow in America, the rabbit in Australia, and ny other species elsewhere. Most of our serious pests—animal, insect, or plant, have been introduced. It is yet to be seen how we shall finally regard the starling.

The starling may possibly not be as undesirable a species as we have reason to fear, but in any event it is bound to displace some of our favorite native birds. There is probably nothing we can do about the matter, whichever way we decide. We hoped that our severe winters would prevent great or permanent increase of the species, but it appears to withstand our lowest temperatures. The starling is with us and probably will occupy a prominent place in our suburban life.

Its Varied Song.

The following is an extract from the Encyclopedia Britannica:

The starling is a well-known bird about the size of a thrush; though at a distance it appears to be black, when near at hand its plumage is seen to be brightly shot with purple, green and steel-blue, most of the feathers when freshly grown being tipped with buff. These markings wear off in the course of the winter, and in the breeding season the bird is almost spotless.

A more engaging bird scarcely exists, for its familiarity during some months of the year gives opportunities for observing its ways that few others afford, while its varied song, it sprightly gestures, its glossy plumage, and above all its character as an insecticide—which last makes it the friend of the agriculturist and the grazier—render it an almost universal favorite. The worst that can be said of it is that it occasionally pilfers fruit. The congregations of starlings are indeed very marvellous, and no less than the aerial evolutions of the flocks, chiefly before settling for the night, have attracted attention from early times, being mentioned by Pliny (Historical Naturalist) in the first century. The extraordinary precision with which the crowd, often numbering several hundreds, not to say thousands, of birds, wheels, closes, opens out, rises, and descends, as if the whole body were a single living thing—all these movements being executed without a note or cry being uttered—must be seen to be appreciated, and may be seen repeatedly with pleasure.

The nest is commonly placed in the hole of a tree or of a building, and it preparation is the work of some little time. The eggs, from four to seven in number, are of a very pale blue, often tinged with green. As the young grow they become very noisy, and their parents, in their assiduous attendance, hardly less so, thus occasionally making themselves agreeable to a quiet neighborhood. The starling has a wide range over Europe and Asia, reaching India but examples from Kashmir, Persia and Asia have been considered worthy of specific distinction, and the resident starling of the countries bordering the Mediterranean is generally regarded as a good species.

ATTENDED CONVENTION

Walter Burns, Who is in Charge of Transfer House Here, Returned Home.

Mr. Geo. McKim, blockman for the International Harvester Co., and Mr. Walter Burns, the local dealer for this district, who is also in charge of the transfer house located in Peterboro' for the purpose of giving quick and efficient service in the shipment of machines and repairs to points east of Toronto, have returned from a two days' convention at Hamilton.

This convention was called the McCormick-Deering Dealers' Annual Convention and Banquet, arranged for the purpose of getting together the heads of the executive, manufacturing and sales forces to discuss together and better understand one another's problems.

The farmer's problem, as presented by the dealers from each section, were thoroughly gone into, also the manufacturers' problems, which have been very great during the past few years, so that the splendid reputation of this great company for high quality goods and efficient service may be maintained and, if possible, improved.

On Monday evening a banquet was given at the Royal Connaught Hotel. Mr. M. J. Laughlin, manager of the Hamilton branch, was the genial and efficient chairman and toastmaster of the occasion. Everyone, from Mr. Bolte, Canadian sales manager, down, evidenced a spirit of co-operation and mutual good fellowship and desire to serve one another, and all enjoyed the occasion very much.

SHED BEST PLACE TO FATTEN STEERS

Experiment Shows That Cattle Kept in Open Air Add Weight Quicker.

Some experiments carried on at the Pennsylvania station gives feeders a measure of value of fresh air in feeding steers. One lot of steers were stabled in the basement of a barn and fed silage with sixteen pounds of shelled corn and two and one-half pounds of cotton seed meal a day. Another lot of steers of the same age, weight and quality were fed the same ration, but instead of being housed in a barn were kept in the open yard with access to an open shed facing the south.

The cattle in the open yard, but having protection against rain and snow in the open shed, gained 2.36 pounds a day, whereas the cattle fed in the barn gained only 2.13 pounds a day. At the end of the feeding period, which lasted 140 days, the steers kept in the basement of the barn sold at $7.60 per 100 pounds, while the steers fed in the open fetched $7.75 per 100 pounds.

Reducedto bushels of corn, the steers kept in the open yard gave a return of $1.10 for each bushel of corn they consumed, but the steers in the barn returned only 99 cents a bushel for what they used. The steers in the open showed a healthier tone also throughout the experiment. The simplest type of covering against inclement weather is all the housing that fattening steers requir e.

BOOM EXPECTED IN CANADIAN EXPORTS

Favorable Prospects For Better Business Conditions in Britain.

TORONTO, Feb. 7 (Canadian Press).—"Favorable prospects for better business conditions in Great Britain during 1925 and subsequent years are a good omen for Canadian producers," says the February letter of the Royal Bank of Canada. In a comprehensive review of commercial and financial relations between Great Britain and Canada the letter says in part:

"We may expect Canadian exports to Great Britain to increase, not only as that country's population increases, but as Canadian producers secure a better foothold in the British market; we may expect Canadian purchases of British goods to increase in the same way and for the same reasons; as opportunities for immigrants become more numerous, we may expect the influx of settlers from Great Britain to equal or even exceed that of pre-war days, and, finally, as the world requires more products of the sort which Canada can supply, we may expect British investors to recognize and take advantage of opportunities for developing Canadian industries, or for sharing the profits of existing concerns by increasing their financial interest in Canadian securities."

The period from 1900 to 1913 was the time of Canada's most rapid progress, and to this progress Great Britain contributed more than any other outside country, though the United States ran her a close second, says the letter. The great proportion of the outside capital required by Canada for development purposes came from London. The war, while it did not lessen Great Britain's demand for Canadian products, did interfere with her capacity for competing with the United States in the Canadian market, and gave the United States an opportunity which has not yet been overcome.

Exports to Great Britain have more than doubled in value since 1913; even after allowing for increase in prices since then, it is obvious Canadian shipments have increased substantially. While consumption in Great Britain of certain articles, such as wheat, is not likely to increase to any extent except as population increased, greater prosperity should enlarge the consumption of goods of other classes.

Turning to immigration, the industria situation in Canada is hardly yet such as to warrant a general increase in immigration, and this situation is not likely to change during the first nine months of 1925, says the letter. The prospects for farmers have, however, improved greatly and those who came to this country after proper investigation of the situation and of their qualifications for success are not likely to regret the move.

"We look forward with satisfaction to a resumption of gl...Wyments by Britain and Canada and the subsequent reopening of the London money market to Canadian borrowers," the letter continues, "but the large borrowings by public authorities, which were so common in pre-war days, must no longer be a feature of our financial relations with the mother country. We are awaiting the increase in population to justify the borrowings of large sums of foreign capital for railways and government and municipal improvements, made before the war, and in the meantime public borrowing must be reduced to a minimum. If, however, British investors see opportunities for placin funds in productive Canadian industries, all concerned will profit, since fresh wealth is created from which interest charges can be met and the country reaps the benefit of additional employment for its citizens."

Successful Hog Grading Demonstration, Brighton

BRIGHTON, Feb. 7.—A successful hog grading demonstration was held at the C.P.R. stock yards here when Mr. McKinnon, official hog grader from the Union stock yards, Toronto, outlined the market requirements and the different grades of hogs. This was followed by a general discussion on the different hogs, as they were driven from one yard into the loading alley and then on into the next yard. Over one hundred hogs were passed through for the official grading in the presence of a crowd of approximately sixty interested farmers.

The men present were extremely well pleased with Mr. McKinnon's demonstration. This is the second hog demonstration which has been held in Northumberland County this year and as a direct result the agricultural representative has applications for placing of several approved pure-bred boars for the improvement of hog stock in the county, and several farmers are in the market for improved breeding stock.

DURHAM B. EGG CIRCLE REPORT

Annual Meeting Held in Agricultural Office, Port Hope.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The annual meeting of the Durham B. Egg Circle was held in the agricultural office, Port Hope, on Saturday afternoon, January 24, 1925. There were a great many members in attendance and possibly this was the most interesting meeting ever held by this circle.

It will be recalled that this circle experienced severe losses during 1923 when they lost their motor truck and load of eggs later in the season, another heavy loss through fire. At the beginning of operations in 1924 the circle was in debt and it required considerable courage to carry on the work. It was found that some hard work was necessary in order to make up the losses and still keep the circle a paying proposition. This, however, was accomplished through the energetic and efficient management of Mr. L. B. Symons. This circle may well be proud of its directors who have brought it successfully through the period of adversity and it was a pleasing thing to note the spirit of appreciation demonstrated at the meeting when the election of officers took place. A fitting resolution passed unanimously, electing the same board of directors for 1925. The following financial statement was presented:

No. members shipping	165
No. doz. shipped	49,265

IMMIGRANTS LURED

Fame of Hollywood Attracts Wanderers From Every Land.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 7.—The motion picture studio lure, which annually entices to Hollywood thousands of persons of all ages, each nursing hope of a screen career, is not confined to the United States, but has spread to other parts of the world, according to James McPherson, chief inspector of the Ellis Island immigration station in New York. He has been visiting here.

Two questions, "How far is it to Hollywood?" and "How can I get into the movies?" are asked constantly by immigrants entering the United States through Ellis Island, McPherson said.

"Whether they come from Poland, Italy, Germany, or France, they seem to have heard of the wealth and fame earned by those who have succeeded in the picture producing business."

To The Editor Of Farm Page

ABOUT ALFALFA.

To the Editor of the Farm Page—¶¶

Dear Sir: In your issue of Saturday, January 31, there appeared an article on alfalfa that I readily concur with Would you kindly allow me to enlarge on it?

Practically all my life I have been trying to study the problems that serround the farmer. Being absolutuly opposed to the use of sweet clover and the evil that it has already done in our country, and overbalancing any good that it may ever do, I have turned my attention to the study of alfalfa. I find, by observation and the experience of the best farmers I come in contact with, that it is the deepest rooted legume that is grown, and is fast becoming of exceptional value over a wide expanse of the country. It furnishes excellent pasture for hogs and makes the best quality of hay for cattle. Care should be taken to save all the leaves in making hay. The hay should be raked or bunched before the leaves are dry enough to fall off in handling. A deep, thoroughly drained, non-acid soil, free from hard-pan, is essential to success, and the use of well-rotted manure is desirable.

There are several varieties and varied prices, ranging from $10.00 to $45.00 per bushel, according to variety and grade. The varieties are common—Ontario Variegated, or Growmore and Grimm. The common, which is most commonly used, should not be entertained with any grade, or at any price, for it has proved itself very independable throughout Ontario. The Ontario Variegated has been more dependable where the proper grade is used, and the seed obtained from the proper source. But the most dependable of all alfalfas is the Grimm. It has a spreading or branching root system which prevents the plant from heaving, and on this account will stand the most rigid winter, and on account of its habit of growth only about half the amount of seed is needed to that of the common variety.

The nature of the seed of the different varieties are so much alike that it is impossible to distinguish the different varieties by the seed, so it resolves itself into the known origin of the seed which only can be done by field inspection only. Certified seed of the highest grade Northwestern grown, coming from such sections as Montana, Idaho or Alberta, will give the best. Ontario seed, to give the best results, should be sown in sections farther south. Just as an illustration, let me give you a case in Seymour Township last year. Passing by a farmer cutting his second cutting of his crop of afalfa for the 3rd year, he drew my attention t the fact that whenc he seeded his field he seeded half of it with certified Grimm, getting it from a friend at Brooks, Alberta, at a cost of about $50.00 per bushel; 10 pounds to the acre was used; and the other half with the common, grown locally, at a cost of $15.00 per bushel, using 20 pounds to the acre. He said that the results in the first cutting would more than pay the difference in the cost of seeding.

Alfalfa, as well as any crop that grows its seeds in pods, will give double results if inoculated with a bacterial culture which, all being well, I will explain at a future date.

Thanking you, I remain, yours, etc.,
W. H. MERRILL.

ABOUT SWEET CLOVER.

Dear Sir: In the issue of your paper dated January 31, there appeared an article, About Alfalfa, written by one who signed himself—Durham County Farmer. It was evidently meant to be a reply to the views of G. A. Carpenter on Sweet Clover—and I'm sorry I did not see Mr. Carpenter's article on the subject. I have, however, had some experience with this, "one of the worst weeds we have to contend with," as our friend calls it, and have also carried on some experimental work in connection with its value and uses. I will endeavor to give such information as I have at hand as briefly as possible.

I want, however, to make it quite plain before I go any further that I know alfalfa to be the leading legume for use where it can be grown successfully and in such places I would not advise the growing of sweet clover to any great extent. Many of our soils, however, have proven to be deficient in lime, and many districts find alfalfa quite uncertain and in these places sweet clover can be grown to advantage to both the soil and the grower by increasing soil fertility and increasing the income.

We have used sweet clover as a pasture crop for a number of years and find it a success for various reasons. We can produce more pasture on smaller acreage, which leaves more land for other crops. In the spring the stock should be turned on it before the growth is too rank in order to keep the pasture of the best quality. We have had no trouble with bloating of cattle on sweet clover pasture, and in experiments carried on by Henry and Morrison (page 234), they tell us that very little trouble has ever been experienced by using sweet clover for a pasture crop for either sheep or cattle. We find that breeding ewes, pastured for a few weeks in the fall on spring seeded sweet clover, prior to breeding, produced a larger percentage of spring lambs.

As a soil builder and improver of the physical condition of the soil, we feel it is unsurpassed by any of the legumes. We find at the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa, where sweet clover was seeded in the spring, that by autumn the soil was enriched by 7,376 pounds of leaves and stems, green weight, and 13,180 pounds of roots, green weight, or a total of 5,773 pounds dry matter. In an analysis of the plant food contained in these it was found as follows: Nitrogen, 216.6 pounds; phosphorus, 39.6 pounds; potash, 75.5 pounds. We have not at hand a recent price list of these fertilizers, but by former prices this would amount to approximately $30 to $35 per acre. This merely mentions the added fertility, to say nothing of the opening of the subsoil, increased capacity for holding moisture, increase in amount of air which can get into the soil build up beneficial bacteria and many other benefits derived. When we turn to page 233 (Henry and Morrison), we find this statement: "Thousands of acres of depleted soils in Kentucky and Tennessee are being restored to fertility by this legume." If it increases soil fertility in Kentucky, Tennessee, and at Ottawa, we are inclined to believe that Durham and Peterboro' Counties are no exception to the rule.

We have also used sweet clover as a silage crop for the past two years and have had excellent results, and it has been found very satisfactory at the Kemptville Agricultural School. In comparing it with corn as a silage crop we find it has many advantages, namely: It does not require any work in the spring preparing the seed bed nor planting. Requires no heavy fertilizing such as is necessary for corn. Does away with the summer cultivation of the silage crop. Leaves soil in better condition for following crop. Keeps weeds under control with less work. Is cut and ensiled at a time of year when time is more plentiful. Has less fibre, lower acidity, and is much higher in protein than corn silage. We find the following is the comparative analysis of corn silage and sweet clover silage.

	Corn Silage	Sweet Clover Silage
Protein	2.7 %	4.7 %
Fat	.9 %	.54%
Carbohydrates	12.7 %	10.7 %
Fibre	7.0 %	5.0 %
Ash	2.1 %	2.1 %
Acidity	1.75%	1.12%

As a hay crop we have used sweet clover and found it quite satisfactory, although we find alfalfa preferable for feeding stock. In tests carried on by Wilson of South Dakota Station, it was found that steers fed sweet clover hay as roughage for 91 days made practically the same gains as those fed alfalfa hay—each gaining over 2.4 pounds per day. In this test the sweet clover hay was cut up for feeding.

When we consider these facts from various parts of the country and we know that thousands of acres are planted to sweet clover to-day for one acre ten years ago, we wonder if the farmers of to-day might not be farther ahead financially had sweet clover been used as a forage crop decades ago. We do, however, agree with our friend in Durham County that alfalfa is a great and good crop, and it should be used more than it is at present. We feel sure that should he care to give us any further information regarding alfalfa he will not neglect to sign his name and, in closing, we hope and trust that his farm will not be taken away from him over night by this terrible weed.

I am, respectfully yours,
PERCY W. GARDNER.

When Lambs Are Ready For Sale

When is a lamb a lamb no longer? Not a senseless question at all, if you feed lambs and when you sell them find the buyer insists that your lot is yearlings. The best money is in the younger sort and feeding for too long a period lowers the price. When western lambs are put in the corn field to lamb down the crop they ought to be ready for market in about ninety days and not weigh over 86 pounds. That is about the dividing line between the lamb and the yearling.

Even when given the run of a corn field it is desirable to do the finishing in the dry feed lot. Shelled corn and alfalfa make an ideal combination, but clover hay and a little linseed meal are also excellent for use with shelled corn. The corn field is cleared up by hogs and breeding ewes. The saves labor and lessens costs.

EGG MARKETING ON SOUND BASIS

English Line Egg Circle Reports Successful Year in 1924.

GOOD RETURNS

The annual meeting of the English Line Egg Circle was held on Wednesday afternoon, January 28, in the Farmers' Club room, Campbellford. Although the weather was extremely cold it did not affect the enthusiasm of the large attendance. The business of the meeting was to complete the payments of all profits for the year of 1924, present the annual financial report, elect officers and prepare for this year's operations. The following financial statement was presented:

No. members shipping	130
No. doz. shipped	68,488
Grossvalue of shipments	$18,399.64
Cash advanced at current prices	16,086.35
Gross profits	2,313.29
Manager's commission	856.10
Incidental expenses, cases, &c	177.79
Net profits returned to members	1,279.40
Assets.
215 egg cases, valued at	80.00

(Signed)
WILLIAM LOCKE, President.
MRS. BERT HAY, Secretary.

This circle is operating under the contract system and is experiencing no difficulty. The entire system is founded upon business principles and no sentiment is permitted to interfere. The members are under contract with the circle which undertakes to handle their eggs. The manager is also under contract, thus definitely establishing the business for a specified period. Remarkable progress has been made since this system was adopted in the spring of 1923. The membership has increased from 16 to 130 members and $1,940.87 in net profits divided among members have spared no effort on making this a according to the volume of business transacted by each. This circle is proving its right to existence through being a money maker for its members. The directors, manager and members outstanding success and are now turning their attention to flock improvement. A resolution was unanimously adopted at their meeting to have all the circle members' flocks culled during the coming summer.

The good men do lives after them; the evil gets after them.

SIXTH ANNUAL POULTRY SHOW HELD COBOURG

Show Proved to Be the Most Successful One Ever Held in This District.

1,200 ENTRIES

Five Cups Presented to Successful Prize Bird Owners.

COBOURG, Feb. 7.—The sixth annual poultry show, which has just concluded at the Armouries here, was a success in every respect. It was held under the auspices of the Cobourg Branch of the Northumberland and Durham Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Association. There were twelve hundred entries all told, which is an increase over last year, and had not the weather been so very cold there would have been more. Some exhibitors, who had filed entries, did not come owing to the severe weather. As it was, the exhibit was a great credit to the poultry industry of the district.

The Government exhibits were splendid, and a source of education and interest to all who saw them. One exhibit from the Experimental Farm demonstrated, by slides, models, etc., the ideal type of henhouses, and gave valuable hints upon the raising of poultry also the different diseases, their treatment and cure.

There was another exhibit showing the correct method of handling eggs and also of grading them.

The Judges.

The judges were Messrs. L. G. Jarvis and Geo. Robertson for poultry, Chas. J. Counter, Cobourg, for pigeons.

Presentation of Cups.

A very pleasant function, before the show closed, was the presentation of the five cups to the winners. In the absence of Dr. E. W. Hayden, president, who was called out of town, the vice-president, Mr. John Morrow, ably occupied the chair. The Assembly Hall, where the event took place before an interested company, was the scene of this event. Mr. A. R. Willmott, councillor, made the presentations, as Mayor McArthur was called away. Mr. Willmott performed this duty with a few well-chosen words, and afterwards, Mr. Morrow spoke briefly, complimenting the successful contestants upon their success and upon their fine showing of prize birds. The winners of the cups were as follows:—

The Dundas Cup, donated by W. H. Dundas, Cobourg, for best S.C.W. Leghorn cockerel and pullet, awarded to R. V. Jones, Bowmanville.

Griffin Cup, donated by Herman Griffin, Cobourg, for best collection of Barred Plymouth Rocks, awarded to Harry Stinson, Cobourg.

Cobourg World Cup, donated by the Cobourg World for best collection of Orpingtons, awarded to O'Flynn, Govier & Kennedy, Belleville.

DeLong Cup, donated by Wm. DeLong, Cobourg, for best collection of White Wyandottes, awarded to Morrow & Lapp, Cobourg.

Maybee Cup, donated by M. E. Maybee, M.P., for best cock and hen cockerel and pullet in S.C.R.I. Reds, was not awarded, as there was not sufficient competition.

CROWS ARE NOT SO BLACK AS THEY ARE SOMETIMES PAINTED

Everything They Do is Not Destructive as People Are Led to Believe.

EAT MANY PESTS

Fish Crow is a Species Quite Different From the Common Crow.

Crows have recently been roundly condemned in numerous sportsmen's periodicals and newspapers because of their destructiveness to other bird life especially game birds. The articles, which were based on information gathered on the coastal islands of Virginia by an expedition financed by a well-known ammunition company, have made a profound impression in many quarters. Under-emphasis on peculiar local conditions, however, together with lack of distinction between the common crow and the fish crow, and a faulty interpretation of the evidence at hand, has conveyed a grossly exaggerated and wholly erroneous idea of the predatory habits of the crow, according to specialists of the Biological Survey, United States Department of Agriculture.

That the situation is by no means so serious as pictured is apparent from articles that the Virginia islands mentioned abound in game and are the favorite nesting places of large numbers of marsh birds. The whole district also is, and has been for many generations, one of the favorite hunting places of the east.

There is no question that on these Virginia islands the fish crow and the smaller numbers of the common crow present are seen at their worst, as regards their relation to other birds. These objectionable traits have been given due consideration in the efforts of the Biological Survey to appraise correctly the economic worth of the crow. Such activities, however, must be placed in their true perspective, and evidence secured under peculiar local conditions cannot serve as a basis for a universal estimation of the species.

Government experts state that the bird to blame for most of the vandalism on the Virginia islands is the fish crow, a species quite different in habits from the common crow. While mention has been made of this fact in the articles referred to, the difference is frequently lost sight of and the whole race of crows is condemned by the evidence obtained largely against the maritime species.

A number of eggs of other birds reported to have been found under crow nests has also been emphasized. Under a right interpretation, this evidence will have a less serious meaning so far as other bird life is concerned. Scientists state that breeding birds readily replenish losses due to egg destruction, and under the conditions described the production of two or more sets of eggs before a brood is brought forth is doubtless of regular occurrence.

The Biological Survey takes the attitude that on game farms and on reservations where both time and money are spent to maintain bird life in more than normal numbers, control of certain injurious species, including the crow, is warranted and even necessary. Government experts have done considerable experimental work and advise control measures in localities where the birds are injurious to crops. On the other hand, a careful study of the economic status of the crow demonstrates that over much of its range the bird probably does as much good as harm, and under some conditions its usefulness is pronounced. A full discussion of the crow's worth is given in Farmers' Bulletin 1102 "The Crow in its Relation to Agriculture," obtainable on application to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C.

Interesting through the above bulletin from the U.S. Department of Agriculture undoubtedly is, and with all due consideration to the fact that sportsmen frequently exaggerate the destructiveness of the crow, there can be no doubt that the black rascal named has been outlawed with good reason. The provincial game laws of Canada class him with such predatory species as eagles, goshawks, pigeon hawks, duck hawks, Cooper's hawks, hawk owls and other natural enemies of protected birds life· the conclusion from the sportsman's viewpoint being that while the crow may not be as black as he is painted, he is decidedly shady.

In all, there are three main species of North American crows· some of these being divided into sub-species. The common crow (Corvus brachyrhynchos brachyrhynchos) ranges practically over the whole continent and is known in localities as the "Florida" crow (Corvus brachyrhynchos pascuus), the "Southern Crow" (Corvus brachyrhynchos pascuus) and the "Western" crow (Corvus brachyrhynchos hesperis). The other two main species are the "Northwestern crow (Corvus cauninus) and the "fish" crow (Corvus ossifragus). Each of these latter species shows a distinct preference for coastal regions· the Northwestern crow ranging from Puget Sound to Alaska and the fish crow occupying that whole coastal region from Connecticut to the state of Texas.

There are also four species of ravens and four sub-species· each of these having diabolical family names as well as reprehensibie habits. Ravens are larger than crows, are frequently marked with white feather bases, have more raucous voices, and prefer solitude whereas crows congregate in large numbers in settled districts.

In so far as concerns the "crow's" value from the agricultural viewpoint, it is about a fifty-fifty proposition. He is a voracious feeder on destructive beetles bugs, worms and especially grasshoppers and in addition, he consumes carrion— all of which is distinctly in his favor. Unfortunately, he also destroys beneficial toads and small snakes, newly hatched chickens, game birds and their eggs, and is a pest around grain fields in that he destroys large amounts of sprouting corn and wheat in the order named.

CHALLENGE TO YOUNG PEOPLE

Omemee and Emily Youth Encouraged to Form Debating Society.

PRIZES OFFERED

OMEMEE, Feb. 7.—In 1920 Mr. F. G. Sandy, ex-M.L.A., offered prizes to young people in any township in South Victoria, who would organize a debating society, and $10.00 in gold for those who won in the series for the riding. In past years he gave a cup, but no recognition was made of those who were successful in each township. This year, however, some public spirited men in Lindsay are going to assist and encourage this very worthy undertaking —the development of rural leaders.

This year those who are successful in a township will receive some recognition.

It was no doubt due to this organization that two young men from Mariposa in South Victoria defeated two fine young men from Victoria College in the Lindsay Collegiate and during the farmers' convention met a team from Essex County and defeated them in Massey Hall, and thus won the Burnaby cup, a prize given to those who are successful in debating for the Province of Ontario.

This debate was listened to by an audience of some three thousand.

In the years gone by, all that seemed to be required to be a good farmer was that he knew how to manage his own farm well. But in this day or organization and co-operation, if agriculture is to remain on the map and occupy the position that her importance would justify her in filling, her young men and women must be trained to present the cause of agriculture in a clear and forcible manner, and we know of no better means than by debates. We therefore desire to congratulate Mr. Sandy for organizing our young people in this county. As some of our young men from this township have done well before, we trust they will avail themselves of this opportunity of improving themselves and encourage those who seek their good.

Black S.C. Menorcas—Roy Trimson, Oshawa· L. B. Stinson, Trenton· Dr. R. W. Hayden.

Juniors Win Round-Carew's Rink Take 2 Trophies to Lindsay-Havelock vs. Lakefield Monday

FRANK CAREW'S RINK WON TWO CUPS AND THEIR FIRST PRIZES

Lindsay Skip Added the Waddell Trophy to the Peterboro Cup.

FOUR DAY STAY.

Curlers Were Anxious to Get Home—To Lindsay on Freight.

Impatient to get back to their homes and their work after four days' curling at the Peterboro bonspiel, the visiting finalist rinks, with the exception of the Edmunds' rink of Millbrook, took the first trains out of the city yesterday afternoon. Frank Carew with two trophies and two sets of first prizes in his grip caught a way-freight for Lindsay with the rest of his rink, and the De Laney four from Cobourg, whom Carew defeated by 12 to 7 in the Waddell Cup final, had a scant three minutes to grab the noon train. Their prizes will be forwarded to them.

The little formalities that mark the presentataion of the trophies to the victors were necessarily skimped, and he Bonspiel committee thoroughly sympathized with the desires of the last remaining rinks to return to their homes as soon as possible. They had arrived here Tuesday morning, and owing to the larger entry list this year and other protracting circumstances, such as the Waddell Cup series, many of the outside curlers remained here a day longer than usual.

The bonspiel "dope" proved correct insofar as the rinks that reached the final rounds were skipped by experienced curlers.

Morrow, Kay, Carew, De Lany, Edmunds, and Dobbin have been through other tournaments, and it was not surprising that they were again finalists.

Bob Edmunds of Millbrook defeated Ross Dobbin by 12-11 in the deciding game for the Matthews-Blackwell trophy. At the conclusion of this competition, George Boucher, president of the club, presented the trophy and its accompanying first prizes, four mahogony mantel clocks to the members of the Edmunds' rink. On behalf of the Peterboro Club, Mr. Boucher warmly congratulated the Millbrook rink. They had curled consistently well on good and bad ice. He hoped Millbrook would continue to send rinks to the Peterboro games.

Mr. Boucher paid a compliment to Jack Renwick and Jimmy Metheral for the efficient manner in which they had handled the details of the games. The club was fortunate in having two such experienced secredule directors.

Mr. Edmunds thanked the Peterboro curlers for the splendid bonspiel they had provided and especially for the generous prizes given. Millbrook curlers had always received the best of treatment in Peterboro, and they enjoyed immensely the games and the association with so many other curlers.

Bob Hicks presented the second prizes, four silver entree dishes, to Ross Dobbin and his rinkmates. It is not so long ago that Dobbin was playing first stone for Bill Campbell with Ray Best and Alex. Archibald completing that famous aggregation; now he is skipping his own rink into final games, as proof of his own ability and of the competency of his tutors.

Replying to Mr. Hicks' speech, Dobbin and Tommy Donaldson, his vice, admitted tht they had surprised themselves in getting to the finals. The consolation series was the highest they had hoped for. The second prizes were four silver entree dishes.

Jimmy Metheral alone conducted the brief presentation to Frank Carew and his rink with a few words of praise for winning both the Waddell and Peterboro trophies. They took home both cups, four electric heaters as first prizes in the Peterboro Cup games, and four wool auto rugs, the first prizes with the Waddell Cup. The second prizes to the De Lany rink of Cobourg were Parker Duofold fountain pens.

The Morrow Cup final between George Morrow and Alex. Kay is to be scheduled by agreement.

Mr. Orme Gamsby of Orono is in town, being interested in the Junior hockey team of Bowmanville. Orme says that Orono is right ready for the word "Play Ball," in the Durham and Ontario League.

DUNDEE IS BANNED.

Failed to Fulfill Fight Contract in France.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(Canadian Press).—The long arm of suspension lifted its hand against Johnny Dundee Friday when the New York State Athletic Commission announced that it had indefinitely banned the former featherweight champion, following a similar action taken against him by the French Boxing Federation for his failure to fulfill a contract to meet Fred Bretonnel, French lightweight. At the same time the Commission announced it had blacklisted Fred Fulton, Rochester, Minn., heavyweight; his manager, Jack Reddy, and Fred. Winsor, Tony Fuente's manager, for their part in the framed match staged between Fulton and Fuente in California, to which the trio pleaded guilty. Fuente, who was acquitted of complicity in the affair, was given a clean bill by the New York Commission.

The ban against Dundee puts the former champion in the bad graces of every important organized boxing commission in the world, similar action having been taken by the International Boxing Union and the National Boxing Association, in addition to the New York and French salons.

SKI EXPERTS IN FILM

Peterboro and Ski and Snowshoe Clubs will be glad to learn that they have an opportunity of seeing over fifty Ski champions in action. The first moving picture to reach the screen featuring this sport is booked for the Royal, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday of next week. The picture was taken in the Swiss Alps, where the ski originated and is filled with death defying stunts that for breath-taking 'punch' rival the most dangerous evolutions of a stunt-flying airplane, swooping down slopes almost vertical, with the speed of a runaway train, leaping across deep chasms, mountain streams and even houses, then wild chases makes a succession of thrills that keep patrons on the edge of their seats.

ALLEN IS CHAMPION.

Speed Skating Events Lost by Canadian After a Big Struggle.

SARANAC LAKE, N.Y., Feb. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Frances Allen of Chicago, is international amateur outdoor speed skating champion for 1925. By virtue of taking second places yesterday in the 440 yard and the five mile races, victory Thursday in the three quarter mile race and first place on Wednesday in the half mile event. Allen took unto himself the crown won last year by Chas. Gorman of St. John's N.B. Allen's victories and places gave him a total of 100 points. Valentine Bialis of Lake Placid was runner up with 80 points.

Gorman, the defending champion won the 440 yard race to-day in 40 2-5 seconds, two and two-fifths seconds slower than the time he made last year when he won the nternational crown. The Canadian ace went down fighting grimly.

COBB PREDICTS PENNANT

Detroit Manager Smiles as He Dopes Out His Team's Chances to Win Championship.

TYRUS RAYMOND COBB.

Here is the latest picture of Tyrus Raymond Cobb, baseball's greatest player. It was snapped after a recent interview in which Cobb announced Detroit would win the pennant in 1925.

From the smile it would seem that Cobb isn't doing much worrying during the winter. However it is noticeable that age is beginning to exact its toll. He's growing a bit portly.

No longer is Cobb the menace he once was on the bases. Recently he stated that he did not intend to play in more than 100 games the coming season.

JUNIORS DEFEAT BOWMANVILLE 6-0 AND WIN THE ROUND BY 11-2

Heavy Ice Did Not Prove a Handicap Against Lighter Local Team.

THREE PENALTIES.

The Peterboro Juniors added six goals to their lead in their second round series with Bowmanville, when they beat the crew from the Rubber Town 6 to 0 last night. The score of Monday's game in Bowmanville was 5 to 2 for the Petes, so they won the round 11 to 2. The lakeshore boys beat LeBarr twice before the middle of the first game, and were unable to count again in ninety minutes of hockey.

The Young Petes were all over their heavier opponents. The slushy going which was expected to favor the larger fellows from the lakeshore, retarded them more than it did the Petes. The ice was soft and rough and seriously interfered with all attempts at combination and the rolling puck was often assisted on its journey by a skate.

Nip Dwan of Toronto was in charge of the game and was very lenient in calling offside. He handed out three penalties, two to Cheu and one to Corden, but could have given a few more.

Shrimp McDougal was again the star of the Peterboro squad, with Salmon also occupying a good deal of the limelight. Le Barr played a whale of a game in goal and saved several times when goals looked unavoidable. Milloy did his share in what little combination was possible, and Ridpath and Cheu rushed and back-checked to good advantage. On the defence, Collins and Johnston stepped into all comers and many a promising rush was steered into a corner.

James was the best of the Bowmanville team, but he was beaten by a couple of easy-looking shots. Hooper and Chartran led the attack but none of the team showed the staying powers of the Petes and frequent subbing was necessary.

Bowmanville.—Goal, James; defence, Hooper and Hughes; centre, Chartran; left wing, Osborne; right wing, Corden. Subs., Gilfillan and Lockington.

Peterboro.—Goal, Le Barr; defence, Collins and Salmon; centre, McDougall; left wing, Cheu; right wing, Ridpath. Subs., Milloy and Johnston.

Referee, "Nip" Dwan, Toronto.

First Period.

Play had hardly commenced before McDougall circled the visitors' defence for the first goal. The locals continued to press and James had to be real good to keep them out. After six minutes Milloy passed out from the corner to Cheu, who slipped it past James from close in. Hooper and Chartran led a number of sallies on the Petes' goal, but Le Barr stopped all they had. The next goal was scored on a neat play, when Milloy picked up the rebound of McDougall's shot and beat James. Right after the face-off, Collins secured from a Bowmanville rush and scored on a long shot from outside the visitors' defence. Cheu and Corden drew the only penalties of the period near the close, but the five-man hockey produced no goals.

Rush after rush with both teams using golf strokes on the rolling puck featured the second period. Salmon scored on a long shot at the middle of the period and came right back for another one right after. This ended the scoring for the game.

A constant rushing from end to end with both goalies making some sensational stops, started with the first face-off and continued through the final period. Both goals were subjected to heavy bombardment, but neither team could rattle the twine. Cheu drew the only penalty but the visitors were not dangerous whtile he was off.

1st Period:—
1. Peterbor—McDoungall ..... .12
2. Peterboro—Cheu (Milloy) 6.00
3. Peterboro—Milloy (McDougall) 5.00
4. Peterboro—Collins 2.00

2nd Period:—
5. Peterboro—Salmon 10.00
6. Peterboro—Salmon 1.00

3rd Period:—
No score.

FIGHT FINISHED FINAL GAME IN TRENT LEAGUE

Havelock Won Trent Valley Championship for Third Consecutive Year.

LAKEFIELD NEXT.

Railway Town Defeated Tweed 5-0—Several General Scraps.

HAVELOCK, Feb. 6. — Hockey: Havelock vs. Tweed, Trent Valley League chamionship. Played at Havelock on Thursday evening, Feb 5th:

Havelock started away with great combination, and in less than three minutes from the face-off C. Brennan scored a nice counter. Right from the face-off again Havelock started down the ice ice apd kept Wagger, the Tweed goalie busy but he stopped a lot of good shots and after some mid-ice play Havelock got going again and C. Brennan added another. Play was fast and furious, and Havelock weer pepperring shots at the Tweed goalie, but that was all the scoring done in the first period, and time was called with the score 2-0 in favor of Havelock.

After the interval both teams went into the game for all they were worth but Havelock's combination was too good for the Tweed boys, and soon Havelock were awarded another counter by "Rugs" Wright from a pass from Doug. Brennan.

Not satisfied with this lead they still continued to bombard Mr. Wagger, who was playing a great game, and on two occasions there were as many as five men on top of him in the net but he kept his goal intact until Brennan, Pollock and Wright combined down the ice and Wright scored another tally making the total 4-0. After several spurts by a couple of the Tweed forwards which came to noting the second period ended with Havelock leading by 4-0.

Third Period.

After ten minutes' rest, both teams started in whirlwind style.

Although Havelock's net guardian was only called upon two or three times. Tweed could not get through the defence. Havelock kept trying to increase their lead and but for Wagger the Tweed goalie the score would have been very large.

Featured by Fight.

With only five minutes to go an incident occured which spoiled what would have been the best game of the season. It appeared that after a shot had been made at Hooper, the Havelock goalie, the Tweed man that made the shot skated up to the net and Hooper, seeing all his men in the Tweed half of the ice, turned the puck to the back of the net and then went out after i. As Quinn of Tweed was after it, too, Hooper held it against the fence and Quinn could not get it away, so he started to pound Hooper, and then the fight started. Barney Quinn came down and jumped in amongst them, and then Doug. Brennan skated down. The fight seemed to be over and Mr. W. Jackson gave Douglas five minutes and Quinn of Tweed five, and they left the ice together.

The game was about to start when shouting started from the penalty box. T. Beatty, manager of Tweed, seems to have called Brennan by his wrong name, and another fight started and everyone mixed it, but the ice was cleared and Havelock lined up again, and with four minutes more to go Tweed would not line up so Mr. Jackson dropped the puck to the Havelock centre, and they took it down the ice and put it in the net, and that ended the game. Tweed being outskated right from the first four or five minutes.

There was a large attendance, and everyone had their money's worth. After the game the crowd assembled in the Town Hall, and dancing was indulged in until train time.

Credit must be given Mr. Wm. Jackson for the way in which he handled the game, because at times it was inclined to be rough, and that quite often happens in any game.

Havelock played the game of their lives, and the boys are to be congratulated on winning the Trent Valley League, which entitles them to hold the cup which they have won three years in succession. They are all good players, and not one could be picked out who did not star all through the game, and the Havelock fans are hoping that they will go further in the O.H.A. play-off.

FARMERS LOOK FOR GOOD THAW

Cisterns and Wells Are Dry and Water is Being Hauled.

STIRLING NEWS.

STIRLING, Feb.7.—There is lots of snow here and plenty of cold weather but no January thaw. A great many cisterns and well are nearly dry and a thaw would be very acceptable.

Plenty of coal is being unloaded here this winter. Messrs. Spry and McKee had several cars last week. Some of it being for the cheese-makers of this section, who were unloading the first of this week. Robert Christie had a car of wood unloaded here this week.

Mr. Geo. Richards had an exciting experience in Belleville on Tuesday night when his team ran away. He hung on to the lines and was dragged some distance after the sleigh upset. He saw he could not stop them so released his hold. The team ran against a light standard, breaking the neck-yoke and freeing them selves from the sleigh and after running to near the eastern limits of the city were finally caught.

Fortunately neither the driver or horses were hurt and Mr. Richards was able to repair the sleighs and harness so that he could return home at once.

PETES LEAVE FOR SOO TO-MORROW

Will Play Exhibition Games on Monday and Tuesday Nights.

The Peterboro Seniors will leave tomorrow afternoon via C.P.R. for Sault Ste. Marie, where they will play exhibition games on Monday and Tuesday night with the Greyhounds. The Petes are due to arrive at the Soo at 1 o'clock on Monday, and will leave for home at 10.30 Tuesday night, the game being called for 8 o'clock to allow the visitors to get away.

The trip makes new hockey history for Peterboro, inasmuch as it is the first occasion on which a Peterboro team has played in the Soo district—in fact it is the longest trip ever made by a Peterboro hockey organization.

The Petes are expected home on Wednesday night and on Friday will have to journey to Hamilton, where they meet the Rowing Club in the second last game of the group schedule.

Grover Halpin's Intermediates had the shortest O.H.A. season on record. Just seventy minutes all told. At that the Cinderellas of the local hockey world had the toughest kind of luck to be caught by Lakefield on the kind of ice that was ideal for the Kennedy team's favorite hit-and-run tactics. The Intermediates have had little or no practice, but there was some good material available and the team would have developed if it had had a chance to get going.

Peterboro cannot be congratulated upon the support it is giving the local Juniors. The Young Petes are a smart bunch of youngsters who have gone through their group and first round clashes without a loss and yet drew a handful of fans last night. It is a queer kink that an undefeated Junior team should be working into a bigger deficit every round it wins, and is a bit discouraging to those who realize that the Juniors of today are the Seniors of tomorrow.

The Peterboro Juniors and Senior outfits are bear cats defensively. In six O.H.A. games but seven shots have been shot past Joe Dwyer, while Jack Le Barr, the Junior goaler, has been beaten only nine times in six games.

The Peterboro Juniors will likely be drawn against the Brockville-Trenton winners in the next round.

TORONTO NORMALS TRIM THE LOCALS

Budding Pedagogues Crossed Sticks at Brock Street Rink 5 to 0.

The Toronto Normals defeated the Peterboro School team 5 to 0, this morning on the Brock Street Arena, in the annual hockey game between the two schools. The victory this morning gives the Toronto school two wins in the three years.

The pace was fast considering the poor condition of the ice and during the first two periods the play was about even. Combination was an uncertain form of play with the puck rolling and tossing and many spills were taken, nevertheless, the budding pedagogues were always on the puck and turned in some neat stick-handling.

The first period went scoreless and the local school had a little the better of the play with Cornish and Manson rushing nicely. In the second period Toronto notched a single goal, Stuart slamming it past Raines from close in. The third saw the Toronto outfit all over the P. N. S. and they ran four counters in quick succesion. Raines, the Peterboro goalie thought he would take a hand outside the nets and issued forth peds and all.

Cornish, the centre ice man, was consistent player for the locals and was the best of the crew. Manson and Patterson were also effective.

The Toronto team outskated the locals at every stage and have a smart working sexette.

The line-upsp:

Toronto Normals—Goal, Howson; Defence, Morgan and Westover; Centre, Wallace; Left Wing, Stuart, Right Wing, Allan. Subs: MacDonald.

Peterboro Normals: Goal, Raines, Defence, Pinkham and Patterson, Centre, Cornish; Left Wing, Manson Right Wing, Doris. Subs: Meade and Staples.

Referee—Howard Hall.

Constipation of Ten Years' Standing

Clergyman's Wife Permanently Relieved by Internal Bathing.

From many sufferers from constipation and its ills come letters that fairly bubble over with enthusiasm about the new health and joy of life resulting from Dr. Tyrrell's new system of Internal Bathing.

Warm water is Nature's best cleanser for the colon or lower bowel, but until Dr. Tyrrell perfected his new J. B. L. Cascade there was no means of inducing warm water to travel harmlessly through the whole length of the colon, ridding it of the poisons that linger there causing constipation rheumatism, appendicitis, hardening of the arteries, sick headaches, etc.

A Winnipeg clergyman writes: "The J. B. L. Cascade has really given my wife a new lease of life. For years she has been doctoring for constipation which became worse each year. Since using the J. B. L. Cascade first about four years ago, she has not been sick a day, and has become robust and strong."

The J. B. L. Cascade is an invention perfected by Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell, of New York, and has done more during the past few years to restore health and lessen disease that all other means combined. Ask for booklet explaining all about Internal Bathing and what it has done for others. It is entirely free, or write to Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute, 181 College street, Toronto.

The J. B. L. Cascade is now being shown and explained at Warne Drug Company, Peterboro.

CONCERT OF FOLK MUSIC.

(By Jeanette.)

The first evening of Folk Music to be given in the Conservatory of Music Hall was presented last evening to an audience of about two hundred people, and was an unqualified success. The programme was artistically arranged by Miss Edwina Palmer, L.R.A.M., and proved exceptionally attractive, each number being greeted with applause.

The entertainment opened with an interesting talk on Folk Music, given by Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park, whose references to the folk music of different lands were listened to with keen attention. A quartette of the pleasant, homely folk music selections of Germany followed, played by the Junior String Ensemble, a clever group of four small girl pupils of Miss Palmer. Titles of their attractively-played little pieces were "Why Shed So Many Tears?" "Away With Care and Melancholy," "A Hunter Bold,' and "Love's Farewell."

Specimens of the folk music of England were the three songs sung by Mr. Robert A. Brown, his fine, clear bass heard with splendid effect in the old favorite, "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," "Hunting the Hare," a sturdy, jovial song of the chase, and a rollicking old sea song, "The Mermaid,' 'the latter particularly well adapted to Mr. Brown's voice, and bringing repeated applause at its conclusion.

The Senior String Ensemble, led by Miss Palmer, with Miss Margaret Rome at the piano, was heard to excellent advantage in three Irish folk songs, the lovely "Minstrel Boy," "From Erin's Shores," and "Land and Sea. Applause greeted the pretty music of this group, and also the following number on the programme, the dainty dancing of eight young girls, pupils of Miss C. Littlefield at the Y.W.C.A. Their light-footed grace and pretty costuming was exemplified in two sprightly numbers, a folk dance of Old England, "If All the World Were Paper,' and one of Bohemia. Miss Madline Willis played the accompaniment.

Probably the outstanding singer of the evening was Mr. Douglas Carlisle, whose splendid resonant baritone, with its tenor-like quality in the upper register, was at its best The expressive rendering and sympathetic quality of the music of this vocalist adds immeasurably to its attraction, and the folk music of Scotland which he sang for his hearers was eminently 'suited to the rich, resonant tones, with a wealth of expression in the second number, "Charlie is Awa'," the plaint of the followers of the exiled Stuart. "Ye Bank and Braes of Bonnie Doon" and "Scots Wha Hae" were other splendidly-sung numbers.

The odd folk music of Russia formed the basis for the offering by the Conservatory String Quartette, led by Miss Palmer, with three violins and a 'cello, and accompaniment by Miss Margaret Widdess.

The musicians in this quartette play with fine, clear tone and an evident appreciation of their music, and their rendition of four brief numbers, "The Red Sarafan," "Song and Chorus," "On the River," and "Song and Dance," was greeted with renewed applause.

Miss Mathilde Masson sang very prettily, in sweet voice, two short selections in French, "Vive la Canadienne," and "Malbrouck," illustrating the folk music of France, and Welsh songs were splendidly rendered in duet by Mr. D. Carlisle and Mr. R. A. Brown, who gave in vigorous, full-voiced fashion, with accompaniment by Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park, two fine numbers, "Hark, the Summons' and "Men of Harlech."

One of the most attractive portions of a very attractive and interesting programme was a unique bit in the old Scotch ballad, enacted in pantomime, "The Twa Sisters o' Binnorie," sung by Mrs. Park to music arranged by Miss Agnes Logan on an ancient Scotch folk tune. The pantomime which illustrated it was arranged by Mrs. W. McKee Bingham and enacted by a group of her junior pupils, in a manner that showed their careful training. The management of their clever little pantomime was practically in the hands of the pupils themselves, and they made it very interesting. Costumes appropriately chosen were worn, and a clever little stage setting was managed by the aid of a few props and two tall, lighted candles.

The dramatic, sombre music of the old Scotch ballad, with its dreamy atmosphere and odd words, was eminently suited to Mrs. Park's voice, which was beautiful in its rendition. The Gaelic setting of the tale of the twa sisters, one dark and wicked, murdering her beautiful younger sister, and then receiving retribution from the harp fashioned from three locks of the drowned girl's hair, was presented effectively, and made a charming conclusion to a very entertaining evening.

Miss Agnes Logan played numerous accompaniments throughout the evening in her usual proficient style.

Passing of Survivor Of Mr. Squeer's School Boys

LONDON, Feb. 7. — (Can[illegible]) — The death is announced of Edmund Plummer, aged 13, and the last survivor of boys under the tyrannical schoolmaster, "Mr. Squeers," at Dotheboys Hall, as pictured in Dickens' "Nicholas Nickleby."

A SCENE FROM MIAMI, FEATURING BETTY COMPSON, AT THE CAPITOL MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

"MIAMI" STARRING BETTY COMPSON IS LAVISH PRODUCTION

Comes to Capitol Monday.

A picture great in every way—that's "Miami," which comes to the Capitol on Monday. Society pictures are no doubt the most popular with movie audiences and when they are like "Miami" it is easy to understand why.

In the first place John Lynch has written an excellent story with novel situations. Although Miami Beach has figured slightly in many pictures, we believe this is the first time an entire photoplay is laid in the famous resort.

The story is about the wealthy society set in general and about Joan Bruce in particular. Joan is an ultra-modern girl who almost loses the man she loves through her daring escapades. She is excellently portrayed by Betty Compson who is as able and alluring as ever. She is seen at her best in this one. She certainly can wear clothes.

Miss Compson's supporting cast is unusually good. Benjamin F. Finney, Jr., a newcomer to the screen, is her leading man. Mr. Finney acts as if he had been appearing before the kleigs all his life. Hedda Hopper, J. Barney Sherry, Lawford Davidson and Lucy Fox also have important parts in which they do some very good work.

The production has been made on a lavish scale. But the beauty is not merely confined to palatial homes, yachts, gambling places, etc. There are plenty of exterior shots showing the glorious winter paradise. All the sports for which the famous resort is famous figure prominently in the picture.

"DUMB DORA"

Much interest is being manifested in the attraction at the Capital Theatre for the three first days of next week, when an excellent picture programme will be supplemented by the one-act comedy, "Dumb Dora," written by Miss K. L. McCarthy and produced with the aid of a cast of talented local amateurs, by Mrs. W. McKee Bingham.

The plot of this one-act comedy is entertaining and an added interest is given it by the songs of Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park, the beautiful and new spring gowns and wraps from the Barrie, Limited store, and the stage furishings from the Richard Hall establishment.

In "Dumb Dora," the "flapper" part of the heroine is take by Miss Jessie Hodgson, as Enid Harrison, with Mrs. A. L. Amys as her mother, Mrs. Harrison, and Mr. Frank Stenton as Frank Webster, the Man. Mrs. W. McKee Bingham is Joseta, the gypsy fortune teller; Miss Mamie McCarthy is the maid, and Miss Edna Borbridge has one of the principal roles. Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park is Miss Lillian Booth, a singer, with her companion, Miss Marthe Baumer.

A feature picture that should appeal to grown-ups and children alike is "Peter Pan," at the Capitol Theatre for the last time tonight. J. M. Barrie's immortal masterpiece, in this offering, has been filmed for the screen in marvellous fashion. The story of the frolicksome Peter, the child who refused to grow up, who came to the home of the Darlings and took Wendy and the others with him to the Never Never Land, is one of the classics of the stage. This is its first appearance on the silver sheet, and the producer has achieved some remarkable effects in his delineation of the little creatures flying away through the air and of the tiny faries who add so much to the pitcure, the pieces as Barrie wrote of the laugh of a baby that broken into fragments and made itself into a group of fairies.

Nana, the faithful dog guardian of the Darling children, is pictured, and Captain Hook, the pirate bad and bold, pursued by a crocodile, and only saving himself by the timely aid of a clock.

All the fantastic foolery and delightsome whimsicality of the master's pen is reproduced on the screen to tell the story of the immortal epic of childhood, and portray the scenes in which the children delight, the little Lost Boys harassed by pirate bands and saved by the Indians.

One of the prettiest creations of all is the dainty Tinker Belle, the fairy companion of Peter Pan, swimming along through the air with her enfolding light. When Tinker Belle takes poisoned medicine, there is an odd little nterlude. Peter Pan applause to the audience to save her by clapping their hands and the responuse is instant and simultaneous.

It is a lovely picture, a screen dramatization of a lovely and magical story, and the producer portrays some wonderful things in its story-book atmosphere unfolding. Behind the story is the charm of the jaunty Peter, the spirit of Eternal Youth, frolicking through eternal happy ways.

AT THE ROYAL

"THE WISE VIRGIN" AT ROYAL MONDAY

You Can't Fool the Modern Girl is Theme of "The Wise Virgin." Starring Patsy Ruth Miller and Matt Moore—Clever Tale of Youth

Brilliant comedy, soul-stirring drama and pulse-quickening thrills are mingled in equal proportions in "The Wise Virgin," an Elmer Harris production, which comes to the Royal Theatre on Monday, with Patsy Ruth Miller and Matt Moore featured.

The story is an original one by Elmer Harris, a master craftsman of stage writing. His musical comedy successes, "So Long, Letty," and "Canary Cottage," still live in the memories of playgoers after ten years since they were first produced. His other achievements, both on stage and screen, are too numerous to mention.

The action of "The Wise Virgin" centres around Billie Farrington and her infatuation for a handsome foreigner, Count Ricardo Venino. Her grandmother, a "demon chaperone" if there ever was one, suspects the Count of wooing her granddaughter for her money, and sets about in her own way to discourage the match.

One of the grandmother's properties is a beautiful California cattle ranch, governed by Bob Martin, a handsome young cowman. Learning that Martin has saved a comfortable amount of money from his earnings, and being otherwise impressed by him, she asks him to become her grandson-in-law. This is entirely in accordance with the young man's own ideas, and he sets about the task with a will that is only equalled by his ardor.

The cast selected to present "The Wise Virgin" is an exceptionally good one. In addition to Miss Miller and Moore, it inclutes Lucy Fox, Leon Bary, Edythe Chapman and Charles A. Stevenson.

The picture was directed by Lloyd Ingraham under Harris' supervision.

FILM APPEALS TO EVERYONE

"Greater Than Marriage" Answers Question of the Day

Victor Hugo Halperin's "Greater Than Marriage," which will be the attraction at Royal Theatre on Thursday, is one of those films that appeal to everyone. It has the elements of popular appeal and human interest that attract the attention and stay the interest. It gives intimate pictures of the lives of famous stars and popular playwrights and illustrates the manner in which they work. It shows the difficulties and obstacles that must be overcome before the pinnacle is reached. Many novelties have been introduced as backgrounds, including a spectacular ballet and an act from one of Broadway's stage successes. The production is replete with thrills and touches of humour enacted by a cast which includes Marjorie Daw, Lou Tellegen, Peggy Kelly, Tyrone Power, Dagmar Godowsky, Mary Thurman, Raymond Bloomer and Effie Shannon.

THRILLS APLENTY IN THIS PICTURE

Those who like plenty of breath-taking thrills in their motion picture amusement will find a picture very much to their liking in "The Chase," which will be one of the attractions on the bill at the Royal Theatre on Monday. This picture, recently the featured attraction at the Capitol Theatre, New York, abounds with thrills of a nature seldom seen on the screen.

Fifty of Europe's champion ski jumpers were employed in the making of this photo-play, and their perilous dash down mountain sides and over chasms, streams and obstacles, constitutes a series of breath-taking scenes at which the most hardened movie fan will gasp in amazement.

Patrons are promised a half-hour of entertainment of a thrilling nature, coupled with an exhibition of ski-ing never before witnessed in this country

DICKENS' ANNIVERSARY TO-DAY

To-day is the 113th anniversary of the birth of Charles Dickens, England's novelist of undying fame, both at home and abroad, and a cable despatch reports that the occasion is being fittingly observed in most literary circles.

This event recalls that the well-known novelist and president of the Dickens Fellowship is making an appeal to lovers of Dickens throughout the British Empire to endow with their gifts 48 Doughty Street, London, the home in which Dickens wrote "Oliver Twist," "Nicholas Nickleby" and completed "The Pickwick Papers."

The Dickens Link.

Doughty Street, London, runs south to north, parallel with Gray's Inn Road, and ends near to the Foundling Hospital. It is a broad thoroughfare with houses of the Georgian type, and at Number Forty eight, a tablet indicates association with the name of Charles Dickens. It was here that he wrote the last monthly numbers — "almost as the periodical occasion arose"—of the jolliest book the world has yet known, "Pickwick Papers." Here he set down in his neat penmanship "Oliver Twist" and "Nicholas Nickleby." Here he entertained the friends he had made thus early in his wonderful career — Maclise, David Wilkie, Serjeant Talfourd, Macready. And here he relished a successful and joyous period in domestic life and in literature.

A Dickens Home.

All this happened close upon ninety years ago, and Charles Dickens still remains the most effective link between Great Britain and the English-speaking folk in distant lands. Visitors come to London and, knowing his books by heart, wish to see the place of which he wrote. The Dickens Fellowship has branches so far away as Brisbane, Winnipeg, Sierra Madre, and these send regular messages announcing progress and activities. I happen to be President of the Fellowship for the year, but this must not be taken as a fair example of the selections made; the list of my predecessors includes such names as Sir Luke Fildes, G. K. Chesterton, Sir Frederick Macmillan, Sir Walter Lawrence; amongst the Vice-Presidents are Lord Rosebery, Viscount Burnham, Sir J. M. Barrie, Sir Arthur Pinero, John Galsworthy, H. G. Wells. All these groups, and all these people find themselves brought together by an open and unaffected love for the work of the novelist. What the Fellowship has lacked hitherto has been a rendezvous, a place for encountering, a Dickens home.

Dickens Relics.

The chance having arrived, prompt advantage has been taken. The freehold of Forty-eight Doughty Street is secured, and the large dwelling—in very good condition, by the bye—has prepared itself for the housing of Dickens relics, Dickens books, Dickens manuscripts, Dickens pictures—everything in short that has any connection with the great man's books and himself. One can visualize a line of inquirers forming up in Doughty Street, a steady attendance of visitors eager to review the treasures. Also parties setting out from there, on summer mornings, to make a tour that will increase their knowledge, and give them pleasant memories. It has been said of Londoners that they all meet each other, sooner or later, at Charing Cross Station; a safer prophecy will be that every Dickens lover will find a congenial spirit and a ready companion at Doughty Street.

WHEAT

A wiseacre playing the local board today, prognosticating a rise in wheat on Monday, was probably right when he announced to all who would listen that "nobody knows any more than we do what will happen." He blamed the service, newspaper reports, and everything but the wheat moguls for the losses he had sustained in yesterday's drop and naively declared that he was playing opposite to the expert opinions on the market probabilities.

Not many locally were affected by the rocking of the wheat pit yesterday, but some selling orders were regretted today in view of the renewed climb shown in the closing figures.

"It all depends on the foreign situation," was the only advice given the group of men who watched the fluctuations as they came off the ticker and were recorded on the board in Hawley and Howland's office.

CHICAGO

The break has brought out an immense line of long wheat and created a short interest which is likely to cover whenever any good buying appears. There were indications after the close last night that good support would be given the market today. It is said there was heavy selling in short wheat here yesterday by two large traders in Florida and have been bearish for some time. The largest lines of long wheat are said to have been undisturbed. Two of the largest traders who were in Chicago yesterday were emphatic in their utterances as regards wheat, and corn—especially corn. A Liverpool cable said Duluth wheat was offered there three to four cents below delivery basis, with few takers. Australian wheats were also offered freely. The break brought in extremely heavy short covering and also reinstating by operators who sold out on the bulge and there was also buying to remove hedges against export sales. Corn and oats broke sharply in sympathy with wheat and there were numerous stocks uncovered.

Late messages claimed two million bushels or more wheat has been sold in all positions including Manitoba, Duluth Springs, Durums and a little Number 2 hard winter. 463 sales were around 900,000 bushels including 150,000 in store at Hamburg, Germany.

BELMONT CLUB AT HOME.

The 17th annual At Home of the Belmont Club took place last evening and proved to be one of the best dances of the season. There were about 200 people in attendance in the G.W.V.A. Hall, which was decorated under the supervision of Mr. H. Cobb, in a very unusual and effective manner. The club's colors of purple and mauve were carried out in the wall hangigs which extended from ceiling to floor in unbroken panels of the light and dark shades, done in sateen, emblazoned at intervals with the club's insignia, in gold letters. The electroliers were covered with long paper streamers of the same soft colors, and the lights themselves swathed in mauve paper. The orchestra stand was particularly attractive, arranged with tall ferns and standards entwined with sweet pea and lilac foliage.

At the rear of the orchestra stand were two large golden gates and the front supported a lucky green Buddha.

Excellent music was provided by Al. Linton's five-piece orchestra.

Patronesses for the dance were Mesdames R. H. Turner, F. L. Roy, H. W. Cressman, G. N. Gordon, W. H. Bradburn, C. G. Graham, G. R. Scott, E. L. Payne, R. Denne. GERMANY'S NEW EMDEN

The popular demand in Germany for a floating monument to the German sea raider Emden, which created so much havoc to allied shipping in the early days of the World War has been answered. Incidentally the Emden is the first vessel to be constructed at Wilhelmshaven since the war.

Union Committee Issues a Statement on Situation in North.

Following the action of the assembly in 1916, Union swept New Ontario, says a statement from the Union committee. Now there are only 9 congregations in 4 Presbyteries that are not already working on a Union basis, while the ministers stand 44 to 2 in favor of the policy of the Church.

As may be seen from the following statement, Church Union has been widely approved by the congregations that have given it a fair trial over a period of nearly ten years.

Of the 184 congregations in these four Presbyteries, only three to date have voted non-concurrence. Those which do not take a vote enter the Union automatically.

STRIKE NOT IMMINENT.

The Railway Companies Are Jockeying for Positions, it is Said.

LONDON, Feb. 7. —(Canadian Press).—Despite newspaper talk about imminence of a big strike on the railways of the United Kingdom as the outcome of the railway men's demands for increased wages and improved working conditions, few people really fear an immediate British Railway crisis.

The railway companies in countering the men's programme by proposals for a drastic reduction in wages are believed to be really manoeuvering for a general reconsideration of the whole basis of railway wages.

TAXPAYERS SEEKING INDEPENDENT AUDIT

Losses and Misappropriations of Thousands Uncovered.

SYDNEY, N. S., Feb. 7.—Lack of a system of periodic, independent audits is recognized as the chief reason for the disasters which have overtaken several civic and municipal officers in this Province during the past 12 months. The latest concerned is Hon. D. A. Cameron, who, on account of irregularities in the joint expenditure accounts of the county of Cape Breton, has been obliged to forfeit his position as Provincial Secretary. An unusual feature of this disclosure is that it has resulted in actual immediate profit to the investigating communities, as the city of Sydney and several towns will split between them a surplus of $44,000 which proved to be due to duplication in assessment and other mistakes in accounting.

It is stated on good authority that since Confederation, the municipalities of this Province have been run without any but the most perfunctory audits. A year ago Halifax obtained a chartered probe, with the results that hundreds of thousands were found to have been misappropriated, and one official was sent to penitentiary. Sydney followed suit with the same results, on a small scale, except that no one was jailed, although the City Treasurer was relieved of his post. The city probe automatically spread into the county, causing the retirement of Mr. Cameron from the Government, and forcing the County Council to order a three-year audit of its own books. As a result of these exposures, there is a growing agitation for an independent audit of Provincial accounts.

It is significant that in each of the districts so far probed, there has been a tooth and nail fight against the independent audit, which in most cases has been obtained only with the greatest difficulty.

CITY MANAGEMENT.

Address in Chamber of Commerce on Timely Subject.

The interest of the citizens in Peterboro in the problems of city management may be gauged by the number present at the open meeting of the Chamber of Commerce to be held on Tuesday next, February 10, at 8 p.m. at which Dr. H. L. Brittain, of the Citizens' Research Institute of Canada, will give an address on that subject.

The personnel of the Institute has in the last few years been called upon to make reports of the financial conditions of many cities in Canada, and in a great many instances have through the reports been able to affect a saving to the taxpayer in subsequent years. Dr. Brittain has been in charge of this work and from time to time reports are issued by the Institute dealing with taxation from every angle, municipal, provincial and federal.

The speaker, therefore, is capable of discussing his subject from the taxpayers' as well as the administrators' standpoint, and the Chamber of Commerce is particularly fortunate in being able to secure his presence on Tuesday.

BRITAIN AGAINST REDUCTION OF FRENCH DEBT IN NEW PROPOSAL

Payments Should Not Depend on Germany's Full Payment of Reparations by Dawes Plan—Britain Expects Equivalent of Her Payments to the United States.

WILL DIVERT SURPLUS TO ALLIES

LONDON, Feb. 9.—(Canadian Press).—Great Britain's note to France explaining the Baldwin government's viewpoint on the question of the repayment of France's debt to Great Britain proved to be a much shorter document than had originally been expected. It lays down succinctly the principles on which Great Britain hopes France will agree to meet her obligations without going into any detail or figures. The idea is advanced that details may be thrashed out in conference here should Premier Herriot or Finance Minister Clementel or both, come to London for this purpose.

The main points of the note are, first, that Great Britain declines to agree that France's payments should be dependent upon Germany's full payment of the Dawes plan annuities; second, that, with a view to facilitating repayments, Great Britain is willing to accept fixed annual payments, irrespective of the Dawes proceeds, with a further annual charge on the French share in those proceeds, and, third, that Great Britain will devote any surplus beyond requirements for her indebtedness to the United States to diminish the burdens upon Great Britain's allies.

The note was published just in time to be discussed by parliament, which will reassemble Tuesday for the first real legislative session of Premier Baldwin's second administration.

Summary Of Note.

The note says: "The principle of the Balfour note is that Great Britain should receive from Europe payments equivalent to those she is under obligation to make to the United States. His Majesty's government cannot accept the positions in which this principle could only be achieved upon the basis of a full normal yield of the Dawes annuities or by taking at their face value debts which cannot be at present treated as good assets.

"His Majesty's government already has consented not merely to reduce their claims against our allies to an amount necessary to cover their own payments in respect to the British debt to the United States but actually to apply the whole of the British share of German reparations to that purpose.

"This means that Great Britain not only takes to her own charge the whole of her own war damages, but also the eight hundred million pounds of foreign securities devoted by her to the general effort before the United States entered the war.

"In the application of the Balfour note to the existing situation, His Majesty's government, remembering that war debts between the allies had been incurred in a common cause, has been prepared to consider proposals under which the French debt to Great Britain would be reduced, provided that the principle of definite payment by France from her own national resources, fixed with due regard to her relative wealth and tax paying capacity, is assured without reference to reparations."

Divide Payments.

The note then suggested that it might be found convenient that French payments should be divided into, first, fixed annual amounts payable by France, irrespective of actual receipts from the Dawes annuities in a particular year, and, second, a further annual charge on the French share in the Dawes annuities.

"It would, of course, be understood," says the note in conclusion, "first, that all counter claims by France against Great Britain would be superseded and secondly, that if and when payments derived by Great Britain from European war debts and reparations were sufficient to provide for full discharge of British obligations toward the United States over the full period of such obligations, including payments already made, any surplus would be used to diminsh the burden resting upon Great Britain's allies."

STRIKE STOPS WAGE CUT.

Clocks Raised Protest Just in Time to Save Municipal Workmen.

LONDON, Feb. 9—(United Press) — Clocks of all descriptions were ranged about the room the other night when a committee of the Fulham City Council met to discuss the purchase of a new time-piece for the Mayor.

In the course of the debate, somebody suggested reducing the wages of some of the municipal workmen in order to provide funds for the contemplated purchase. Immediately all the clocks started to strike, and the debate had to be postponed until the chiming was over.

As the echo died away, a councillor chimed in with the observation that "even the clocks appear to be striking against this proposal," and it was agreed not to cut the workmen's wages.

WOODEN HOUSES GOOD.

Committee Finds Favorably on Timber Houses in England.

LONDON, Feb. 9 (Canadian Press cable). — "Experience shows that if the proper class of timber is used there is nothing against the wooden house as regards weather resistance, durability and transmission of heat," is a statement in the third interim report of the committee on new housinng methods issued last night.

The committee points out that houses of this particular construction cannot fairly be judged by various wooden buildings erected during and shortly after the war, in many instances, owing to the exigencies of the time unsuitable timber had to be utilized.

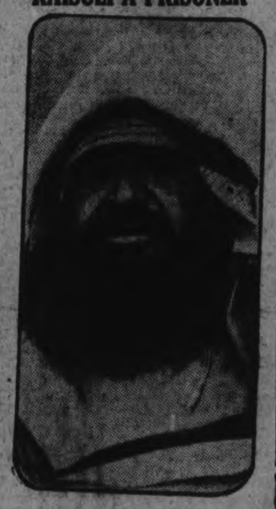
RAISULI A PRISONER



Raisuli, the former bandit, known as "The Invincible" is a prisoner of Abd-el-Krim, leader of the Riffs in Morocco. He will be tried for high treason.

RAISULI GOES TO MEET FATE

Old Bandit of Morocco Says He Wants Only To Die.

LIFE TO BE SPARED

TANGIER, Feb. 9.—Raisuli, old and very ill, is being carried across the Rhomarra Mountains to the Rift, where Abd-el-Krim will hold a court martial to try him on charges of high treason. It has already been decided in principle that Raisuli will not be executed, since he is a descendant of the Prophet Mohammed, but he must pass the rest of his life within the four walls of Abd-el-Krim's palace at Alt-Kamara.

Abdel Krim has ordered Raisuli and his family transferred to the Riff, but the difficulty of transport proved enormous. No mule or horse was strong enough to stand up under Raisuli's weight, and a special litter had to be constructed.

It was at Targhbuet, the general quarters of the Riffian army, two hours ride north of Sheshuan and six hours ride east of Tazreut that Raisuli was interviewed. There, Prince Mohammed, Abdel-el Krim's brother and commander-in-chief of the army, advised the correspondent to await Raisuli, as he would probably arrive the next day but it was two days before Raisuli's caravan arrived.

It was a spectacle hard to forget. First came twenty Riffian guardsmen armed to the teeth. Then a strange looking contrivance like a huge square box, with two poles protruding at either end, each pole carried on the shoulders of four men—sixteen in all—and in the box on top of a thick pile of gorgeous rugs and embroidered cushions sat Raisuli himself, the man who, in his time, had defied emperors and republics. Over his face he wore his turban, wrapped tightly so only his little furious beady eyes and lips and the tip of his brilliantly died beard were visible. His body—an indescribably shapeless mass, bloated beyond human semblance—was wrapped in white woolen robes, worn by noble descendants of the Prophet Mohammed.

Behind this curious object rode four slim white-veiled women on fine Spanish mules, Raisuli's favorite wives. Abd el Krim had offered him the choice of four wives and Raisuli chose four of the youngest and lovliest women in his harem. They were attended by three barbaric looking negroes who had been permitted to keep their rifles.

Raisuli was taken immediately to his quarters, a small mud hut like all the houses in mountain villages.

"The outside world can forget Raisuli," he burst forth. "Raisuli wishes to forget the outside world. I have asked to die and I want to die. Raisuli will never be a prisoner where Raisuli reigned as lord. Let them kill me at once. They have taken my horse and my saddle. Let

FLASHLIGHTS OF MOVIE MACHINES DEFERRED DOOM

"Apostle" Reidt Believes Cloud Will Come Before Next Friday Night.

SEER HAS DREAM

144,000 Brides Had a Sign in Dakota, Angel Tells Brother Downs.

EAST PATCHOGUE, L. I., Feb. 9. — One night's failure in the life of an apostle of doom means nothing, and Robert Reidt will keep watch for the sign, the small black cloud signalling the end of things until next Friday midnight. Then perhaps he will admit that Mrs. Rowes, the Los Angeles prophetess, was wrong.

Every night he will pray and from his mired lawn stretching dismally from the house he no longer owns, will sweep the heavens with an ancient pair of opera glasses. Some night—perhaps to-night—he expects to see Christ approaching on a cloud to save the 144,000 chosen ones. And when he does, joy will surge into the dejected heart of the apostle, ridiculed for Friday night's fiasco.

The house that bulged that night with the scoffing curiosity seekers, the grounds where hundreds milled long after midnight, were sharply etched in brilliant sunshine to-night, the day that was not to have been, an air of cheeriness has supplanted the gloom and the shadow of the evening before, and Reidt, saddened by his personal debacle, was lifted up by the success he attributed to others.

It was Robert Downs — Willard G. Downs, once a farmer and later a carpenter in Yaphank—who contributed the single note of happiness. For some time, early Saturday morning, when peace had come at last to the harried apostle's homestead, Brother Downs dreamed a dream. It came out when Reidt made his first appearance.

"I am very glad that the Lord's wrath has not descended as yet," said Reidt, "and I hope that he will wait until the seventh day."

The Vision of Robert Downs.

He fell silent and then placed his hand on Down's shoulder, adding:

"Brother Downs had a vision last night which has proved our prophecy. As he slept, an angel, perhaps Gabriel himself, put his hand on Brother Downs's forehead and said, 'Brother Downs, last night in North Dakota and South Dakota 144,000 brides of the Lamb saw the sign and welcomed it. You were deprived by the satanic influence of the moving pictures whose flares illumined the sky but blotted out the vision of the cloud leaving heaven.'"

Brother Downs however added nothing to that statement. He refused absolutely to discuss it. Yet within a short time he experienced a change of sentiment against the movie men, whom he had bedaubed with mud Friday. Before that time, however, Reidt, his family and Downs, conducted morning prayers in the little house. Outsiders were not admitted but through the windows they reard the music of the Doxology.

Forgot the Difference in Time.

"Weren't you disappointed when the light and cloud failed to appear?" Reidt was asked.

"Not at all," he replied. "I reread our instructions from Mrs. Rowen, and I found out something. She made her prediction in California. There's three hours difference in time between Long Island and California. When it was midnight here it was only about nine o'clock out in California. I forgot to take the time into consideration."

Reidt admitted that he had taken a final survey of the heavens about 3 o'clock on Saturday morning, after barring visitors with his announcement that he was retiring, and he also admitted that even when it was midnight on the coast he had not seen anything here.

"Anyhow," he continued, "nobody but myself and my family and Brother Downs would have seen it here—you have to have belief. I am perfectly confident that the Lord is on His way to the earth."

He was asked what he intended to do providing his world did not end, in view of his sale of house and all belongings.

'I don't know. I don't think about those things. I guess I'll stay here as long as the law allows."

Reidt was about to begin his exposition of his convictions when the movie men intervened for pictures. Certainly he would pose, Bible in hand, lecturing to an imaginary audience. And, marvel of marvels, Bro Downs would pose, too. All of his animosity gone, Downs hitched a sandwich board over his shoulders and stood by Reidt's side while the film was wound past the lens. The sign read:

"Prepare to Meet Thy God."
Seventh Day Sabbath is the Seal of God.
Sunday is the Mark of the Beast
Amos iii:7.

At one point Brother Downs even adjusted his spectacles and pretended to read a tract, his chin resting on the top of the sandwich board as if he desired to give a further touch to the movie. Reidt then talk-

TWO LANGUAGES A GREAT ASSET FOR CANADIANS

R. R. Hall, K.C., Was Guest Speaker at Montreal Reform Club Luncheon.

BOND OF UNION

Entry to World Trade Increased by Knowledge of English and French.

MONTREAL, Feb. 9.—A united and more prosperous Canada will be assured if the English and French speaking races will learn the two languages.

This was the pith of the message delivered to the Montreal Reform Club on Saturday by R. R. Hall, K. C., of Peterboro and former member of Pariament for that city.

Mr. Hall showed how, in history, the French-Canadians had been remarkable for their display of loyalty to the British throne and there was no gainsaying that adherance now. But, in the light of conditions to-day, when there was so much to be done to put Canada on her feet, spread her trade and inspire faith in the country, it was desirable that everyone should speak the two languages.

The result, Mr. Hall, was sure would be extension of inter-provincial trade and trade beyond the confines of the Dominion. He thought this did not require much explanation because it was obvious that if a buyer and seller could converse in either language there would not be the indifference that exists now when either of the two could speak only one language. It would be easier to sell goods, and thus there would be more trade he claimed.

In thanking him, R. L. Grothe, President of the Club, said he had spoken on a very important topic, a topic that was always timely because it was of such value to the country and their fervent wish was that the suggestion embodied in the address of Mr. Hall would be taken to heart.

In introducing the speaker, W. C. Munn said, it was always well to understand the "feeling of the other fellow.' That was why they welcomed an Ontarian to speak on such an important subject as "A United Canada."

Mr. Hall thanked Mr. Munn and then proceeding to his subject, said he had always been a great admirer of Laurier and the principles that underlay his view point. Looking back on the historical aspect before the war between Wolfe and Montcalm, upper and lower Canada were a United Canada.

Ontario was a veritable sanctuary of the sacrifices made by the Jesuit fathers. Then there was the unity of death and the unity of monument on the plains of Abraham and there should be unity for the future and aspirations of Canada taken from that incident.

Years ago others had attempted to throw off the yoke of Britain but French Canadians had always been loyal and true to Great Britain. Therefore, "We Canadians can look back with gratitude on the attitude of the French Canadians for their loyal stand.."

Another great testing time was the

WHERE FLOYD COLLINS IS ENTOMBED IN A KENTUCKY CAVE

Above is entrance to Sand Cave, near Cave City, Ky., where Floyd Collins (at the left) was trapped by an eight-ton boulder which dropped from the roof pinning his feet. Diagram shows how Collins was trapped. Dotted line is where workers first hoped to clear space to free Collins. Smaller inset is Jewel Estes, 17, who discovered Collins' plight.

THOMAS W. LAWSON DEAD

Picturesque Figure of Financial World Underwent Operation.

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 9—Thomas W. Lawson, author of "Friday, the Thirteenth," "Frenzied Finance," "The Leak" and other books, and known as one of the most picturesque fingures the financial world has ever produced, died here Sunday following a recent operation from which he was expected to fully recover. Mr. Lawson died in a hospital following a sudden relapse Saturday night. His two sons, Douglas and Arnold Lawson, were with him when the end came.

SHARKS FATTEN ON IRISH FAMINE

Heavy Usury Reported on Loans to People Suffering Dire Want.

CATTLE DYING

GALWAY, Ireland, Feb. 9.—The Irish Free State has taken steps to restrict activities of the politician-usurer or "gambeen man," who is profiting by Ireland's misery.

Cases have come to light where the "gambeen man" has charged 200 to 300 per cent. on loans. He is, in most cases, the local political boss and money lender.

It was predicted yesterday that the present famine distress could not end before June.

In some districts of County Clare and County Kerry pigs are dying because the people are unable to give them food, it was reported. A local disease called "fluke" is killing the cattle.

Miss Jebb, of the British "Save the Children Committee" has made an investigation of famine conditions. She says:

"It is a situation of appalling misery. Houses are but bare coverings with rain soaked earthen floors unfit even for cattle. Invalid women lay upon planks and covered with straw and a few rags."

MILLENIUM DATE NOW AUG. 3, 1926

Saskatchewan Man Intimates American Seers Were Previous.

SASKATOON, Sask., Feb. 9. — The world was never intended to end Friday night, according to a letter received by a Saskatoon newspaper from J. E. Cammerford, secretary of the Christian Brothers' Association at Prince Albert, Sask. Cammerford, after prayerful consideration of the Biblical books of Deuteronomy and Revelations has reached the conclusion that the millenium will arrive on Aug. 3, 1926.

He admits he might be a few days out, but considers that date as very close to the time for the end of this present world. However, he says, much preparation for the event is vain, and quotes scripture to prove it.

FIANCEE WAITS WITH HOPE GONE

Alma Clark and Floyd Collins Planned to Elope on Thursday.

SUSTAINED HIM

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 9.—"A solitary figure stood in the glow of a hilltop campfire last night watching silently the shaft being sunk inch by inch to Floyd Collins. The light's reflection revealed, after a minute, two streams of tears on the watcher's face, but they were never brushed away," says a copyright story to the Courier-Journal from Cave City.

"This silent observer was Alma Clark, 22 years old, living eight miles from Cave City, come to mourn on what was to have been her wedding day and for him who was to have been her husband. Alone she stood as scores of workmen exerted themselves to force a way through rock and earth into the cavern.

Doesn't See Those About Her.

"Around her many were talking, calling one another, and some laughing. They didn't know, they didn't even see this figure, nor did she see them. She held her eyes on the new-made shaft. She turned, finally, and in a moment was lost in the darkness.

"Her tears, her expression and her walk, told plainly that her hopes are no more, that she feels the cave which Floyd Collins set out to explore, will not release its grip until he dies. It has held him seven days. It has held out hope to him time and again, but it shattered them beyond recall when it closed the one avenue to the world outside.

"Floyd Collins and Miss Alma Clark were to have eloped last Thursday, but only a few of their friends knew the secret. One of them, a man, saw the girl at the shaft last night and saw the saddened face. He saw and knew, he understood, and he turned his eyes as she passed him.

Decided to Move Up Wedding Date.

"Others, of course, knew of the friendship and some might have known that the wedding day was set for March 2. But very few knew that Floyd Collins and Miss Clark had decided definitely to steal quietly away and return as man and wife.

"It was said that objections to the marriage had been made and that the elopement was planned as a means of overcoming it.

"And this may be why Floyd Collins wouldn't give up his fight for life when he knew the fight seemed lost. It may explain why Collins kept courage when rescuers and friends were downcast. It may reveal how Collins endured torture with a smile at times, through six days in the grip of a stone in the cave, and it may show the power that kept alive that spark of faith he cherished."

THE WEATHER

On Sunday the temperature rose to 55 degrees in the shade. The thaw has settled the snow considerably, and in places mother earth is showing through its covering of white. We would like to believe spring was really here and the cold weather gone for another season, but past experience gives little hope for such pleasant anticipations. Yesterday had the highest temperature since November 13th.—W.P.

SUSSEX FARMER SAWED UP BODY OF SWEETHEART

Norman Thorn Committed for Trial on Charge of Murdering London Typist.

BURIED ON FARM

Alleged She Hanged Herself —Discussed Marriage With Another—Story Refuted.

LONDON, Feb. 9. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—Norman Thorn, the young poultry farmer of Crowborough, Sussex, has been committed for trial at the Sussex Assizes on a charge of murdering his sweetheart Elsie Cameron, the London typist, whose dismembered body was found buried in the chicken run on Thorn's property almost a month ago. She disappeared from her home at Kendal on December 5 last, and a widespread investigation by officers from Scotland Yard resulted in the finding of her body and the arrest of Thorn.

In the course of the preliminary investigation by the Police Magistrate at Crowborough a statement, alleged to have been made by Thorn, was read in which it was stated that Miss Cameron had arrived at his hut unexpectedly, saying that she would stay there until he married her. He went out to find accommodation for her and visited several of his friends in the village, and when he returned he found Miss Cameron's body hanging from a beam by the wash line. He cut the body down and lay beside it on a table for one hour, then he went to feteh a doctor and police, but realizing his position, he returned to the hut and by the light of the fire sawed off the legs and head and buried them in the chicken run at dawn.

Met Another Girl.

The prosecuting solicitor said that since he became engaged to Miss Cameron the accused made the acquaintance of a Crowborough girl with whom he discussed marriage and settling down in the United States. He told her that he wanted to break the engagement with Miss Cameron, but that she was so neurotic he feared she would commit suicide if he did so.

A number of pathetic letters from the girl to Thorn revealed that the young typist thought she was in a delicate condition and urged him to marry her. She asked him to terminate his acquaintance with the Crowborough girl as she had first claim on him and her baby had to have a name. A letter from Thorn to Miss Cameron was also read in which he told her that another girl had visited his hut on several occasions late at night. This girl, he said, thought he was going to marry her and he had a strong feeling for her.

Sir Bernard Spillsbury, well-known pathologist, stated that he had examined the remains of Miss Cameron and that he had not found any evidence that she was in a delicate condition. He was of the opinion that the girl had died from shock as the result of injuries to her head and body. Death certainly had not been by hanging.

FIVE YEAR PERMIT.

Engineers Recommend That Chicago Be Given Permission to Divert Water.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(Canadian Press.)— The issuance of a five year permit to Chicago sanitary district to divert 8,500 cubic feet of water per second from Lake Michigan has been recommended to Secretaryof War Weeks by Major General Taylor, chief of United States' army engineers and District Engineer Putma of Chicago.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Representatives of seven states bordering on the Great Lakes met here and organized the Great Lakes Navigation conference for the protection of lake levels and navigation interests and to fight the withdrawal of more than one thousand cubic feet per second of water from the lakes by the Chicago sanitary board.

The organization discussed ways and means "to take all necessary steps to prevent any permanent withdrawal of water from Lake Michigan through the sanitary canal at Chicago for the purpose of sanitation or under the guise of navigation in excess of one thousand cubic feet per second."

BUFFALO HUNTS TO BE POPULAR; HERD AT WAINWRIGHT INCREASES

Hunting May Be Allowed Under Certain Restrictions in Canada.

PARK TOO SMALL

"Of all the quadrupeds that have lived upon the earth, probably no other species has ever marshalled such innumerable hosts as those of the American bison." This statement, written some years ago by Professor W. T. Hornaday, a famous American scientist, is brought to mind by the despatches from Ottawa as to the growth of the buffalo herds in the Wainwright National Park, Alberta. Until these reports appeared few people in Canada knew that there were over 8,000 head of buffalo there. Fewer still outside of this country had such knowledge.

It is now suggested that the total of buffalo is far beyond that which could be supported at the Park in a year of drouth, and that a thousand or more of the young animals may be shipped to the Wood Buffalo Park Preserve in Northern Alberta. What a possibility that opens! It may result in the buffalo, practically restored to natural conditions, thriving to such an extent as to permit of hunting them, under license and strict regulations, in a fixed season of the year. Some old hunters fear that will never happen. Those who have seen the Wainwright herd grow from a few hundreds to the thousands of to-day think that it will.

The Wainwright herd seems large to a generation that has no first-hand knowledge of the buffalo herds that once roamed the prairies of the North American continent. Their estimated numbers stagger the imagination, thirty millions being the minimum and sixty the maximum. As late as 1870 the figures were as high as six millions. The buffalo could have been saved then as a game animal and a source of revenue from licenses and robes, by allocating areas in which their protection would have been a comparatively easy matter. But with a thoughtlessness and callousness that hardly has a parallel anywhere in the world, the war of extermination was continued until the prophesies of a few who had hitherto raised their voices in vain, were found to be actualities—the buffalo had disappeared.

It took a few years to convince the buffalo slayers that they had done their work too well. In the buffalo areas of Canada and the republic, there was a firm conviction that it was a case of a new migration, and that somewhere in Canada the buffalo had found new grounds whence in a season or two they would return to their haunts of other years.

Meantime some of the Indian tribes almost entirely dependent upon buffalo meat, suffered in an acute physical manner for their share of the slaughter of the plains. Buffalo shins, which in thousands of cases had not even been cut from the carcases, and which had been so common as to be almost despised, began to assume new values.

In the years that followed, the remnants of once mighty herds were encountered on occasion in the outposts of civilization. An officer of the Hudson Bay Company, writing from Fort Edmonton in 1887, said: "In our district of Athabasca, along the Salt River, there are still a few wood buffalo killed each year, but they are fast diminishing in numbers and are also becoming very shy."

Of an earlier period, Professor John Macoun said in one of his publications: "In the winter of 1870 the last buffalo was killed north of the Peace River, but in 1875 about 1,000 head were still in existence between the Athabasca and Peace Rivers, north of Little Slave Lake. These are called wood buffalo by the hunters, but differ only in size from those of the plains."

When the Buffalo Disappeared.

The early eighties saw the practical disappearance of the wild buffalo from both the United States and Canada. Here and there on private ranches, or public reserves, a few survivors of the plains buffalo, as distinguished from the somewhat lighter wood buffalo, lingered, mutely pathetic object lessons of what had once been vast herds, knowing no law or restraints except those which nature imposed.

In all the years between the myth of a great herd of buffalo somewhere in Canada, persisted. It had its origin with the hunters of bygone days nothing could kill it. It was revived by the aged and hailed with delight by a new race of hunters a few years ago, when it became fairly well established that wilk buffalo had been seen in the Mackenzie River area. F. H. Kitto, a Government official, confirmed the news, and came back from the district with some pictures of wild wood buffalo taken under trying conditions, for the animals were shy, and it was a matter of difficulty to gets within camera shot distance of them.

A pitifully few hundreds of these wood buffalo seem to have defied the onslaughts of the civilization that wiped out their kindred of the plains. They are now under government protection, which cannot, of course, guard them against every danger—hunters for whom the law has no meaning, wolves, and other enemies. But they and the buffalo from Wainwright Park it is proposed to turn loose in their territory, may do well in the next few years.

If there is a happy result of the attempt to bring back the buffalo, it will not be without its material benefits to the country. The last real hunt for buffalo in the United States took place on Buffalo Island, Great Salt Lake, where a privately-owned herd of 250 animals was thinned out by the slaying of some of the older and wilder animals. Hundreds of big game hunters from all over the country flocked to the scene and gladly paid $200 a head for each bison they killed.

Not as a game animal alone would the propagation of the buffalo be of benefit to the country. For its fur and its meat the buffalo is also of value beyond that of which most people have any idea. The pioneer settlers of the West could tell many a tale of what buffalo meant to them for food, and clothing, too. It has truly been said that the buffalo can weather storms and outlive cold that would kill any domestic animal. That makes it more difficult to understand why the ruthless slaughtering was kept up, as if the buffalo was a species of deadly vermin that must be wiped off the earth in the shortest possible time.

The records show that there are some qualifications to the fact that buffalo can defy the weather. In 1871 some explorers found buffalo in considerable numbers in a restricted territory in the southern shore of Great Slave Lake. But in a journey along one of the rivers in the district, they went for miles along old buffalo trails on which were many skulls and bones. In answer to inquiries, trappers and hunters told them that forty or fifty years before there had been a terrific storm, during which snow fell to a depth of fourteen feet on the level, and, of course, piled to great heights in the open ground. Thousands of buffaloes perished in that storm.

There was a day when buffalo roamed around what is now the city of Winnipeg, but as far back as 1840 it is said that the species was practically unknown from the Red River to the Cheyenne.

Professor Hornaday and others say that in 1857 the Plains Crees, in the country around the headquarters of the Qu'Appelle River, 250 miles west from Winnipeg, seemed to have some premonition of what was happening. They assembled in council and determined that in consequence of the promises "often made and broken by the white men and the half-breeds, and the rapid destruction by them of the buffalo they fed on," they would not allow them to hunt in their country, or to travel through it except for the purpose of trading there for dried buffalo meat, pemmican, skins and robes. Nothing was said at the council, or, if so, it was not recorded, as to the part the Crees themselves were playing in depletjng the herds.

Pemmican, a special preparation of buffalo meat, once sold as low as twopence (four cents) a pound in Winnipeg. But in 1883 the very small quantity which reached the city brought sixteen cents a pound. It is claimed by some that this was the last pemmican made from wild plains buffalo, that is from animals not confined to private ranges. It has been made from beasts slaughtered at the Wainwright reserve to keep the numbers there within reasonable bounds. It was once a greatly prized food for hunters, explorers and pioneers. To those not accustomed to it, pemmican is as palatable as a piece of hardwood, but it filled no mean role in sustaining life for those who opened up the western and northern areas of Canada. The buffalo steaks served in recent years in a number of restaurants throughout the country, also from the annual depletion process at Wainwright, are good eating.

Roamed a Wide Area.

The most northerly limit of the buffalo in Canada has been given as the north shore of Great Slave Lake, Franklin records having seen them in 1820. In those days, and for a subsequent thirty years or so, they covered an enormous territory of what the old writers used to describe as the "pasture range" between Great Slave Lake and the Missouri River. In our day we more often refer to it as the "prairie country."

There was for a long time during the period when the buffalo were countless, a prevalent belief that the skin of the female was the only one worth having and that its flesh only was really fit for human consumption. The flesh of male beasts under three years of age was considered merely passable. The consequence was that, hunters slew thousands of females thus hastening process of making the buffalo scarce.

When railways began to interseet the American prairies there was not such nice discrimination. An added inducement to travel was the arrangements to stop trains in the grazing country, to allow the passengers, hundreds of whom came prepared for that, to slay all the buffalo their rifles could re but they could not carry away any more than a horn or a tuft of hair. This idea of sport was materially aided by the buffalo who did not show much concern about the trains, and often enough so crowded the tracks as to cause a number of accidents. Engineers were at first prone to take too many chances with them, but after a few trains had been derailed by collision with obstinate buffalo, there was less inclination to be hasty about the right of way.

In four years of the late sixties and early seventies, it is estimated that four million buffalo of the herds that roamed Kansas, Nebraska, New Mexico and Colorado were slain. The massacres in Canada were proportionately as heavy; our population being much smaller. Bur the herds that lived in Canada in certain months made seasonal migrations across the line, and were constantly subjected to ruthless war.

The herd at Wainwright is the outcome of the purchase by the Dominion government, about 1908, of a few hundred buffalo from Michael Pablo, a half-breed rancher in the valley of the Pend O'Reille River, on the Flathead Reservation across the line. They in turn were the descendants of a score or two of the original plains herds deliberately saved because it was thought they might be the only survivors of once mighty hosts. Pablo tried to sell them to the United States government and to private American interests, but without success. On his ranch they roamed at large with his cattle, and the job of rounding them up after purchase by the Canadian government was as full of incident as any buffalo hunt of the past. A few escaped and some were accidentally killed, but most of the herd became Canadians. Their thousands are the best testimony to their present environment.

THE GUMPS—THE DESCENT OF MAN

PROVINCE WILL SHARE IN HELP TO UNEMPLOYED

Premier Ferguson- Announces Offer of One-third on Relief Work.

NO RESPONSIBILITY.

Will Pay One-third of Excess Labor Cost in Municipal Work.

TORONTO, February 9. — While he disclaims responsibility for the unemployment conditions in the larger municipalities, Premier Ferguson says that the Ontario government recognizes the seriousness of the situation and proposes to share with the municipalities the cost of winter relief work.

He estimates that the cost to the province of the proposed participation in municipal expenditures will be over $200,000.

Under certain regulations, the premier announced yesterday, "We are prepared to share with the municipal corporations expenditure upon unemployment relief incurred between Feb. 1st and April 15th, 1925, upon the following basis:

One third of the excess labor cost over the normal labor cost incurred by the municipal corporation in respect of any work wholly or partly constructed during the said period, solely for the purpose of relieving unemployment; and one-third of the excess expenditure incurred by a municipal corporation during the said period in respect of other unemployment relief measures over the normal expenditure, as determined by the average of such expenditure of such corporations during the same period in the last preceding two years."

The action by the government is taken directly as the result of strong representations by large municipal deputations representative of London, Hamilton, Stratford, Kingston, Belleville, Kitchener and other municipalities, which waited upon the government last week.

MILLBROOK PASTOR STATES HIS CASE

Rev. G. S. Gervan, Whose Church Voted Anti-Union, Stands for United Church.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 9.—The congregation of Grace Presbyterian Church was increased in numbers on Sunday morning when the pastor, Rev. G. S. Gervan, preached on the subject, "Why I Am Going Into the United Church." The fact that his congregation, by a majority of three to one, voted to remain out of Union, the minister's statement regarding his personal attitude, especially as his resignation goes into effect before 10th of June, of more than ordinary interest to his own people, and to others in the community as wtll.

Two texts were chosen—Matthew 6. 33: "Seek Ye First the Kingdom of God and His Righteousness," and the one which has become so familiar during the church union controversy from John 17, 21: "That They All May Be One; as Thou, Father, Are in Me, and I in Thee, That They Also May Be One in Us."

In order that he might be correctly quoted, and also that he might cover all the ground he desired in the time at his disposal, the speaker asked the forbearance of his listeners if he followed his manuscript closely.

On two very different occasions our Saviour spoke the words of the texts, but thought of the Kingdom was uppermost in His mind, and the furtherance of its interests He laid down as the supreme duty, and ideal of Christians, demanding their highest endeavor. "Religion is a right relationship between man and God," and in First John 4, 20, we have the lack of a Christian attitude defined: "If a man say, I love God, and hateth his brother, he is a liar; for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?" "The love-life is shown by the life of love."

The words of Christ in His intercessory prayer, "that they all may be one," had come with new meaning, and peculiar force, into the speaker's own experience at a time when he was making a complete change in his life occupation, and had "cleared away the clouds, strengthened faith, and made clear that he was doing the will of God in 'following the gleam' as revelation of duty has come to him."

Though he had frequently been asked the question, "Why are you going into the United Church?" Mr. Gervan said this was the first time he had preached on the subject, and the statement more than once made that he was trying to dictate the policy of he local church was entirely wrong. "What I have to say is in reference to my decision to go with the Presbyterian Church into the United Church, and has nothing at all to do with your decision."

Letter Misunderstood.

A pastoral letter sent to his church members, a copy of which the speaker had before him and quoted from, had been so entirely misunderstood he was tempted to wonder if some of those criticizing it had really read the document in question at all. "I believe in putiing prayer first before making any decision in matters small or large, in reference to the Christion church. It is in answer to earnest prayer that I have been led to go with the mother church in the United Church of Canada, and it has been with me a matter of zealous importunate prayer that you also might be wisely guided in making your decision." Real prayer does not petition that others may think as we think, but that all may be divinely led.

The speaker had preached and worked for union in the earlier years of his ministry, and had served two united churches in the West, the first turning out a decided success, and the second, a newer charge, not doing so well. "This led me to question the movement for union, but the person who stated I have been against Union is mistaken. It is one thing to have an opinion regarding the proposed plan for the United Church, and a different thing to be in favor of the union itself. I believe that deep down in their hearts not many, even of the anti-Unionists in this church, are against the ideal of a United Church though they may not be favorable to the proposed arrangement for a time."

Coming to the question, What am I going to do now the Act of Union has been passed? the speaker said he was not responsible for the vote having to be taken locally—"We had to come face to face with the question and settle what course, as a congregation, we were going to take."

Th easier path for him, the speaker said, would be to leave and go elsewhere, but he had studied the subject from every angle, read all the literature available, prayed daily and earnestly with an open mind for conviction as to the right course, had attended anti-union meeting addressed by leading speakers, and also those under union auspices. "One of the strongest influences that helped to put me in the United Church was the arguments of the anti-unionists." The present form agreed upon for the United Church is not ideal, but it is a splendid attempt, and God never intended a split-up church.

The conviction that nothing vital as to doctrine, or policy, separates the three uniting churches had helped in the decision to assist in carrying out the New Testament ideal, "That they all may be one." "If I stay out, I secede from the mother church which I love, and which I want to serve."

"I never could agree with the argument that the movement for Union is not constitutional, and loyalty to my church demands that I abide by the decision of its highest court."

Consecrated to the work of missions by his mother from his earliest childhood, all such service had an intense interest for him, the minister stated, and the fact that mission funds are being poured into small charges in Ontario, already well served with other churches, at the expense of needy fields in the West for which men are available but not money, made one see the necessity of joining forces that souls should not starve because other tables were over-well spread.

Sorry to Leave.

"The Presbyterian Church has meant a lot to me, and it has meant a lot to you. I have prayed for this church, since the vote was taken, that you may still be used in God's work, for His Kingdom, which is of chief importance. I am going with my church into the United Church, and will strive to be just as loyal to the latter as I ever was to Presbyterianism. The argument advanced by anti-unionists that ministers are going into the United Church because they have been promised a position is a false libel. The likelihood is that we may have to work at something else for a while until adjustment of work and funds can be made. But with strong arms, and strong faith, we shall still go on."

"I am sorry to leave Millbrook; I have many good friends here, even among those of differing views. But I could not continue as your pastor and my resignation will be handed in at the Presbytery on the 10th of March, to which you will be asked to send representatives."

"I shall continue to pray that you may continue to find a place in the work of the Master and His cause and to hope that the day will come when schisms will be past and all will be united, if not here, then in the place of the redeemed hereafter."

DOG TOO DEVOTED.

Refused to Leave Dying Master With Note For Help.

PRESCOTT, Feb. 9.—(Canadian Press). — Devotion to his master prompted a dog owned by Patrick Keely, aged 74, a farmer residing near the village of Lowville, not to desert although he lay lying in a hay loft in his barn. When found the dog was near his master, whose body was discovered in the hay. Attached to the dog's collar was a note on which was scribbled, "Come to me, I am dying." It is believed that the man was stricken while at work in the barn, and had been dead some time, as the stock showed evidence of having been without food and water for many hours.

Starving Irish Peasants Are Menaced By Fever

(By George McDonagh, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

DUBLIN, Feb. 9.—A wasting influenza fever has claimed scores of victims on Achill Island, off the coast of County Mayo, where 7,900 islanders are suffering from partial starvation and are eking out a sort of existence on dry bread and water.

Ruination of the potato crop due to the excessive rains of fall and winter, has been a particularly severe blow, to the inhabitants of the west coast islanders such as that of Achill.

Doctors and nurses are being sent to fight the fever.

PLAN EXPENDING $80,000 MORE ON GOVT. SALARIES

Increase Salaries of Cabinet Ministers $2,000 a Year, Suggested.

OMIT PREMIER.

Proposed to Add $600 to Sessional Indemnity of Members.

TORONTO, Feb. 9.— (Canadian Press).—Increases of $2,000, per annum in salaries of Ontario cabinet ministers with the exception of the salary of Premier Ferguson and an increase of $600 in the sessional indemnity for each of the 111 members of the legislature, may be forecast in the speech from the throne which the Government releases on Tuesday.

The proposed increase in sessional indemnity of the members from $1400 to 2000 is the newest feature of legislature corridor discussions and it would bring the sessional indemnity of Ontario members up to that of members of the Quebec legislature. For two years the Drury Government granted $600 bonus to members which made their sessional income $2000 and at that time there was considerable argument brought to bear upon the government to make the bonus a permanent increase.

Should both contemplated steps be taken by the government this session the total extra cost to Ontario for Provincial government wouldbe $80,600.

Went Through the Ice On Campbellford Canal

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 9.—As Mrs. Roy Scott and little nephew, Douglas Glenn, were crossing the canal on Saturday night, they went through the ice and the only thing that saved them was the ice holding ahead of them. This they hung on to and Mrs. Scott managed to keep the little fellow up and get him out and then climb up herself.

The mild weather makes the river unsafe and care should be taken to be sure it is strong enough to carry those who attempt to cross.

George A. Dawe Elected President at Annual Meeting at Roseneath.

SUCCESSFUL YEAR.

ROSENEATH, Feb. 9—The annuel meeting of the Alnwick Agricultural Society, which had been postponed from a former date, was held in the town hall, Roseneath, on February 4th, with a good attendance of members.

The financial statement was read and on motion of Messrs. L. Isaac and F. J. Slade, was accepted.

On motion of Messrs. A. McFiggin and E. Brisbin, the auditors' report was accepted.

The directors of the different classes gave reports of the work in their respective classes, which were very satisfactory. The exhibits in most classes exceeded all previous years. Mr. Wm. Arnold, one of the directors of specials without a class, recommended omitting the baby show and school parade, spelling match, etc, He gave for his reasons, first that the school had a fair of their own on their ground about a month previous to the agricultural one, and second, lack of time to handle them.

On motion of Messrs. Wm. Arnold and A. J. Campbell, it was decided to again have seven expert judges.

A communication was read from Mrs. Luther Davey, Camborne, regarding prize for baby show.

Mrs. Davey won a special prize, donated by a firm in Cobourg, which they refused to honor, and she asked the society if they could see fit to donate a remembrance to the baby. Messrs. F. J. Slade and J. T. Drape hoved, that the society give the baby a five dollar gold piece. Messrs. L. Isaac and E. T. Shearer moved an amendment that they give a ten dollar gold piece, but the original motion carried by 15 to 13.

BRITISH RUM BOAT CAPTURED IN FIGHT

Twenty-eight Prisoners Taken by U. S. Coast Guards —Some Wounded.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(Canadian Press).—With 28 prisoners on board — some reported to have been wounded in a gun battle which preceded her capture — the British steamship "Homestead," loaded with 2,000 cases of liquor with a bootleg value of $1,000,000, was towed to this harbor on Saturday. The "Homestead," the largest and most valuable prize since prohibition sent the coastguard chasers to "rum row," is anchored off the Statue of Liberty. There she took her place beside other rum-runners too bulky to be moored at the barge office.

Rumors that several wounded men were on the "Homestead," suffering from machine gun bullets or shots fired by the three-pounders of the steamship's coastguard captors were verified in part last night.

HERE COMES THE BRIDEGROOM

CAMPBELLFORD, February 9.—Two very enjoyable evenings were spent on Thursday and Friday, Feb. 5th and 6th, by the play goers of Seymour East and Rowdon West, when they were entertained at Hoard's by the Young People's Dramatic Society of Stephen's church.

The play "Here Comes the Bridegroom," was most interesting, instructive and entertaining. The church was filled to capacity both evenings.

The setting of the play was distributed between the northern lumber camps and a rich mansion in New York of a former lumberman. The tension of the play was held around two points, as to whether the holders of a certain northern lumber limits could hold out long enough against a miserly money lender until a proposed railroad would enter their timber limits and as to which would get the hand of a lady, a count with a supposedly wonderful title or an honest-to-goodness rising young lumberman, and because these two great matters were not settled finally until the last few moments of the play, the attention was well held throughout.

The play taught two well known morals, "Marry in haste, and repent at leisure," and "the love of money is the root of all evil."

Aaron Anderson played the part of Andrew Sherwood, the wealthy lumber merchant. Mrs. Carman Gunning suitably fitted in as Mrs. Sherwood, a lady fond of society. Their daughter, Daisy Sherwood, a pretty girl of 18, and the charming young lady in question during the play, was most ably taken by Miss Nita Williams. She was well supported by Moe Remington, who acted as her 12-year-old brother Phillip. David Melvin made a very suitable Englishman as Count of Monteroy, a foreign imposter and suitor for the hand of Daisy. His successful rival, Jack Watson, a young lumberman, was taken by Chas. Hoard, and his assistant, Tony Lamont, a French-Canadian, kept the crowds in laughter by his unsophisticated actions. Only Frank Heagle could have done justice to this part.

Isaac Greenback, taken by Reg. Parks, was the crabby moneylender.

His daughter Inez, and later Tony's sweetheart, was taken by Miss Edith Gunning. Carman Gunning acted the part of Rev. Threpbilus Bland, a suave polished clergyman.

Mrs. Horation Nettleton and her daughter Barbara, society ladies of blue blood, were respectively taken by Mrs. Aaron Anderson, and Miss Barbara Remington. Mrs. Frank Heagle fitted well into the part of "Sing-fay," Daisy's Japanese maid. Martha, Mrs. Chas. Hoard and Judy, Mrs. Walter Sharpe, rounded out the comic element as two darky waitresses. The caste were ably supported between acts by the English Line stringed quartette, Messrs. Chas., Earl and Ken Godden and Mr. Frank Glenn. Vocal selections were given by the pastor, Rev. Chas. D. Daniel, who by request also gave a speech without words on impersonation of how Pussyfoot Johnston lost his eye in England; and by Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Howard as two negroes Martha Hodson and George Washington in their celebrated numbers "Here comes the Jubilee" and "Suzanne."

Miss Agnes Thomson acted as prompter and also assisted by giving a Scotch recitation.

The net proceeds were over one hundred dollars and the young people are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts.

Plans Made For Annual Sewing Meeting—Pleasant Programme.

BENSFORT, Feb. 9. — The W.M.S. of the Bensfort Methodist church, held their February meeting at the home of Mrs. Edmund Dawson. The meeting, which was well attended, was conducted by the president, Mrs. Wilbert Wood.

After the opening devotional period, led by Mrs. William Andrews and Mrs. M. J. Emberson, items of business were discussed and plans made for the annual sewing meeting to be held in March.

A solo by Mrs. Harry Nicholson was much enjoyed.

Some interesting information from the annual report was given by the president and a chapter of the study book, "China's Real Revolution," was very capably presented by Mrs. Harold Moncrief and Mrs. Harry Nicholson.

The meeting was closed by singing "What a Friend we have in Jesus," and the benediction.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. Dawson assisted by Miss Mildred and Mrs. Fisher, and a pleasant social hour was enjoyed by all.

DR. BRITTAIN'S VISIT.

The visit to Peterboro tomorrow night under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce of Dr. Horace Brittain, Director of the Citizens' Research Institute of Canada, will afford a good test of the interest of Peterboro citizens in municipal affairs.

No man in Canada is more fitted to speak on such a question as city management than Dr. Brittain, because probably no Canadian has made a more exhaustive study of civics than has the speaker who is to discuss the subject tomorrow evening.

He does not mince matters in his analysis of municipal problems, but speaks with the frankness and authority of a man who knows his subject from the ground up.

The reports of the Citizens' Research Institute, many of which have been quoted in these columns, have contained information never before available for newspaper readers, accompanied by common-sense suggestions as to how the conditions revealed might be ameliorated.

Sooner or later these reports and the addresses of such men as Dr. Brittain will be followed by an awakening on the part of citizens to their responsibility as voters and taxpayers, and when that day comes more efficiency and less expenditure will be the distinguishing feature of public service.

SHOULD BE QUIETLY MURDERED.

If the Provincial Government does not want to find itself in disfavour with the people of the cities of Ontario, the Premier should call Hon. Geo. S. Henry to one side and gently whisper into his ear that for the good of the cause he had better take his pet metropolitan area bill out in the country somewhere and quietly murder it.

This bill is the apple of the Minister's eye, but urban taxpayers cannot conjure up even a single iota of affection for any portion of it.

Mr. Henry's justification for the measure is that the cities are responsible for the thickly populated areas just outside their doors, and that eventually such communities will be annexed, and therefore urban centres should assist in developing the surburban districts before annexation takes place.

It is nice to be neighborly, of course, but the man who pays city taxes cannot be severely censured if he declines to be a good fellow for the benefit of the folks who reside outside the limits to take advantage of the lower rates.

Because, if Mr. Henry's legislation were to go through, these surburban communities would unquestionably utilize it for the betterment of their own districts, abandoning all idea of annexation.

In other words, the cities would simply be bearing the burden of their neighbors' debenture debts, without a chance of recovering any of their outlay by levying upon the people getting the benefit.

Urban residents are bearing the full brunt of taxation, and they would be up in arms at any suggestion of loading additional burdens upon them for the benefit of people who want city advantages and conveniences without paying their proper share of the cost of such things.

PAYING OUR POLITICIANS.

Most of the suggestions submitted by the Legislature Committee of the United Farmers of Ontario for the consideration of the Provincial Government have already been condemned by the dailies of the Province as impracticable or useless.

An exception, however, is provided by the recommendation against any increase in the sessional indemnities of the members.

Regardless of their political affiliations, the people generally are opposed to further remuneration for the legislators of the country, whether serving at Toronto or Ottawa.

The general plea is for economy, and there would be deep-seated resentment were any of our ruling bodies to vote themselves more money for their services.

Government costs us a pretty penny as it is.

With a population under nine millions, Canada pays out to politicians each year just double what the people of England have to pay for government.

The United States manages to struggle along with the same number of Senators as we have and just half the number of Cabinet Ministers, while the State of New York, with eleven million people and a budget almost as great as that of the whole Dominion, gets along with fewer legislators than are considered necessary for the government of the Maritime Provinces with fewer than two million people.

If our Provincial members have any capacity whatever for interpreting public opinion, they will throw overboard any suggestion that points to increased indemnities no matter how tempting they may be.

THE MONEY SPENT ON HEALTH.

Pure water, pure milk, public health nursing and the educational campaigns of Toronto's Public Health Department are directly responsible for lower death rates, fewer epidemics and the better control of epidemics when they do eventuate.

Toronto has a population of 543,000; Montreal, 655,000. Montreal is less particular about her water supply, does not insist upon clean and pasteurized milk, has not been as active as Toronto in educating her people in the simple health precautions which mean the difference between life and death. Hence, in 1924—

Fifty-one died from typhoid in Montreal and only five in Toronto, four of Toronto's cases being directly traceable to outside sources.

In Montreal, 977 died from tuberculosis. The Toronto figure is only 340, including Toronto people who died in outside sanitaria.

In Montreal, 3,151 infants under a year old were buried in 1924; in Toronto, only 912.

In Montreal, 1,172 infants died of diarrhoea and enteritis, chiefly milk-borne in their nature; in Toronto, only 76.

These things either count or they don't count. If they do count, Toronto's expenditure upon a modern public health department has not been in vain.—Toronto Star.

OVERWHELMED BYLAWS.

The Examiner has frequently commented upon the multiplicity of laws with which we are harassed, but in this respect Canada, while bad enough, is much better off than its neighbor to the south.

The people of the United States seem to have developed a perfect mania for making laws.

One writer says that the Republic has more laws and less law than any other country in the world.

However that may be, the fact remains that two thousand bills have been introduced in the Legislature of California.

If thirty-five States do as well, and if 30,000 are added for Congress, there is a total of 100,000 new laws proposed for the consideration of American legislators during the present year.

A British Parliament very rarely has more than 300 bills a session, and of that number many are slaughtered; a contrast that is so striking that United States editors are beginning to comment upon the difference.

And out of the discussion comes a suggestion that the Canadian system be adopted, so that Cabinet officers would be personally present and debate the administration measures on the floor of Congress.

Chester H. Rowell declares that that one change, small as it is, would give fewer, better and prompter laws and more responsible and intelligent decisions upon them.

A RECORD YEAR.

The recently issued 55th annual statement of the Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada cannot fail to prove a source of deep satisfaction to the policyholders. By every test, this pioneer Canadian mutual life company has made record progress during the past year. In every phase of its business, the growth has been more than satisfactory.

By practically half-a-million dollars, the previous high record of surplus earnings, was surpassed, the 1924 total being $3,500,258. An increased distribution was made to policyholders of $579,562.33 more than was paid out in 1923. A total of $2,689,007.99 was paid out in dividends in 1924—a return to the policyholders of approximately 25 per cent. of the total premiums received by the company.

As pointed out by the general manager in his address, during the lifetime of the Mutual Life of Canada, $15,963,134.22 has been paid in dividends to policyholders, and, of this amount, $12,870,044.28 was distributed during the last 10 years. It is clearly evident from these figures that the aim of the company—to furnish maximum protection at a minimum cost—is being splendidly realized.

The expansion of the company's business has been healthy and progressive. During the year a total of $43,324,297 of new assurances was written, representing an increase in new policies issued of $4,283,719, or 11 per cent. more than in 1923. The business in force now amounts to $295,729,866 on 135,285 policies, compared with $269,982,566 at the end of 1923—a net increase of $25,747,300 last year.

The impregnable financial situation of the company is well indicated in accumulated assets of $65,960,767, an increase over the previous year of $6,233,378.

The Mutual Life of Canada has an unbroken record of development during its 55 years of existence. The principle of mutuality—whereby the profit-participating policyholders receive back the entire net profits—has been abundantly justified. As remarked by the president: "The results of the year 1924 are sufficient t opoint the moral that co-operation, scientifically employed as it is in our case, eliminate the middleman and his profits, and thus assures to the policyholders a more generous distribution."

FRENCH CANADA.

In less than two centures, as Principal Taylor has pointed out, the French-Canadians have increased their numbers from six thousand to four millions. Additions by immigration have been negligible; natural increase, assiduously fostered by religious belief, accounts for this unparalleled achievement. Can any other race in the world claim similar multiplication in a similar period? asks the Kingston Whig. The rural French-Canadian takes pride in the number of his children; he feels anything but apologetic as his little tribe overflows the accommodation of his cabin. His attitude is that of the ancient Hebrew poet who declared:

Lo, children are a heritage of Jehovah;
And the fruit of the womb is his reward.
As arrows in the hand of a mighty man,
So are the children of youth.
Happy is the man that hath his quiver full of them;
They shall not be put to shame,
When they speak with their enemies in the gate.

The French-Canadian has his roots in the soil, so that vigor is transmitted intact from generation to generation. That is why their farmers have spilled over into depopulated Eastern Ontario. That is why they are pioneering the whole Canadian northland, where few of the rest of us can make a living save out of minerals, timber or electricity. They go at it sensibly, living in communities and going out to their farms, rather than living lonely on farms and going in to an occasional gathering. They hire no help, for they raise their own. They live simple, contented lives and die in full assurance of heaven—which is more than can be said of most of us.

How we Anglo-Canadians are to "hold our own" it is difficult to see. For a time we can maintain our preponderance by immigration in place of propogation. But there will come a time, as it has already come to the United States, when the frontiers will have to be locked against foreign immigration. Then we shall see the French-Canadian sitting down, as he deserves, to the first table, while the rest of us compete, as we deserve, for second places.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The eclipse of the moon yesterday was not nearly as important to most people as the total eclipse of old Jack Frost.

A scientist proposes to exterminate mosquitoes by starving them. Keeping fat men away from summer resorts is likely what he means.

An appropriate feature for the opening of the Legislature tomorrow would be to have Jim McCausland lead the wet group in the singing of "How Dry We Are."

Hon. Geo. S. Henry has the faculty of evolving legislation that causes people to think. But somehow they never seem to think the same way he does.

The February thaw doesn't seem to know the Peterboro bonspiel is over.

They were not so far wrong after all. The end of the world did not come Friday, but the Boston Hockey Club won a game the next night.

DOUBT KEEPING IRISH MONEY IN BANKS' VAULTS

Political Uncertainty Impels People to Avoid Business Investments.

NOT BANKRUPT

Labor Has Restricted Production—Tariff Used as Subsidy.

DUBLIN, Feb. 9.—Ireland is certainly not bankrupt, whatever may be the condition of the finances of the Free State.

Charges have been made that the Free State is bankrupt and the charges have been denied. Whatever may be the truth of these charges, it is certain that the Irish people are not on the verge of bankruptcy.

Bank as Example.

Take, for example, the Leinster and Munster Bank. Its latest report shows that while it has paid-up capital of $2,000,000, it also has a reserve of $5,500,000. The deposits, while $2,434,912 lower than last year, are but little below the deposits for the previous year.

It is generally admitted that Ireland has had a bad year for trade, but despite this there is plenty of money among the Irish people.

There is plenty of money in the Free State awaiting investment, but investors will not venture their money while there is a condition of doubt and uncertainty. Instead the money will be kept idle in the vaults of the banks.

Production Restricted.

Irish labor has restricted output and has failed to keep pace with modern progress, and this is one of the reasons the uncertainty attends any investment in Ireland now. The political situation, od course, is still unsettled.

As long as this state of affairs continues it is to be expected that Irish capital will go abroad. One banker estimates that 50 per cent. of the floating capital of Ireland is now tied up in foreign securities.

Tariff as Subsidy

Industrialists have not aided the situation to any great extent. The Free State Government provided a tariff for the protection of Irish industries. Instead of using this protection as a means of building up their industries, many manufacturers accepted it as a means of subsidy, sat back and raised prices and failed to increase their output.

The result is that now foreign manufacturers are sending their goods into Ireland, paying duty and still undercutting the prices of Irish manufacturers, who have not taken advantage of their tariff to build up their trade.

A THOUGHT.

THE LUXURY OF LIVING.

The rock foundation, the real groundwork, the fundamental factor of a happy life is—Kindness.

Hardness of heart is seldom square with others and is never, never fair to itself. The man who harbors a grudge or entertains malice, hurts his own chances of having any true happiness.

The stony-hearted man may make money, but even metal will melt in that bottomless pit.

Good will toward others and good deeds for all, is the real luxury of living.

One good turn develops your power to do two more gracious acts; two obliging favors fit you to turn in and do four more. Soon kindness gets to be part of your nature, and then you will enjoy the luxury of living.

CHIC APRON FEATURE

This frock owes its chic to the embroidered apron which is arranged so neatly across the front, likewise to the youthful collar line which is a fold of the material standing up on the slightly round neckline. The material is black satin backed crepe and the embroidery is in red and white.

MONTREAL GRAIN.

MONTREAL, Feb. 9.— The foreign demand for Canadian grain here on Saturday showed a slight improvement and sales of some fair sized quantities of No. 1 Northern wheat were made at 7 to 7 1-4 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg May option, C. I. F. Bay ports. The trade in the domestic market was quiet and prices were unchanged. While the tendency of the Spring wheat flour market was steady, it is likely that prices will be marked up in the near future. The market for winter wheat flour was unchanged.

The feature of the egg market was the easier feeling that developed for fresh grades and prices were reduced 1 to 2 cents per dozen. Butter was also reduced one cent per pound. Prices for cheese were well maintained with fodder made No. 1 white and colored cheese quoted at 20 1-4 to 20 1-2 per pound and No. 2 grade at 19 1-4 to 19 1-2 cents per pound.

Beans were steady at $2.90 per bushel.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7. — After a brisk advance to-day the wheat market closed firm with May delivery six cents up from yesterday's half-panic setback to $1.85 a bushel. France, Portugal and other European countries were reported to be buying, and compared with yesterday's close the wheat market as a whole finished 2 1-4 to 4 3-4 cents net higher, May 190 3-4 to 191 and July 162 1-4 to 162 1-2. Corn made 3-8 to 1 cents gain, oats half to 7-8 cent. In provisions the outcome was unchanged to 10 cents higher. Persistent buying evidently for large interests, accompanied today's new upward sweep of the wheat market The fact that yesterday's selling here totalled 125,561,000 bushels, the largest aggregate for a single day on record was generally taken to indicate that a tremendous amount of miscellaneous holdings had been eliminated, and that a big share of the wheat thus transferred had gone from weak to stronger hands. Overnight selling orders were plentiful at the opening to-day but were readily absorbed and with indications of a good export demand the market soon began to climb. Before the day was ended, May had reached 1.91 1-8 and then held near to that figure.

RAISULI GOES TO MEET FATE

them take my body, too. The prophet awaits me in Heaven."

I suggested that we ask him if he resented the fact that Spain had abandoned him in his mountain fortress.

"Spain. Do not say that word to me," he snarled again. "The lord of the mountain served Spain once. The lord of the mountain is a prisoner. Who are these strangers who come to taunt Raisuli? Let me tear out my beard and die."

That evening Raisuli's saddle and horse—an Arabian dream—arrived. No more beautiful animal ever had been made than this spotless creature, which in the future will be ridden by Prince Mohammed. The saddle is made entirely of gold and cloth of gold, with heavy gold thread embroideries. It glistened in the sunlikht like some stage property out of an Arabian Night's entertainment.

Raisuli is suffering now from dropsy and heart seizures. Whether he eats or not, he probably will live only a short time. The man of whom Theodore Roosevelt sent his famous message —"Perdicaris alive, or Raisuli dead"—has been thus far twenty years reaching that death with which the American President threatened him.

ed of his faith. His lecture was decidedly disjointed, he skipped from point to point almost with the agility of a dictionary, but did not go into his points quite as completely.

A Little Pup Joins the Audience.

When Reidt mounted an unsteady table to explain his chart of strange figures and forms a little yellow pup, trotting around with a stubby friend ly tail awagging, halted for a speculative glance at the apostle. Then he continued his ambles. While Reidt held forth his two daughters, Ernie 10, and Ester, 6, peered from the edges of the yellow shades in the front windows. Their blue eyes stared unsteadily until one happened to look at them, then the little girls—bright, healthy youngsters and high in their studies—would jerk the shade closed, revealing a second later, two abashed, smiling faces.

Inside the house, with what remained of her husband's furniture, was Mrs. Reidt, 30 years old, a firm disciple of her spouse, and the two boys, Robert Jr., 12 years old, and Walter, a year younger. Mrs. Reidt was played out by the strenuous wait of the night before.

She revealed that the children had been tucked in early and not disturbed all night. Mrs. Reidt denied that the family diet had consisted solely of carrots and water. Carrots, she said, had entered largely into it, but so had other vegetables and peanut butter. No meat, she added, was eaten in her household.

Ernie shyly acted as spokesman for her sisters and brothers.

"Well," she said, when asked if she approved of her father's disposal of his goods, "I wanted to keep the cat and the dog. I liked them, but mother didn't think we could and I am sure we couldn't."

The little girl was asked if she really wanted to go away—to leave all her playmates?

"If mother wants to go," she said, without hesitation, "I want to go with her."

TWO LANGUAGES A GREAT ASSET

war of 1812 and 1815. Where were the French Canadians when Napoleon was trying to over-run Europe? The United States sought to get the Fraench Canadians to throw in their lot with them but they, in common with their fellow British subjects, preferred their British connection.

In 1814, Great Britain turned free trade, and an annexation movement started, but the French Canadian turned his back on that and when the B. N. A. act was passed, again the French Canadians chose Great Britain as the trustee of the compact.

Language a Bond.

Always they were in favour of a United Canada. To-day three tenths of the people spoke French. Six sevenths of Quebec people were French Canadians. "How are we to solve and make a United Canada?" The French and English-speaking people were living side by side. What would be the result? Large inter-provincial trade would be the immediate result.

He showed how, in selling goods if the salesmen and the buyers were bilingual it would mean more sales because each could explain and understand the quality and terms of the goods for sale.

A knowledge of both languages brought advancement and mutual advantage.

He was astonished to find how insular we, in Canada, are. Eighty-three per cent. of the export trade was done with the English speaking world. Of the remaining 17 per cent, 5 per cent, was done with France, Italy, Spain and Belgium.

What a wretched proportion when the number of French people in Europe was considered.

'We are standing in our own light in not propagating the doctrine knowledge of both languages would be better for both. The United States educational system was partly followed in Ontario and some had the idea that everyone had to be cast in the same mould.

The product of uniformity was the insane idea that had taken possession of Ontario. Instead there should be diversity of thought and action that had taken root in all parts of the world.

In Ontario there was a tendency, by hostile legislation to discourage the teaching of French, which was an insult to the intelligence of the people.

"The English-speaking population of the world totalled 160,000,000. French speaking people numbered 70,000,000 and peoplespeaking tongues kindred to the French totalled 125,000,000. Yet we are so small and narrow in Canada that we do not seek means to extend our fifth resource of two language to have people speaking the English and French languages.

Why did Germany capture so much foreign trade before the war? It was their lingual ability that helped to capture trade.

Trust One Another.

"We have too much narrowness in this and far too much attention to the politician who preaches fear, force, and hate." Such a state of mind led to poverty and distress. The Balkan States were an example where there was no such ideas as faith and trust. Their view was oppression and successively one state after another gained the ascendancy.

"Let us not adopt the Prussian, German, or Mohammedan idea. Faith should not be supplanted by force. It would be much to our advantage to adopt the British way. Look at their treatment of the Boers and the result. The Boers helped Britain in the last war to maintain the freedom they were enjoying under the British flag.

In the learning of the two languages Canadians would make for development by extending inter-provincial and Dominion trade, much to the benefit of their national welfare" and if we proceed on these lines, with faith in each other, it will make for a United Canada, then Canada will march onward in the van of progress,' he added.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Rub on Good Old Musterole

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Rub good old Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, it does the work without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief. 40c and 75c, at all druggists.

A GLANCE AT NEW BOOKS

Dorothy Speare, Brilliant Young Boston Girl, Discusses the Flapper—Four Stories by Conrad and Rose Macauley's "Orphan Island."

"The American girl was merely doing a little pioneer work with the social conventions. But, like the pioneer, she is now settling. Within the last few years she has changed her ideas about 'expressing herself.' We must remember that year upon year she had been forced to conform to all the set formalities and it was only natural that, upon being liberated a bit, she should go to the extreme."

Thus does Dorothy Speare, the very clever young writer of Boston, discuss "the passing of the flapper" and the departure of the young feminine extremists.

Now Miss Speare has been doing quite a bit of "expressing herself," and while but 24 years of age, has managed to turn out two quite successful novels and become a grand opera singer of European fame. Her books are "Danders in the Dark" (Doran) and "The Gay Year," and are written around her observations of the American younger set.

She is now in Paris, preparing for a Milan debut in "Traviata." Several European critics have declared her voice to be one of the rare finds, although she is little known as a singer.

Just before sailing she was more inclined to discuss the "younter generation" than her own success.

"There was a period, just after the war, when almost any girl just out of school expected to do something of consequence, and it didn't make a bit of difference whether there was any talent for the chosen work. This overego period, while still bothering a few, has been lived down by the many. They have found that posing is soon discovered."

There comes to the reviewer four unpublished stories of Conrad: two of his first; two of his last.

One of the very important literary events of the new year! A small book: "Tales of Hearsay" (Doubleday, Page).

And included in the quartet, "The Warrior's Soul," a story of Poland, Conrad's homeland. This was written about 1917, and it was his swan-song in the short story form. "The Rover," a novel, was his only literary work to appear thereafter, and there is an unfinished novel that will soon be issued.

His two early tales may be dismissed with the comment that, written by anyone else they would seem important; written by Conrad they show him to have been a story-teller born, done in perfect English—perhaps in finer English than some of the later writings—but not comparable to such things as "Heart of Darkness" and "Youth," which, in this surveyor's mind, are two of the finest "long short stories" in the English tongue.

And now may be added "The Warrior's Soul." In the denouement of this story there is a scene where the French officer walks into the Russian lines pleading with the gallant young officer, Tomassov, to repay an old debt with a pistol shot that would end his life and misery. It is an incident in an astounding picture of the retreat of Napoleon's army from Moscow, but it flies on wings of genius. Horror and misery can go no farther. It is a tremendous bit of writing.

* * *

Rose Macauley has discovered "Orphan Island" (Boni, Liveright). Last season she produced the delightful and satirical "Told By An Idiot," one of the most entertaining things of the year.

"Orphan Island" is in a much lighter mood, belonging to the "sprightly" school of writing, and one of the most amusing books one could pick up for winter or summer reading.

In it Miss Macauley shows 40 orphans being started for a South Sea island under the tutorship of a mentor of 30, the vessel is wrecked and a community grows up composed of this orphan crew. For 70 years they have John Bunyan and the old school of writers as their guides in manners and morals. Then there arrives at this late day some typical moderns who investigate the Victorian manners and minds of the castaways. The possibilities for high satire are too obvious to need mention.

* * *

Aldous is himself again!

The young Mr. Huxley, after a book of short stories in serious vein, is out with more satirical stuff; finger at nose; slapstick in hand, ready to thump any fad, fancy and theory that may pass him by. The book is "Those Barren Leaves" (Doran) and it leaves no doubt that this Huxley is one of the very best of the little group of serious entertainers of whom, in this reviewer's estimation, Norman Douglas heads the list with "South Wind."

It is fluff, of course; nothing for the realists, and certainly nothing for the unsophisticated and uninitiated. Huxley presupposes intelligence and an ironic outlook.

If the world is seeking a satirist, which can seriously be doubted, here is the best recruit in the market.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

THE FARMERS AT OTTAWA.

To the Editor of Examiner.

Sir,—Mr. Forke, the leader of the Progressives at Ottawa, when asked four years ago if the Progressives would take the position in Parliament which they were entitled to by reason of their numbers, said "No." He gave the position of official opposition to the Conservatives instead, because he said the Progressives would support that party in Parliament which did best for the farmer and oppose none. Although not very well satisfied, he supported the King Government, and having put it on its feet, proceeded to ask it to grant things for the benefit of the West. As the Progressive support was necessary to keep the King Government in power, Mr. Forke got what he asked for, and now says: "Now, ye farmers of Canada, you see if there had not been a Farmers' party in Parliament the farmers would have fared very badly." No farmer who wishes to be honest with himself and with his brother farmers can deny Mr. Forke's statement. However much the U.F.O. failed at Toronto, the U.F.C. was no failure at Ottawa. Mr. Forke now calls upon all the farmers of Canada to support him at the election now but a few months away. The Peterboro constituency is not as formerly, two-thirds city and one-third country. The country is now equal in voting power to the city, and if Liberals and Conservatives put candidates in the field, a farmer ought to win hands down. But he has got to be a big man who will secure a big farmer support and not a farmer with ambitions only. Such a man would get a good vote in town because when the farmer is prosperous everybody else is prosperous. A man who only wants to use the farm vote to get into Parliament would not do much at an election. A good far-seeing leader is a rare thing. The war was almost lost for want of one. Some people think that any one will do for a leader. That is why parties and nations go to the wall. That is why great corporations pay good managers enormous salaries. When people don't know enough to support the right man they need not expect much.

SWEDISH BUREAU ANNUAL REPORTS

Iron Ore Industries Had Profitable Year in 1924.

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 9.—Healthful stability of Swedish economic conditions in general, contrasted with the hampering effect of the disproportion between industrial wages and market conditions, are the keynotes of the fourth official quarterly report of the Royal Board of Trade.

The balancing of accounts for the fiscal year 1923-24 shows a budget surplus of $11,041,000, the principal sources of this excess revenue being the import duties and the earnings of various state enterprises, such as the state railways. The total foreign trade is increasing rapidly, with the exports gaining faster than the imports.

The Swedish iron ore industries had a prosperous year, Grachgesberg, the principal mining company, declaring a dividend of 10 per cent. for 1924, as against 5 per cent. the previous year. During the year ended September 30, 1924, this company exported 4,350,000 tons of ore, an increase of about 750,000 tons over the preceding year.

The iron and steel and machine industries are depressed, owing to the fact that the prices obtainable in the market scarcely cover the cost of production. A process of wage readjustment is now going on, which, it is hoped, will restore a fair margin of profit and encourage enterprise.

Swedish lumber sales during 1924 amounted to about 90 per cent. of the total production. By the end of December more than 100,000 standards had also been sold for delivery in 1925, which is 43 per cent. more than the corresponding figure a year earlier. The total exports of Swedish wood pulp during the first nine months of 1924 reached 924,289 tons, as compared with 637,441 during the corresponding period of 1923. Among the buyers of Swedish woodpulp, ranked according to sums paid, the United States now takes the lead.

It was decided that Hastings would be the place for the holding of the Orange Walk on July 12th next.

HARD WORK BETTER THAN OPERATIONS

Trust Mogul at 75 Finds Pleasure in Toil.

(By Lucien Arthur Jones.)

These are the things I prize
And hold of dearest worth:
Light of the sapphire skies,
Shelter of the forests, waters bright and clear,
Music of birds, murmur of little rills,
The smell of flowers
And of the good brown earth,
And, best of all along the way, friendship and mirth.

—Van Dyke.

That is the philosophy of Charles R. Flint, seventy-five, master trader, who, at an age when most men have long since retired, has to-day set financial circles on tip-toe with his $100,000,000 consolidation of West Virginia coal companies.

While streams of visitors called at his office, No. 25 Broad Street, yesterday, the "Father of Trusts" explained why at seventy-five he has as aictive and as keen a mind as a man of forty.

He prefaced his remarks with:

"I'm good for years and years. On the judgment day, they'll have to shoot me."

Then he told how as a young man when the Flints had the second largest fleet of sailing vessels under the American flag, he said to himself:

"I must keep that wonderful machine, my body, in condition.

Yielded to Czar.

So young Flint gave up smoking, drinking and all stimulants, including tea and coffee. Only once did he break that rule, when he was granted an audience by Czar Nicholas II. of Russia at Peterhof. He did this, he said laughingly, to put the Emperor at his ease.

Flint today gives the lie direct to the Psalmist's gloomy pronouncement that man's years are threescore and ten.

At his desk, with his spare, upright figure and mutton-chop whiskers and scarcely greying hair, he will talk searchingly on the intricacies of finance, sport, music, international politics and the need for this country to be prepared for the future with adequate air, naval and land forces.

Steinach Scorned.

But, most of all, he will dwell on how an open-air life has enabled him to scoff at Professor Steinach, adding:

"I generally work five days a week and the other two I spend fishing and shooting at my place on Long Island."

Here his youthful secretary interposed to say:

"Yes, but when you were putting this coal merger through, you were working twelve hours a day, six days a week."

She added:

"If he gets any more active, I'm going to resign. I can't stand that pace."

Flint went on:

"Sometimes I spend hours in the saddle. I find riding one of the best tonics.

"I've not taken a vacation since 1910. If I didn't keep my mind active with continual work, think I would disintegrate from dry rot. I don't mean thereby that all things of life should be sacrificed to work, but do think toil is better than any rejuvenation operations."

Asked what advice he would give to the tired business man, Flint replied:

"More sunshine and less moonshine."

He revealed that many world-famous veterans are among his intimates and agree with his philosophy of life. Among them are Edison, Chauncey Depew and Elihu Root. It was Edison who, sending Flint a copy of his latest book, inscribed therein.

To Charles R. Flint ,the master trader."

Flint was once ill in St. Petersburg. He cabled to the New York Life Insurance Company:

"You have $200,000 on my life. I'm ill. Send a physician at once and save your money."

He said no man was ever cured so quickly.

BILIOUS and SICK HEADACHES ARE CAUSED BY CONSTIPATION

Once you allow your bowels to become constipated you will become troubled with bilious and sick headaches, and for relief you must help your liver to remove the poisonous bile that is circulating in the blood and upsetting the entire biliary system. ITALY'S WHEAT NEEDS MET.

Supply Is Assured Until New Crop Is Harvested.

ROME, Feb. 9.—All anxiety about wheat is unfounded, the Popolo d'Italia says. Reports from the provinces as well as from the centres which supply Italy indicating the country's needs are assured until the new crop is harvested.

Meanwhile, the Government has made known its determination not to fix the price of bread under any circumstances or adopt any other measure of intervention or coercion, past experience having shown that such steps are useless and undesirable.

AL SCHAT'S COMEDY.

Tale of Banana Peddler Who Failed to Appreciate It.

Al Schact, who pairs up with Nick Altrock as a member of the team of Altrock and Schact, baseball comedians extraordinary, has a keen sense of humor.

Schact is quick to grasp a situation. His pantomime on the ball field could well be copied by some of the so-called comedians of the films.

Down in Washington they tell this one on Schact:

Walking down Pennsylvania avenue in Washington, one would think that all the bananas in the world had been consigned to that city. At intervals of about thirty feet are vendors featuring the "banan."

It so happened that a certain Italian merchant looked as if he was to be stuck with some over-ripe fruit that probably wouldn't last through the night. He was loudly calling his wares at a reduced price.

"Tene-doz," "Ten-e-doz," shouted the banana dealer in a racous voice.

Now if there is one pastime that Schact is partial to, aside from baseball, it is African golf. Al has better control of the cubes than he ever had of a ball as a pitcher. In fact, he's so good he can almost call his point.

As Schact heard the shout of "Ten-e-doz," over and over again, he briskly walked over to the banana stand and throwing a dime on top of the cart, came right back with:

"Ten-e-don't, Ten-e-don't."

The quip went right over the "Wop." He didn't get Al's stuff, but not caring to lose the sale, he pocketed the dime and passed Schact a dozen bananas."

A colored merchant close by was seen to smile and reach into his pocket for his bank roll, as a tip to Schact that he was ready to give him competition with the "bones."

One of the worst railways disasters in German history is reported from Herne in the Ruhr district. In a dense fog the Berlin-Cologne express crashed into a local passenger train filled with early morning workers. Twenty-two were killed and 50 injured.

Healthy Children

WHAT a joy there is in the laughter of children. How quickly that laughter dies when constipation—that great enemy of healthy bodies—coats the tongue and dulls the appetite of your boy or girl.

Mothers often fail to recognize in the bad breath, the coated tongue and fretfulness, the danger of disease that lurks like a shadow ready to throw its black mantle over the loved one.

DR. CALDWELL'S LAXATIVE SYRUP PEPSIN relieves the cause—constipation—and should be in every home. You will be astonished how quickly this great family remedy will put laughter back in the eyes of your child.

It is a safe, mild laxative especially suitable for children, pleasant to take, with no cramping after effects. It contains no narcotics or mercurials.

AUTO CAN'T HIT TRAIN WITHOUT PAYING DAMAGE

Friends of Defenceless Engine Protect It From Assault and Battery.

$67 DEMANDED.

Complaint Says Man Drove Car on Track and Went to Sleep.

SAN MATEO, Cal., Feb. 9 (United Press).—When a fellow picks up his automobile and begins hittin' a poor defenceless locomotive with it, he's going to find the locomotive has friends after all.

That's what Hugh Jamieson of San Mateo is finding out right now.

He attacked a Southern Pacific Locomotive with his automobile, it would seem, and now he's sued for $67.72 damages, plus interest at the legal rate from August 6, 1924, until he pays.

It's this way.

On August 6th, Locomotive No. 1527 was ambling down past Beresford Station near here, dragging Train No. 62 of the Southern Pacific Lines behind it—as any self-respecting, law-abiding and well trained locomotive ought to do.

But at the same time Jamieson got sleepy—as any well-trained gentleman is liable to do.

So, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company alleges in a complaint filed here, Jameson drove his automobile directly into the path of the locomotive and there, wilfully and negligently stopped his motor and went to sleep.

Whereupon the law-abiding and well trained locomotive, not to be swerved from its path by the threats of assault from Mr. Jamieson's automobile, was forced to meet said automobile at close quarters and come out it second best.

Appreciate Sacrifice.

Now the locomotive could do nothing for itself, but the Southern Pacific Railway Company, appreciative of this sacrifice by a faithful servant has determined to do something in behalf of the injured engine. Wherefore it has filed this complain in court here against Jameson.

"That at about 9 p.m., August 6, 1924, defendant herein was operating a Studebaker five-passenger touring car, 1923 model, bearing motor No. 92820 E.M., Serial No. 1092.98. That said defendant carelessly and negligently drove his automobile on to the tracks of the plaintiff near Beresford in said Second Township. That said defendant stopped his automobile with the front wheels between the rails of the eastbound track and the rear of the automobile fouling the westbound, mainline track. Defendant stopped his automobile and apparently fell asleep, with the result that said automobile collided with Engine No. 1527 of Train No. 62 of the plaintiff running between San Francisco and San Jose.

"That by reason of said careless, reckless and negligent conduct on the part of the defendant herein, plaintiff's engine was damaged and required the following repairs:

Engine No. 1527, Train 62, at Beresford:
1 new pilot	$44.60
8 new pilot knees, C.A .5048,140 pounds G.I.	3.90
8 per cent. store expense on material	3.90
Labor	8.42
16 per cent. shop expense on labor	1.35
10 per cent. supervision on labor	.98
Plus 10 per cent. general expense	6.34
	$69.65
Less credit material release scrap pilot	2.03
	$64.75

Which shows that even defenseless locomotives have friends.

A dusty flivver stood inside the shed. He stared at it for a while, wrinkling his forehead and trying to remember whether anybody at the ranch possessed such a thing. He stepped into the shed and walked slowly around it. The place was getting rather dark, which was not favorable for detailed observation. So far as he could see, however, it looked just like any other flivver. But no; there was a front wheel missing, on the left side. A soap-box had been placed under the axle. He looked around the shed, but could not find the wheel. It struck him as peculiar that anybody should put a flivver under lock and key, particularly one that had only three wheels.

Presently he stepped outside again and paused for another view of the rear end. His glance rested upon a licence place and became fixed there. There was a vague stirring in his memory. Then, with a look of astonishment on his face, he hurried off in the direction of the ranch house.

All this he had been relating to his father as they sat in the living-room, and Jerome Underwood had been shooting questions at him that began in incredulity and developed into genuine curiosity.

"You say you can remember the license-plate?" demanded his father.

"No; I didn't remember the number of course. I never took any note of it; I wasn't hear enough the other night. I didn't notice the state, either. But it just has the general look; I think, maybe, it's the color that stuck in my mind."

"And it's a one-seater?"

"Yes."

"H'm! Well, there are millions of them, of course. You ought always to remember license numbers in any kind of an emergency."

Excellent advice; but Underwood himself had omitted to follow it, and he actually had his hands on the bandit car.

"Get a lantern," he said. "Let's go down and have a look at it."

Chester fetched a lantern from the kitchen, and they went down to the tool shed. Jerome Underwood examined the mysterious flivver with more attention than he had ever given to his own imported car. He studied, the licence-plate with a searching eye trying to make himself believe that it awakened recollection. He could not be sure, but the more he looked at it the more familiar it seemed to be. Unconsciously, he was creating a memory of it, which might, after all, serve just as well.

The missing wheel baffled him. He could not invent a reason for it. Had there been a smash-up which crumpled a wheel, there would almost certainly be other marks on the car. But all it showed were a few ordinary dents and a myriad of scratches, common to hundreds of thousands of other flivvers all over the world. Standing there on its three wheels, with a soap-box serving as a crutch in place of the fourth, the dusty thing possessed an uncanny faculty of annoying him. He was aware of a feeling of resentment toward it. He had hated flivvers always; the people who drove them, as he saw them, never had any road manners. It was useless to pass them in the highway and leave them sputtering in your wake, because there was always another one ahead. Now it seemed that his diffused hatred came to a focus on one solitary specimen out of all the millions.

He led the way back to the house, swinging the lantern and trying to make something out of Chester's discovery. When they entered the living room he did the obvious thing.

"Go get McSween," he said. "And let me do the talking."

Chester found the foreman in the bunk house, getting ready to pull off his boots. Charley was a believer in going early to bed when there was nothing else to do. He went up to the ranch house, wondering what the boss wanted.

Mr. Underwood always tried to make it a practice of getting immediately to the point, particularly with subordinates.

"Who owns the car that stands in the tool shed?" he asked.

"What car?" asked Charley.

Then and there he passed a Rubicon, and realized it. Probably he had passed it foolishly, too. But the question had taken him by surprise, and his own question in return had snapped itself out automatically. That was the worst of speaking without due reflection. Why hadn't he said that the car belonged to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Williams and let the truth have its way?

"There's a car down there, a three-wheeled flivver," said Underwood. "Who does it belong to?"

"A three-wheeled flivver?" repeated Charley. "I reckon that's a new kind. It ain't any wonder they keep takin' chunks off the price."

Mr. Underwood stared at his foreman.

"Mean to say you didn't know there was a flivver in the tool shed?" he demanded.

"First I ever heard of it," said Charley promptly.

Having inadvertently set a course for himself he proposed to sail it. He had a superstition about turning back. And what was all the fuss about, anyhow?

"Well, we found one there. My son and I have been taking a look at it. Do you know what we think?"

"U'm! No, I can't say as I do, Mr. Underwood."

Charley was becoming cautious and curious. He scratched his chin and resolved to be deliberate.

"We think it's the same car that was used by the gang that held us up."

"Well, I'll be dog-goned! And standin' down there in the tool shed? Why, I'll just be damned, that's all!"

"And you mean to say you don't know anything about it?"

"But I'm a-goin' to," said Charley. "I'm a-goin' to have a look."

He seized the lantern and hastened out of the room before Mr. Underwood could utter another question. Down near the shed he paused for thought. There was no need to go and look at the Wreck's flivver he knew all about it. What he wanted was a little time.

Twice within the space of a minute he had been surprised, and he proposed to get himself in order before they did it again. It had never occurred to him that any member of the Underwood family would take the trouble to discover the flivver. That was the first surprise. It was entirely unnecessary, too, he reflected; he might as well have left the thing in the open. Nobody could use it, anyhow. But the other surprise—the suspicion that this was the flivver!

"The sons of guns!" he muttered. "The sons of guns! Stickin' up the boss and then buttin' into his own ranch and askin' for breakfast! I ain't sayin' they did! I ain't convinced. I'm always in favor of preservin' a judicial mind and bein' fair to all concerned. But when you come to think of it—h'm! There's Henry Williams now. It's always been puzzlin' me to figure him. Accordin' to his wife he's a kind of invalid. But accordin' to Mort, and things which I've seen with my own eyes, he's a rampagin' rhinoceros. I wouldn't pick him to be in the stick-up business, and yet I wouldn't say he don't possess qualifications. The main thing is, he's got all the required nerve. The son of a gun!"

Charley stood tweaking his ear and frowning at the tool shed.

"Admittin' the indictment—which I ain't necessarily, but admittin' it for the sake of argument—what am I goin' to do? I said I didn't know there was any flivver here. If I go back and say I did, I'm a liar. There ain't anything I hate to be accused of worse than that. Besides, if I admit I knew all about it, and it turns out that Henry lives up to what may be justly expected, then I'm makin' myself a sort of accessory after the fact. Which ain't true and is damagin' to my reputation. I may be rough and untutored, but I ain't any Henry Williams—the four-eyed son of a gun!"

He picked up the lantern, turned toward the ranch house and paused again.

"Furthermore, here I've been tellin' the boss how I got him a prize cook from out east, along with her obligin' husband. He's liable to form a kind of poor opinion if I admit he came near havin' no cook at all. It's a reflection on foresight and management. And it's too late, anyhow. I can't tell him it's Henry Williams' flivvert I can't tell him it's mine. I can't admit having any guilty knowledg, appertainin' to it. It looks like I had to keep right on bein' innocent, which is one of my best points. But—the son of a gun!"

Deciding that he had been away long enough, he went back to the house, where he found Underwood and Chester waiting for him in the living-room.

"Well?" demanded the boss of the establishment.

"She's a flivver all right," remarked Charley as he set the lantern on the floor. "She's just what you said, a three-wheeler."

"And you don't recognize it?"

"No, sir. It's a new sight to me. It's an amazin' visitation, so far's I'm concerned."

"You mean you didn't know there was a car locked up in that shed?"

Jerome Underwood's eyes were fixed in a glare of incredulity, but Charley McSween gazed back with mild steadiness.

"Didn't know she was there. Didn't know the shed was locked. Hadn't been any call for anything that was kept in the shed.

"But—damn it—how could it get there?"

"I've been tryin' to think," he said. "If she had four wheels I'd say she got there in the regular way. But she's only got three wheels and a soap-box. That puts her in a class by herself. I can't figure her."

"Anybody around this ranch own a car?"

"No, sir. One of the boys had a motor-cycle once, but he couldn't learn to stay on the seat. We ain't had even a bicycle around here since."

Underwood continued to regard him with unwinking amazement.

"You're supposed to know what's going on around here, aren't you?" he demanded.

"Yes, I reckon I am," said Charley "But it's a fair-sized ranch, and sometimes I'm travelin' around it."

"Do you want me to understand that a hold-up gang can use my place as a headquarters without my foreman even knowing it?"

"No, sir I don't aim to be perfect, but I don't aim to be too careless, either. I take it you're feelin' pretty certain it belongs to the gang?"

"I am now. I only thought so before, and so did my son. But when I'm told that you don't know anything about it, then I'm convinced."

"It looks reasonably convincing," admitted Charley.

"What went on here the night before I arrived?"

"Nothin' that I 'specially recall. I reckon we all turned in pretty early."

"Could they have run a car in here without your knowing it?"

"Looks like they did, Mr. Underwood. It certainly makes me feel kind of foolish, bein' such a sound sleeper. But there she is, settin' there on three wheels and a box. There ain't any argument about that."

Charley knew that he was looking sheepish, and felt it was the right way to look.

"What gets me," he said, "is why anybody brought the damn thing here at all. What's the idea? And how did they get it here on three wheels? There ain't anything reasonable about any part of it. There ain't anything you can get a good start on for figurin'. Odd times I've seen things that surprised me. But this has got me laid sort of flat out."

Underwood made a restless gesture of impatience.

"I'm sorry the sheriff got away so early," he said. "He might be able to make some sense out of it. It seems that nobody around my ranch knows anything at all about anything."

"I reckon we all look stupid," confessed Charley. "I ain't denyin' you've got grounds for thinkin' so. If I was the boss, and anything like that happened around my place I'd just naturally take a few folks apart until I got the answer. That's the way I'd feel."

Underwood finished a calculating study of his foreman, then waved an arm in dismissal.

"We'll talk about this again in the morning," he said. "I wouldn't like to think there has been anything worse than stupidity."

"I wouldn't want to think so myself," said Charley. "Good night."

He went out with the lantern, passed through the dining-room and pantry and entered the empty kitchen, where he sat down and began filling his pipe.

"Well, I've made a high-grade ass out of myself," he mused. "I got started that way and there wasn't anything else to do. How in blazes was I goin' to tell him that I picked up the first stick-up gang that came along and turned 'em into a cook and dish-washer, without askin' for references? And me believin' that Providence sent 'em!"

He tipped the chair against the wall and hooked his heels in the rungs.

"I lied the only way that was befittin' the occasion. If I'd lied excited and brazen it wouldn't have held good overnight. I ain't so sure that I got by, either. I was always brought up believin' that a lie well stuck to is as good as the truth. But I ain't sure. It's sort of disconcertin'."

He fell into a long reverie, which came to an end when he muttered earnestly:

"The son of a gun!"

Tired, Testy and Profane; His Wife Charges Insanity

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 9.—(United Press).—Declared sane on Saturday by a sanity commission, Albert J. Gleason, wealthy East Orange sportsman and president of nineteen business colleges, immediately took steps to effect a reconciliation with the wife who had tried to prove him mentally unbalanced.

Their love, apparently unmarred by the sharp encounters of the past at the sanity hearing, both conferred with their lawyers with the hope of establishing a martial truce.

Mrs. Gleason and her daughter, Dorothy, 19-year-old Mount Holyoke student, had described Gleason as "tired, testy and profane," and said he was incapable of handling his fortune, but business associates denied these charges and the jury of 24 men reported in Gleason's favor.

Murder Charge in Connection With One Death—Husband and Wife Quarrel.

DETROIT, Feb. 9. — (Canadian Press).—Three persons, two women and a man are dead, and another man is dying in the receiving hospital as a result of asphyxiation by illuminating gas yesterday. A suspect is under arrest in connection with the death of one of the women. Two of the victims are a young husband and wife, Philip Todzak, and his wife, Margaret, both 23, found dead in their apartment after a night spent in quarrelling. Mrs. Elizabeth Milich, 45, is also dead.

Samuel Viescko, 46, a roomer in Mrs. Milich's house, is not expected to live. Creto Bujaow, 39, another roomer in the Milich home, was arrested shortly after the discovery of the victims, and is being held on a charge of murder in connection with the death of Mrs. Milich. In both cases all the valves on the gas range were found open.

COMMISSION GROWING.

Pay Envelope Becoming Scarcer Among Salesmen in Drug Trade.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9. — (United Press).—The "pay envelope" is becoming rarer among salesmen in the drug trade, according to the National Wholesale Druggists' Association, which reports a strong trend away from fixed salaries. More and more, it was stated, compensation is taking the form of commission or apportionment of net profits on goods sold.

Summarizing the results of a survey of leading wholesale houses, the association, in a special report, concluded that among these firms who pay on a commission basis, "the trend is very definitely toward a scale of commissions increasing in direct ratio with the profitableness of merchandise sold."

Baby Boy Born After Mother Fatally Injured Is Only Member Of Family Left Alive To-day

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Feb. 9th.—(United Press).— A tiny baby boy born after his mother had been fatally injured in an automobile accident was the only member of the family of Sidney Khan alive today.

Kahn's car was struck by another machine and the man and a one year old baby instantly killed. Mrs. Khan was taken from the wreckage fatally hurt. Physicians performed a caesarion operation. The police have arrested Earl Oliver, driver of the car which hit Khan's machine. They say they found a flask in his pocket.

FORD PAYS $5 DAY TO HIS DECK HANDS

Shipping Industry is Fordized—High Efficiency Realized.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 9—Henry Ford has made good again.

He has Fordized the shipping industry.

Into it he has injected the Ford ideas of high efficiency, good wages and absolute cleanliness, all of which have combined to make his other ventures so successful.

And he has found it pays.

New Orleans has just been given her first glimpse of his latest project—his ship-operating idea— in the docking here of the freighter Oneida one of the first two vessels in the Ford fleet.

Astounds All Seamen

From Detroit, she had come by way of Montreal, Norfolk, Va., and Jacksonville, Fla. Here she unloaded parts of 1640 automobiles. From New Orleans she was going to Houston, Tex., to take aboard a cargo of sugar, sulphur and scrap iron.

The Onedia was a sight to gladden the eyes of the housewife and the efficiency expert; a sight to stun and astound old-time salt-water sailors.

Old seamen just stood on the levee, looked and gasped, then returned to Seamen's Bethel with a tale that sounded like the fantasies of a seasoned yarn-spinner letting himself out beneath the flare of the forecastle lantern.

A 4658-ton gross weight steel freighter, 61 feet long over all, with 43-foot beam, she lay there glistening in a shiny coat of automobile enamel. Her decks were clean enough to eat from.

Though she is an oil burner, not a speck of grease showed anywhere. Down in her engine room brass and nickel-plated trimmings shimmered in the light.

Neither Captain A. N. Leland, her skipper, nor any of his officers will tolerate a speck of dirt. And it's the same with the crew.

$5 for Deck Hands

Those Ford sailor-men? What a collection they were!

Clean-shaven, with fresh haircuts and shoes shined, they were dressed in 1924 model clothes. They went up town in taxicabs and came back the same way—and sober, too.

"Wonder if they get manicured before they come ashore?" asked one old-timer.

The men are a happy contented lot. All are well paid. Five dollars a day is the lowest pay even the newest deck hand draws. And the pay goes up according to the ratings

Not One Has Quit

And grub is thrown in, too. That makes the pay all clear profit.

The United States Shipping Board pay-roll provides $47.50 a month for ordinary seamen. That, until Henry Ford entered the shipping business was thought ruinously high.

Not a man has left ship since the Oneida and her sister ship, Onondaga, first shoved off.

The flivver may be a popular joke. But the flivver fleet isn't.

At least not to seafaring men.

MAGNESIA BEST FOR YOUR INDIGESTION

Warns Against Doping Stomach With Artificial Digestents

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discontinued disagreeable diets, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, medicines and artificial digestents, and instead, following the advice so often given in these columns, take a teaspoonful or two tablets of Bisurated Magnesia in a little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them, they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bisurated Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrective, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation, and without the slightest pain or discomfort. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get pure Bisurated Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use.

Thieves Take Away $15,000 House Furnishings in an Auto.

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y., Feb. 9.—Thieves backed a motor truck up to the country home of Conway Tearle, motion picture actor, at Chappaqua, near here, and removed house furnishings valued at $15,000, the police learned Saturday. Tearle is living at a New York hotel. His wife, known in motion pictures as Adele Rowland, is at Hollywood.

A Wonder Year for Mutualists

Record Surplus of $3,500,258 earned for Policyholders of Mutual Life of Canada

Previous High Mark Passed by Half a Million Dollars

A YEAR of most gratifying results was reported to the policyholders of The Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada at their 55th Annual Meeting on February 5th. In every phase of its business, the growth of Canada's pioneer Mutual Life Company was eminently satisfactory during 1924.

The real test of a life insurance company operating on the participating plan is its surplus earnings from year to year. It is, therefore, of supreme interest to our policyholders—who alone constitute the company—that the 1924 surplus earnings reached the record total of $3,500,258.

Increased Distribution to Policyholders

During the past year an increased distribution was made to policyholders of $579,962.33 more than was paid out in 1923, a total of $2,689,007.99 having been paid out in dividends This sum is most significant when it is realized that it meant a RETURN to the policyholders of approximately 25% of premiums received by the company during the year.

Healthy Increase in Business

During the year a total of $43,324,297 of new assurances was written, representing an increase of $4,283,179 over that of 1923. This increase shows a healthy, progressive expansion of the company's business—expansion as rapid as compatible with the best interests of the policyholders.

The business in force now amounts to $295,729,866 on 135,285 policies, compared with $269,982,566 at the end of 1923—a net increase for 1924 of $25,747,300, after allowing for policies revived and bonuses, as well as new business, and deducting the various terminations.

The Company's Exceptional Strength

Three effective factors contributed to the exceptionally high surplus earned for policyholders. These factors were economy in administration, remarkably favorable mortality and high interest rate on invested assets.

Despite the fact that the new policies issued for the past year exceeded that of 1923 by over 4¼ millions of dollars, the percentage of income required to cover general expenses of administration was reduced from 16.15% to 15.52%.

The mortality experienced during the year was extraordinarily low, the ratio existing between actual and expected death claims being only 36.01%, as against 39.26% in 1923, the previous low record in recent years.

Likewise, in the face of a downward trend in interest rates—especially on high-class bonds in which so large a part of the company's assets is invested—the average interest yield on our invested assets was 6.41%—reflecting the satisfactory earning power of the company's investments.

The company's happy situation is further revealed in accumulated assets of $65,960,767, an increase over the previous year of $6,233,378. The consistent prosperity enjoyed by the company invites the confidence of the insuring public.

Striking Statements from Addresses

The results of the year are sufficient, you will agree, to point the moral that co-operation, scientifically employed, as it is in our case, eliminates the middle-man and his profits and, thus, assures to the policyholders a more generous distribution.

A Mutual Company exists for the express purpose of furnishing maximum protection at a minimum cost and its success is indicated in the amount by which the cost of protection is reduced. When it is said that, during the lifetime of The Mutual of Canada, $15,963,134.22 was paid in dividends to policyholders and that, of this amount, the large sum of $12,870,044.28 was paid out during the past ten years, it will be self-evident that the aims of the company are being realized, and that it is functioning in accordance with the altruistic motives of its founders.

REV. F. W. HOWARD TO REMAIN YEAR

Millbrook Methodist Church Holds Quarterly Board Meeting.

LOCAL CURLERS.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 7.—The quarterly board of the Methodist Church held its February meeting on Monday evening and invited the pastor, Rev. F. W. Howard, for a second term. Mr. Howard, who came to the circuit last June, has won many friends since accepting the pastorate. Congregations are improving and church finances are in good shape.

Mr. Howard accepted the invitation subject to the approval of Conference.

Miss Margaret Wood returned with her sister, Mrs. A. B. Lefroy, to Toronto on Wednesday and will remain for a few weeks' visit in the city. Mrs. Lefroy was called home owing to the serious illness of her mother, the late Mrs. Archibald Wood, who passed away last week.

Ice cutting is in full swing on Attwool and Sheppard's pond, the men report best harvest in years. Blocks of clear ice are from sixteen to eighteen inches in thickness; and with the top crust will measure twenty to twenty-three inches.

From twenty-three to twenty-six blocks make a load, when usually thirty blocks can be drawn at one time. The unusual thickness makes heavy handling for the men at work.

Messrs. J. A. Vance, Ross Edmunds, Mrs. R. H. Edmunds, Mrs. W. E. Ball, and Mrs. G. W. Sayles went to Peterborough on Thursday to take in the bonspiel at which Millbrook has had two rinks entered.

Mrs. E. Kenyon, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. G. W. Sayles, for the past week, returned to Peterborough on Thursday.

Mrs. P. Stinson, and her little neice, Iris Hammond, have gone to North Bay this week to her brother's, Mr. J. Hammond. Iris has been spending the fall and winter months with her aunt, but will remain with her parents when Mrs. Stinson returns on Friday.

The hockey match between Omemee and Millbrook which was to have been played on Thursday, was postponed owing to the illness of one of the Omemee players.

The local Orange Lodge, No. 79, is holding a dance in the town hall on Thursday evneing, Byam's four-piece orchestra being engaged to furnish music for the occasion. The last dance, under the auspices of the L.O.L., which took the form of a basket social, was a decided success from the standpoint of attendance, enjoyment, and finance.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Grace Presbyterian Church is holding its annual meeting in the church parlors on Saturday, February 7, at 3 p.m. A full attendance of members is looked for so that the necessary business may be satisfactorily transacted.

Born.—At the Private Patients' Pavilion, Toronto General Hospital, on Monday, February 2, 1925, to Mr. and Mrs. George T. Walsh, 79 Oriole Road, a son (George Tucker).—Toronto Globe.

Mr. Walsh, who practices his profession of barrister-at-law in Toronto, was born and brought up in Millbrook, and has a wide circle of relatives and friends in this vicinity.

Local Curlers.

The two rinks of local curlers who went to Peterborough on Tuesday to compete in the annual bonspiel, have been giving a good account of themselves. In the preliminary round for the Morrow trophy both rinks went down to defeat, J. Steele losing to W. G. Morrow, Peterborough, by a score of 17-11, and R. H. Edmunds to F. Williams, Lindsay, by 14-7.

In the competition for the Matthews-Blackwell trophy, Edmunds won from E. Gregory, Lindsay, by 12-9; Steele, however, lost by one point (13-12), to E. L. Bowes, of Peterborough.

The first round for the Waddell trophy saw Edmunds defeat J. McFadden, Lakefield, by 10-4 but Steele again lost, A. E. Bottom, of Bobcaygeon, winning out on a score of 11-7.

In the first round for the Peterborough cup, Steele won from Kennealy, of Keene, 13-6 but in the second round Steele defaulted to Peacock, of Oshawa.

In the second round for the Matthews-Blackwell cup Edmunds defeated J. W. Fraser, Peterborough, 11-8 and on Thursday he won from Dr. Harvie, of Orillia, by 14-7 and from Hare, of Oshawa, by 10-9, an extra end being necessary to break the tie. This was the second time Millbrook won from Oshawa during the bonspiel.

J. H. VERNOR TELLS OF SOUTH AFRICA

Describes to Y.M.C.A. Boys the Scenes Around Johannesburg.

Mr. J. H. Vernor, manager of the local plant of the Western Clock Company, was the principal speaker at the weekly luncheon at the Y.M.C.A. last night. Mr. Orville Martin, member for Peterboro' at the third Ontario Boys' Parliament, held recently in Toronto, also spoke.

Mr. Vernor spoke on Johannesburg, in South Africa, a place where he was stationed in his business, which has taken him around the world several tH around WtMe Wo....Mix several times He dealt chiefly with a description of the gold mining industry that takes place around that city, the district being literally tunnelled with mines.

He explained that most of the labour in the mines is done by natives brought down in tribes from Central Africa. These "mine boys" live on a one-food diet consisting of "mealee," a sort of corn, and they also secure a drink with a "kick" from these same food by adding sugar to the fermented liquor obtained from it. After working in the mines for several years, the "boys" buy bags of salt, the African form of currency, and go back to their native village and live like kings.

Mr. Vernor described one of the native dances, where the weird, rythmic music is supplied by jazz bands equipped with strange instruments. The dance is proceeded by a ceremony by the witch doctor who drives out all lurking devi's, and then the dance goes on in all its wild abandonment of swaying, screeching blacks till all drop with exhaustion.

Orville Martin explained a little of what the Boys' Work Council is doing, and urged all to get behind and aid it financially in its work by buying the bonds issued.

GOOD PICTURES IN CHICAGO SCHOOLS

This is the Aim of Public School Art Society.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—Believing thad the heritage of beauty is being deniet the child, "while his stomach is stuffed with good things and his mind is filled with facts," the Chicago Public School Art Society was founded, and since its organization has brought and hung 2,400 large, colorful reproductions of famous masterpieces in class rooms of 180 of the city's 360 public schools.

Pictures carrying a lesson form the body of the subjects selected by the society.

So successful have been the results that an organized effort to make nation-wide the movement for pictures in schopl rooms is about to be made, according to Mrs. Theodore Teiken, president of the society.

"Thousands of our school children come from dirty, ugly homes," said Mrs. Teiken. "They play in drab, grey streets, monetones of ugliness. To such children a beautiful picture is a glimpse into the land that dreams come from. A good picture in the life of a child during that critical, formative period may be the means of changing his whole life; it may even bring forth the first gleam of latent artistic talent.

"When our society was founded it was our ambition to see a fine picture on the walls of every class room in Chicago. Now, having been given the vision of what can be done, we hope to see it promoted by similar societies in every city."

TWO ORDAINED AT CATHEDRAL

Bishop O'Brien Officiates at Impressive Ceremony in St. Peter's.

CATHEDRAL FILLED.

At half-past ten o'clock yesterday morning, in St. Peter's Cathedral, two ordinations took place, when Rt. Rev. M. J. O'Brien, D.D., Bishop of Peterborough, performed the ceremony which elevated to the priesthood of the Roman Catholic Church Rev. James McGuire, son of Mrs. McGuire and the late James McGuire of Ennismore; and Rev. Joseph Clare Moloney, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Moloney, of the Sacred Heart Parish, this city.

The cathedral was filled for the ceremony which was celebrated with all the solemn ritual with which the Catholic Church surrounds her sacred functions. In the sanctuary, where the high altar was decorated with a profusion of pink roses and lighted candelabra, were present Rt. Rev. Monsignor McColl, Rev. J. J. O'Brien, Rev. J. McAuley of Ennismore, Rev. P. Butler and Rev. J. Finn, with Rev. Francis Carroll of the staff of St. Augustine's Seminary, Toronto, who preached the ordination sermon. Father Finn's chancel choir was also in attendance, and sang several sacred motets, including the Salve Regina Coelitum.

The Ordination Sermon.

"Grace and truth came by Jesus Christ," words taken from the Gospel of St. John, formed the text of Rev. Father Carroll's sermon.

"This morning," said the preacher, "we are privileged to look upon a marvel; to see the Apostolic imposition of hands even as the early Christians looked upon St. Peter and St. Paul ordaining the first priests. What does it all mean? Up to this morning, these two young men were like other young men of your acquaintance, but after this morning, they will never be just the same again, either to you or to their own families. Instead of, as in the natural order, the parents bestowing their blessing upon their offspring, conditions will now be reversed, and these young men will bestow a blessing from their sacred hands upon their parents."

"The mysterious power that marks the priest off from his fellows does not come from noble birth, from natural talents or acquired learning, from eloquence in preaching or power to regenerate sinners. It does not come from the long and glorious record of the priesthood, although the priest of the Catholic Church can look back twenty centuries and see the ranks of the marching faithful and find the names of priests on every page of Christian endeavor, for it is an ancient and honorable company to which the young priest is admitted on his ordination day. There is only one course for the stupendous change wrought in him on this occasion when, by the imposition of hands, he stands before the world, a priest of Jesus Christ. Our Lord intended that his priests should not only represent Him, but that they should take His place on earth toward his people. Grace and truth came by Jesus Christ, and grace and truth come to us through His priests. When the priest fulfills the command to go into the whole world and preach the Gospel to every living creature, he becomes the mouthpiece of His Master, the echo of that Voice heard so many centuries ago in far-off Palestine."

"It is a reproach often heard from the worldly that all priests preach the same doctrine, but we thank God for this, because it is an evidence that Christ is using His priests to give to the world His grace and truth. Christ has empowered his priests to administer His mercy in the sacrament of absolution, and has given to them the power to change bread and wine into His sacred Body and Blood, "until He comes again." And so, my friends, reverence the priesthood, be jealous for its honor, and respect its office. In doing this, you are showing love and friendship for our Blessed Lord. Pray for your priests, that they may follow in the footsteps of the Master, that they may have the lofty ideals, the spirit of disinterested self-sacrifice, and bear the burden that Christ bore on earth. May their long ministry for Christ be like the ministry of Samuel, may their zeal flourish and bloom like the rod of Aaron, may their hearts be pure like the heart of John and their service of heart and soul be like that of Paul, through tribulations and suffering, through stripes and death. May they go through the years hand in hand with Christ, on to His eternal light, until they hear from His lips those words that we all yearn to hear: "Well done, thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of the Lord'."

His Lordship, Bishop O'Brien, spoke briefly, expressing his satisfaction at receiving two more helpers in God's vineyard in this diocese. He spoke of the encouragement that should be given by parents to sons and daughters eager to enter the service of the Lord, either in the priesthood or in the convent, and congratulated the parents and friends of the two young priests, referring to the excellent record with regard to both received by him from the Superior of St. Augustine's Seminary in Toronto.

Rev. Father Moloney sang his first Vesper service at the Cathedral last evening, and said his first Mass in the Sacred Heart Church at nine o'clock this morning. Rev. Father McGuire, whose father, an old resident of Ennismore, died a fortnight ago, said his first Mass at ten o'clock this morning in his parish church at Ennismore.

DUTY ON WHEAT MAY BE NEEDED

Royal Commission Admits That Exceptional Situation May Warrant Impost.

REPORT TABLED.

OTTAWA, Feb. 9. — (Canadian Press).—Export duty on Canadian wheat entering the United States is discussed in a report of the Royal Commission which last year investigated the Canadian grain trade, and the report says that "while as a general thing export duties are to be deprecated, the exceptional situation that arises in this instance might warrant such an impost." Every phase of the grain trade is discussed in the report which is signed without dissent by all four commissioners, of which the chairman is Hon. W. F. A. Turgeon, Puisne Judge in the Saskatchewan Court of Appeal. The report was tabled in the House of Commons to-day.

MENUS FOR A FAMILY.

TESTED BY SISTER MARY.

Breakfast—Apple sauce, cereal, thin cream, salt pork in cream sauce, diced potatoes, graham muffins, grape jelly, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Pigs in blankets, twice baked potatoes, hearts of celery, lemon sponge, plain cookies, milk, tea, whole wheat bread.

Dinner—Baked ham, scalloped potatoes, steamed spinach, pineapple salad, whole wheat rolls, bachelor's pudding, milk, coffee.

Children under school age should not be given the salt pork in cream sauce for breakfast and do not need the ham for dinner as the "pigs in blankets" provide protein and fat.

Pigs in Blankets.

Twelve large oysters, 12 thin slices bacon, salt and pepper, lemon juice.

Wash and drain oysters and dry between towels. Sprinkle sparingly with salt as the bacon is salty. Sprinkle with pepper and lemon juice. Roll each oyster tightly in a slice of bacon, fasten with toothpicks and broil in a hot frying pan until the bacon is crisp. Turn often to cook all sides.

Baked Ham.

One slice ham cut 2 inches thick, ½ cup brown sugar, 2 tablespoons dry mustard, 1½ cups sweet cider or grape juice or vinegar from sweet pickles diluted with water.

Wash ham and remove rind. Let stand one hour in cold water to cover. Drain and parboil. Mix sugar and mustard thoroughly and dissolve in cider or grape juice or the diluted spiced vinegar. Put ham in casserole, pour over prepared sugar mixture, cover and bake 1½ hours in a moderate oven.

If spiced vinegar is used, less sugar will be needed in the dressing.

The juice from canned plums or other tart fruit can be substituted for cider or grape juice.

Bachelor's Pudding.

Two cups stale bread crumbs from the soft part of the loaf, ½ cup cleaned currants, 1 cup finely chopped apple, 1 tablespoons butter, ½ cup sugar, 3 eggs, 1 lemon, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon salt, milk.

Mix apples, bread crumbs, currants, grated rind of lemon, sugar, salt and nutmeg. Add eggs well beaten and let stand half an hour. Soften butter and stir into mixture. Dissolve baking powder in ¼ cup milk and stir into mixture. If the mixture is at all stiff, add more milk, enough to make quite moist. The size of the eggs determines the amount of milk necessary. Turn into a well buttered mold and steam three hours. Serve warm with hard sauce, lemon sauce or whipped cream.

We can't recall a single recent instance where a woman shot at her husband and missed him.

DO THIS AFTER SEVERE ILLNESS

How to Speedily Gain Strength and Put on Needed Weight.

Nothing like the wonderful vitalizing vitamines in Cod Liver Oil to help convalescing people to quickly get strong and well—everybody knows that.

But no body wants to take the ill-smelling, horrible tasting, stomach upsetting oil itself, so nowadays, up to date medical men are ordering a tablet of Cod Liver Oil and it surely has proved a blessing to thousands of people who have been sapped of their natural strength after a severe illness and especially after the Grippe or a stubborn cough or cold.

Ask Warne Drug Co., McDermid & Jury, Jas. Lynch, or any other regular druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. They cost but little, are sugar coated and as pleasant to take as candy.

Skinny men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good healthy solid flesh and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on 5 pounds or more in 30 days. As a matter of fact, your druggist will return your money if you don't take on 5 pounds in 30 days.

Great for weak, skinny, backward, run-down children, too, and gives them a hearty appetite.

Be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—60 Tablets—60 cents.

TWO KILLED IN FOG AND FIFTY INJURED

Elevated Train Smashes Rear of Subway Train—Motorman Dead.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (Canadian Press).—Two men were killed and more than 50 persons were hurt in a series of collisions on New York's transit lines today, while one of the heaviest fogs of recent years enveloped the city.

Harbor and river traffic was virtually paralyized as a result of the lowering fog that clung close to the surface of the water. The fog was reported general, extending along the most of the Atlantic seaboard and affecting shipping both on land and sea over a wide area.

Early reports indicated that the most serious of a series of accidents on the city's transit lines occurred in the Bronx, where an elevated train smashed into the rear of a subway train on an elevated structure.

Two were known to have been killed in this collision, while the estimate of injured ran well above forty. The dead were the motorman and a passenger.

Two Safes Broken Into—$8,000 Worth of Jewels Taken.

TORONTO, Feb. 9. — (Canadian Press).—Diamonds and less valuable jewellery estimated to be valued at about $8,000, were secured by an expert cracksman who opened safes in the establishment of two firms of manufacturing jewellers in the downtown section some time during the week-end. The firms robbed were Paquette and Hughes, Victoria Street, and McElheran and Plant, Dundas Street West. The loss was about evenly divided between the two concerns. This is the third time within the past five years that Paquette and Hughes have been robbed in this fashion.

CHAPLAIN ENDS LEGAL DICKERS

Comedian and His Young Bride Are Off Lawyers For Life.

MA-IN-LAW MOVES.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9 (Canadian Press).—Negotiations between the attorneys of Charlie Chaplin and those of his wife, formerly Lita Grey of the movies, have been halted and the screen comedian and his 16-year-old bride have decided "not to have anything more to do with lawyers," The Los Angeles Times today quotes Mrs. Lillian Spicer, the bride's mother, as saying.

Mrs. Spicer's statement was made in connection with her departure from the Chaplin mansion in Beverley Hills, where she has been living since her daughter's marriage, to the house which she had taken in Hollywood.

She declared that recently reported negotiations purporting to involve a financial settlement between Mr. and Mrs. Chaplin were in fact "purely of a personal nature"; and that the fact that Edwin McMurray, San Francisco attorney and uncle of the bride, had paid another visit to Beverly Hills during the week-end was without significance.

MEN'S BROTHERHOOD SELECTS OFFICERS

New Millbrook Organization Formally Launched—Weekly Meeting.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 9.—The formal organization of the "Men's Brotherhood," which has recently been brought into being in the Methodist Church through the efforts of the pastor, Rev. F. E. Howard, was effected on Friday evening as follows:

Hon. Presidents—Rev. J. Wilks and Rev. F. H. Howard.

President—M. McDowell.

Vice-President—L. W. Smith.

Secretary-Treas.—Bruce Dawson.

Executive Committee—P. Stinson, W. Tremaine and the officers.

The meeting is held each Friday evening at 8 o'clock, the book, "Religion and Business," being taken up, a chapter each week. An open discussion on any man's problem which any member brings up is a very helpful feature of the gathering.

Rebekahs' "At Home."

A very enjoyable social occasion was furnished by "Golden Sheaf" Rebekah Lodge, No. 176, which was "At Home" to about one hundred guests on Friday evening, the affair being held in the I.O.O.F. Hall.

Twenty tables were in use for progressive euchre, the prize-winners being Mrs. Chester Fee and Mr. Stuart Donaldson. Consolation: Mrs. W. E. Ball and Mr. Fallis.

Supper was served at 11 p.m., and afterward those who cared for it enjoyed a dance before leaving for home.

The unfavorable state of the roads and other social events arranged for in the village the same evening, lessened the attendance somewhat, though a sleighload of young people drove in from South Monaghan and were among the guests, heavy roads and slow going proving no deterrent in their case since the weather was quite mild.

L.O.L. Dance.

The dance held in the Town Hall on Thursday evening, under the auspices of Millbrook L.O.L. No. 79 was well attended, considering the many cases of illness in the vicinity, and the condition of the roads.

Excellent music was furnished by Ryam's four-piece orchestra, and Mr. L. H. Morton proved a capable floor manager when the square dances were announced on the programme.

The affair did not break up until some time after midnight, the floor being well filled once and again even after the intermission during which the dainty and satisfying supper was served.

Refreshments were provided by the ladies who attended, and the financial receipts will add considerably to the funds of the local Lodge.

Summer School.

Young people of the Bay of Quinte Conference will be interested in the announcement that the annual Summer School is to be held at Bobcaygeon again this summer, from July 20 to 26. Last year was the first time that Bobcaygeon had been tried as a meeting place for the school, and apparently the results were most satisfactory. All young people's organizations are urged to send delegates.

Ministerial Association.

A local ministerial association was organized for the first time at Port Perry recently. Rev. William Higgs, pastor of the Methodist Church, who was active in bringing about the arrangements for the monthly gathering, being elected president. Mr. Higgs has many warm friends in this neighborhood, having been pastor on the Millbrook circuit for four years, preceding the Rev. S. T. Tucker, who moved to Orono last June.

Personal.

Mrs. E. Whyte left on Saturday for a visit with her sister, Mrs. J. Fitzgerald, of Toronto.

Mr. Irwin Hatherly is the guest of his sister, Mrs. W. Jones, Toronto, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Wilkinson were in Peterboro this week attending the funeral of her brother-in-law, the late Mr. Robert Stenton, which took place to Little Lake Cemetery on Tuesday. Mrs. Wilkinson remained over until Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Johnston were in Port Hope on Thursday this week attending the funeral of the latter's brother, the late Mr. Asa Hansman.

Miss Mary Skitch, who was called to Port Hope owing to the illness, and subsequent death, of her sister, the late Mrs. Harry Skitch, returned home this week after a three weeks' absence.

The covered rink has been secured by the Cosmos Club for a mocassin dance to be held on Thursday, February 12, at 9 p.m. This form of social gathering is an innovation, locally, and will doubtless be well patronized.

EMPLOYMENT BETTER.

Twenty-seven Placements in Peterboro Office Last Week.

The employment situation throughout the Province shows a slight improvement over last week. The local office made 27 placements during the past week and had 27 new applicants. There is an increasing demand from farmers wishing to obtain help for the spring work.

ONLY A DRUNK.

Police Court Had Light Session—Fine of $25 and Costs.

One lone and rather sorrowful looking prisoner faced the magistrate in Police Court this morning, with a hangover from a week-end drinking bout, that cost him a fine of $25, with cost of $6.50, or one month in jail.

GLORIA'S DESIRE FOR BABES HAS PLEASED PARIS

Screen Star's Expressed View of Marriage Held Up as Model.

NEED OF FRANCE

Declining Birth Rate Threatens Race With Extinction.

PARIS, Feb. 9.—Gloria Swanson's sensational statement to Universal Service after her marriage that she wedded the Marquis Henri de la Falaise because she wanted "six more children," having been recalled to France, has aroused doctors, thinkers and editorial writers to praise the woman who is courageous enough to tell the truth. Albert Suares says editorially in the Avenir:

"Gloria Swanson is now a French woman. We can only felicitate our country. If only our native-born French women had as high a conception of the meaning of marriage as this American girl, France would be a lot better off.'

Authorities Doubtful.

Mme. Hermione, well-known writer on sex topics, after learning of Gloria's declaration, said to Universal Service:

"The question of how many children women ought to have is one depending on many circumstances, chiefly the woman herself. Only a very exceptional woman should dare to have more than two children, because parental guidance is more than ever essential in these days of loose morality and rapid mental development.

"Unless Gloria Swanson, the new Marquise de la Falaise, is an unusual woman, she will be unjust to her offspring is she fulfils her ambition, however laudable it may seem."

Professor Pinard, probably the most famed living obstetrician, partly agrees with Madame Hermione, saying:

"Many elements should govern the question of how many children a woman should have. The first is the youth of the parents. As the Marquise de la Falaise is only twenty-six, I do not see any reason why she should stop at six or eight. She might easily have twelve more.

"Doubly Congratulated."

"In the second place come health and hygienic conditions. Many feeble women are capable of bearing only one healthy child. When the second comes it may be feeble and not fit to live.

"In the third place comes the question of wealth. In these days, good health and sanitation depend largely on money. It is a veritable reflection on our civilization that people who can afford to have children do not have them. Gloria is therefore to be doubly congratulated."

Dr. Bouffe de Saint Blaise, another famous obstetrician, said: "These children of Gloria's will be French—let us thank God for that. I have only seen her in the films, but if she is as healthy and robust as she seems, there is no reason why she should not fulfill her heart's desire."

Gloria Swanson's third day as a marchioness was marked by the visit of a committee from the "Renaissance French Homes Society," which asked her to head a campaign for "more and better babies for France." She was told: "We want you to show French women how to have children."

To which Gloria helplessly replied: "Why, how do I know? You just have them, that's all."

With her desire for children, the fact that Gloria should have married a Frenchman is a source of tremendous pride to those folk, who see the birth rate diminishing daily.

The baby crisis is very real for France, which is faced with literal national extinction in a few centuries unless means can be found to persuade women to have children.

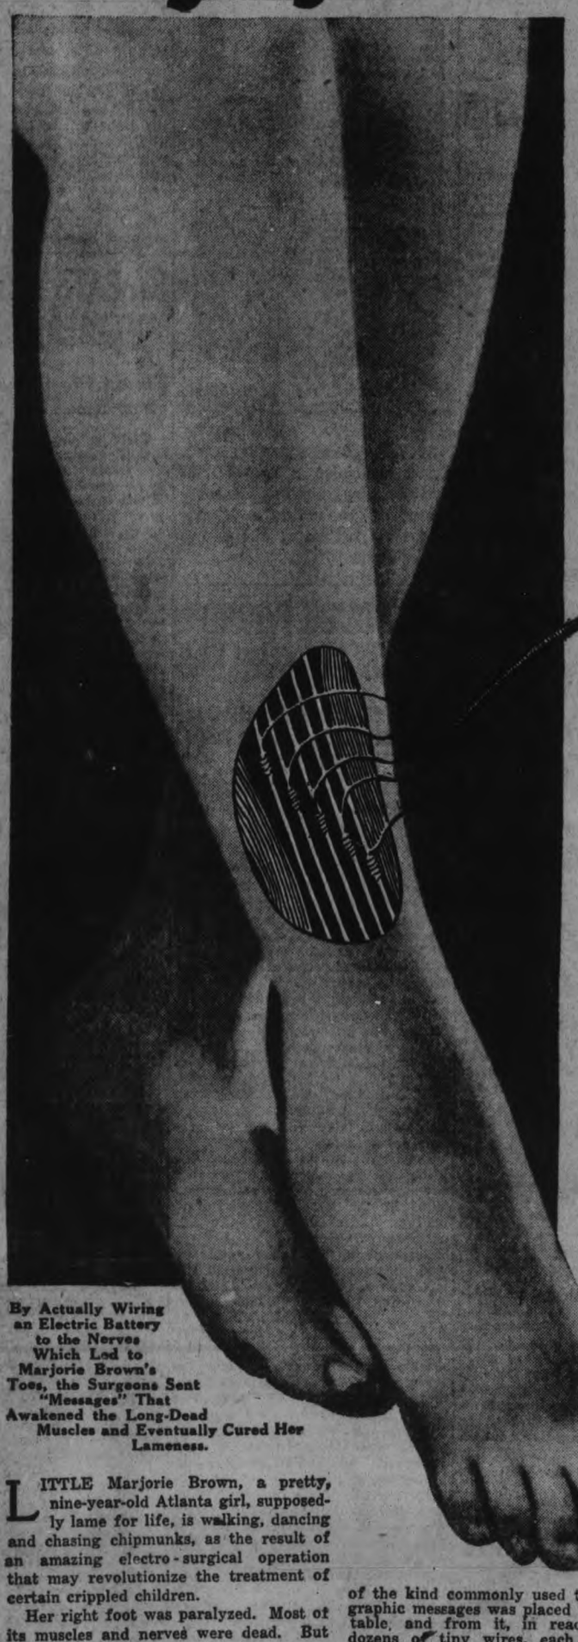
Surgery's Amazing Experiment With Little Marjorie's Big Toe

The Doctors Spliced Live Wires to Dead Nerves, Turned a Switch---Presto! Her Paralyzed Foot Awoke



By Actually Wiring an Electric Battery to the Nerves Which Led to Marjorie Brown's Toes, the Surgeons Sent "Messages" That Awakened the Long-Dead Muscles and Eventually Cured Her Lameness.

LITTLE Marjorie Brown, a pretty, nine-year-old Atlanta girl, supposedly lame for life, is walking, dancing and chasing chipmunks, as the result of an amazing electro-surgical operation that may revolutionize the treatment of certain crippled children.

Her right foot was paralyzed. Most of its muscles and nerves were dead. But she could still wiggle her big toe.

She wiggled it by means of one good nerve that ran downward through the dead foot, from the healthy tissue of the leg, above the ankle.

In order to understand what the surgeons did, it is necessary to know a little something about nerves. The nerves of the human body are like electric wires. They are like a telegraphic system, with the brain as the central battery and receiving station.

There are receiving wires and sending wires. The receiving wires are called sensory nerves. They carry messages of touch, pain, pressure from every point of the human body to the brain. The sending wires are called motor nerves. A motor nerve ends in a little contact-plate on a muscle fibre.

When you want to move a muscle, you send a current from the brain along that wire to the muscle, and the muscle moves. The motor nerves are the ones concerned in Marjorie's operation.

These nerve currents are so like electricity that science has long suspected they are actually electrical.

It was on this theory that the surgeons worked.

Marjorie was taken to the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children, in Atlanta, Ga., and the operation was performed by Dr. Michael Hoke, assisted by members of the staff.

After a careful examination of Marjorie's foot, which was "dead" except for the nerve that wiggled her big toe, they laid her on the operating table, gave her ether, and cut an opening in the skin and flesh of the leg above the ankle.

An ordinary electric battery of the kind commonly used to send telegraphic messages was placed on a nearby table, and from it, in readiness, were dozens of tiny wires, each carrying a separate current.

The surgeons at first did nothing with the live nerve running to Marjorie's big toe. Instead they carefully picked out the fibres of the dead nerves running to the four other toes and to other muscles of the foot.

When they had located and picked up the fibres of these nerves, they wired them, separately, one to each of the wires running to the battery. On each of these wires was strung a marked glass bead to keep record of the particular nerve to which it was attached.

When all was in readiness, they sent the current from the battery over one of the wires only—the one leading to Marjorie's smallest toe.

It was one of the most exciting moments ever known in an operating room. The usually calm surgeons gasped with joy, for the little toe promptly wiggled and moved!

The nerve itself was still all right. It simply hadn't been getting any current from the brain. It was still a "good wire," but the connection had been broken somewhere, so that Marjorie could not send messages over it. Now the battery was taking the place of the brain, a message or vibration was being sent, and the muscles moved.

From that point on the surgeons worked with a sure, deft touch. They sent the little current over one wire and then another, and they found that each time they did it the corresponding toe or muscle moved. The general wiring system of Marjorie's foot was still all right. It simply needed to be connected up.

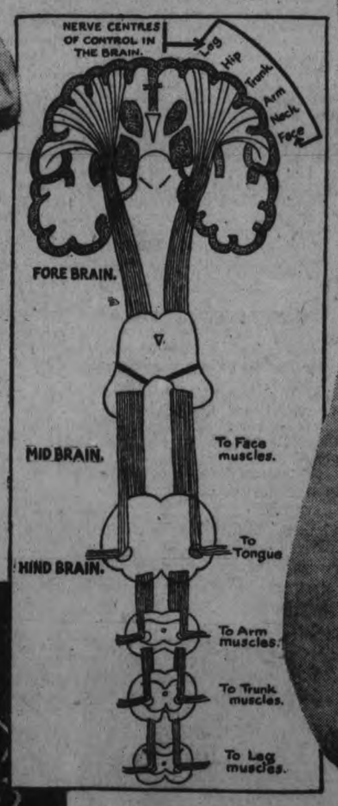
But how were they going to connect it so that Marjorie could send nerve messages from her brain to her foot and make it move as she pleased?

They did it in an intensely interesting way; in exactly the same way an expert electrician would have worked.

There was one good wire connecting Marjorie's brain and Marjorie's foot—and is was a large, powerful one—the nerve running to Marjorie's big toe. In a subsequent operation they laid bare this nerve and by a delicately intricate process of nerve grafting, using it as a base, connected up the dead nerves in such a way that the current from Marjorie's brain could flow through all of them. The dead wires were now live wires, and the little girl could use her brain to send messages just as the doctors had previously used the electric battery.

Then they waited for the wound to heal and for the nerve-graftings to set. During this process they instructed the child not to try to move her foot, not to think of it at all.

Mechanical Diagram Showing the Path of the Nerves Through the Brain to the Spinal Cord and the "Stations" Which Control the Various Muscles of the Body.



The Surgeons Used only a Small Battery to "Awaken" Marjorie Brown's Toes, but This Young Man, Earl Holm, University of California, Took More Than a Million Volts Through His Body, Properly Insulated, Without Harm.

At the end of a week or ten days they undertook the next experiment, with Marjorie's help. They said, "Wiggle your smallest toe."

Marjorie obediently sent the message, but the first time the smallest toe didn't wiggle. Marjorie was propped up in bed with her foot sticking out from the edge of the sheet so that she could see what was going on, and what she saw made her burst out crying. For it was the big toe that wiggled—the one she could always wiggle—and the poor dead little toe didn't move at all.

But if Marjorie was discouraged, the surgeons were not. They suspected that the trouble was purely a matter of psychological reflexes. The message had gone wrong simply because Marjorie was not accustomed to sending messages to the little toe. It was just as if a messenger had been going ten times to a certain office in a big building and then were sent suddenly to the office next door. He might, through force of habit, or absent-mindedness, go to the old place.

They tried it again. They told Marjorie to concentrate on her little toe and forget the big one. Presently, to her intense joy, the little toe gave a feeble wiggle—the first movement it had made in six years, for she had suffered an acute attack of infantile paralysis at the age of three, and that part of her foot had been dead ever since.

Working gradually by this same process—it was psychological now—they taught her to move all of her toes and practically all the muscles of her foot.

And now the "telegraphic system" of Marjorie's body, put out of commission by the "storm" of six years previous, was all O. K. again. She could send any messages she wanted from the central office of the brain to the station of her foot. The foot was able to receive the messages and respond.

But the work of Dr. Hoke and his assistants, Dr. Lawson Thornton and Dr. Charles A. Dowman, was only half finished.

Marjorie Brown, Pretty and Nine Years Old. She was a Cripple, But Now She Walks and Dances as the Result of an Astouding Electrical-Surgical Operation Performed on the Nerves and Muscles of Her Toes.

The muscles and tendons of the poor little foot, unused for six years, were atrophied and shrivveled. No matter what messages they got and however bravely they tried to respond, they were not capable of carrying Marjorie's weight. The only muscle that was good was the large one controlling the big toe. Some of the other muscles might be partially restored by exercise and massage, but others would never "come back."

To meet this situation they performed scientific miracles of muscle grafting. They took part of the big tendon that controlled the big toe and connected it in such a way that it would help support the arch of the foot. They took parts of other good muscular tissue that she could spare and spliced them in where they were most needed. They set plaster casts to hold them in exactly the right position, and Marjorie had to be patient again for another long wait. When they took the plaster off, Marjorie's foot was remade, and it was a perfectly good foot. It was still weak. The long-unused muscles which remained in it, but which were not quite dead, now aided by the new muscles and strengthed by exercise and supplied by massage, were presently adequate to carry Marjorie's weight, and the little crippled girl was cured.

What a truly amazing amount of work and trouble to make one poor little, nine-year-old lame girl walk! And for it all the surgeons didn't get a cent. This particular hospital doesn't permit its patients to pay. It is operated for the advancement of science and the help of humanity. It is entirely for the poor, and sometimes gives them aid that no amount of money could buy for the rich. Rich people have actually tried and failed to have their children admitted. Marjorie's parents couldn't have paid. Her father, Sam Brown, sells soda water in the little Georgia town of Toccoa. He makes a living, but they are comparatively poor people.

Maybe the surgeons couldn't have gone to all this trouble for little Marjorie alone, no matter how much they had wanted to, for such operations require elaborate facilities and skill. But there are thousands of such children, and what can be done for one may be done for many others.

This method of electrical surgery, however, is not a sure cure for lameness, for cripples or for children suffering from paralysis. Some cases can be cured by this method, some cases by other methods, some cases, unfortunately, not at all. It would hold out a cruel and useless hope to pretend that its application could ever be universally successful, even if all hospitals were equipped to undertake it. The most anybody claims for it is that it succeeds in some cases.

A number of other children have been successfully treated by the electro surgical method in this same hospital.

Jack McGurick, twelve years old, is learning to walk as the result of a similar operation. When a baby he was shot through the jaw with a parlor rifle, and the bullet lodged in the lower part of his brain. Communication from the brain to the legs stopped, as though the wires had been cut, and his legs became useless. As in Marjorie Brown's case, the flesh was laid open, bundles of nerves were lifted to the surface and then wired to the battery. By this means doctors traced the dead and live muscles and nerves, and performed operations that brought the boy's brain and legs into communication again.

This method is one of the greatest new achievements of modern surgery and may, with the qualifications heretofore set down, result eventually in the cure of thousands of other crippled children.

PETES PLAYING SOO TWO GAMES

Examiner Will Bulletin Scores Tonight — Juniors Play Here Thursday.

BUSY PROGRAMME

The Peterboro Seniors have been having a soft time of it so far as games go for the past fortnight, but from now on the blue and white squad will have no reason to complain of inactivity. They go into action at the Soo tonight and tomorrow night in exhibition tilts against the Greyounds, go to Hamilton on Friday for an O.H.A. fixture and finish up the group schedule with a game against Varsity here a week from tonight. By winning one of these two games the Petes will qualify for the group play off which must be finished before a week from Saturday, with Wednesday and Friday nights of next week as the likely dates. The following week, the final series between the winners of Group No. 1 and the Big Six group will take place and the Allen Cup play offs will follow immediately afterward. So there is a busy programme ahead for the team that comes through.

The junior defensive record is one goal better than The Examiner stated on Saturday, only eight goals having been slipped past Jack LeBarr in six O.H.A. games. Lindsay got two in two games, Lakefield four in two and Bowmanville two in two.

It looks as if Brockville will be the young Petes next opponents, the first game to take place here on Thursday night. The Easterners are one up on Trenton in a second round series with the second game to take place on their own ice.

The Examiner will have a bulletin service covering every goal scored in the two game series with the Soo which starts tonight.

Tomorrow night's game between Varsity and Parkdale will have a whole lot to say about which team will be represented in the group play off. Both teams need the game desperately and it should be the hardest tussle of the schedule. The winner is not out of the woods either for Parkdale will still have a game with Aura Lee, while Varsity have to visit Peterboro.

To H. F.—You lose. Joe Dwyer made his O.H.A. debut with the Peterboro juniors, known that year as the Bear Cats, in the season of 1911-12, the present therefore, being his fourteenth season.

JUNIORS WON GAME AT CAMPBELLFORD

Looked Like Boxing Bout Once or Twice, But Was Fast at Times.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 7.—In the roughest game of the season played at Coverts Arena, last night the Junior O.H.A. team defeated the Clerks by an 8-6 score. Wood, Parsons and McArthur on the Clerks' forward line were the best on the ice and had a big margin on Juniors' front line but could not beat Saunders, while Flint, playing his first game in the nets, was easy, the Juniors scoring nearly all their goals from outside the defence. Referee B. Reynolds handed out many penalties but did not curb the strenous playing, and when F. Reynolds and H. Ingram came together in centre ice, they dropped their sticks and started a boxing match but were soon separated by other players. When McArthur tossed Haig into the boards, the Junior left wing retaliated with his stick. The Clerks still think they are just as good and will likey be given another opportunity to prove their assertion.

Juniors—Goal, Saunders; left defence, Cowell; right defence, Sarginson; centre, F. Reynolds; right wing, Blue; left wing, Haig; sub., F. Ingram.

Referee—B. Reynolds.

High School Won.

The High School hockey team defeated Deseronto 3-2 on Belleville ice Thursday afternoon. It was a replay of a tie game in Deseronto and the win puts Campbellford on even terms with Belleville. The group championship will likely be decided by a sudden death game in Trenton.

SAME RUGBY CODE

Intercollegiate Union Retains Existing Rules for 1925 Season.

MONTREAL, Feb. 9.—Teams in the Canadian Intercollegiate Rugby Football Union will play through the 1925 season under the same code of rules as prevailed last season, according to the decision reached at a meeting of the Rules committee held here Saturday. It had been anticipated that a modified form of the forward pass would be rendered legal this year and that the penalties would be altered, but, while there was a majority in favor of the changes, the two-thirds majority vote was not obtained.

Mickey Walker has agreed to put on a sparring exhibition for the president of the United States .... The democracy of the modern Tin Ear is truly a beautiful thing.

DEMPSEY MARRIED

Heavyweight Champion Weds Estelle Taylor, Film Actress.

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Feb. 9.—Jack Dempsey, world's champion heavyweight pugilist, and Ida Estelle Tayor, motion picture actress, who obtained a license to be married here Saturday, were married on Saturday night.

Estelle Taylor, whose engagement to the world's champion heavyweight was finally admitted by Dempsey on Jan. 17, has had a rapid rise in the motion pictures, after a comparattively ordinary success on the stage. She is 27 years old and was born in Washington, Del. She received her education there, and there she met Kenneth M. Peacock, who later married her. She obtained a divorce from Mr. Peacock in Philadelphia on Jan. 10, just a week before the announcement of her engagement to the pugilist. The basis of the divorce was cruelty.

SENATORS WON FROM HAMILTON

Thrilling Game at Ottawa Went Fifteen Minutes Overtime—Score 3-2.

NIGHBOR STARRED

OTTAWA, Feb. 9 (Canadian Press).—Playing just as close a game as the score indicates, Hamilton Tigers and Ottawa Senators fought fourteen and a half minutes overtime here Saturday night before the locals landed the tally that gave them a 3 to 2 victory over the Hamiltonians. As was the case on the two former occasions on which these teams met here this season, the game was a thriller from start to finish and immensely pleasing to a capacity house.

Swinging down lemt wing, eluding McKinnon and then splitting the Langlois-Randall defence, Cy Denneny went whirling through to drive a backhand shot out of Forbes' reach for the winning counter and just as the clock was starting for the fifteenth minute of overtime play. The official timer called it 14.37.

Red Green's penalty in the overtime period brought the total for the game to twenty-one. They were all minors but Smeaton had a reason for inflicting each one. The two sextets travelled at top speed in the extra sessions. There was no score in the first ten minutes, but after they had changed over, Denneny settled the issue in Ottawa's favor. Neighbor, in his return to play after over two week's absence, was a brilliant factor in the Ottawa win. His generalship and all-round good play were big stumbling blocks in Tigers' paths. Gorman and Boucher starred. Denneny was a bit off his usual game, but his overtime goal made amends for previous faults. Smith worked hard all through, but did not stand out so much against the aggressive league leaders. Cannel's game in goal was on a par with the excellent display given by Forbes.

Red and Shorty green were the bright lights for Hamilton. Randall played a very effective game, his "drifters" being a continual worry to Connell. Langlois and McKinnon were both prominent, as was Roach, who was the only sub. used.

Cooper Smeaton kept the play in hand all the way.

PARK ST. TEAMS PLAY

"Up Starts" Defeated "Never Starts" By the Score of 6-4.

Spectators at the Mark Street Rink Friday evening had a rare treat when the "Never Starts" of the Pathfinders Tuxis Square of Park Street Baptist Church played the "Up Starts" of the same organization in a keenly contested game of hockey. The official score was 6-4 in favor of the "Up Starts."

Throughout the entire game the referee, who is a hero of many a hard fight, was kept in swift motion to keep a keen eye on the little rubber block.

The "Never Starts" were in exceptionally good shape, having practised fourteen years ago on the Jackson Park Rink one Friday night from 10 to 10.30 p.m. Since that time some of them have seen a game or two, but most of them have been rather shy of the narrow blades.

The "Up Starts" were in the pink of condition and showed the old boys some real work of art in stickhandling.

The management of the rink were very courteous and expressed their appreciation at the neat way that the several members dusted off the glassy surface.

The remark was hinted among the members that the score might have been much greater had the Mentor of the Square not been in the way so often.

The line-ups were as follows:

"Up Starts"—H. Bannon, goal; A. Taylor and O. Dixon, defence; E. Elliott, R. Jones and W. Lightowler, forward; R. Jones, captain.

"Never Starts"—D. Grant, goal; C. Chapman and G. Panter, defence; W. Saunders, R. Luther and R. Follis, forward; R. Dixon and N. Porter, subs.; C. Chapman, captain.

Referee—H. Killingbeck.

Time-keeper—A. Thompson.

NURMI CLIPPED ANOTHER MARK

Reduced Two-Mile Indoor Record by 2-5 of a Second.

SCHEDULE FAILED

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(Canadian Press).—Five world's indoor records were chalked up Saturday night in the Wilco A.A. track and field carnival with Paavo Nurmi, the tireless traveller, clicking off his nineteenth mark as he set a new two mile standard.

Nurmi failed to come up to his titme schedule, by which he had hoped to add four records to his string, but he sped to triumph in a race in which Willie Ritola dropped out after going four laps.

Nurmi's time of 9:08, clipped two fifths of a second off Joie Ray's former record, set on the same eight lap track two years ago.

The other record breakers were Willie Plant, United States walking star, who lowered his own two mile mark to 12:50 1-5; Jackson Scholz, Olympic 200 metre champion, who created a new record of 12 2-5 seconds for 125 yards; Carl Christiernson, Newark A.C. timbertopper, who established a new 100 yards high hurdle figure of 12 4-5 seconds; and the Newark A.C. relay quartet which set a mark of 2:09 for 1200 yards, three seconds faster than the former mark held by the New York A.C.

Plant's victory in the two mile event was clean cut and decisive. His nearest competitor and the man who forced him to walk up in the earlier stages of the race was Phillip Granville of the Hamilton Y.M.C.A. But Granville was half a lap behind the ace of the United States when the race was won.

Ritola's attempted iron man performance went awry when he met defeat in a one mile handicap at the hands of John Theobald, of Columbia, as well as failing against Nurmi.

Other outstanding features were Alan Helffrich's brilliant victory over George Marsters and Ray Watson at 660 yards; Joie Ray's triumph over Jimmy Connolly in a mile special and Loren Murchison's conquering race in the 100 yard final of the sprint series against Jackson Scholz and Harold Lever.

BOSTON BLANKS MONTREAL TEAM

Lowly Bruins Shatter Playoff Hopes of Dunc Munro's Outfit.

ONLY ONE GOAL

MONTREAL, Feb. 9.—Hopes of the Montreal profressional hockey players of entering the play-off this season in the National Hockey League were shattered at the Forum on Saturday night. The local team was blanked by Art Ross' lowly Boston Bruins, 1 to 0, and as it was the second defeat of the winter's campaign administered to the locals by the Bostonians, the bruins can be charged with practically eliminating Captain Dunc Munro and his teammates from the race.

"Sailor" Herberts, rugged right wing player and erstwhile defence man of the Bruins, was the one to upset the hopes of the local team and its supporters. In the third period of a close, though ragged contest Herberts scored a second-hand goal. Jackson led the attack and drove at the Montreal net guardian, Benedict turned aside the shot and the rebound, but from the resultant scramble the aggressive Herberts got his stick to the puck and he banged hard and true.

The goal came early in the third period and for the final fifteen minutes Montreal tried every trick in the hockey bag to even the count.

Boston were backed up on the defence holding on grimly to their narrow lead. Cheated of wins so frequently all season, they were bound to have one on this occasion —and they succeeded. As a matter

Swinging down left wing, eludlead in the last few minutes when Herberts again broke away. The Montreal players were massed at Boston's end and Herberts rushed straight in on Benedict, but the local goalie came out and averted a score, keeping Montreal in the running to tie the count. When the five others could apparently get nothing and with but less than one minute to go, Benedict coralled the puck after it had been lifted down the rink and started towards the Boston goal with it, apparently bent on seeing what he could do in the way of scoring instead of stopping goals. The final bell sounded before he had skated ten feet.

Walthour and McNamara; Madden and Horan; Brocco and Buysse; Belloni and Degraeves; Stockelynch and Goosens; Dewolfs and Deruyter; Declerck and Nefatti; Kaiser and Keller; Hanley and Taylor; Kockler and Stockhom; Fenn and Schneider; Ferraria and Rizzetto; Mergle and Spencer; Walsh and Fitzsimmons.

ST. PETER'S SCHOOL LOSE TO COBOURG COLLEGIATE IN THREE EXTRA PERIODS

Only Goal in Intercollegiate League Game Scored Half Minute Before End.

AT PORT HOPE

Cobourg Collegiate Institute won the championship of the eastern division of the Intercollegiate Hockey League when they nosed out the St. Peter's school team, 1 to 0, at Port Hope Saturday in a game that went the limit. The winning goal came after the teams had battled three full periods and then two overtime ten-minute rounds, and it was in the third overtime period with thirty seconds left to play that Waldon, the big defence of the lakeshore school, stick-handled through the whole S.P.S. team and ripped an impossible shot into the corner of the nets behind Jack LeBarr.

It was a heart-breaking game to lose and nectar-tasting victory to win.

The ice was hard and fast, despite the warm weather, and the pace was killing throughout and the route to the penalty box was almost trackless.

The S.P.S. boys, outweighed 20 pounds to the man, played like fiends, and there was nothing to choose between the two teams. Each goal-minder, Jack LeBarr, the Petes' junior O.H.A. net guardian, and Andrews, who stands before the hemp for the Cobourg intermediates, was called upon to stop the proverbial million.

Leo Rishea and Johnnie Holland, along with Jack LeBarr, stood out among the hard-working S.P.S. sextette. Waldon, the long-limbed defence man, was a skating streak and starred for the ferry town, along with the eagle-eyed Andrews.

The Line-Ups.

Cobourg C. I.—Goal, Andrews; defence, Gibson and Waldon; centre, Coole; wings, Sheeman and Butler; subs., Armstrong and Blizzard.

St. Peter's School—Goal, J. LeBarr; defence, I. LeBarr and Holland; centre, Rishea; wings, Archambault and Masterson; subs., Wolfe and Jones.

COLLEGIATE TEAM DEFEATED LINDSAY

Close Score of 34-32 in Basketball Game on Saturday.

The P.C.I. basketball team won another close victory when they defeated Lindsay Collegiate quintette 34 to 32 in Lindsay Saturday afternoon.

The garnet and grey players took kindly to the larger gymnasium of the Lindsay Collegiate. Their combination work was good during the first period and they worked the ball right in under the basket on brilliant team play. During this period P.C.I. had a decided advantage and the score stood 20 to 11 when the rest came.

In the last period play was much closer. The Scugog boys opened up with some accurate shooting and their score began to climb. They evened the score 30 all, and then Sutton scored on a nice shot, putting the Lindsay team out in front for the first time, 32 to 20, with three minutes of play left. The ball was paced up and down the floor and the checking was close. Harry Ebbs, with 30 seconds of play left, evened the score, and Gordon Pogue shot the winning basket just as the final whistle blew.

Pogue was the high scorer for P. C. I. with eighteen points to his credit. Sturgeon and Dormer were also good on the attack, while the defence pair always clung to their checks.

Sutton and Ferguson were the big half of the Lindsay team, between them getting 31 of their team's 32 points.

The line-ups:

Peterboro Collegiate — Pogue, rf; Coebichon, lf; McLeish, c; Ebbs, r.g.; Merrill, l.g. Sturgeon, Dormer, Doughty and Levine, subs.

Lindsay C. I.—Sutton, rf; Ferguson, lf; Jordon, c; McEwen, rg; Donergan, lg. O'Leary, Blackwell, Palin and Nugent, subs.

POOR FOOTBALL COST BROMWICH THEIR POSITION

First Division Leaders Thoroughly Beaten By Burnley, 4 Goals to 1.

REVIEW OF GAMES

West Ham and Spurs Won Their Games—Second Division Race.

LONDON, Feb. 9. — (Canadian Press Cable).—West Bromwich lost its hold on the first division of the English league on Saturday when after playing a wretched game, they were thoroughly and deservedly beaten by Burnley by four goals to one. Coming on top of Burnley's defeat of Birmingham in mid-week the game brought the Lancestrians up from their dangerous position near the bottom on the league table to almost half-way and dissipated their threatened fate of relegation for a while at least. Burnley were all over West Bromwich who seemed unable to get their footing, even on their own ground and the result represented fairly the general run of the play.

Huddersfield's four-one victory over Aston Villa was not obtained, without many anxious moments, particularly in the first half. The Villa were the first to score shorty after the opening of the game when Walker headed in a beautiful shot that beat the Yorkshiremen's goal-keeper. Huddersfield soon equalized, however, and thereafter had the game all their own way. The score against the Villa would have been greatly increased but for the brilliant work of their man in the nets. In the second half, Huddersfield overwhelmed the Midlanders.

Bolton Beat Cardiff.

Bolton Wanderers retained their place in the league by virtue of their win over Cardiff City on the Wanderers own terrain. It was a creditable win for Bolton who now stand one point behind the leaders in the aggregate count with a game in hand.

The metropolis showed up proudly on Saturday when both West Ham and Tottenham Hostspur acquired full points at the expense of Manchester City and Preston North End respectively. The Hammer's win was the most convincing and three of their four counters were registered in the first half. In the second stanza they took things quietly not exerting themselves in the slightest, but even with that they were able to shoot in another tally. In every department of the game thed had Manchester City eating out of their hand.

The Spurs won comfortably over Preston, but their game was listless and they played like a tired team. The second half in particular was entirely devoid of feature, although the Spurs did all the attacking.

Bury's orphan goal against Sheffield United was registered just before the interval and notwithstanding every effort on the part of the Blades they were unable to stave off defeat. Bury, who were brought up from the second division last year, have been playing consistently good football in the first string and they are now standing seventh place in the table with only five points separating them from the leaders.

Scoreles Draw.

Birmingham's weakness in front of the nets was responsible for their failure to get the better of Leeds United on Saturday and they were forced to divide the points in a score less draw. They were much the better team, but for a marked feebleness in shooting at the right moment.

Notts County gave their cup-team a try-out against Sunderland and justified their selection by avalanching the Durham County club by four goals to one.. Widdowson scored for the County in the first minute of the game, but fifteen minutes later Marshall equalized for Sunderland. However, from then on Notts had the game well in hand and Cock accounted for another brace before the interval. Their fourth counter came a quarter of an hour before the close of the game.

In the second division, both Derby County and Manchester United retained their places in the league table by their wins over Middlesborough and Clapton Orient respectively.. The second division contest has now developed into a competition among four teams the two named above and Chelsea and Leicester City. The most outstanding victory of the day was that of Leicester City over the Wednesday when they swamped the Sheffielders by six goals to one. Leicester have come in for much kudos in view of their cup play, their meritorious win over Newcastle United, the cup holders, last week having brought them into the spot-light. Their win on Saturday stamped them as a team to be recognized with when the final distribution of honours and awards comes. Leicester City's goals on Saturday were acquired by only three players Duncan, Chandler and Black, each netting twice.

WON AT COBOURG

Mr. M. Davey principal of the local public school sent six single comb brown Leghorns to the Cobourg Poultry Show last week and received the following prizes: cock second; cockerel first; hen first and second; pullet first and second.

Another snowmobile was seen in the village on Wednesday. It was owned by Mr. Sparling of Cobourg.

MILLBROOK PROUD OF ITS CURLERS

Rink Captured Matthews-Blackwell Trophy at Peterboro 'Spiel.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 9.— The congratulations of the entire community are extended to the rink of local curlers R. H. Edmunds, G. W. Sayles, W. E. Ball and H. J. Grassett, which competed in the finals for the Matthews-Blackwell trophy at the Peterborough bonspiel and succeeded in bringing home the cup on Friday evening.

The individual prizes are handsome mahogany mantel clocks. Two years ago Mr. Edmunds' rink was successful in the competition for the same trophy, but last winter none of the local rinks attended the bonspiel. The individual prizes previously won at Peterboro were cut glass water sets, and those brought home from Oshawa the same season, as second best awards in the finals, were thermos carafe sets.

During the bonspiel just concluded Millbrook was sucessful in winning out against some of the best known skips in the Province, who have been for years capturing honors at such annual events, not only at Peterborough, but other points as well. Besides these veterans of the ice such as Gregory, of Lindsay, Hare and Luke, of Oshawa, Dr. Harvey, of Orillia, McFadden, of Lakefield, Oke, of Port Hope, Fraser and Dobbin of Peterborough, the local curlers are merely in the primary classe so far as experience goes. Only one point to the good was scored against them by Carew of Lindsay and same was true in the contest with Luke, of Oshawa, when two extra ends had to be played to break the tie.

In the final game for the trophy, now on exhibition, with other prizes won, in the window of Edmunds & Son's store, the score stood Edmunds 12, Dobbin 11, showing how equally matched the players were.

A four day's contest means somewhat of a test of endurance though considerable enthusiasm is undoubtedly induced through contact with over two hundred fellow-sportsmen belonging to the fifty-two rinks entered this year in the bonspiel.

No Hockey Between Lakefield and Havelock To-night.

PLAY LATER.

Owing to the mild weather, resulting in tht bad condition of the ice at Brock Street Rink, there will be no hockey game to-night between Lakefield and Havelock, and the game will be played on the first available date for ice. This is disappointing to a number of the fans in both towns as special trains had been arranged from each place.

The presidents of both teams and Mr. Hewitt were notified of the impossibilitoy of playing the game.

ST. PATS TIED WITH HABITANTS BY WIN

Fastest Pro Game of Season Saw Irish Beat Canadiens.

TORONTO, Feb. 9. — (Canadian Press).—Outscoring the Canadiens by 5 goals to 4, and outplaying them by a considerably greater margin in the fastest and best game of the local professional season at the Arena on Saturday night, St. Patrick's tied with the habitants for second place in the League standing. The game was anticipated as a thriller, and as a result the largest crowd of the season was jammed into the rink and they were not disappointed. Right from the start the two teams cut out a terrific pace, and with the exception of the closing minutes of the second period and a couple of times when the teams showed ragged play when shorthanded, the pace was maintained till the end.

Aboriginal New Zealand Meets Native Canada

CALGARY Alta. Feb. 9.—Aboriginal New Zealand met native Canada here for the first time in the history of the world when the Indian chiefs from the surrounding plains and tribes led by Chief Buffalo Child Longlance me and welcomed to Canada the Maori members of the New Zealand All-Blacks at the Canadian Pacific railway station. The Indian chiefs with their squaws and a number of braves, all famous warriors in their time, journeyed into Calgary from their teepees on the plains, on the special invitation of Lieut.-Governor Brett and Mayor Webster. Several thousand citizens and a hundred wide-brimmed cowboys from the surrounding ranches jammed the station platform and gave the visitors a rousing cheer of welcome.

When St. Pats go on the rampage you usually find Bert Corbeau right in the thick. Bert is one of those "Bulldog" fellows who refuses to quit. Corbeau has played on three world championship teams.

KEEN INTEREST IN AMENDMENTS TO TEMPERANCE ACT

But None Will Hazard as to What Form They Will Take.

MEMBERS ASSEMBLING.

Stage Is All Set For Opening of Ontario Legislature To-morrow.

TORONTO, Feb. 9. — (Canadian Press).—There is unusual activity at Queen's Park to-day in preparation for the opening of the second session of the sixteenth Legislature of Ontario to-morrow.

Many members from distant constituencies have already arrived. W. E. Raney, M.L.A., new leader of the Progressives, was at his Parliamentary office this morning, arranging routine matters.

The chamber and building lobbies have all been redecorated and the House staff was busy this morning receiving instructions from the new Sergeant - at - Arms, Lieut.-Colonel Ogilvie.

The New Railway.

There has been no announcement as to what legislation may be expected in the speech from the Throne. Besides that already predicted, there is a rumor around the buildings that the Speech will mention a branch extension of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway into the new mining district of Rouyn. It is well-known that the Government would like to get publicly-owned railway into this district so as to bring its business through Ontario, and it will not be surprising if the Government decide on its immediate construction.

Members Arriving.

Members arriving in the city agree that the temperance question will create most interest in the House, but none will hazard even a guess as to what form proposed amendments by "wet" members will take.

LOYOLA CLUB WON.

Captured Frontenac Cup in Ski-ing Competition.

QUEBEC, Feb. 9 (Special)—Competing on a track made very sticky by mild weather, and before a large crowd of Quebecers and their friends, as well as winter sports' visitors, the Loyola Ski Club yesterday afternoon captured the Chateau Frontenac Cup, emblematic of the ski-ing championship of this city, by their decisive victory over the Academie Commercial Ski Club, of 66 points for the entire competition against 10.

Paul Robert, Loyola, headed the list for yesterday's half of the contest, ski jumping, with 160 points for length and style. Louis P. Gingras, of the Academie Commercial, was second with 159; Retald Casualt, Loyola, third, with 144; Lucien Matte, Loyola, fourth with 143, and Jacques Pruneau Academie Commercial fifth with 136.

BIG BOUT SCHEDULED.

Vic Foley to Meet Jackie Johnston in Ten Rounds.

TORONTO, Feb. 9. — (Canadian Press). — "Vic" Foley, Canadian bantamweight champion, will meet Jackie Johnston, of Toronto, former amateur 118-pound champion, in a ten-round championship bout at the Coliseum here to-night.

Foley is regarded by Tex Rickard, fight impressario of the United States, as one of the ten best bantam in the world at the present time, while Johnston's rise from amateur ranks to his present position as leading contender for title in the monied class, has been little short of meteoric.

The men will fight at 118 pounds, which may slightly weaken Johnston.

PARLIAMENT OPENS WITH BIG PROBLEMS

Winston Churchill Will Hold Centre of Stage for a Time.

LONDON, Feb. 9. — (Canadian Press).—On account of the numerous domestic and foreign problems of importance which will present themselves for solution by the Right Hon. Stanley Baldwin's Government, the opening of Parliament on Tuesday next is looked forward to with exceptional interest. Up to Eastertide the centre of the stage will be held by the Conservative party's newest recruit, Winston Spencer Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, for during this period there will be little time to debate anything except the nation's finances.

MENACES EXPORT TRADE CANADA

The North Atlantic Shipping Combine is a Deterrent to Prosperity.

PRESTON'S VIEWS.

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.— (Canadian Press).—The North Atlantic shipping combine is an obvious menace to natural development of the export trade of the country and an evident deterrent to the prosperity and welfare of the population of the Dominion. Moving spirits in this gigantic world-wide maritime organization have conspired, combined, agreed and arranged to unduly limit facilities for ocean transportation. They are preventing, limiting and lessening competition in ocean transportation to and from Canadian ports."

In these words, W. T. R. Preston, who was appointed by Government, "to inquire into the operation of an alleged North Atlantic Steamship combine," summarizes some of the conclusions he has reached as a result of his investigation.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

DARING ESCAPADE IN COMPSON FILM.

"Miami" shows to what Lengths the Modern Girl Will Go.

An unquenchable thirst for sensation, a passionate desire to make life a colorful adventure, and a reputation for never taking a dare, are some of the things that cause the modern girl to stop at nothing in her search for a new thrill. She perceives what a rigid adherence to convention had made of the lives of her elders and she resolves to do everything in her power to escape from the humdrum existence into which they have fallen.

Petting, wild jazz parties and joy rides, are some of the means by which she injects glamour into her life. That she often, consciously or unconsciously, sacrifices some of the finer and more precious things to the whim of the moment is the great tragedy of "flapperism."

An example of how a sudden daring impulse can wreck a real love is found in "Miami," the big society picture now playing at the Capitol Theatre. Joan Bruce, the heroine, is, in her own words, "a 1924 speedster." She has always been known as the "life of the party." Her flirtation with a married man has led her into a compromising situation and she knows that she has played too fast and loose for the man she loves to believe her innocent. Rather than have him think worse of her than she really is, she tell him that she was really playing with him and to convince him that her "brakes don't work," she dashes into the middle of a swimming party, steps on the diving board, and at a universal dare rips off her evening dress and dives into the pool. She returns and repeats the escapade until she is entirely nude. She has more than accomplished her purpose—she has made the man she loves hate her.

Afterward she is consumed with regret but it is too late. For a moment's wildness she pays with heartaches for many a day.

Betty Compson, who has the leading role, gives a most sympathetic performance of the impulsive girl of to-day. Benjamin F. Finney, Jr., J. Barney Sherry, Hedda Hopper, Lawford Davidson and Lucy Fox comprise the supporting cast.

"DUMB DORA."

To-night is the opening performance of "Dumb Dora," the one act comedy by Miss K. McCarthy ("Jeannette") which forms an additional attraction to the regular Capitol programme.

Come and see an exhibition of the way of a maid with a man, or just how the flapper goes about the conquering of an obdurate male. The gowns from Barrie's, Limited, and the fur wraps from the same establishment, with handsome stage furnishings from the Richard Hall store, add immensely to the interest of the piece. And Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park sings during the performance.

The comedy is under the direction of Mrs. W. McKee Bingham, who has a reputation locally for putting on dramatic efforts in an artistic and satisfying manner.

AT THE ROYAL

PEPPY STORY OF THE YOUNGER SET, "THE WISE VIRGIN," AT ROYAL.

"The Wise Virgin," in which Patsy Ruth Miller and Matt Moore are starred and which comes to the Royal Theatre for a three-day run to-day, is a picture built up of unusual situations said to contain a wealth of drama, comedy and romance.

The story centres around a 1926 high speed model of a girl. She fancies herself in love with a titled foreigner. Her grandmother, however, wants her to marry one of her own countrymen and to that end conspires with the foreman of her ranch to court the girl, an idea that he has secretly had in mind for some time. After much coercion the girl marries the American but her heart remains with the foreigner and she refuses to be anything but a "wife in name only."

To complicate matters there is an attractive young girl chum of the heroine who has made the mistake of marrying for money. The spark of romance being entirely extinguished in her aged but wealthy husband, she casts longing eyes at the husband of her friend and perceives the bright glistening diamond beneath the fough exterior. Naturally, with so many angles to contend with, the course of true love is made decidedly rough for the man of the big open spaces. But the grandmother, a resourceful lass, straightens matters out in a most ingenious manner.

HOCKEY SCORE ANNOUNCED AT ROYAL TO-NIGHT.

The results of the game at the Soo to-night between the Soo Greyhounds and Petes will be announced at the Royal to-night.

STUNT ARTIST AT ROYAL.

Luciano Albertini, star of the Italian production of "Samson," and hero of dozens of European pictures, makes his Peterboro bow in "The Iron Man," a sensation which takes the audience through the mazes of the Paris underworld, thence to New York, and finally to the inside of a great studio, where they see the making of pictures, incidental to a series of thrills that eclipse anything Albertini did in his European pictures.

The new play comes Thursday to the Royal Theatre. It is hailed as one of the novelties of the season, as the Italian star is new to America, although Europe's popular idol. His thrilling leaps, daredevel stunts in airplane, in automobiles, and among the picture sets, furnish the exciting details for a gripping story of the chase of a French reporter after a gang of Paris Apaches, intent on defrauding an heiress of a great studio left her by an uncle.

The play starts in Paris; there are hectic adventures in its quaint streets and its awesome catacombs; then there is an ocean voyage crammed with thrills and sensations and finally the sensational battle for the studio. Never once does interest lag.

Albertini and Joe Bonomo stage a battle on an airplane in the air; it dashes into the sea and a ship runs over it. This is a sample of the brand of thrills that cram the lightning action of the new picture, with scarcely an opportunity for them to catch their breaths.

YOU HAVE NEVER SEEN ANYTHING LIKE BREATH-TAKING THRILLS IN "THE CHASE."

Amazing and Dangerous Feats of Ski-ing Performed at Risk of Life by European Experts in This Remarkable Picture at Royal To-night.

"The Chase" is a picture of a thousand thrills!

You have seen stunts before in comedies and dramas, staged to give your patrons a moment of breath-taking action, but for sheer, unadulterated, genuine thrills nothing to equal "The Chase" has ever been filmed.

There are so many thrills you can't count them. They crowd each other in an endless procession— a series that will furnish your patrons with more genuine hair-raising action than they have ever seen crowded into any picture regardless of its length.

The picture was taken in the Swiss Alps around St. Moritz, the famous European winter playground and health resort. Fifty champion ski-jumpers were employed to make the picture and the almost perpendicular slopes, yawning chasms and over-hanging precipices of these mighty mountains form an awe-inspiring background to the most exciting two reels of film you have ever unreeled to an audience.

The Story.

After the great international ski contest at St. Moritz, a little band of champions are celebrating their victories. One of their number proposes a thrilling and dangerous game—a "fox and hounds" chase with Hans, the champion of them all, as the fox, and the balance of the experts as the hounds. Hans is to be given half an hour start.

Hans assents and takes his start on skis, selecting the most dangerous part of the mountain for his manoeuvres. Through strategy he manufactures a false trail, throwing his followers off and allowing him to reach the perilous heights. At the summit he hails the pack and the chase is on.

Waiting until his pursuers are near, Hans launches himself down the mountain-side, with the pack in hot pursuit. Down slopes almost perpendicular he tears with the speed of a meteor, leaping chasms, swooping in wide curves with the snow flying in his wake. Again and again he outwits them through hazardous feats which his followers dare not duplicate, and with them almost hopelessly confused, he falls asleep.

But one of the pack, the most relentless of the lot, follows and finds him asleep in an almost unescapable locality. But Hans leaps to his feet and by again taking breath-taking chances with life and limb, escapes and throws his last pursuer off the trail.

AT THE REGENT

"DEADWOOD COACH" IS TOM MIX'S GREATEST PLAY.

"The Deadwood Coach," which was completed recently at the Fox West Coast Studios, is the greatest western picture in which Tom Mix has ever been starred, according to officials of the Fox Film Corporation who have viewed this production.

Adapted from Clarence Mulford's novel, "The Orphan," there is more action, humour, pathos and romance in this Mix production than the Fox Western Star has had the chance of portraying here. Lynn Reynolds directed the picture and also wrote the scenario. One of the best supporting casts Mix has ever had includes the following well known screen players: Doris May, George Bancroft, DeWitt Jennings, Buster Gardner, Lucien Littlefield, Norma Wills, Nora Cecil, Sid Jordan, Frank Coffyn, Jane Keckley and Ernest Butterworth.

Most of the scenes for "The Dead-Wood Coach" were taken in Zion Canyon, Utah, one of the most picturesque spots in America. The result is that the thrilling incidents in the picture-fight's chases, stage-coach hold-ups, all have a beautiful natural background of massive canyons, glaciers and cliffs.

MAN ACTUALLY SLAYS A MAN-EATING SHARK IN PICTURE NOW HERE.

Fox Cameraman Risks Life With Tahitian to Get Real Thrill Into "Roughneck"

Never have local picture-goers been given such tremendous thrills as they are getting out of the unusual undersea battle between a native Tahitian and a huge man-eating shark in the William Fox production of "The Roughneck," the current attraction at the REGENT Theatre, on Monday and Tuesday, the photographing of this queer fight stands out as one of the greatest achievements of the motion picture camera.

Those who see this extraordinary struggle between monster and man can have no doubt of it being the real thing. It all happens right before your eyes, without any "cuts" to allow for tricks. As a matter of fact it is said the battle was actually staged by a Tahitian, doubling for Anne Cornwall, and how the cameraman managed to get the action recorded on film is a studio secret, although it is admitted he risked his own life for the sake of this bit of realism.

The plot of the famous Robert W. Service story caller for the rescue of the hero as played by George O'Brien from an attack made upon him by a shark while he was attempting to evade being arrested by swimming to shore after leaping from a liner. Zelle, a native girl as played by Anne Cornwall, happens to be cruising around the bay in a canoe when she discovers the man's danger and she rushes to his aid by leaping into the water and from this point on a real professional shark-fighter takes her place, actually engaging the mammoth monster and slaying it under-water with a long-bladed knife which he plunges into its heart after getting a grip on its large fin.

Canadian Breaks Record.

Montreal Man Does 440 Yards on Snowshoes in 1 Minute 1 Second.

LEWISTON, Maine, Feb. 9. — The world's record in the 400 yard dash on showshoes was broken here on Saturday when Messior of Montreal covered the distance in one minute, one second in the opening events of the Canadian snowshoe union convention here yesterday. Eugene Clouette, Montreal, world's champion snowshoe walker, retained his title, winning all his events.

More than 500 delegates representing 25 clubs in Montreal and Quebec, arrived here for the meet and were greeted by Governor Ralph O. Brewster. The visitors were guests of Le Montagnard, the local club which is the only American member of the Union.

Indications are the political pie handed some of the hunters was a lemon.

LAWYER WARNS AGAINST GOING INTO LAW SUITS

"Avoid Litigation," Rotarian V. J. McElderry Advises Rotary Club.

SPLENDID ADDRESS.

Progress of Law Suit is Traced in Interesting Manner.

"Keep out of litigation," was the advice given by Rotarian V. J. McElderry to his fellow Rotarians, in a most instructive and interesting address on "Law Suits," at the weekly luncheon of the club at the Empress today. Mr. McElderry spoke upon his Rotary classification and his treatment of the subject while full of information, was brightened with a number of most amusing anecdotes with a legal twang to them

Prefacing his address with some wholesome advice as to preventing law, Rotarian McElderry declared that a law suit was often the cause of worry and distress even to the winning side, and he advised his fellow members to avoid litigation, remarking that most lawyers nowadays followed Abraham Lincoln's advice and advised their clients against such actions.

The speaker then proceeded to trace the various steps necessary in law suit, the issuing of the writ, the defendant's reply, the statement of claim, the statement of defence and counter claim if any, the examination for discovery, the empanelling of a jury, the preliminary address of the counsel for the plaintiff, the evidence for the plaintiff, examination-in-chief, cross-examination and re-examination, the evidence for the defence, through the same three stages, and sometimes evidence in reply by the plaintiff, and then the address of the counsel to the jury or arguments to the judge as the case may be.

Rotarian McElderry's clean-cut exposition of the various stages of a law suit was followed with much interest and his peroration in which he gave his conception of Rotary was thoroughly appreciated. He declared that every Rotarian on entering should say to himself, "All that I ask is friendship, but I do ask friendship; all that I have to give is friendship, but I do give friendship"; a sentiment that was loudly applauded.

Mr. Stan Hensley left today for Flint, Mich., where he will reside in the future.

WEDDING BELLS.

ALLAN—MARCHEN.

A quiet, pretty wedding took place on Saturday evening, at eight o'clock, at St. James' parsonage, when Rev. James D. Richardson performed the ceremony which united in the holy bonds of matrimony Lauretta Belle, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Marchen, 108 Stewart street, and Russell Thompson Allan, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Allan, 11 Monaghan Road.

Miss Edna Holmes and Mr. Jack Marchen acted as witnesses to the ceremony.

The bride looked charming in a gown of blue taffeta, trimmed with Spanish lace. She wore black shoes and stockings, a small black hat, trimmed with grey, and a string of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. Her bouquet was of ophelia roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan left on the nine o'clock C.N.R. train for Toronto and points west, the bride travelling in a black velvet dress, trimmed with fur and gold braid, with wrap of black marvella and silver fur collar. On their return, they will reside in Peterboro.

DOUGHTY—REID.

The marriage took place quietly at 1.30 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, February 4th, at All Saints' Anglican Church, of Lona Pearl Reid, to Thomas Francis Doughty, the Rev. J. D. Paterson officiating, with only the immediate relatives and friends present.

The bride, who was given away by her brother-in-law, wore a gown of seal brown satin-faced canton crepe, a cinnamon fox choker, a small hat of contrasting color, and carried ophelia roses.

The bride was attended by Miss Edith Jenkins, wearing blue canton with hat to match. Mr. William C. Bennett acted as best man.

Immediately after the ceremony about 30 guests enjoyed a sumptuous luncheon at the home of the bride.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Doughty left for a short honeymoon, and on their return will reside in the city.

Moon Was Coy Last Night But Didn't Hide Herself

Was the heavenly exhibition last night, a second rate show as the first nighters among scientists claimed?

Judging by the number of people who halted on their way to Church as the half-hidden moon broke through the clouds, the eclipse was appreciated a lot more than the exhibition put on by the sun a few weeks ago behind a curtain. The moon at least, showed her stuff.

And it was pretty while it lasted. The earth's shadow cast by the sun, obscured part of the moon and seemed to bring the bright part a lot nearer the earth. The eclipsed section was not quite dark but gave off a hazy red glow, and stars were seen in close proximity to its edge.

CRIME INCREASES BURGLARY RATES

Wave Sweeping Country Gives Considerable Alarm to Bankers.

The seriousness of the crime wave which has developed since 1919 and became most alarming last year, has been engaging the attention of the bankers who have borne the brunt of burden, the insurance companies which issue policies against burglary and robbery losses. In commenting on the situation, the United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. points out that the insurance companies only act as distributors of the loss and that the increases in the latter must be borne in the end by the insured in the form of increased premiums. Investigation has shown that a large percentage of the losses have not been covered by burglary policies and in many cases insufficient protection is carried. In one instance cited a $5,000 policy was held and the loss from the robbery amounted to $15,000 Consideration of the situation has resulted in the placing of a large policy for $1,145,000 with a bank.

The question has engaged the attention of the American Bankers' Association and a report by the Protective Committee says:

Criminal depredations against banks mounted to their highest peak during the last year. The constant increase in criminality since 1919 has passed the day of reckoning and unless bankers themselves apply more drastic preventive measures, there is no assurance of the subsiding of this rising tide of crime. The cost of crime to industry and banking exceeds the budget of our federal government."

A recent report of the association states that the American crime loss is $4,000,000 annually.

The U. S. Fidelity offers $1-000 for a dead bank robber and the suggestion is made that this plan should be extended and notices posted in places which might attract robbers, stating that certain rewards were offered for dead robber of the company or bank. This is suggested in the hope that it would deter many robbers from carrying out their plans.

BREAK POWERFUL SMUGGLING RING

Is Now the Hope of American Prohibtion Authorities.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(Canadian Press).—Following the capture off Long Island Sound on Saturday of the British steamer Homestead with twenty-eight prisoners and whiskey valued at $6,000,000, United States Customs officials have announced their intention of questioning all arrested rum-runners concerning their citizenship.

Customs officials are convinced that rum-runners are combining their business with the smuggling of aliens. The Homstead was captured by the coastguard cutter Red Wing after a thirty-six hour chase at sea. The coastgaurd cutter bombarded the vessel before it was brought to bay, shots tearing several holes in the hull above water.

Rum King Captured.

Mark Gilbert, the captain, said by Customs officials to be the "King of Rum-Runners," was captured and is reported to have made a confession to his captors which will enable prohibition authorities to break a powerful smuggling ring.

The Homestead was formerly the U.S.S. Lebanon. It is reported that 40,000 cases of liquor were seized.

NEW YORK.

The curb, New York market is strong, with several stocks making new highs. Cast Iron Pipe went up six points on the day's trading to 210. It started at 87 last Saturday.

CHICAGO

The position of wheat holders has been improved by the decline. Fundamentally the world situation really is strong. It is understood that resellers abroad as well as at the Atlantic seaboard are nearly cleaned up and the market is in better condition than a week ago. The big holders as a rule have their grain holdings practically intact. Besides there is a larger short interest than has existed of late. What the traders would like to see now are larger export clearances—decreased primarily receipts and a greater reduction in the visible supply. All indications are, however, that this will come later. While the acuteness of the wheat and bread situation broad is attractive, French authorities are preparing to commandeer stocks in France to prevent bread prices soaring. There are two sides to the corn market that are strikingly apparent. The speculative side is based on the small crop and a belief that a shortage in good corn will be a factor before the end of the season which has almost eleven months to run. There are traders who believe oats will be scarce and sell much higher at the end of the season They are buying on all sharp breaks. Now, while it was difficult to get flour on export sales at the seaboard, the business in wheat was estimated at 400,000 bushels and rye at 200,000 bushels. The bulk of the grain was said to have been owned by exporters. Germany bought wheat and rye.

IN MEMORIAM.

PAYNE.—In loving memory of my dear friend, Clara E. Payne, who departed this life, February 9th, 1924.
In loving memory of days gone by,
And a sigh for a face unseen.
A constant feeling that God alone
Knows best what might have been.
What would I give to clasp her hand,
Her cheery face to see,
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
That meant so much to me.
Inserted by her friend,
Olive Foy

John Bull, Compelled To Pay Debt To U.S.A. Is His Own Generous Self To Early Allies

LONDON, Feb. 9 (Canadian Press).—John Bull, through the editorial columns of this morning's papers, is proclaimed a very generous fellow for the manner in which he has offered to treat France with reference to her war debt. Here and there, writers are even of the conviction that he has been too generous at the expense of his own people.

The British note in brief, declines to agree that France's payments should be dependent upon Germany's full payment of the Dawes plan annuities; declares that Great Britain is willing to accept fixed annual payments irrespective of the Dawes proceeds, and makes known that Great Britain will devote any surplus beyond the requirements of meeting her United States indebtedness to diminish the burdens upon her allies.

RAIN SLACKENS RESCUERS' WORK

Floyd Collins' Cave Trap May be His Tomb—Ten Days There.

MILITARY ENQUIRY.

CAVE CITY, Kentucky, Feb. 9.—Mother Nature to-day had another obstacle to the efforts of men to rescue Floyd Collins from the grip of the boulder trap in the depths of the sand cape, sending down torreuts of rain last night with the promise of more to-day.

Despite all precautions to keep the water out of the perpendiqular shaft aimed at Collins' prison, seepage crept into the bottom of the shaft and added heavily to the burden of the volunteer diggers. They kept doggedly at it as the tenth day of Collins' imprisonment ended at ten o'clock this morning.

The shaft was then less than half way to Collin's, 60 or 70 feet below the surface.

Reach Thirty Feet.

The shaft through which the rescuers hope to reach Floyd Collins in the sand cave, was approximately 30 feet deep at 9 o'clock this morning, four days after it was started.

At the present rate the level where Collins is thought to be will not be reached before Thursday or Friday.

Hold Inquiry.

The circumstances surrounding the trapping of Floyd Collins in the sand cave and the efforts of volunteer rescuers to release him will be made the subject of a military court of enquiry, Brig. General H. H. Denhardt in command of the guardsmen, announced to-day.

COURT CHEMONG SOCIAL.

Home of Companion Chandler Was Scene of a Happy Party.

A large number of members and friends gathered at the home of Comp. Chandler for a grand social evening. Prizes were awarded for the games played, and those winning were Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Davis and M. Dunsford.

Singing, dancing and cards were indulged in, with Mrs. Bugg giving her musical talent as usual, assisted by Miss Little with the violin. Dainty refreshments were served and the happy party broke up in the wee small hours of the morning.

FACTS ABOUT OPTOMETRY

MANY ARE BORN WITH EYE DEFECTS

We do not mean with diseased eyes, but with eyes that are imperfect in size or shape. Nothing and no one can CURE such a condition. But happily for humanity, we can overcome it. This is done by placing glasses before the abnormal eyes, causing them to function normally, or as nearly so as possible. That is a duty we perform every day.

MATCH CAUSES DEATH BANKER

Sets Fire to Max Cohen's Night Clothes as He Heats Water.

HEAD FLEW OFF.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 9. — Badly burned when his night clothes were ignited in a fire at his home in the Lake Drive Apartments, Max Cohen (owner of the banking firm of Bernstein, Cohen and Co., died in the Hebrew Hospital.

Members of the family say that Mr. Cohen, who was 62 years old, was in the habit of arising an hour before the rest of the family to heat drinking water.

As he was lighting the kitchen range the head of a match flew off, igniting a pile of newspapers near the stove and while he was trying to extinguish the blaze his night clothes caught fire.

The banker calling for help ran down two flights of stairs to the fifth floor, and there he aroused the engineer of the apartment house who beat out the flames in Mr. Cohen's clothing and then extinguished the fire in the apartment.

Mr. Cohen was taken to the hospital. He became worse over night, and his death was said to have been due both burns and shock.

LONDON, Feb. 9. — (Canadian Press)—The Daily Telegraph quotes recent visitors to Doorn, Holland, as declaring that the former German Emperor was extraordinarily excited by the news that an agreement had been reached between Japan and Soviet Russia.

"This treaty portends a tremendous change in the world's outlook," he is reported to have said. "The peril which I alone, among the rulers of Europe, predicted a quarter of a century ago now has materialized. The repercussions of this event will shortly be felt in the relations of all European states."

BRITISH HOUSE HAS EXTENSIVE PROGRAM AHEAD

Sufficient Domestic Legislation to Occupy the Commons for Six Months.

OPENED TO-DAY.

Housing Problem Bristles With Difficulties— Tariff May be Discussed.

LONDON, Feb. 10.— (Canadian Press Cable).—There is sufficient domestic legislation to occupy the House of Commons for six months, confronting the House which opened to-day. Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin has a majority of 215, counting four Liberals who accept the Conservative whips' leadership. This should make the ministerial bench feel fairly comfortable, but nevertheless there are some obvious snags in sight.

Of all the Conservative ministers Hon. Arthur Neville Chamberlain, Minister of Health, has most reason perhaps, to fear what the session may have in store for him. He will be called on soon to give an account of the progress, if any, that has been made towards a solution of the housing problem, especially regarding enquiries as to the merits of the steel and wooden house which are at present being experimented with.

Quite recently Hon. Mr. Chamberlain, one of the mildest- mannered of men, uttered something approaching a threat towards the building trades unions. The question naturally arises how he proposes to get round the hostility of the unions. The housing problem has been so long acute in England, indeed that it is likely to fairly get on the nerves of the members of Parliament generally.

It was houses, or rather the absence of them, which was mainly responsible for Dr. Addison, one of Lloyd George's war "discoveries," and formerly his most faithful lieutenant, going into the outer darkness. Premier Baldwin would probably extend to Chamberlain a larger hearted backing than Addison received when he found the circumstances too much for him, nevertheless, there remains a possibility of the Minister of Health's head falling over this most thorny matter.

Protection Measure

The Liberals will early in the session demand a discussion of the Safeguarding of Industries Act sponsored by the government which guarantees protection to British industries who can show they are suffering unfair and abnormal competition, and which has been denounced by former Premier Ramsay MacDonald and the Liberal press as a species of "tariff by the back door."

The House of Lords will next week discuss the long-standing question of the Singapore naval base.

Incidentally the entry of the new Earl of Oxford and Asquith into the House of Lords will not be immediate. Several preliminaries in connection with his establishment as a member are still incomplete.

The British Empire Exhibition at Wembley—its unliquidated liabilities of last year and its potential liabilities of the coming season—are likely to provoke an early debate in the House of Commons on the matter.

Bills sponsored by private members depend, of course, largely on the luck of the ballot.

A group of Conservatives propose to introduce a measure concerning the trades union political levy, making it unnecessary for a member of the union to first signify his desire to pay a levy, whereas, now he signifies if he does not wish to subscribe.

Another bill proposes to give equal rights to mothers in the guardianship of children and a measure is also to be presented to legitimatize children whose parents subsequently marry.

Scottish Church

The first business of the legislators to-morrow will be to deal with a bill concerning the endowment of the church of Scotland and to enable a charge to enter the projected union with the United Free Church The Scottish labor members resent the introduction of the bill so early in the session. English members who are not very keenly interested in the Scottish church will make it an excuse to take a few extra days holiday.

It is thought that the Royal Commission which is investigating the prices of food in Britain will issue an interim report to form a basis of legislation before Whitsuntide. There is strong criticism of the commission for holding certain of its sessions behind closed doors.

M.P.'S SCRAMBLE FOR BEST SEAT

Parliament Re-assembled To-day—To Discuss Costs of Prince of Wales' Trips.

LADY ASTOR EARLY.

(By Lloyd Allen, United Press Staff Correspondent).

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Parliament re-assembled this afternoon. There was the usual scramble for choice seats in the House of Commons. Dawn found a number of silk hatted M.P.'s shivering on the door step. Lady Astor, who is always insistent upon obtaining a good seat, arrived breathlessly about 7.30 a.m.

When the doors opened there was a spirited rush for the desired locations, which were marked with the members' hats after which all went to breakfast. Minor domestic matters were on the House calendar for today, with consideration of supplementary estimates, thirty in number, to come up tomorrow. These included such matters as the expenses of the Prince of Wales' trips.

Owing to difficulties about his new title, ex-Premier H. H. Asquith was unable to take his seat in the House of Lords.

REIDT DOUBTING DOOMSDAY DATA SAYS END NEAR

Eventually If Not Now, He Declares, Admitting He Accepted Prophecy Literally.

TALKS IN THEATRE.

Audience Objected to His Notions and Booed Him—Misses His Automobile.

PATCHOGUE, L. I., Feb. 10. — Robert Reidt, apostle of doom, followed Aesop's Fables on the programme at the Patchogue Theatre's movie programme Sunday night. He lasted seven minutes while the audience split fifty-fifty for and against permitting him to speak.

Reidt, whose expectation that the world would end at midnight on February 6 is still awaiting confirmation, made his appearance as a lecturer, and this sudden shift of occupation was merely an item in day of revisions for the chubby disciple of Mrs. Margaret Rowen, the Los Angeles prophetess. He had finally admitted that he might have been wrong in expecting a black cloud to bear Jesus to earth. In fact, he abolished that cloud altogether.

He had told the thousands of persons who motored to his shack on the outskirts of East Patchogue that maybe he had erred in taking Mrs. Rowen's predictions too literally. Possibly, the 144,000 "Brides of the Lamb" would not be wafted with heavenly music across country to San Diego mountain-tops. But, whatever the prophecy might have been, there's no doubt that the end is not far off.

When? Ah, he assured the questioners on the East Patchogue lawn, and Ah, echoed Brother Downs — Willard C. Downs of Yaphank—that was the trick. Just some time. That's all.

It's Mike Glynne's Ideas.

It was the idea of Mike Glynne of Astoria, half owner of the theatre, that led Reidt on to the boards Sunday. When Glynne motored out to East Patchogue he found the apostle incommunicado for the time being. Mrs. Reidt was pressing his only pair of trousers. Then when the trousers had been put where they belonged it developed that Reidt had no collar. So Mike motored back to this town and procured a 15½ collar and then Reidt, Mrs. Reidt and the four children and Brother Downs climbed into the car and were brought over here.

A big crowd waited outside the theatre, but Glynne smuggled his guests into the rear of the house. Sister Katherine Kennedy and Brother Arthur Rupp, both of Valley Stream, were there before them. They are disciples of Reidt. While Reidt and Brother Downs held a bit of a rehearsal in the dressing rooms, the show got under way.

There was an overture first. Then a news weekly flickered over the screen and then the picturization of the famous fables. Reidt was next. Somehow the leader of the orchestra got his entrance music mixed up. At any rate, the music he played was "California, Here I Come." Manager Glynne waiting backstage with the amateur performers heard those strains with dismay. He rushed out on the stage and with a glare silenced the orchestra.

"Mr. Reidt has asked permission to talk to you and explain his beliefs," said Manager Glynne. "He has been misunderstood and I am sure that his talk will prove interesting."

Sister Kennedy Explains It.

Reidt and his family, Brothers Downs and Rupp and Sister Kennedy were then introduced. Much applause greeted them. Sister Kennedy then spoke for about fifteen minutes, explaining the convictions of the Reformed Seventh Day Adventists, a sect not recognized by the Seventh Day Adventist Church. Then Reidt himself appeared. He spoke about five minutes, when a man shouted:

"Give him a hook!"

That remark precipitated a situation. Reidt stood on the stage, very much embarrassed.

"Let him speak," shouted another man.

This aroused what might be termed the anti-"razz" element in the audience.

While the audience was expressing itself about Reidt, Manager Glynne walked on the stage. He rebuked the man who had called for the "hook." He declared that a spirit of fair play should enable Reidt to speak without interruption.

"Well," said the original interrupter, "I came here to see the show and not to listen to a lot of nonsense."

The demonstration continued and Reidt abruptly left the stage. Glynne hurried after him to the dressing-room and apologized for what had happened.

"Oh, I don't mind," said Reidt, "that's nothing. We expect persecution."

He then returned to East Patch-

BALTO, DOG HERO OF NOME DASH, IS DEAD; OTHER DOGS ALSO DIE OF FROZEN LUNGS

Faithful Malamutes Paid Price of Duty and of Sacrifice in Cause of Humanity Carrying Anti-Toxin.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Feb. 10.—Balto, leader of Gunnar Kasson's team of Siberian wolves and canine hero in a recent relay race from Nenana to Nome with 300,000 units of diphtheria anti-toxin, is dead, according to a report received from Nome.

The report added that Balto and the majority of Kasson's prize team had died from frozen lungs as the result of struggling sixty miles from Bluff to Nome for seven and one-half hours in a blinding blizzard that sent the thermometer down to 35 degrees below zero.

"Died while in the performance of his duty" is the epitaph carned by Balto, lead dog of the team that mushed the last lap of the race into Nome with 300,000 units of serum to relieve the diphtheria - stricken community.

When Gunnar Kasson, who drove his dogs on that last lap of the journey, was no longer able to see his dogs, much less the trail he was following, because of the blizzard, he placed his trust in Balto, and the big Siberian wolfhound never faltered, but led him straight to Nome.

The very day after Kasson completed his heartbreaking trip and as soon as the world had learned of the heroism of the four-footed dumb brutes that played such a hero's part, a movement started to erect a monument to Balto's heroism. The erection of that monument, now that he is dead, is believed to be almost a certainty.

"I gave Balto his head and trusted to him. He never once faltered. It was Balto who led the way, the credit is his." Thus Gunnar Kasson paid his tribute to the dog when he arrived at Nome.

Balto was a hero dog years before he helped carry the serum to Nome. As far back as 1915 he was the lead dog of Kasson's team when that famous driver won the Moose race. Two winters ago he led the dog team for the explorer Roald Amundsen.

It is the lead dog that bears the brunt of a sledge trip. He must be able to understand and obey the driver's orders of "Gee" meaning to the right, and "Haw," to the left, and when he swings the rest of the team swing with him.

Kasson's team on his record-breaking trip consisted of Balto and twelve other long-haired malamute dogs. On the trip he had to rub the dogs at every halt to prevent them from being frozen. He made the sixty miles in seven hours and forty-five minutes, and the whole distance of 650 miles that the serum was carried from Nenana was covered in 127½ hours. The trail between the two towns had never before been covered in less than nine days.

NO LIGHT UPON MINERS' STRIKE

Head of British Empire Steel Corporation Refused to Discuss Situation.

BOARD REPORTS.

HALIFAX, N.S., February 10. — Despite the presence in Halifax today of the majority of those officially concerned in the wage dispute between the Cape Breton miners and the British Empire Steel Corporation no light was thrown upon the situation, and whether or not the corporation will accept the offer of a four months truce and royal commission put forth by the men, and what constituted the findings of the conciliation board which concluded its labors on Monday, have not been divulged.

Roy M. Wolvin, president of the British Empire Steel Corporation who arrived here on Sunday from Montreal, and who was in conference here to-day with J. E. Molirg, Vice-President T. Sydney and other members of the Sydney executive, refused definitely to discuss the situation.

Mr. Wolvin said he had no statement to make and would not be giving out any information as to the result of his deliberations here. He said that he would probably be leaving for Montreal to-day.

J. H. Winfield, chairman of the Conciliation Board appointed early in the dispute before the Lemieux Act had been rendered void by the action of the Privy Council, announced that the Board had come to a unanimous decision and had dissolved.

What constituted the Board's decision Mr. Winfield refused to say. The report would go forward at once by mail to the Minister of Justice at Ottawa, Mr. Winfield said.

The board had been in Sydney and latterly had held a three day session in Halifax, but had held no witnesses in either place.

Col. Thompson of Halifax, was the corporation's choice on the board while the men, who refused to recognize or encourage the board, were represented by Dr. J. W. Robertson, of Ottawa, who was appointed by the Minister of Labor.

FIRE IN LAKEFIELD.

Brigade Quickly Checked Blaze in Shed.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 10. — Prompt response by the volunteer fire brigade quickly smothered a fire in the shed of James Morrison's house last evening. It is believed to have started in a basket of rags. The damage was slight.

THE WEATHER

The thaw of the last few days, together with the rain of last evening, should help with the water supply in different sections of the country. Dry wells have been common, causing great inconvenience to some agriculturists. The rainfall totalled .20 of an inch. Highest temperature yesterday, 51 degrees; lowest last night, 32 degrees. A few robins have been reported in some places, but none in Peterboro that I have heard of.—W.P.

NEW LEGISLATION.

TORONTO, Feb. 10 (Canadian Press).—The speech from the throne announces an increase in the alcoholic content of beer sold under the Ontario Temperance Act. The section in the speech from the throne reads: "Legislation will be introduced to amend the Ontario Temperance Act by enacting that liquor with an absolute alcoholic content by volume of more than two and a half per cent. shall be conclusively deemed to be intoxicating, and to further amend the Act and to facilitate enforcement."

The present section of the Ontario Temperance Act dealing with the strength of beer permitted to be sold, specifies that beer of more than 2½ per cent. proof spirits by volume shall be deemed intoxicating and therefore prohibited under the Act. Permission of the manufacture of beer of a strength up to 2½ per cent. alcoholic content as proposed in the amendment will in the opinion of laboratory experts double the alcoholic strength of beer permitted to be sold.

Mayor Says Trade Is Won By Constant Advertising

BLACKBURN, Eng., Feb. 10. —Trade is won by constant advertising just as a girl can only be won by consistent courting, is the opinion of James Stanworth, mayor of this town.

"You must offer the right kind of goods and keep on calling," he said. "If you want to win a girl you must start with a good character. Keep advocating your claims. Your shy man is in danger of being headed off by a rival and even if he wins temporarily he may lose in the end if he is not genuine.

"It is just the same in business. No advertising campaign can make a permanent success of a commodity or serivce that is not good and that is not worth the price paid for it."

SUNDAY CROWDS BLOCKED ROADS TO SAND CAVE

Morbid Curiosity Seekers Motored from Many States and Made Picnic.

BUSY MIDWAY.

Even Medicine Man There and Drove a Thriving Business.

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 10. — Thousands of curiosity seekers visited Cave City and Sand Cave Sunday, where Floyd Collins has been entombed. All day long a stream of automobiles, some with license tags from Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Tennessee and West Virginia, passed down the country road to the scene of the tragedy. One estimate was that 10,000 visited the scene during the day.

The rugged road from Cave City to Sand Cave was packed with cars all day. Lines of automobiles facing each other made a midway from the high road to the cavern. It looked like a country fair. Hot dog vendors, dealers in apples and soda pop, sandwich makers and jugglers vied for the nickles and dimes of the thousands who visited Sand Cave.

Their chief rival was an old-fashioned medicine man who, from his covered wagon, exhorted one and all to stop and be cured. His brew, with his hidden secrets should be in every home, he cried, and a good swig from it every day, reporters who sampled it said, would drive the moonshiners into bankruptcy.

Down this lane raced the thousands, eager for a morbid peep at the rocky prison. After an hour or two of staring they went back and sat in the cars to watch the animated scene, or they strolled the midway.

Country Preacher Offers Prayer.

Parson Jim Hamilton, thin and tall, rode a mule twenty miles over the Kentucky hills to preach above the cave and bring a word of hope to people of the same simple faith.

"Oh, Lord God, Who turned back the tide at Galilee," he prayed, "have pity on this your child imprisoned in your earth. Give him back to me who treasure him upon this soil. And if, Lord, it be Thy will that he shall not return then, Lord, thy will be done. Amen."

The profiteer was also there. Tiny hamburger steaks sold twenty-five cents, a jitney to and from the town was three dollars, rooming houses—the hotels having long since used the last cot—charge $2 for a 75-cent room. Many a moss covered mortgage will be lifted if Collins is not rescued soon.

Even "Old Man" Collins, as he is known to distinguish him from "the boys," has seized the opportunity of a life time. He circulates through the crowd and gives out literature advertising Crystal Cave nearby, owned by him and his imprisoned son. He would like them to visit the cave at $2 a visit, and many do.

The usual "fan" letters are flooding the tiny post office. Among them was one from Chicago, to be delivered to Collins. It proposes that when he is found, if ever, he take a short rest and then come to Chicago and marry the woman writer. Homer Collins tore up the letter and threw it to the wind.

Appeal For More Funds.

The Cave City committee sent out a new appeal for funds. The commissary where the men are fed was nearly forced to close for lack of food. Only $2,400 has been sent in.

The digging is slowed up continuously by cave-ins, H. T. Carmichael, engineer-in-chief, reports. Solid rock was struck at noon Sunday, however, and he expects better speed from now on. But it will still be several days before Collins is reached, he said. The top surface was cut away, reducing the actual depth gone down to 26 feet. That is about half way.

Such a concourse never had been seen here before, and seldom has any place such a hysterical and noisy scene.

Women and men, overwhelmed with fanatical zeal, fainted, were carried to the hospital tents, received restoratives and moved on to make way for other patients.

Revivalists, mounted on stumps and soap boxes, harangued all who would listen.

Fervent amens resounded from almost every square yard of humanity. Babies and children howled. Other youngsters, their mouths stuffed with sandwiches or cake, were picked up in maelstroms and swept away from the handgrips of their guardians.

HEADS WAR PARTY.

Because of the intense popular excitement and religious fervor in Greece, it is reported that the government of Premier Michalacoplos will be overthrown and that a coalition government headed by General Condylis will succeed. In that event the fiery General Pangalos (above) who heads the party crying for war with Turkey, will be made minister of war.

FRIEND'S FIDDLE STARTED FIGHT

Windsor Man Accused of Attempted Murder, Laughs at Evidence.

USED REVOLVER.

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 10.—Fable Vaise 23 years old of 307 Assumption street, was committed for trial on a charge of attempted murder in police court Monday. He is charged with attempting to slay his friend Julian Sullivan, 320 Tuscarora street by shooting him with a revolver.

Pablo apparently does not take the charge seriously, in spite of the penalty life imprisonment in case of conviction. Folding his arms and leaning his head on the back of the prisoners dock he laughed loudly in the crowded court while Sullivan gave his evidence.

Both were firemen on the car ferry Landsdowne between Detroit and Windsor.

"Three months ago," Sullivan said, "Vaise ridiculed my efforts to play a violin, We ceased to speak to each other until last Thursday. Then we agreed to fight it out. After I struck him the first time he pulled a gun on me."

LIGHTS PROPOSED AT CHEMONG PARK

Utilities Commission Will Discuss Electric Service With Cottagers' Association.

The question of electric service for the residents of Chemong Park and Bridgenorth village was taken up yesterday at the regular meeting of the Utilities Commission. Estimates will be prepared for a conference between the Commissioners and representatives of the Chemong Cottagers' Association and Smith Township, to be held on Saturday at 10 o'clock.

The part of the work of reconstruction that remains to be done will be divided into small blocks and separate estimates prepared and the installation of a new street lightning system will be carried out as far as possible at the same time.

Crossword Puzzles Hit Cross-Country Trains

MONTREAL, Feb. 10.—The vogue of the crossword puzzle is nation-wide. It has outrun the border of cities and towns and has extended its influence to the trains that speed across the continent. At least this is the opinion of Walter Pratt, general manager of the sleeping, dining and parlor car department of the Canadian National Railways, who announced today that in response to numerous requests from passengers he had ordered dictionaries to be placed on all cars of the system that are equipped with a library.

PREMIER CLAIMS CONDITIONS IN CANADA BETTER

Employment Relatively Better Than in the United States Last Year.

FEWER FAILURES.

Balance of Trade Increasing by Bounds Under Present Government.

OTTAWA, Feb. 10.—The criticisms which Mr. Meighen had offered on immigration, the Prime Minister, in the House yesterday, met by referring to the situation which, he said, confronted his government when it took office. In 1921, when the government came into power, the machinery of immigration had been stopped. The government had been faced with the necessity of getting things moving again in this department, and consequently, there were not very great results in immigrants coming to Canada in the first two or three years of the present administration.

At the time the Canadians were returning to Canada, subsequent to the war, there had been a considerable boom in the United States. A quota law was passed by the United States restricting immigration from other countries, but leaving the gates from Canada wide open. Under he United States Alien Labor law, no man could go to the United States and take employment unless he went as an immigrant. Therefore, thousands of men who wanted temporary work stated that they were immigrants and so crossed the line.

As the department, unfortunately, did not keep track of those who returned until recently, no statistics on his point were available. However, statistics preserved now, showed that Canadians were returning from the United States at the rate of four thousand a month.

In resuming his speech in the evening, Premier King quoted statistics showing the decline of the indrx figure of employment in the United States during the five months ended October, from 101 to 89—a fall of 12, while in Canada during the same period there was a reduction of 7.1 in the employment index figure. The American statistics showed, said the Prime Minister, "that relatively conditions were very much worse in the United States than in this country." Employment conditions were more rapidly approaching normal in this country than in the United States during the past year.

In making speeches throughout the country last summer, Mr. Meighen had endeavored to create the impression that some 2,000 factories throughout Canada had been closed down as a result of tariff changes made by the present government. But Mr. Meighen had quoted the figures from Dun's report which did not sufficiently differenciate between a manufacturing organization and what is popularly known as factories.

The number of failures in Canada stated Premier King, was fewer last year than in 192, and less in 1922 than in 1921. Returns show that there were 857 failures in 1922 with liabilities of $9,000,000. 792 in 1923, owing $31,000,000 and 625 in 1924, whose liabilities aggregated $36,000,000. "Insofar as manufacturing concerns go," he declared, "they are getting better since the government came into office."

Mr. Meighen had neglected carefully to point out that bank failures in the United States during the past twelve months totalled 613, the largest number for any year during the last decade, and leaving liabilities to the extent of $202,000,000.

"Insofar as failures in Canada are concerned, they have been growing less, but the same cannot be stated in reference to the United States," remarked the Premier.

Mr. Meighen had been very critical in regard to Canada's balance of trade. "Since this government has been in power," he declared, "the balance of trade has increased by leaps and bounds."

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH IS VOTING TO-DAY ON CHURCH UNION

Local Interest is Keen in Just What the Result Will Be.

COUNT VOTE AT 6.30.

It's Anticiptaed that the Total Vote Will Number Approximately 940.

Possibly the chief subject of conversation around the city to-day has been the vote on Church Union in St. Paul's Church, the result of which is to be announced at a special congregational meeting to be held to-night at eight o'clock. Interest appears to be almost as keen among the members of the other churches of the city as in St. Paul's Church itself. There will be an hour and a half of voting to-day, from 3.30 to 5 o'clock, which will conclude the voting.

Three representatives from each side will count the vote, starting at 6.30. It is expected that the count will be completed by 8 p.m., so that no time may be lost after the meeting has been called before the results can be announced.

It is understood that the proceedings at the congregational meeting will be of the briefest possible character, including possibly a hymn, a prayer, the announcement of the result of the vote, and the Benediction.

1090 Names on Roll.

Something of the deep interest being taken by the members of the congregation in the vote is revealed by the fact that up to last night 905 members had marked their ballots. It is anticipated that the total vote will be somewhere around 940. There are in all about 1090 names on the roll. Of these possibly 50 or more are out of the city and not in a position to return to vote. There are a certain number of old and sick people, which has still further restricted the available vote. The vote that has been cast, therefore, has been an extremely large one.

To-day representatives of both sides appeared to be confident of the outcome. Unionist supporters estimated their majorities at various amounts, while the Presbyterian element seemed equally sanguine.

Both Sides Worked Hard

Considering how hard both sides have worked, the feeling in the congregation, on the whole, appears to be wonderfully good. Beyond a few remarks made by some individuals on both sides, the campaign has been conducted on a high level. The great body of the members of the church have maintained their friendly attitude towards one another.

Remain with Church.

Both sides report that a considerable number of people in the congregation have announced from the outset that no matter which way the congregation voted they intended to remain with St. Paul's church. This is only natural as St. Paul's is nearly one hundred years old, and a large number of the members have been connected with the congregation all their lives. Speaking on behalf of the Presbyterians of the church to-day, one of the members of the committee stated that should St. Paul's vote to remain Presbyterian he was satisfied from conversations he had heard among the Presbyterians that a most cordial welcome would be extended to all who had voted in favor of Union, but ho would like to remain with St. Paul's congregation, to do so. The Presbyterians, he said, felt nothing but the best of good will towards those who had voted in favor of Union. They appreciated the ideals for which they were working and honoured them, although they had not seen their way clear to vote the same way. He was satisfied that the desire of the Presbyterians, in the event of their winning, was to have as small as possible a split in the congregations, and to do everything in their power to have St. Paul's settle down immediately in peace and harmony to continue the work of the congregation with the same good will and friendliness on both sides as has characterized it in the past.

Largest Congregation.

As St. Paul's is the largest congregation in the Presbytery, having double the membership of any other congregation, and as it is the last congregation in the city to announce its vote, the interest in the result appears, for this reason, to be all the more keen.

SUFFERINGS IN ARMENIA TOLD IN LAKEFIED MEMORIAL HALL

Rev. Ira W. Pierce Appeals on Behalf of Oft-Betrayed Race.

SOME HISTORY.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 10.—On Sunday afternoon a largely attended meeting was held in the Memorial Hall for the purpose of hearing Rev. Ira W. Pierce, of Toronto, late missionary to the Armenians and at present secretary of the Armenian Relief Association of Canada, make an appeal on behalf of the cause which should touch the heart of every Christian person.

Rev. P. L. Jull, president of the local committee, was in the chair, and asked Rev. Walter Cox to open the meeting with prayer, after which Mr. Jull introduced the speaker.

Mr. Pierce expressed his appreciation of the large attendance and hoped to be able, without harrowing the feelings, to interest them in the sufferings of these people to which he had personally borne witness. His own story is a wonderful one and full of sorrow, he went to the ill-fated country of Armenia before the war and if it had not been for the way history has been written in the last ten years, would have been there yet. There is no longer any Armenia, the missionary work has been wiped out of existence, and with it Christianity. All this has been the handiwork of the terrible Turk, he said.

Right after the armistice the speaker returned to Canada, and for two years told the story of those years in Armenia from one end of the country to the other, until his health gave out under the strain. After repeated urging he has returned to work and has succeeded Dr. A. J. Vining as secretary of the Armenian Relief Association of Canada.

Tragedy of War.

An awful tragedy was enacted in Armenia in those war years, when practically three-quarters of the race was wiped out. In his flight the speaker travelled for fifteen days consecutively over the only road of escape and passing through the centres of slaughter, and for twelve days the road was a veritable lane of dead, killed in the most fiendish ways which the terrible Turk is master.

First Christians.

Who are the Armenians? They are an ancient people, whose history dates to the beginning of Christianity and it was the first nation to officially accept the Christian faith. It was once a very powerful race, and was in Asia Minor before the Turk and for generations stood firm for the Christian faith and acted as a barrier to the Tartar hordes which would have swept over the land. The world has forgotten the part of these people in the history of Christianity, probably because they never realized it. We are not informed about these people as we should be. The Tartars learned centuries ago to hate these people and have never forgotten their hatred, which lies at the base of thier awful vengeance.

There is an impression in this part of the world that the Armenians are a race of petty traders not unlike the Jews, but this is a mistake as they are primarily an agrarian people and 60 per cent. of them were agriculturists, although many are successful traders. The speaker lived with the Armenians before the war and saw their racial habits and domestic life. Lord Cromer, who is a noted authority on the Near East, says that the Armenians are the cream of civilization in their part of the world. The doctors, dentists, pharmacists in Asia Minor were all Armenians. There were no Turkish doctors except those drafted from the military organizations. The speaker was an instructor in Euphrates College, which was a wonderful institution with a registration of one thousand young men and women. The Turks had nothing comparable to it. Among the instructors were graduates of the college who had taken post graduate work in Glasgow, Princeton and Columbia universities. The racial question in Armenia was always a cause of friction because the Turks who had won their power by the sword were dominating a race culturally their superiors.

The pity of what happened since the armistice breaks one's heart, but while the Turk is certainly a brute and a fiend the remainder of the world shares in the responsibility, for we did not make any effort to stop this terrible slaughter, the speaker declared.

Says Turkey Benefitted.

Turkey was our enemy in the war and was lined up with Germany and Austria against us, and their alliance was responsible for prolonging the war and causing the loss of thousands of our men. Turkey emerged stronger and with greater advantages than any other country and although she was beaten and crushed, now she is triumphant.

In the days of the massacre, when blood was flowing in rivers in Armenia, the missionaries appealed to the Turkish on ground of humanitarianism, but were met with stolid indifference and silence. Then they played (as they thought) their trump card, saying that after the war they would return to their respective countries and a most terrible punishment would fall on the Turkish nation. Then, their indifference gave place to a cynical humor as they announced that they had handled the powers of Europe before, and would do so again and Turkey has surely handled them again, taking advantage of the rivalries and jealousies of Europe. Diplomatically speaking, Turkey is on the throne.

The speaker was interned at Beirut in Syria with his wife and two young sons, and in September, 1918, the news of General Allenby's march northward started the Turkish retreat and with the army were taken the prisoners. The army, filthy, demoralized, smashed, starving, was such a terrible spectacle that it almost created a little bit of sympathy fra the Turk. When Aleppo was reached he prisoners were abandoned and there they awaited the coming of the deliverer Allenby and his army who were welcomed joyously, for the British were popular. The French were jealous of the popularity of the British and were playing for Moslem support, so it was not long till one could see that this jealousy was of advantage to Turkey. In spite of the fact that the Ottoman Empire was crushed and completely demoralized in 1918, two years later, Turkey with an army of 200,000 well-equipped troops conducted one of the most brilliant campaigns in history and defeated the army of Greece and drove them into the Aegean Sea. How did this happen? Because Turkey, taking advantage of the jealousy of France and Italy against Britain, made good his promise and handled Europe.

At the armistice France was given the mandate over a province in Asia Minor, just north of Syria, one of the richest in that part of Asia, and set up her military and civil organizations there and asked the remnant of the Armenians to settle there and they would be guaranteed liberty and fair play. Many Armenians went there, some going even from Egypt and Cyprus and gave both moral and material support to the French authorities. But behind the scenes, the age-long plottings were going on, and one day the bolt fell. The French, in exchange for other concessions agreed to abdicate in favor of Turkey and once more Armenia was betrayed. We think the Near East question is settled, but God in Heaven thinks differently, and there will be more rivers of blood and perhaps not an Armenian before the day of reckoning. For the orphans we sent money, which kept them alive, but Dr. Vining caught the vision of bringing some of those orphan boys to Canada and giving them a chance. There are now 90 of them on a farm near Georgetown, he said, and they are doing splendidly and promise to become a national asset and it is for them and to carry on the work with them that the appeal is made. They are a thrifty and industrious race, and make splendid farmers and each boy dreams of owning a farm of his own some day.

Mr. Jull, in making a few concluding remarks, said we ought to thank God for making us forget ourselves and our petty worries. He has used Mr. Pierce in a wonderful way in sending him to tell his story here. Mr. Pierce spoke a few days ago at a meeting of the Holstein Breeders' Association in Toronto for a herd of cattle and in a very short time by individual gifts a splendid contribution of thoroughbred stock was made. Mr. Jull proposed a canvass of the village during the week by several teams, each taking a district. Any one outside the village limits can make his contribution to the treasurer of the local committee, Mr. G. G. Connell, at the Royal Bank.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through you hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

French Actor Enraptured By Audiences In America

PARIS, Feb. 10.—(Associated Press).—Americans are all heart, Firmin Gemier, great French actor, director of the Odeon Theatre, told the American Club of Paris in relating his impressions upon his return from the United States. He went over upon the invitation of the State Department as a return for the French Government's courtesy in asking James K. Hackett to play in Paris two years ago. "I want to go back and I will," said M. Gemier. The American theatres are well equipped and I can do there the things I dream of."

The American audience, the speaker said, is keenly responsive. "Your countrymen are sensitive, extraordinarily so, almost as much so as the French, and their emotion is deeper." To illustrate this he told of watching a Molnar play in New York, in which occurs a highly emotional scene. The audience, after three minutes of tenseness, just as the curtain was falling, began to laugh. M. Gemier, puzzled, inquired of theatrical men about this and was told it was because the American playgoer's sensitiveness of emotional appeals was so thorough that he could not long sustain it, and laughed as a natural reaction. "That is why," he explained, "your speakers, discussing the most serious subject, throw in two or three jokes."

M. Gemier praised American theatres, American simplicity and honesty of expression, and above all the freedom from Government control of art.

Her Headaches Were So Bad She Couldn't Do Anything

Once the head starts to ache and pain you may rest assured that the cause comes from the stomach, liver or bowels, and the cause must be removed before permanent relief may be had.

There is no better remedy for headaches of every description than BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

as it removes the cause of the headaches in a way that no other remedy will do.

Mrs. Wm. Helpard, Lower Stewiacke, N. S., writes: "I suffered for a long time with my head. It would ache and ache until it made me so sick I could not do anything, but after taking four bottles of B.B.B. I feel that I cannot recommend it too highly to all those suffering from headaches of any kind."

B.B.B. has been on the market for the past 46 years and is recognized by all who have used it to be without an equal as a remedy for headaches; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MESSAGE OF HOPE TO THE OLD FOLK

George Crawford Tells What Dodd's Kidney Pills and Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Did For Him.

Quebec man relieved of rheumatism and stomach trouble.

STANDON, Que., Feb. 9. — (Special). — Another tribute to Dodd's Kidney Pills is sent to us by Mr. G. Crawford, a well known resident of this place. He says: "It is with pleasure that I let you know your Dodd's Kidney Pills have done good and I am well satisfied with the results. My trouble started from a cold. My sleep was broken and unrefreshing and I had a bitter taste in my mouth, especially in the mornings. Rheumatism also troubled me. I am now taking your Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and find them very good. When I feel my stomach bad I take them and get instant relief. My age is 76."

Dodd's Kidney Pills not only relieve the pain or ache that is causing the most distress, but they put the kidneys in good working order and all the impurities and poisons are strained out of the body.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets keep the stomach free from trouble. They are a natural remedy, digesting the food while the stomach rests and recuperates.

FILLED PRESCRIPTION.

Two Dead, Many Ill, and Lewis Fish is Arrested.

COLUMBUS, February 10. — Lewis Fish, Canton, Ohio, last night told the authorities investigating the death of two Ohio State University students, and the serious illness of many others, from capsules of strych nine, that he had filled the prescription of David Puskin, the Canton, Ohio, student, at the University laboratory. Puskin died from strychnine poisoning.

Fish was arrested. Fish told the officials that he had entered the college dispensary without authority and filled a prescription for Puskin for six R. and W. (six red or aspirin capsules, and six white or quinine capsules) issued by Dr. H. Shindle Wingert, the head of the University health service.

PRICE OF HOGS WILL BE HIGHER

Prediction Made at Annual Meeting of Yorkshire Breeders of Ontario.

GROW IN FAVOR.

TORONTO, Feb. 10.—(Canadian Press).—It was predicted that the price of hogs this coming summer would be higher than at any time except during the war period at the annual meeting yesterday of the Ontario Yorkshire Breeders' Association. During the past year, it was stated, owing to the high price of feed, there had not been a very active distribution of pure-bred hogs, farmers having been very backward in breeding hogs.

As a result there will be a short supply to meet spring requirements. Although feed prices are still high, the feeling of the meeting was that now was a suitable time for farmers to increase production.

Grow in Favor.

That Ontario bacon hogs were growing in popular favor in Continental Europe was shown by reports presented yesterday at the annual meeting of Ontario Swine Breeders. Reference was also made to the fact that many breeders were specializing in the production of bacon types and meeting with splendid success.

BLACK TURBAN.

The black satin turban, pulled down slightly at one side to give something the effect of a beret, is the favored model in millinery right now.

Dresses are narrower, skirts are shorter, stockings are thinner, hats are smaller, and hair-cuts are closer every year. And now that we're all living on lemons and lettuce leaves to keep thin, lovely woman has just about reached the vanishing point.

TELLS AUDIENCE OF BATTLE FIELDS

Rev. H. B. Kenny Delivers Lecture at Campbellford Methodist Church.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 10.—There was a good crowd at the Methodist Church on Monday to hear Rev. H. B. Kenny's lecture on the "Battlefields of Europe." He also had slides shown. These were taken while he was in Europe about two years ago.

Mr. G. A. Kingston, superintendent of the Sunday School, was chairman for the evening. After the opening hymn and prayer by Rev. W. Elliott, the Sunday School choir sang a chorus. Then Mr. Kenny was called upon for his lecture. He spoke of the difference between the occasions of war and the causes of war, and of the different points of view of the different countries—Austria, France, Russia, Germany, Belgium, etc. Germany was prepared to go back on all her pledges to civilization of Belgium's bravery with her handful of men against millions from Germany. England came to Belgium's assistance. It was absolutely essential in self-defence that England should go out against Germany.

England's sons were away in Canada, Australia and South Africa, while Germany had kept her sons at home. The war drums stirred the pulse of the sons of the Canadians and in six weeks tihrty-three thousand Canadian boys were prepared for war. Of this we are justly proud. In speaking of the greatness of some of the men and also of those who live selfish lives,

"That man is already dead who lives to keep himself alive." Of the men who went from Canada eighty-two per cent. never came back. May God help us to forget our country when we forget those boys and what they did for us. In speaking of women's work he said in England six hundred thousand worked in factories and munition plants, and Canadian women are second to none in the work they did. The Kaiser said, "War is Germany's chief national industry." The extent of their vision is a world conquest. The pictures were then shown. Amongst them were views of cathedrals in ruins, of some of the cemeteries, Palace of the King of Belgium, also the most beautiful cathedral in Brussels. The programme was concluded with another chorus by the Sunday School choir and the singing of the National Anthem.

Mr. G. A. Kingston, on behalf of the Methodist Sunday School, thanked the audience for their presence and also to Mr. Kenny for coming to Campbellford and giving the splendid lecture for the Sunday School.

Mr. Kenny's old friends in Campbellford were glad to hear him and see him again.

FABLES ON HEALTH.

Mrs. Mann of Anytown had already learned, in her study of food for health's sake, that the foundation for health is started in infancy.

But if the child's body, and all the organs are right, there still is a chance of endangering the future health of the child by improper feeding.

Some mothers think it would be almost fatal to give a child, under six months old, anything except milk.

It is known, however, that the child grows stronger and faster if orange or tomato juice is given by the second month, and vegetable juice by the fifth or sixth month.

Cereals, well cooked, may be introduced into the diet of the child by the seventh or eighth month. The amount of fruit juice and vegetable juice may be increased by this time.

During the first part of the second year mashed potatoes may be given, a small amount at a time.

Do not let the baby taste of the adult's food. Keep his diet simple, and the chances are that many ills, common to the adult, will have been avoided.

ACCUSE SIXTEEN OF MANY CRIMES

High Treason, Plots to Assassinate and Spying Are Some Charges.

PAID BY SOVIET.

(By Carl D. Groat—United Press Staff Correspondent).

BERLIN, Feb. 10.—A general of the Red Army, a woman Communist and fourteen other terrorists alleged to have been under the domination of the Russian "Cheka," were put on trial before the Leipzic State Court to-day.

They were accused of crimes varying from high treason and plots to assassinate down to spying and dealing in forbidden arms. The State is endeavoring to prove that this band, instructed by the Soviet Secret Police, plotted to kill General Von Seeckt, and the late Hugo Stinnes. The prosecutor will try to show that this German "Cheka" used bombs and germs against its victims.

Most of the accused have never been nearer than Berlin, but are alleged to be agents of the Russian General Skoblewsky.

The Soviet Embassy in Berlin is alleged to have paid the accused in American dollars for such services as obtaining State documents, spying upon anti-Red agents and "disposing of" opponents of the Communist cause.

OBITUARY.

CHARLES W. HUYCK.

TWEED, Feb. 10.—A very highly respected citizen of Tweed in the person of Chas. W. Huyck, passed away on Saturday morning. Less than two weeks ago he was taken down with pneumonia, together with a prolonged attack of hiccoughs, which greatly weakened him.

Mr. Huyck was brought up in the vicinity of Tweed, but for many years had lived in the village. He was a member of the Tweed Methodist Church, a member of the Orange Order, and a life member of the A. F. & A. M., under whose auspices the funeral was held Monday afternoon in the Methodist Church. Rev. L. S. Wight, the pastor, was assisted by Rev. Wm. Johnston in the service.

The floral tributes were most beautiful and numerous, testifying to the high esteem in which Mr. Huyck was held. The flag at the High School was at half-mast in respect to Mr. Huyck, who was secretary of the High School Board. He had occupied many secretarial positions in Tweed.

He is survived by his widow and two daughters, Misses Dorothy and Pauline.

Messrs. Councillor E. R. Huyck and W. H. Huyck, town clerk, are brothers.

WILLIAM BAWDEN

BRIGHTON, Feb. 10.—The funeral services of the late Wm. Bawden were conducted in the Methodist Church here on Sunday.

The deseased was well and favorably known over a very large community as he had a butcher shop in Warkworth for some years and after wards in Frankford but for the last 25 years he resided near and in the village of Brighton where he was employed in buying eggs and wool.

Besides his aged wife who is critically ill he leaves three daughters to mourn his loss.

Mr. Bawden who had reached the ripe old age of eighty four was very active up to about two months ago. Then on account of their sickness, Mrs. Henry Martin, a daughter, who resides near this village had the old couple removed to her home where she could give them necessary attention.

He was a life long Conservative in politics and a member of the Methodist church. He was also a member of the Orange Order and held high office till the time of his death, and it was under the auspices of that order that the funeral was conducted over one hundred members attending. Rev. J. S. I. Wilson of this village preached the sermon from Genesis 5:24 after which the cortage proceeded to Salem cemetery where the remains were interred in the family plot.

FASHION NOTES.

At the matinee and on the shopping trip, dress for the lynx eyes of your catty friends, who'll notice not if you look well but if you look EXPENSIVE. But at home remember that your most becoming garment from the hungry husband's viewpoint is your pink kitchen apron.

Experts tell us that to be interesting to the simple male a woman must be a mystery. But what chance has she now that the bob that shows the EARS has come in style?

AFTER THE PEDDLERS.

The Peterboro Chamber of Commerce was justified in taking part in the deputation which waited upon the Statute Revision Committee in Toronto on Saturday to press for amendments to the Transient Traders' Act that will protect the permanent merchant from the operations of the fly-by-night peddlers.

The city merchants pay a large share of the cost of municipal government, and they are entitled to be protected against the hawker who peddles his wares from door to door and then passes on to the next town to repeat the operation.

It is claimed that such peddlers are providing a service for citizens in bringing their wares to their homes, but it is a safe wager that the majority of housewives would be glad if the continual nuisance of having to listen to the arguments of wandering salesmen could be permanently done away with.

Many of these hawkers are so thick-skinned and hardened that it is with difficulty that they can be driven away from a door once they have managed to get the portal opened.

Every housewife has had experience with that kind of a canvasser, and would prefer to be left alone rity she has reason to believe, rather than to be held up at her own door half a dozen times a day by peddlers.

HELPING THE UNEMPLOYED.

The Ontario Government has come to the rescue of the larger municipalities in their task of providing work for the unemployed.

Premier Ferguson, while maintaining that the responsibility for the care of its citizens rests primarily with the municipality, declares that the conditions are such as to leave no time to cavil about the question of responsibility, and the Provincial Government has decided to extend a helping hand to the man who may be in distress through no fault of his own but entirely on account of stagnation in industry and the lack of opportunity of employment.

The Province's contribution is to be provided in two ways.

The Government will pay one-third of the excess labour cost over the normal labour cost incurred by a municipal corporation in respect of any work wholly or partly constructed during the balance of the winter for the purpose of relieving employment, and one-third of the excess expenditure incurred by municipalities in providing food, fuel and clothing for the unemployed over the normal expenditure for such relief.

In the case of the larger cities, the assistance of the Provincial Government will be materially felt, and if the Federal Government could be induced to also pay a third of the excess the problem of looking after the unemployed would be equitably distributed among the municipalities, the Province and the Dominion.

THE BARBERS' BILL.

The legislation that is to be presented at the present session of the Legislature at the instance of the Barbers' Federation should receive favourable consideration from the members of the Provincial House and the approval of the general public.

The bill provides for the proper examination of barbers and insists upon sanitary conditions in the barber shops of the Province, and this would be of service to the public as a protection against poor work and unclean conditions.

Opposition from the smaller centres killed this measure when first introduced, but in its amended form most of the features objected to have been removed, and the bill seems one that would be in the general interest.

The question of the cost of enforcing the measure has been raised, but apparently this is a complaint that carries little weight, inasmuch as the necessary machinery would be practically self-sustaining, the fees of new applicants for licenses as barbers paying for the examining board and other expenses.

There is no supervision over barbers at the present time, and the fact that those desiring to secure licenses would have to satisfy a board not only that they are competent but that they are in good health and free from skin diseases, etc., would be a very material protection.

THE MASTERS WEEP.

Great composers of the past have handed down to us things of beauty and joy and reverence and majesty, whatever their mood, just as our famous contemporaries are leaving their masterpieces to posterity. Are these to be de-vitalized and cheapened and harnessed to metronomic vehicles that were never meant for them, only to be worn to shreds in their new garb and cast away in remnants unrecognizable either as classics or dance arithmetic, to be forgotten as quickly as their 1925 companions of less noble birth—or are they to go down through the ages, as they have come to this, undefiled and beautiful, to ennoble and inspire others of coming generations who inherit them just as truly as we do? asks the Border Cities Star in discussing the invasion of the classics by jazz composers.

We have heard and seen operas debilitated and dissected and thrown across the footlights without sequence or sense; the Bible is being modernized; Shakespeare is burlesqued; the buried riches of ancient kings are being chipped out and scattered as souvenirs—all these things to meet the changing moods of one generation. The next generation will change them into something else, because they are not adapted to all ages alike; and the originals which were so adapted, will be lost eventually, lost for all time.

Truly, this is a critical age for all things artistic; they must conform to the needs of the hour, with no two hours the same. Ingenuity is not dead yet; original talent is not yet impoverished, but it speedily will be if it keeps on borrowing. You can borrow money, if you're lucky, but when you borrow artistic ability, you not only despoil that which you borrow, but you stifle your ability to produce its substitute.

HELPING THEMSELVES.

Simultaneously with the announcement that the Provincial Government is to help the unemployed comes an intimation that the members of the Legislature are going to help themselves—by voting an increase of $600 in sessional indemnities and salary increases of $2,000 to all members of the Cabinet, except Premier Ferguson.

However good a case may be made out on behalf of these increases, the legislators cannot shut their eyes to the fact that there will be a general protest against a move that increases the cost of government overhead by a total of $80,600 a year.

The members at present receive indemnities of $1,400—the new scale would be $2,000.

The Cabinet Ministers, with the exception of the Prime Minister, are paid salaries now of $6,000 each, plus $1,400 indemnity, or $7,400; the new arrangement would increase their remuneration to $8,000, plus $2,000 indemnity, or $10,000.

Premier Ferguson is paid $12,000 a year, plus $1,400 indemnity; his salary would remain unchanged, but he would benefit by the increased indemnity, bringing his total to $14,000 a year.

It may be true that Cabinet Ministers make sacrifices in a business way to accept public office—although some of them might have difficulty in clearing $10,000 a year—and that there are heavy demands upon the purse of private members, but nevertheless the people are clamoring for economy in public expenditure, and they would bitterly resent increased salaries and indemnities as a flouting of popular opinion by the Legislature.

WHEN THE WORLD ENDS.

The end of the world has once more been unavoidably postponed. Robert Reidt and his small band of followers spent February 6 and the day previous to it praying, fasting and waiting on a hilltop on Long Island, N. Y., from which they expected to be taken away in a cloud.

This old world must have as many lives as a cat, otherwise it would have ceased to spin years ago, for there have always been those who have set the year, the month and the day when the Lord should return and bring to an end the record of this sphere.

It is within the memory of many of the old residents that Mother Shipton set 1881 as the last year of this world, and she had some grounds on which to cast her spell over the public mind, because through her quaint rhymes she had predicted years before the coming of such things as the railways, steamships, telegraph, the rise of a great Jew, Disraeli, and many other events. Her prediction about the end of the world was in the following form:

And this world to an end shall come
In eighteen hundred and eighty-one.

William Miller, of the Second Adventists, was a power in his day, operating mostly in the New England States. Miller set 1843 as the time when the earthly scroll should be wound up and its inhabitants called to judgment. As the year wore on Miller narrowed the date down to October 21, and at one point a huge tent, that would have made any circus man envious, was erected to hold 5,000 people. As the day drew nearer the country was thrown into hysterics as messengers went about calling on the people to prepare. Many sold their worldly possessions, but what they intended to do with the proceeds was never stated; farmers refused to take in their crops, declaring such a thing would be flying in the face of Providence. On the appointed day the Millerites rose early and clad themselves in long white robes, no doubt with the intention of saving as much time as possible when they found themselves among the elect in the new kingdom. Those who could not get to the central meeting point spent the day on the housetops. But October 21 came and departed; there was morning, noon and night; the white robes were laid away—something had gone wrong.

In more recent years Prof. Porta, a California astrologist, made the prediction that on December 17, 1920, the world would be destroyed. He placed his announcement on the fact that on that date the planets would be lined up in a peculiar lopsided manner that would produce such a shock that this old world could not possibly withstand it. On the minds of many of the people of the south his prediction created a profound impression, and once more preparations were made. Some of the instances recorded then, though, showed there were those who refused to be stampeded, one Syracuse Democrat stating that he "would welcome the violent demolition of the earth because he saw no other way of jolting the Republicans out of the city hall."

Also showing that the age of money-grabbers was finely developed, swindlers operated on a large scale, carrying their operations even as far north as Ohio. One farmer, Charles Johnson, 65 years of age, living near West Salem, Ohio, paid $15 for a seat in a room in Cleveland, when two pious-looking men waited on Johnson to inform him that was where his religious sect would be gathered together on the last day. But December 17, 1920, came and went—it was no different from any other day.

One of the finest outlooks on this "last day" discussion came from a member of the Connecticut Legislature in connection with "the dark day" of May 19, 1780. On that day it became dark early in the morning, and remained so all day, and the reason for it has never been satisfactorily explained. Members of the Connecticut Legislature were alarmed; there was a motion made that the body adjourn so that members might depart and be with their families at the end. The motion bid fair to carry until one member, Davenport, rose in his place and said:

"Mr. Speaker—This is either the day of judgment or it is not. If it is not, there is no need of adjourning. If it is, I desire to be found doing my duty when the end comes. I move that the candles be brought and that we proceed to business."

Davenport not only saved the Legislature from making a show of itself, but he passed on a message that for the profound sense of its logic and a proper appreciation of a man attending to honorable business intrusted to his care stands as the answer to all who take to themselves the uncertain and equally blasphemous task of stating when and how the Almighty shall deal with the affairs of this world. — London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Any climate that offers a spread of 91 degrees from 36 below zero to 56 above inside of two weeks cannot be described as monotonous anyway.

Dr. Brittain's address on city management tonight should be heard by a large audience. It is a question in which public interest should be very keen.

Peterboro hockey players during their stay in Sault Ste. Marie might keep their shooting eye in by a little practice on the Algoma wolves.

Moravian Mission Boat Visits Labrador Coast—Increase in Population.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—(Associated Press). — The Moravian mission boat, the 223-ton bark Harmony, the smallest boat on a regular run across the Atlantic, has berthed here on the return from her annual voyage to the mission stations in Labrador.

It took the bark 18 days to return from Newfoundland, according to her skipper, Captain Jackson. For the first time for many years, he says, the Esquimau population shows a slight increase. The one wireless set in northern Labrador regularly receives all the New York concerts, but cannot tune in with British stations.

A THOUGHT.

MY GOALS.

A little braver when the skies are grey,
A little stronger when the road seems long,
A little more of patience through the day,
And not so quick to magnify a wrong.

A little kinder, both of thought and deed,
A little gentler with the old and weak,
Swifter to sense another's pressing need,
And not so fast the hurtful phrase to speak.

These are my goals—not flung beyond my power,
Not dreams of glory, beautiful but vain,
Not the great heights where buds of genius flower,
But simple splendors which I ought to gain.

These I can do and be from day to day
Along the humble pathway where I plod,
So that at last when I am called away
I need not make apologies to God.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Feb. 9.—The first sale of cattle was a bunch of good 900-lb. butchers at $6.75 a cwt., followed by a heifery cow 1140 lbs. at $5.75 a cwt. The exporters had a fairly good selection today and one load of steers from Chatham with Shields & Atwell, the best on the market, was thought good enough for $9 a cwt. Rogers and Maybee had slow buying during the first couple of hours and had only collected about 200 export steers and the top paid for a load up till then was $8 a cwt. These buyers thought prices were steady to a little firmer than last week.

All the good handyweight butchers were going from $6.50 to $6.75 and good mediums $6 to $6.35 a cwt. Prices on butchers of all kinds were held firmer and this made the trade slow. One buyer wanting two cars of butchers cows had only bought half a load up till noon. A few baby beeves sold from $8 to $9 a cwt. The exporters want upwards of 1700 cattle this week and will likely get all the heavy steers before the end of the day.

There is a decided turn in the calf market, and prices are down a dollar a cwt. Buffalo is getting a larger local supply, and there will be a few if any shipments from here this week. Top calves were not better than 13 cents, and the best of the mediums 11 cents. Common and heavy calves were 7 to 9 cents.

Lambs are inclined to be steady, although the demand is not good, except for the real choice light 80 to 90 lb. lamb. One deck of choice lambs was bought by Frank Hunnisett at 15½ cents. These weighed 91 lbs. each. For light bucks 14 cents was paid. Sheep were steady, with few choice to be had.

The run of hogs is not large, and the stabilized price of $10.50 a cwt. f.o.b. is expected to continue to hold.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at the same as Saturday's finish to half cent lower, May 190 5-8 to 191 and July 162 to 162 1-4, with corn half to 1 1-4 cents down, oats 3-8 to 5-8 cent off, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of 22.

At first the wheat market here took a decided upward swing, influenced largely by a sharp advance at Liverpool As prices here went higher, however, selling of all kinds broadened out, especially from traders who had bought on last week's decline and were in a position to realize profits. The ensuing decline carried the market down 4 1-2 cents to 189 3-4 for May delivery, but under $1.90 good buying support developed and prices were rallying again as the day came to an end.

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—The arrivals of several cars of Chinese has been reported during the past few days and it is interesting to note that of these, certificates of inspecion have been refused on two cars, one in Toronto and one in Montreal. This means that the eggs cannot be placed on sale in this country, and it is reported that orders have been given for re-shipping to the United States. Another car which passed inspection in Edmonton is not moving satisfactorily. The majority of the dealers in the city refused to handle them, and in all possibility the most of this car will also be re-shipped possibly out of the country. Imports during the past week have been quite heavy in Winnipeg comprising some 47 lots totalling 971 cases. This includes one car of Chinese.

Toronto unchanged. Ontario country shippers report paying extras 44, first 38, and making sales extras 55, first 44 f.o.b.

Montreal—Fresh extras, jobbing 50, firsts 45

Manitoba—Dealers quoting delivered extras 50 to 55, firsts 45 to 50, seconds 30 to 35.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, Feb. 9.—Sterling exchange rates were quoted here Monday as follows:

WOOL PRICE UP.

Western Producers Obtain Increase of 16 Cents.

REGINA, Sask., Feb. 10.—The price paid for Western Canada wool is steadily increasing, and the last car shipped by the Manitoba and Saskatchewan branch of the Canadian Wool Growers' Association netted 34 cents a pound to growers at local shipping points. This is an advance of 16 cents over the average price in 1923 and 10 cents advance over the average price in 1924.

ALIENS NOT WANTED.

MELBOURNE, Feb. 10.—Replying to the Victorian government's protest against the unrestricted immigration of Southern Europeans, Federal Prime Minister Bruce laid stress on the fact that no encouragement or assitance had been offered to aliens.

The federal government, he added had announced recently that it desired to limit the issue of passport visas to Greeks and Jugo-Slavs to 100 a month for each nationality.

THE FOUR VITAMINS.

Uncooked Vegetable Secures Against Loss Due to Destruction in Cooking.

Vitamins are scattered throughfoods, Mrs. Mann learned.

But heat destroys vitamin in some forms, and for this reason it is well to safeguard the health of the family by providing each day some uncooked vegetable, like cabbage, lettuce, onions, potatoes, spinach, etc.

Vitamin A is most abundant in butter, unskimmed milk, young, sprouting green leafy vegetables and egg-yolk.

Children grow exceptionally well when fed foods rich in vitamin A.

Vitamin B helps in the control of the nerves, and in overcoming fatigue. Whole grain cereals and most vegetables are rich in vitamin B.

Vitamin C prevents scurvy, and aids very much in keping the body fits and well. Fresh fruits and vegetables are the best source.

Vitamin D, the latest one to be discovered, is found in egg-yolk and cod liver oil. Physicians advise that bottle-fed babies be given half a raw egg-yolk in the milk for the day.

Mothers of breast-fed babies should take the egg-yolk instead of giving it to the babies.

REIDT DOUBTING

ogue, where during virtually all day he and Brother Downs had conducted a continuous revival meeting outside the Reidt home. Brother Downs started preaching at 9 o'clock in the morning. Sometimes he had two-score persons listening to him; sometimes he had only one auditor. It made no difference to Brother Downs, who thundered as well for one as for the many. The partial eclipse of the moon was pointed out to Downs. He apparently had not heard about it before, but he hailed it as another "manifestation" and used it as an illustration of his sermon.

The Ford Leaves an Aching Void.

Reidt's Ford car, which he sold with his other belongings, was taken away by its purchaser Sunday. Reidt seemed downcast as the car chugged off. "There goes my only means of transportation," he said. He soon regained his optimism about doom for all—eventually, if not now—and discussed his plans for the future. Now that the world's end has been postponed indefinitely he felt it was safe to talk about the future.

He plans an extensive tour. The contemplated series of addresses, according to the apostle, will include broadcasting by radio and street speeches in New York and possibly other cities. Reidt announced his intention of applying for a street speaking permit in Manhattan at the first opportunity. One of the first intimations that Mrs. Rowen's prophesy had not been fulfilled, according to Reidt and his followers, was the failure of pestilence to visit the world.

"There was no pestilence," he said, "because there was no persecution. When I start on my speaking tour the words that I will say will bring plenty of persecution. Then will come the pestilence."

PARTY IN HONOUR OF AGED MOTHER

Mrs. Thos. Oddie, Aged 79 Years, Gets a Happy Surprise.

BURNBRAE NEWS.

BURNBRAE, Feb. 9. — An interesting event tok place at the home of Mr. Percy Oddie on Thursday evening, when the family of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Oddie gathered to honor their mother on the occasion of her 79th birthday. Mrs. Oddie was pleasantly surprised, she not having been told until the last moment that the party was being arranged.

A few close friends were also present, among them including Rev. and Mrs. McKenzie, Mrs. Jessie Thompson, and Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Totton.

After an enjoyable repast of oysters and other dainties, the evening was spent in singing and social intercourse.

Mr. and Mrs. Oddie are among the oldest residents of the district, and over a year ago celebrated the 60th anniversary of their marriage. They still enjoy fairly good health, in spite of their advanced age, and take a keen interest in the affairs of the community.

Pioneer Passes.

One of the pioneers of Burnbrae, Mr. Alexander Ingram, passed away on Wednesday February, 4th, at the home of his son, Mr. George Ingram, Menie. The deceased, who was almost 85 years of age, has been in poor health for some years, but only became seriously ill some few weeks ago. He leaves to mourn the loss of a loving father, two daughters, Mrs. W. W. Little, Mrs. Thomas Atkinson and two sons, Geo. Ingram on the old homestead, and William of Toronto.

The funeral was held on Friday afternoon, interment being in the Burnbrae cemetery. The pall bearers were Messrs. William A. Milne, William Rannie, M. Stephens, N. Mason, A. T. Donald and J. P. Haig. The Rev. D. A. McKenzie conducted the funeral service.

Fifteen Cent Tea.

The Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's held a fifteen cent tea at the home of Mrs. William Rannie, Menie, on Thursday afternoon. A good crowd attended the meeting. Plans were laid for the coming meetings and a good programme presented followed by refreshments.

Young People Met.

The Young People's Guild met in the basement of the church on Monday evening, Feb. 2nd. A fairly large crowd was resent in spite of the bad roads. The next meeting on Feb. 16, is to take the form of a banquet with Mr. H. M. Donald and the social committee in charge of the arrangements.

Drawing Wood.

Wood drawing is the order of the day. The patrons of the Menie Cheese Company have been drawing their fuel from the island south of Hoard's Station, while Brae patrons secured their's from S. Meiklejohn, 8th concession of Rawdon.

Returning Home.

Mitchell Rannie, who has been taking the short course on "Farm Power" at the Ontario Agricultural College, returned home to-day.

HOT LUNCH FOR SCHOOL FOLKS

Brighton School Board Introduces a System Very Much Appreciated.

A TIMELY ADDRESS.

BRIGHTON, Feb. 10. — The Home and School club, with the willing assistance of the school board, have put into operation a hot lunch system in our Public School. The pupils bringing lunches are provided with one hot dish each day, tables, benches and dishes. The teachers take turns in sacrificing their noon hour to be with the children and provide the hot dish. Each day a number of girls are appointed to clear up after lunch and put things again in order.

Such expressions as "just what I like," "this is good," etc., express more than other words can, how the children appreciate what is being done for them.

Training the Boys.

Mr. C. F. Plewman, secretary of the Boy's Work Board of Ontario gave an address to teen age boys and men in the Presbyterian church on Sunday, Feb. 8, at 2.30 p.m.

In the evening an inter-demoninational service was addressed by him in the Methodist church. Mr. Plewman is a very forceful speaker, and was greeted by a large audience in the evening. He spoke about the importance of that part of a boy's life, between the age of 13 and 15 years. It is then a boy needs the right kind of training and instruction which so many do not get. It is at that age a boy learns to think for himself and to become a man who can face the trials and temptations that are before him. When we consider that the nation to the south of us spent $795 out of every $1000 for the purpose of war we realize what a great field there is for the coming generation of men to change the present way of settling differences between the various nations.

The music was furnished by a male choir, under the direction of Mr. W. R. Freeman. A special collection was taken for the boys' work. Mr. Gordon Lapp Premier of the Older Boys' Parliament assisted in the services.

Roads Are Bad.

The road to Trenton has been in a very bad condition, but on Saturday last one car came through from Trenton and Mr. J. D. Henderson came from Smithfield to Brighton and back. The road to Colborne is reported to be in a much better condition and it is expected that commercial trucks will soon resume their trips if this weather continues.

LOST THREE FINGERS.

Omemee Man Injured and Boy Shot Himself.

OMEMEE, Feb. 9.—Mr. Walter Moncrief of East Emily suffered a severe loss on Monday afternoon, while sawing wood with a circular saw, had three fingers amputated. He was rushed to Omemee, where medical aid was rendered.

Accidentally Shot.

Norman Farthing, a twelve-year-old boy, residing with his parents on a farm east of Omemee received a flesh wound in his arm on Saturday evening. The youth was climbing up to a beam in the barn with a 22 rifle, when the trigger caught and the bullet exploded, thus shattering his arm. He was rushed to Omemee, where medical aid was rendered and while the wound inflicted did not do much bodily harm, yet it goes to show the result of such small boys not perceiving the danger of carrying such weapons which might have caused a tragedy.

GOOD REPORTS ON YEAR'S WORK

Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E. Held Annual Meeting—Social Amenities Prominent.

SOME ACHIEVEMENTS

(Contributed)

The Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E. held its annual meeting on Wednesday, in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A. building. Reports presented showed a satisfactory year had been passed. Regular meetings had been held and eight new members joined the ranks during the year. Sociability among the members had been aided by the cup that cheers but does not inebriate as at the close of each meeting the members gathered around the tea table for social amenities.

During the year the Chapter took part in a tag day for the blind and its share was $238.66 for their Institute. It also presided at the tea table at the Peterboro Motor Show and from this handed $100.00 to the Health Association of the City. For its other work the Chapter raised funds by bridge parties and bazaar.

The order in Canada stands for help in educating the children of those men who fought for our freedom and the Otonabee Chapter has been doing its full share for the national fund created for this object as a War Memorial. Locally it has bene helping children to obtain education in Peterboro schools by giving $10 a month to help provide food and clothes so the child can go to school instead of having to go to service. One boy who was thus assisted graduated in the summer of 1924 and is now taking good care of his mother. At present the Chapter is assisting two other pupils attend the Peterboro schools.

And as that awful war brought death to the Armenians more than than to us, the Chapter, jointly with the 57th Chapter, is supporting one of those destitue Armenian orphans at the school farm in Georgetown. This means $100 a year from each Chapter.

The Chapter hopes that all its friends will feel that good work is being done and that they will continue to uphold its hands.

The officers elected for the ensuing year are as follows:

Regent—Mrs. F. L. Robinson.
First Vice-Regent—Mrs. R. R. Hall.
Second Vice-Regent— Mrs. H. Stenson.

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 9.—An account of events connected with the first Japanese embassy in the United States in 1860 has been translated into English by Dr. Herbert H. Gowen, professor of Oriental languages in the University of Washington, with the assistance of a Japanese student.

How embarrassed the Japanese commissioners were when dining with women and how they nearly drank from finger bowls "in the savage country of America" are related. The fact that Lewis Cass, secretary of state, failed to serve tea when first meeting them is mentioned as indicating lack of courtesy and refinement.

This Guarantee Protects You Against Moths in Your Chesterfield Suite

WHERE do you keep your insurance papers? You have a strong box or a special drawer in your desk for valuable documents, no doubt. That's where you should keep manufacturers' guarantees, so that when the time comes, if it ever does, you know exactly where to go, and exactly where to look for any particular one of them, by which you may require to hold the manufacturer responsible.

Many manufacturers issue guarantees with their goods. It is a good plan and there is no better assurance of good faith if the guarantee says what it means and means what it says. The manufacturer who issues a bona fide guarantee believes his goods are worthy and will live up to their reputation and the claims made for them. He is so sure of it that he guarantees them. Buying a so-called guaranteed article without a definite guarantee tag is worthless.

The trouble is that most people accept a guarantee as proof in itself that the goods are all right, but do not put the guarantee tag away in a safe place. In a few weeks it is nowhere to be found. It is as though insurance papers were lost. In this way the protection the guarantee was intended to provide is wasted and when occasion arises when the guarantee is needed, nobody knows where it is.

The guarantee accompanying Snyder's Sani-Bilt Living Room Furniture is worth preserving. It stands good for the life of the article. When you read it you will see it covers all the points you need to have guaranteed—immunity from moths, immunity from unsanitary fillings, immunity from lack of durability in construction due to faulty materials. We are sincere about it. Keep Sani-Bilt guarantee in your strong box among the documents of value. It means something. It is not a mere advertising noveity. It is a genuine insurance policy against definite possible troubles.

Ask your dealer to show you the genuine Snyder's Sani-Bilt.

Beautiful Designs To Choose From

No living room furniture in Canada shows the variety and the beauty to be found in the range of Snyder's Sani-Bilt Living Room Furniture. We cannot send you our catalogue—it is a big, thick book and is intended only for dealers. But if you go to a Sani-Bilt dealer he will show you a range of Sani-Bilt suites from which you may pick a beauty to suit you at whatever price you desire to pay. Our designs are distinctive, including the lighter types of Chesterfield that many people with rooms of but moderate size have come to prefer. Our coverings are the choice of the world's production—mohairs and silk and wool, embossed or shadow-printed, tapestries in harmonies of rich color, deep-piled velours, etc. Under the Cushions look for the Sani-Bilt trade mark. Then with the Sani-Bilt guarantee you will be sure of a real Snyder Sani-Bilt Suite—a suite that will hold its position of dignity and usefulness in your home for years of service—a suite you will always be proud of—a suite which moths cannot deface nor destroy.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

LITERARY SOCIETY PLEASANT EVENING

Campbellford High School Young People Had Full Programme.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 10.—The Literary Society of the Campbellford High School held its regular meeting in the assembly hall on Monday afternoon, with Dorothy Ackerman, the president, in the chair.

In her opening remarks, she expressed the hope that this, their opening meeting and all others, would be successful. Arnold Henry was appointed critic. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Helen McDonald, and adopted. There being no business to discuss, the social part of the programme was begun.

The first item was an orchestra selection by E. Thomas, G. Morrison, L. Clegg and F. Peckett.

Reading—Bessie Hinton.

Solo—"Spread a Little Gladness," Helen McDonald.

A talk on "Literary Society." Some people have the idea that literary societies are for amusement only, but Miss Thomas showed that this was not so, for one may derive great benefit from debate, and listening to current events of which one otherwise might not have heard.

Selection—The Orchestra.

Folk dance—Pixies Ballet, by Viva Dunk, C. Sarginson and Helen Barrie.

Violin solo — "Petite Valse," Evelyn Bonnycastle.

Selection—Orchestra.

Current Events — Dora McRoberts, whose witty remarks added greatly to the interest taken in her items.

Piano Solo — Jack Haig.

The critics' remarks were then given. After speaking in great praise of the programme he said that at the next meeting more boys should take part. It is hoped that the boys will remember this when they are asked to contribute a number to the programme.

Every item on the programme was greatly enjoyed by all the teachers and High School students and showed the school did not lack in talent along every line.

At the meeting of election of officers, the office of pianist was not filled, and Cherrie Turner was elected unanimously.

FOR VEGETABLES.

Before using vegetables that form heads, such as lettuce, cabbage or cauliflower, wash thoroughly and cover with cold water, adding a little vinegar. Let stand half an hour or so and any insects hidden within will crawl out.

SALT ON STAINS.

Salt on fresh ink stains will help to remove them.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor of Examiner.

Sir,—In the long and eventful history of the Presbyterian Church there have been many attempts to overthrow it on one pretence or other. The present one is founded on the modernism which has got hold of the leading ministers of the Presbyterian and Methodist Churches. No one who has followed them and the various church papers but knows that this is so. The overlapping in the West was the first we heard of the Church Union suggestion. Nothing very holy or tragic about that or about the will of God in it. Just a plain wish to save money and loss of faith and numbers. But it started the fire and gave an opening for the modernists to work on. There can be no pretence that it is the will of the Almighty that a great church should be split in twaine. Had the change been under His guidance, people would have been moved by the Holy Ghost. But now it is a fight on the part of the Presbyterians to save their church from the modernists, emotionalists and novelty-seekers. However, the attack is being beaten back. The church will remain, and who will then say that it is not the will of God that it should remain? READER.

DANGER AHEAD.

Toronto, July 10, 1925.

To the Editor:

I see it reported that 22 members of the Legislature have combined together to destroy the O.T.A. That is a minority determined to rule the majority. If it were some great good they wished to confer on their country, we could sympathize, but when it is to deprive us of the Act which has done more good to Ontario than any other Act passed since Confederation, every lover of his country will protest vigorously.

The last plesbiscite had been carefully planned to give hopes that O.T.A. would be removed and Government Control substituted, which wherever it has been tried has brought conditions very much worse than the old bar-room days. In Winnipeg one tavern has been fined twenty-three times and still kept on doing business. Quebec and British Columbia have broken all barriers.

Ontario had been for years skillfully prepared by clever writers, representing themselves as temperance men who were grieved over the way that young people were being ruined by the O.T.A. So skilfully was this and private propaganda carried on that temperance people were fooled into voting for Government Control, which does not control, but the very opposite.

In this action on the part of these members of Parliament totally regardless of the harm it would do, or do they not know the wonderful good that the O.T.A. has done to Ontario. Do they not know that it has lessened insanity as shown by Asylums' reports, that it diseases, increased efficiency of workers; parents send children to has lessened wonderfully, drunkenness poverty, crime and may school who could not before; that institutions for the cure of drunkards have had to close their doors for the lack of patients. That is only a few of the good things it has done. For which of them would they kill it. Surely they must know that if liquor comes freely into the cities, it will be playing into the hands of the bootleggers. If we want prohibition, we must not let people forget conditions that existed before it came. That is all that is needed. Of course the law has not been well enforced—penalties not sufficient. In North Carolina they fine an old man and his son, hotelkeepers, the old man, fifteen hundred dollars, the son a thousand, for a first offense. The Judge said, "I cannot send that old man to work on the roads for a year, as the law requires." Here it would probably have been three hundred and two hundred.

NATION'S LEAGUE WILLING TO RELIEVE U. S. OF PHILIPPINES

Would Avoid Danger of Going to War in Their Defense.

SITUATION DISCUSSED.

Mandate System Created Especially to Meet Just Such Necessities.

By HENRY WOOD

GENEVA, Feb. 10.— (United Press).—If the United States wants really to get rid of the Philippines in order to avoid the danger of one day being obliged to go to war for their defense, the simplest solution which the world offers to date, is to turn them over to the League of Nations as a mandated territory.

With every nation in the League, including Japan, pledged to respect the territorial integrity of the islands, all danger of their seizure and all necessity of their defense would be removed leaguers hold. The nation charged then with their mandate would have nothing to worry about except their civil administration.

League circle which have informally discussed the Philippine situation point out that the mandate system was created especially to meet just such necessities. In fact, Leaguers admit that the United States handling of the Philippine situation after the Spanish-American war created the precedent on which the whole League mandate system was worked out. Further recognition of this fact was granted when the League in forming its Permanent Mandates Commission in 1920 invited W. Cameron Forbes, former governor general of the Philippines, to be a member of the commission in order that the League might benefit by America's experience as the original mandatory power.

America's position in the Philippines is regarded by Leaguers as being absolutely identical with that of all mandatory powers, with but one exception, namely the United States voluntarily takes all the risk and expense of assuring their defense.

Temporary Control.

At the close of the Spanish-American war, the United States instead of annexing the Philippines as "spoils of war" assumed merely the responsibility of their administration and defense until such a time as they might develop into a nation capable of independence and self-government.

This is the fundamental conception and basis of the League's whole system, which Leaguers are confident will in the near future be extended to other territories which are now a burdensome expense, principally because of the necessity of defense, to the countries in charge of them.

One of the latest suggestions coming to the League for an extension of the mandate system is from the Spanish socialists, who are considering a plan to have the Riff government recognized as an independent government, but placed under Spanish mandate and the surveillance of the League.

In the event the Philippines were to be turned over to the League for as a mandated territory, there would still be nothing to prevent the mandate being assigned to the United States, should she still care to assume charge of their civil administration and development.

However, if she should prefer to wash her hands of the whole affair, the mandate would certainly not go begging. Germany, for example, is still on the heels of the League trying to force the latter to grant her a mandate on one of her former colonial possessions or other colonial territory. Porbably any of the big powers which already have mandated territories in the Pacific would be tickled to death to reap the benefits of all that the United States has done in the Philippines to date without having to assume, as the United States has done, responsibility or expense for their defense.

Today the various other territories in the Pacific which are under mandate, together with the mendatory powers are the German Samoan islands under New Zealand mandate; the island of Nauru under English mandate; German new Guinea and other ex-German islands south of the Equator under Australian mandate; ex-German islands north of the equator, including the famous island of Yap, under Japanese mandate.

Hopes For Membership.

That the United States recognizes the mandate system is demonstrated by the fact that the State Department has negotiated treaties with all of the Allied powers insuring American citizens the same commercial rights and privileges in mandate territories as Allied citizens.

The Philippine Department of Labor and Communications has recently written to the International Labor Bureau relative to membership and also expressing hope of eventual membership in the League. It is understood that the solution which Filipinos themselves generally want is quasi-independence, without being obliged to assure their own national safety and defense. According to Leaguers this is only possible through the League's mandate system, with the guarantee of every Leaguer to respect the island's territorial integrity.

Should the Philippines by any chance ever come into the hands of the League as a mandated territory they would come under what is known as "Class A" mandates. This class was created especially for territories which have reached a stage of development where their existence as an independent nation can be provisionally recognized, subject to the rendering of administrative advice and assistance by a mandatory power until such a time as they can stand alone.

Class A mandates to date include the British mandate on Mesopotamia and Palestine and the French mandate on Syria and the Lebanon.

TWO ROBINS SEEN BY OMEMEE WOMAN

First Suckers in Pigeon River—Other Vernal Signs.

OMEMEE, Feb. 10. — Two robins were seen by a lady in the western section of the village, and tame bees and other bugs have made their appearance.

A local gentleman had the pleasure of seeing the first suckers in Pigeon Creek, at the railway bridge, on Sunday.

Surely all these are sure signs of spring!

A.Y.P.A. Meeting.

The Anglican Young People's Association met in their weekly meeting on Monday evening, there being a splendid attendance.

Following the devotional exercises and the transaction of business, which was presided over by the president, Mr. Charles Davis, the following splendid programme which had been prepared by Miss E. Curry and Mrs. Harry Griffin, was much enjoyed by all present. Young Ladies' Chorus, paper of "Life and Music of Hayden," by Mr. Horace Hill; mouth organ selection, Jesse Chatten; song, Mr. Wilbert Clemett, piano solo, Gertie Pogue; young ladies' chorus; talk on Beethoven, and how his moonlight Sonata came to be written, Miss M. Rowan; male chorus, "The Ragged Vagabond," by Messrs. Lewis and Allan Adams, Hillier Cunningham, Arthur Stephenson and Wilbert Clemett.

Omemee radio fans had the pleasure of hearing the "Adanac Male Quartette," of Toronto, sing collectively and individually on Saturday night from 7.15 to 8.15.

Among the "listeners-in" was the mother of the second tenor in the quartette, Mrs. James Bushnell, who had the unique experience of hearing her son sing to her his favorite song, "Rose of My Heart."

The Adanac Male Quartette leaves on April 6th for a tour of Florida, returning to Toronto the latter part of August.

The A.Y.P.A. held a progressive euchre in the U.F.O. Hall on Friday evening. There was a splendid attendance and the prize winners of the evening, Mrs. V. Jones and Mrs. E. Jamieson.

Dainty refreshments were served at the close of the evening and a good time enjoyed by all.

Signs of spring were general in Omemee on Sunday. Residents were forced to get out with shovels to make a waterway for the flood in front of their homes.

To young men appeared in the afternoon, minus coats, also vests, and carrying canes, and introducing the first straw hats of the season, much to the amusement of pedestrians.

SAME HUSBAND BUT TWO WIVES

Gay Deceiver Arrested in New York on Bigamy Charge.

WIVES WERE CHUMS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—The tangled bonds of matrimony failed to unravel their twisted strands in Morrisania Court, the Bronx, when Camillis Fitzgerald, said to be a relative of Boston's former Mayor, and Ann McCormick, one time chums in the Sacred Heart Academy of Boston in 1918, discovered that both had the same husband.

The husband in question, Frank Landon, 22, an automobile mechanic, was committed to Bronx County Jail in default of $2,500 bail, by Magistrate Marsh, to await action of the grand jury on bigamy charges.

Miss Fitzgerald testified she had married Landon, whom she knew as Francis 'Kelly,' in Lawrence, Mass., on November 22, 1923. She has one child whom she left in Boston. Mrs. Landon, who is 19, asserted she married Landon on November 24 last.

Landon admitted he often used the name of "Kelly," that of his step-father. According to Mrs. "Kelly," her husband left her in September, 1924, and came to New York. With the winter coming on, he wrote home to wife, Mrs. 'Kelly,' asking her to send his overcoat to 562 Washington Avenue, Brooklyn. The overcoat was sent to the Brooklyn address but no word of acknowledgment went back to Lawrence, Mass.

In company with a brother, Mrs. "Kelly" came to New York to locate her husband and learned that no "Kelly" had lived at the Brooklyn address, although a Francis Landon had received an overcoat by express several weeks before. Landon was finally traced to the 140th Street address, where it was found he was living with a wife.

After visiting the Bronx marriage license bureau and discovering that a Francis Landon had married an Ann McCormick on November 24 last, Mrs. "Kelly" and Detective Charles Armstrong, of the Alexander Avenue Station, called at the Bronx address Wednesday evening. Mrs. Landon met Mrs. "Kelly" and when each recognized the other as the chum of Sacred Heart days, they fell into each other's arms and cried.

In court it developed that Landon had carried a note for a friend to the former Ann McCormick and had fallen in love with her a la John Alden. Mrs. "Kelly" left for Boston Thursday.

"There is bound to be some hard feeling between Camillis and myself," said Mrs. Landon. "I am going to remain a friend to Frank, and would marry him if he were free again."

When her glance fell upon the marriage ring that adorned her finger, she smiled and said:

"I didn't remember to take it off."

Hints On Diet By Radio.

German Stations Are Broadcasting Proper Menus for Hausfraus.

BERLIN, Feb. 10.—(Associated Press).—The radio has been pressed into service to tell the German hausfrau what she may eat and what she must refrain from eating to retain a graceful form. Ten minutes are given every evening on the radio program to a discussion of practical hints on women's diet. The chief commandment reads, "Don't eat too much chocolate and candy."

"Eczema on My Face Completely Relieved"

Miss Winifred Ernest, Box 46, Blockhouse, N. S., writes:

"Ever since I was a little child, I suffered with eczema on my face. At times my face was completely covered with large sores, and I tried nearly every kind of medicine that I heard of with no results. This lasted for over twenty years, until one day I asked the advice of my druggist, who bade me give Dr. Chase's Ointment a trial. After using the Ointment for a few days, the sores began to heal, and soon I was completely relieved of the disease."

HUNDRED HURT IN COMMUNIST-CATHOLIC WAR

Four Policemen and Three Priests Included in List of Casualties.

ARREST 25.

Combatants Swing Black-Jacks to Tune of "Internationale" and the "Marsellaise."

MARSEILLES, Feb. 10.—(Canadian Press).—The first serious clash between the recently organized Catholic party and the Communists occurred last night when the Communists attempted to disrupt a meeting of the Catholics, presided over by General De Castelnau.

The net result was the wounding of nearly a hundred persons and the arrest of twenty-five.

Reports this morning were that none of the wounded, which included three priests, was in danger. Casualties were about evenly distributed among the Catholics and Communists, except for four policemen who are reported to have been most seriously injured.

Revolvers were used during the attack, but black jacks and loaded canes were the weapons most favored.

Hostilities began while the Catholics were proceeding to their meeting hall. The Communists opened their attack to the tune of "Internationale," while the Catholics resisted to the strains of the "Marseillaise."

TALK OF LESS STRICT O. T. A.

Ferguson Government, Says Rumor, Will Favor "Good" Beer.

IS TRUE TEMPERANCE.

TORONTO, Feb. 10.—(Canadian Press)—There are rumors in Ontario political circles which more or less persist that the Ferguson Government at the session which opens to-day will provide for the enforcement of the province's temperance legislation "in the spirit in which it was drafted, and not in the strict letter in which it at present stands."

In consistency with such a policy a modification of the O.T.A. is rumored as being in the offing and the sanctioning of the sale of good beer is favored as the form which it may take.

Such action by the Government, if undertaken, say its supporters, will be embraced as a policy in the best interests of true temperance, and as consistent with the pledge given by the Premier at the time of the plebiscite. The granting of palatable beer would be calculated to offset the appeal of the bootlegger and to prove an important influence in checking his trafficking. Increased penalties upon bootleggers might be expected as a feature of the new legislation.

BISHOP DISAPPROVES O.T.A.

HAMILTON, Feb. 10.—(Canadian Press).—Making his first public address since coming to Hamilton, Bishop McNally, at the Canadian Club last night, voiced his disapproval of "Ontario's intemperate system of temperance."

His Lordship holds that public morality was a condition based on individual conscience. Such a condition, he believes, cannot be effected by the instrument of statecraft.

"The State can help," he continued, "but it cannot enforce public morality by sledge hammer or grandmotherly legislation."

After referring to Ontario's temperance legislation, which many, he said, felt to be an infringement upon personal liberty, His Lordship said Ontario was sitting complacently between its two contented neighbors—Quebec and Manitoba—and was like Jean Paul's grandmother—poor and pious.

"I hold we should use God's gifts, as He intended we should use them—and as our Saviour Himself used them.

"We have no merit if we cannot use God's gifts without restraint of the State. I have seen those gifts used with merit and without restraint in the state in which I lived for eighty years."

BRITISH NAVY IS MAKING A DRIVE FOR MORE MONEY

Contends that the Empire's Defense by Sea is Showing Deterioration.

A BUSY PARLIAMENT.

Chancellor Churchill Will Seriously Attempt to Reduce Britain's Income Tax.

LONDON, Feb. 10 (United Press).—The present session of parliament will be a busy one; the Conservatives, with the top heaviest majority in years, are anxious not to prove reactionary, and thus pave the way for the return of a Labor Government at the next election.

Labor and Liberals, for the sake of appearances, plan a vigorous opposition.

What Will Churchill Do?

There is much speculation as to what Winston Churchill will do in the role of Chancellor of the Exchequer. Annual appropriation bills, the budget and taxation are three extremely important items before the present session. The Admiralty, where Churchill once held sway, is making a drive to obtain more money, convinced as all naval men always are, that the King's navy is deteriorating.

Reduce Income Tax.

Churchill will attempt to reduce the income tax. Recently it was said that the new Chancellor planned a 22 per cent. reduction, but it is more likely that the proportion of reduction will be 11 per cent.

CHAPTER XV.

Coaxing—or Coercion.

By morning, after he had snatched a few hours of sleep in the bunk house, Charley McSween had given much thought to the affair of the flivver and the Henry Williamses. He could not afford to lose a good cook and dishwasher. That would make more trouble with the boss than holding him up on the road. And if he let them ride away as they had come, it signified a confession that implicated him as deeply as any of the principals.

The problem of keeping them on the job was really simplified. Charley had a certain allowance of conscience he was tolerant and good-hearted. He had admitted to himself that the conscription of a pair of honeymooners was a mean trick, even in the face of dire necessity. But now he knew something, or believed he did and it amounted to a justification. It removed scruples, or at anyrate made them slumbrous. He not only knew it, but he felt that he could profitably use it. It was neither blackmail nor duress, bur merely persuasion. He could show them what the consequences of an attempted getaway might be.

For some reason that probably went back to instinct, he had never taken the hold-up of Jerome Underwood and his family with any deep feeling of shock. It had not seriously disturbed his moral sense. Now, with Henry Williams in the picture, he regarded the affair even more lightly. Besides, there was Sally to be considered. She was a mighty fine girl, he had decided almost from the first he looked upon her as one of his own people. If she had married a bandit, it was unfortunate, of course. But had she? He had his doubts about Henry. He could not figure him accurately, or even approximately but it was hardest of all to figure him as a bandit, according to the evidence.

There was one more consideration in the back of his head—the sheriff. There was nothing personal about it, in the sense of a specific grievance. He could not have explained it any better than the versifier who did not like Dr. Fell. But he did not like Bob Wells, and he did not see any reason for throwing business in his way, particularly when it did not impress him as being of a really serious character.

He took the earliest opportunity to interview the Wreck and Sally Morgan, which happened to be during the washing of the breakfast dishes.

"The three-wheeled wonder," said Charley, "has become known to the family."

The Wreck's towel paused in the middle of a polishing movement.

"No, Henry not through me," added Charley. "It was discovered as a result of unmanly curiosity on the part of the boss' son. He hammered the padlock off the door."

"Well?" inquired the Wreck.

"The news havin' been communicated to the old man, and both havin' examined the hidden party, there is a sort of notion—not positive, but leanin' in that direction—that this particular flivver was met before."

Sally and the Wreck both looked at Charley and waited.

"The discovery bein' put up to me,' continued Charley, "I violated a considerable part of my principles by denyin' any knowledge. The reason ain't important. The main thing is, come out of this conversation looki I like one of two things—either a durn fool or a particeps criminis, whi means one of the same gang, that bei was to say to you, 'Honeymooners, climb right into flivver and help yourself.' That don't necessarily get you anything at all. The first person that climbs into that three-legged critter and tries to drive off in it is goin' to see the boss prancin' in pursuit. You don't seem to get the idea. She's bad medicine, that flivver. It ain't safe to acknowledge even a passin' acquaintance. She's tainted. Mind you, Henry, I ain't accusin' her of anything. I'm merely recitin' the suspicions of others."

The Wreck was making an effort to be judicial.

"Suppose," he said, "that I was to tell your boss how you happened to get a cook and kitchen helper?"

"That would be sinkin' us all in the same ship," admitted Charley. But you ain't goin' to tell him, on account of Mis' Williams here, who's got rights of her own in the matter."

The Wreck could see that, but he did not like to acknowledge it.

"Every idiot on the place," he said "seems to be chasing around with the idea that somebody committed a crime Suppose it happened that there was no crime at all?"

"I'm open-minded," observed Charley.

"Suppose," continued the Wreck, as he glared through his spectacles, "that you happened to be stranded with your wife out in the middle of a county that's so big there isn't any sense to it. Suppose you didn't have a drop of gas. Suppose somebody came along who had plenty of gas, and you offered in a decent manner to pay for a few gallons if they'd let you have it. And suppose a big hog sat back in his seat and gave you the laugh and told you to get busy and push your car out of his way, so he could drive on. And suppose you had to have that gas or stay there until God knows when. Hey?"

His voice had shrilled itself to an edge and he was making gestures with both arms.

"All right I'm supposin'," said Charley.

"Well, what would you do?"

"Speakin' hypothetically, you mean?"

"Speaking any way you like," barked the Wreck.

Charley rubbed his chin and appeared to consider the problem.

"I reckon," he drawled, "I'd try to get me some gas."

The Wreck waved an arm to indicate that all doubts were resolved.

"That's all there was to it," he said.

"Mind now," said Charley, cautiously, "I'm not sayin' that I'd feel drove to committin' unlawful acts. Gettin' gasoline, you might say, is meetin' one of the demands of nature, and I reckon it can be justified by powerful arguments. But when it comes to takin' people's watches and jewelry and——"

"They lied!" interrupted the Wreck.

"I'm only repeatin' what was told the sheriff."

"I say they lied."

"I guess we're showin' all hands on the call," mused Charley.

"I'm getting tired of all this lying," said the Wreck, sliding off the table. "I can stop it in three minutes."

He was headed for the door when Sally detained him with a firm hand.

Friend of F. W. Woolworth Passes at Great Age.

KINGSTON, Feb. 10.—(Special.)—The death occurred in Picton a few days ago, of Miss Mary Morrison at the age of ninety-four years and it is of interest to note that Frank W. Woolworth always referred to the deceased as "The Mother of the five and ten cent store." The late Miss Morrison lived in Watertown, N.Y., for many years, moving to Picton about eighteen years ago, and she was a warm friend of the Woolworth's. It was in her Watertown home that Frank W. Woolworth, the founder of the famous chain of stores, was married. Miss Morrison was frequently entertained by the leading members of the Woolworth family up till the time she went to Picton.

NO TUNNEL FOUND AT 70 FEET; COLLINS' PLIGHT INVESTIGATED

Buried Man's Case Recalls a Parallel Accident in Ontario.

MAY STILL LIVE.

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 10. (Canadian Press).—Clouds of rumors of distrust and suspicion of the story of Floyd Collins, imprisoned in Sand Cave, began to separate early today, the board of state military officials met to hold an official inquiry into the cave man's predicament. Lieut.-Governor H. H. Denbardt heads the military board.

State officials, geological and medical experts are firmly convinced that Collins was accidentally imprisoned and very likely is still alive, basing these beliefs on tests with an electric amplification device which apparently recorded Collin's breathing. Johnnie Gerald, who was driven away from the cave by state troops because he insisted the tunnel could be cleared and who quoted Collins as saying to him that he could live for two or three weeks down in the cave as long as he was fed, insisted that suspicion directed toward him based on rumors of ill feeling toward Collins was absolutely wrong. He is expected to be one of the chief witnesses at the inquiry.

Others who have been called to testify are Collins' brothers, Homer Marshal and Andrew and his father, Lee; William B. Miller, Courier-Journal reporter, who made many trips into the cave, and others who headed rescue parties down the Sand Cave tunnel.

The shaft headed for Collins' prison early today had crossed the 33 foot mark, but advance explorations with a diamond drill indicated no crevice or tunnel at the 70 foot mark. Experts directing the rescue work had estimated Collins was aproximately 60 feet under ground, so a side drift may be started when the tunnel reaches that depth.

One of the greatest sensations in the history of Ontario is recalled by the heart-rending case of the poor fellow entombed at Sand Cave, Kentucky, for over a week past. On the afternoon of Tuesday, June 24, 1902, Joshua Sandford, a young man whose home was in the village of Branchford, Ont., was engaged in deepening a well at the Skelly farm on the St. George Road, two or three miles from Paris, when a cave-in occurred and he was buried about sixty feet below the surface. The accident occurred shortly after two o'clock and it was after five o'clock on the following Saturday afternoon when he was rescued, having been buried alive for 99½ hours.

The Sandford case created such a deep impression that although nearly twenty-three years have passed it is still fresh in the public mind. Rescue parties were at work continuously and bulletins from the scene were eagerly devoured by great crowds which assembled day and night outside the newspaper offices.

On the Thursday, when the rescue seemed assured, a second cave-in occurred and it was of so serious a nature that the rescuers gave up in despair. They abandoned the task as night overtook them, but, soon after they had departed, a chance visitor to the scene detected faint sounds leading to the belief that Sandford was still alive and the work was speedily resumed.

With the exception of a break caused by the second cave-in there was constant communication between the entombed man and the rescuers by means of an iron pipe which extended down the full depth of the well. Rappings on the pipe from below could be distinctly heard and it was soon discovered that Sandford could hear when anyone spoke down the pipe.

Dr. Patterson of Paris took charge of the signalling and was able to instruct the imprisoned man to answer questions by a certain code of taps and at the same time keep the prisoner encouraged by reports of the progress being made by the rescuers.

In this manner it was learned from Sandford that he was in a pocket, the fallen brickwork having formed a sort of arch. He said he had about seven feet of space and could be got out if there was no further cave-in. The well itself had been filled with what had already fallen. As another cave-in was momentarily threatened Sandford had to stay still. He was plucky but constantly urged the workers to hurry up.

Courage Was Wonderful.

In the face of almost certain death his courage was wonderful. He indicated his position as well as he was able and a vertical tunnel was constructed in the hope that it would come close to him. The work had to be done with the utmost care to avoid disturbing the debris.

City Engineer Jones of Brantford directed the efforts and by Wednesday night the workers had dug in close enough to be able to hear Sandford's voice. He said the earth above him was being disturbed and advised digging another well a few feet away and then tunnelling through to reach him. To provide fresh air a bellows and rubber tube was attached to the pipe leading into the well.

The father of Sandford arrived at the scene that afternoon from Galt. He had not heard of the accident but had just happened along to pay a visit. He returned home to Galt believing that his boy had met a tragic end. The weary men who had labored so long and so hard in their efforts to effect a rescue went to seek rest.

They had all left the well when James Wheeler of Paris stepped off the road and walked over to the spot, not many yards from the road, merely out of curiosity, and he though he heard a faint tapping sound. He called to two other men who were not far distant and they lowered him in the new well. When he reached the bottom he rapped on the inside wall and got a response.

No time was lost in getting word to Paris.

Within an hour the almost exhausted rescuers had resumed their heroic mission. By two o'clock in the morning they had succeeded in making understandable communication with Sandford again and he told them to hurry up.

Could Hear Moaning.

At five o'clock on Friday morning Sandford could he heard moaning piteously, and the medical men present concluded that he had become delirious. At ten o'clock it had been decided to tunnel right through at all hazards and the greatest anxiety attended the critical work. There was quicksand and it was very treacherous, but a tube for the purpose of conducting air was successfully put through after many attempts to hit a blank space in the old well.

Pulled Up in Bucket.

Sandford said he was very hungry and the doctors, after a consultation, sent down a little wine in a bottle, which Carney succeeded in passing through. It was three o'clock in the afternoon before Sandford's face could be seen. He was then moaning incoherently, but the advent of fresh air revived him, and after he had taken a small quantity of hot water and milk, he was able to say that his feet were held tight in the fallen brick, which would have to be lifted before he could be pulled through the tunnel. The rescue was not effect until 5.30 o'clock.

Sandford declined the chair which had been prepared for hoisting him to the surface and was drawn to the top in a well-digger's bucket, taking hold of the rope himself with an apparently strong grip. Between two and three thousand persons were around the mouth of the well to greet him, but there was no noisy demonstration and many shed tears of joy. He was borne on a stretcher to the house, where two trained nurses were in waiting. No bones had been broken, but one leg, that had been pinioned, was very sore.

He expressed deep gratitude to Messrs. Carney, Hamilton and others who had assisted in the rescue and to the doctors, who said that he would be around again all right after a couple of days of absolute quiet.

Factory whistles in Paris, Galt, Brantford, Hamilton, Toronto and many other places announced that Sandford had been rescued as soon as word could be rushed over the wires. There was a small army of newspapermen on the scene, a number of them from American cities. Sandford's fight for life such as was unique in the world's history, had aroused countryside interest.

MUST GO TO GALLOWS.

Cabinet Declined to Interfere Gunman's Sentence.

The Cabinet after reviewing the case, declined to grant commutation.

SAYS ACCUSED IS R. J. MACDONALD

Is the Man Wanted Here Now Under Arrest in Montreal.

THEFT CASE RECALLED.

From photos on a police criminal record card, Dr. D. C. King, this city, says he identifies Robert John McCullough, in custody in Montreal on the charge of stealing valuable jewellery and silverware, as the Dr. R. J. MacDonald, who is alleged to have broken into the doctor's premises here and got away with $400 worth of surgical instruments.

The burglary of Dr. King's premises occurred August 31st last was the startling climax to the alleged self-styled Dr. MacDonald's brief sojourn in Peterboro in the interests as he declared, of establishing a hospital at Millbrook. MacDonald is supposed to have subsequently boarded a west-bound C.N.R. train, carrying with him Dr. King's missing instruments, and leaving behind, it is claimed, several unpaid accounts for which he had issued worthless cheques.

Says Lapse of Memory.

To Montreal authorities, McCullough, believed to be the MacDonald wanted in Peterboro, asserts that he is a returned soldier, of Toronto, with a western record. Acting as though suffering from loss of memory, it is gathered from what he says that he was formerly a young doctor in the Mayo Brothers' Hospital at Rochester, who went overseas and got wounded by shapnel on the Cambrai sector, since which time his mind has been blank. He strives to recall some connective links, mentions names of famous doctors, hospitals and places, including Yonge Street Station, Toronto.

BROADSIDE ON BAD LANGUAGE

Rev. D. R. Clare, in Marmora Church, Leads Attack on Profanity.

KNOCKS OBSCENITY.

MARMORA, Feb. 10.— Rev. D. R. Clare preached on the subject, "Profanity" on Sunday night. His text was the third commandment, Deut. 5:11. He said "Profanity was the product of the irreverent spirit. The profane spirit expresses itself in three types: (1) Profanity, (2) Slang, (3) Obscene Language..

"Profanity is sometimes an explosion of the nerves, therefore a person should exercise self control," Tennyson says. Self reverence, self-knowledge, self control. These three alone lead life to sovereign power.

The reverent spirit is the basis of all moral and spiritual growth.

A recipe given by an old minister to a man who said he couldn't stop swearing was, "When you start to swear end it with a prayer."

Slang is implied profanity.

Premier Likes Salary But Not Beck's Position

TORONTO, Feb. 10.—(Canadian Press.)—"I like the look of the salary, but I like not the job," said Hon. Howard Ferguson, Premier of Ontario, when spoken to regarding the rumor that he might accept the chairmanship of the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission at $25,000 a year, if and when Sir Adam resigned.

The Premier declined to take the suggestion seriously or to discuss the possible resignation of Sir Adam Beck.

Obscene language is the product of a depraved mind.

He urged the young people to take a firm stand against all three and refrain from all associates who use them.

MAKE USE OF OUR GOVERNMENT SHIPS

Instead of Subsidizing Steamers to Lower Canadian Freight Rates.

LONDON, Feb. 10 (Canadian Press).—The Times, commenting on the proposal of the Canadian Government to subsidize a fleet of ten steamships in an effort to lower ocean freight rates, says that Canada is perfectly at liberty to arrange for shipping services to be continued on a non-profit making basis if she considers it to the advantage of the whole Dominion, and that the tax players should make good any losses which might result. Canada's experiences of government transport services have already been costly and it is not yet explained why, if she is prepared to go on meeting losses by means of large drafts on the taxpayers' money, she should not make use of her government-owned ships instead of calling into being a new fleet under private management, comments The Times.

BAIL RENEWED

Bail was renewed in Supreme Court in the cases of directors sentenced by Judge Coatsworth earlier in the morning. Bail for R. P. Gough was fixed at $150,000, while J. F. M. Stewart and S. C. Wood were released in bonds of $100,000. After the formalities had been complied with the men were liberated by the sheriff's officers until their appeals are heard.

STRONGER BEER WILL SMASH THE TEMPERANCE ACT

People of Province Voted For a Stronger Prohibition Law.

SPENCE INTERVIEWED.

Points Out the Ease With Which Beer is Made Intoxicating.

TORONTO, Feb. 10. — Rev. Ben Spence, secretary of the Council of the Dominion Alliance, interviewed this afternoon regarding the proposal in the speech from the throne, to increase alcoholic strength of beer sold in the province, said that in his personal opinion to introduce such a provision under the Ontario Temperance Act, would smash the Act.

"The people of this province in the recent plebiscite voted for a stronger prohibition law, not for stronger beer," said Mr. Spence: "and the stronger the beer the weaker the law. Such a proposal would defeat the proposal of government to give active and vigorous enforcement of the act, for one of the difficulties at present is the ease with which beer is made intoxicating. It will be the nose of the camel, indeed, its whole head and neck, and very soon his whole body. It is a booze proposition, pure and simple."

BOOTLEGGING IN BRITAIN.

Easy Jaunt for Motor Boats Across the Channel.

LONDON, Feb. 10.— (Canadian Press.)—Great Britain has a bootlegging problem, says the Westminster Gazette, which may necessitate the adoption of special measures. The trouble arises from the fact that the price of spirits in France is only about half that in Britain, where the duty is very high. This encourages smugglers to run contraband spirit cargoes across the channel in small motor boats and land them on unfrequented parts of the English coast, whence they are taken to London and other large cities in motor lorries.

LINDSAY'S RINK WAS DELIGHTED WITH BONSPIEL

"They Used Us White," Said Frank Carew on Arriving Home With Prizes.

AFTER THOUGHTS.

Lindsay Skip Arrived Home Without Voice—Became Hoarse Here.

Frank Carew and his curlers had nothing but the kindest words to say of their treatment in Peterboro, says the Lindsay Post. "It was a dandy bonspiel and they used us white" said Skip Carew.

Two of Carew's rink Bryson and Rodd, were never at a bonspiel before, the Post continues. They discovered that the victor does the work. Five games a day is real work.

The record of the Carew rink is a remarkable one. They lost their first two games (one in the Morrow and the other in the Matthews-Blackwell), tied their next game in the All-Comers vs Peterboro, and then won 10 straight games.

Skip Carew showed his good sportsmanship all the way through, but especially in his game against Booth of Cobourg. Twice during the game the Cobourg Skip in his excitement, forgot to play one of his stones. The first time this happened Carew was down in five ends. The Cobourg Skip did not want to play his stone, as he had no legal right to, but Carew insisted and when the Cobourg Skip played he changed a 3 end for the Lindsay rink for a one for the Cobourg rink shoving the Lindsay four down farther on the score. Later on in the same game the same thing happened and again Carew insisted that Booth play the forgoten stone. He did so, but failed to change the end and Carew won out by a point or two.

Skip Carew lost his voice, so much in fact, that in the last three or four games played he could not be heard by his front end men at the other hack. Consequently vice-Skip Langdon took charge of the T when Rodd and Bryson played, and Carew the rest of the end.

Throughout the spiel Skip Carew had his two front end men playing the draw game in every end, and they had it down to a nicety. Vice-Skip Langdon and Skip Carew then played runners and bullets. They played to a hair's breadth and time after time spread ruination in the ranks of the opponents. The Lindsay heavers chapped, chipped, wicked and slanted to perfection, getting some marvelous shots.

It is said that in the game against Skip Delaney of Cobourg that the latter was several up in the early stages of the game and apparently so confident of winning out that he enquired who would be his next opponent and what ice he would play on. Skip Carew overheard the remark, but there is no legible record of just what comment he made. At any rate the Cobourg skip was eliminated.

In the game against Skip Edmonds of Millbrook, there were two blank ends.

The Peterboro Grand Challenge Cup and the Waddell cup, which were won by Skip Carew's rink, at the Peterboro bonspiel, are on exhibition at the curling rink. They are beautiful cups. Incidentally Lindsay has won the Waddell (All Comers) cup twice and Peterboro four times. Peterboro has won the Peterboro Consolation cup six times, Lindsay two times, Claremont, Fenelon Falls, Stouffville and Keene once each.

LAVOIE'S BEATEN BY OMEMEE TEAM

Peterboro Hockey Invasion of the Village Fails Again.

OMEMEE, Feb. 10. — Friday night, despite tht heavy ice, the Lavoie Knitters of Peterboro and the local "Colts" staged the best game of the season. Although nothing was at stake, both teams fought hard for victory. As Lavoies have not been beaten this season, it was hard for them to taste defeat at the hands of the Colts, by 4 boals to 1. The Levoies were out to win was apparent from the style of hockey they played from the drop of the puck, but the Colts provtd too good and during the greater part of the play were masters of the situation.

In the first period, Omemee scored eight minutes after the play started, when N. Clemmett scored on a pass from J. Crafton. Five minutes later A. Clemmett got hold of a loose puck, darted down the ice and added another. The period ended with a score of 2 to 0 for the locals.

The second period started fast and furious. Time and again Lavoies' brought the puck down the ice with a brilliant combination, only to be stopped by the local defence. In this period, Lipsett scored on a long shot. Immediately after, N. Clemett again scored for the locals on a pretty piece of combination with W. Morton. The period ended with a score of 3 to 1 for the locals.

Things did not look bright for the locals in the third period, but G. Morton turned aside shot after shot which looked like goals. After twelve minutes of play J. Crafton scored from a melee in front of the visitors' net. During this period all the locals shone brightly with their play but Peterboro had the edge of the play in this period. When the final bell rang, the score stood 4 to 1 for the locals.

R. W. Mitchell handled the game to the satisfaction of all, and the fans returned home convinced that it was the best game ever played on local ice.

Line-up of Lavoie Knitters:

Goal, S. Murdock; defence, Holland and McMahon; centre, Lipsett; right wing, Mickey Williams; left wing, Murdock. Subs., W. Lavoie, L. Lavoie, R. Sedgwick.

Line-up of Omemee Colts:—

Goal, G. C. Morton; defence, A. Clemmett and L. Adams; centre, N. Clemmett; right wing, J. Crafton; left wing, W. Morton. Subs., A. Stephenson and H. Overholt.

This week, if the weather permits, the Colts are playing in the Hughes Cup Tournament in Lindsay, and are looking forward for a large crowd of fans to accompany them to Lindsay in their quest. Come and support your team.

BY BILLY EVANS

"At the last world series I sat next to Babe Ruth in the press box at Washington and New York.

Babe Ruth has few if any emotions. A ball game is just a ball game with the Bambino.

He takes his three healthy swings in a pinch with the bases loaded in the same nonchalant manner as with the sacks empty.

"You either hit it or you don't," is the Babe's logic, "and it's time enough to start worrying when you fail to come through."

In the first game of the 1924 world series you will remember that Walter Johnson was beaten after a bitter 12-inning struggle.

Ruth viewed the first nine innings of play in a matter-of-fact manner, not especially interested.

Babe Became Enthused.

As Washington tied up the game sending it into extra innings, he began to perk up. Apparently something had happened to stir up the Babe's enthusiasm.

When neither side scored in the tenth inning, the Babe began to shift around in his seat in a decidedly restless manner.

As the eleventh session was finished without either clubs breaking the tie, Babe showed positive signs of being excited. I was curious as to what it was all about.

At the start of the twelfth inning, which proved to be the final one of the game, I decided to start a conversation which would enable me to find out why Babe had suddenly become so interested after his laconic attiude of the early innings.

"It's turned out be a whale of a game, Babe," I remarked.

"I should say it has" he replied, "and I hope the Nats win it in this inning. At the worst I hope it don't go over 14 innings."

"Whats the idea of putting a time limit, you must have a dinner date?" I remarked.

"Naw," replied the Babe in evident disgust at my dinner crack. "The idea is that it will break a record that I prize more than anything I have ever done in baseball."

I was curious. What had the Babe done that he regarded as greater than making 59 home runs in a season, leading the American League in batting or any of his many other feats of swat.

"Don't you remember that 14-inning game I pitched for Boston against Brooklyn in 1916. I beat Sherry Smith 2 to 1.

Ruth's Greatest Thrill

"It was a tough game for Smitty to lose but I want to tell the world that the winning of that ball game was the biggest thrill of my baseball career.

"Seemed as if I put a whole season's effort into winning that battle. When it was over and I had won there came a feeling that I imagine a guy only gets once in a lifetime.

"Just wonderful."

While Babe hated to see the Nats lose, particularly Walter Johnson, he was pleased it didn't go 14 innings.

HAMILTON FANS ARE ANXIOUS TO SEE THE PETES

Friday's Game is Looked Upon as the Most Attractive of the Season.

PARKER FAVORITE.

HAMILTON, Feb. 10.—The one remaining game in which Rowing Club Seniors participate this season, is likely to be the most attractive of the season, from the fans' viewpoint. This lone battle is scheduled for Friday night next, at the local arena, when the Peterboro leaders appear for a game that may be of the utmost importance to them. The locals have nothing to lose, but a win would give them a chance to finish the season on even terms with Bill Marsden's Aura Lee outfit, the latter team having to meet Parkdale before winding up their affairs, and a loss for them and a win for the Scullers over Peterboro would do the trick.

Peterboro is no 'cinch' to win the group. At the present time they are out in front with a one-game margin over both Parkdale and Varsity. The Paddlers and Students clash to-night at Toronto and one team will be eliminated from the running. The other, however, can tie with Peterboro for first place if the Petes drop their contest to the Oarsmen here. This would not create any serious difference, as Peterboro is sure to figure in the play-offs, but they started out to win the group and they are going to do this if it is at all possible.

Will Go Through.

The Oarsmen have not given up in despair, in spite of their standing at the bottom of the group. Manager Russell Smith has stated that the crew was going through, and that they would win over the Petes here if such a thing is possible. The officials of the club are satisfied with the start made this season and figure that they have done something to be proud of in working a senior team back into the good graces of a considerable following. The team will endeavor to wind up their season with a win, and to this end they will be out every day this week, practising just as faithfully as though they were going into the Allan Cup finals, instead of a game that doesn't hold the slightest value to them.

Parker An Attraction.

In one thing the club is to be commended. It will cost considerable to bring Peterboro here, probably more than will be taken in at the gate, but in order to make their first season as great a success as possible, under the circumstances, the club has given up all ideas of calling the game off by default.

At that, though, they may not suffer as heavily, financially, as it now appears. Harold Parker, a prime favorite here some years ago, will be here with the Petes, and his presence alone should attract many fans, especially with the knowledge that he is playing the best game of his carerer at the present time. Then, too, Peterboro looks like a good bet to go a long way in the O.H.A. finals, and the fans will have some curiosity to see the team they have heard so much about this season.

ART ASSOCIATION CHINESE SESSION

Programme in Hands of Art Study Club, Under Mrs. B. L. Barnes.

There was a well-attended meeting of the Women's Art Association at the Conservatory of Music on Saturday afternoon. The programme, which took the form of a Chinese afternoon, was in the hands of the Art Study Club, of which Mrs. B. L. Barnes is convenor.

There was a very interesting loan exhibit of local Chinese embroideries, curios, lacquer and porcelains. Mrs. Cheu kindly loaned a Chinese tea set and bowls, also two Chinese paintings by Harry Cheu, which created quite an interest. Chinese tea was served in Oriental fashion by ladies dressed in Oriental costumes. Mrs. R. J. Kidd and Mrs. A. Bentley had charge of the tea table, arranged with Chinese embroideries and trays and a centerpiece composed of a teakwood stand with etched brass bowl.

Mrs. Kidd wore an imported Chinese costume of brown taffeta, embroidered in silk and Mrs. Bentley a ceremonial Oriental gown. The general Chinese atmosphere and the exhibit of embroideries in silks and metallic threads, carvings in delicate miniature, dolls dressed in various ceremonial costumes, vases, brasses and wooden carvings, caused much interested comment. Miss L. Shearer, a returned missionary from China, contributed some beautifully embroidered cloths and luncheon sets, also a picture embroidered on silk.

A very fine paper on "Chinese Painting" was given by Mrs. B. L. Barns, and Mrs. G. S. Parlour, soprano, sang two solos, accompanied by Miss D. Routley, "I'm Awearin' Awa," and Tosti's "Love Me."

Mrs. Barns' paper was a comprehensive review of the growth of Chinese painting from the earliest times. She spoke of the importance attached to art by the early Chinese. "The lucky finding of an important piece of bronze in the early years (116 B.C.) was momentous enough to change the name of a city or of a reign."

"The Pedigree of Ceramics in China is a long one. The reign of the Yellow Emperor (2270 B.C.) is credited with the invention of the potter's wheel."

"It would be delightful to tell the story of Chinese Porcelains from those known as whitewear — those soft, lustrous varieties—to the time when originality was given full swing, when Sun Ceramics (960 A.D.) blossomed into bunches and borders of orchids, full-blown peonies, budding mallows and chrysanthemums, pheasants, cranes and ducks, flowing waters, waving reeds and willowy bamboos, all etched or stamped or modelled in the soft clay, with the grace, the directness and the lyrical swing so characteristic of the art and poetry of that great period—For from the days of Emperor Yu, with his crude yet beautiful pieces, to the time when technique had grown so perfect that it sometimes threatened to overload the spirit, the Chinese were the acknowledged master potters of the world. And they attained this distinction, because to them work was not merely the necessity of earning a living—it was life itself."

Mrs. Barns went on to describe the methods used by the Chinese artist in his work on silk or paper, and the rapid, decisive strokes which permit of no alteration nor correction. The artist must know his subject so thoroughly as to portray it entirely from memory and he paints much as the great musician composes; unconscious of rules. Eastern painting oil is not used. Black ink is used and the artist paints on the floor, his silk or paper spread flat before him.

The attitude of the Chinese mind towards nature must be considered in a study of his art. Occidentals consider man the centre of the universe. Orientals consider man as only one of the component parts of creation, and the philosophy of 1122 B.C. teaches him to feel a kinship with a flower, a bird and a tree. The Chinese strives to interpret the very soul of nature, and his religion; Taoism and Buddhism provide him with many subjects. The first treats of the fantastic while the latter contributes an entirely different spirit; one of intense meditation and concentrated calm. Heroes and heroines of history and romance also inspire works of interest.

Portraits are usualy made from the face of the corpse, the figure being filled in later, and are hung above the coffin, supposedly inhabited by the spirit of the deceased person.

Landscape painting was amateur and free art in China more than fifteen hundred years ago, and man was never disassociated from nature. A painter of the Fourth Century said that in painting the portrait of a certain nobleman, he must give him a background of parks and ravines.

The most popular division of Chinese painting is that which has to do with birds and flowers. No people are more fitted to reveal the hidden beauties of flowering plants and trees or the characteristic forms of the feathered hosts than the inhabitants of the Flowery Kingdom. Flowers too are given much attention. To each season of the year is assigned an appropriate blossom; the tree peony to spring, the lotus to summer, the chrysanthemum to autumn and the prunus to winter.

Mrs. Barns concluded a very interesting paper with a reference to the mad rush of civil strife and progress as having affected Chinese art, and said: "There will be a renaissance," the lovers of China tell us, and who can say what its forms of expression will assume? Whatever it will be, the art of China past remains universal in its appeal—for all time. And we may with confidence apply the first question which we ask of any painting: "Is it beautiful?"

"Dumb Dora"

(By H. T.)

There was a filled hou : for the production at the Capitol Theatre last night of "Dumb Dora," This engaging one-act comedy written by Miss Kathleen L. McCarthy, ("Jeannette,") of the Examiner staff, and presented by a well-balanced and exceptionally capable cast, left an impression of an underlying motif of satire which echoed after the author's final note of suspended comedy had been struck.

Miss McCarthy, employing the expressive phrase of flapperdom as the title of her smart and cleverly developed sketch, gave the idea an unexpected twist which was only revealed at the very last moment, and in that flash, seemed to cast, as an illuminating and ironic postscript an amiable reflection upon th spirit of smugness and assumed smartness that covers such vernacular alliterations as a "Dumb Dora." That impression is gleaned from the climax, in which the explanation is given for the misunderstanding upon which the plot is based. Miss McCarthy deftly added this additional quirk to her climax, thereby displaying a subtlety that brightens her effective incidents.

"Dumb Dora" is on the whole skilfully plotted. It is the story of Frank Webster, from Boston, visiting friends in New York, whom he has not seen since boyhood. He has been announced to Mrs. Harrison and her daughter, Enid, in a letter equivocally wrttten by the former's nephew, his friend. Incidentally, the daughter has her fortune told, and the two circumstances seem to tally convincingly enough to cause Enid to set out immediately to "vamp" the young man, the erstwhile companion of her childhood. The efforts of Webster to extricate himself, and the situation which finally develops come to a head in an unexpected and entertaining climax. The little flapper who has been making a "set" for him, virtually kicks the hat with the brick under it, and condemns herself the so-called "dumbness" which, among callow youth, at least, is the ultimate reproach.

Miss McCarthy's ending was a double-barrelled surprise, and she pulled both triggers together. She devised an O. Henry ending, and succeeded too well.

In developing her plot, she might have taken her audience a little more into her confidence, without robbing the climax of any of its surprise. A hint here or there might have helped to place the predicament of Webster more clearly, but the "dumbness" she cast upon her "Dora" was nowhere even vaguely suggested. Otherwise the action is cleverly drawn, the text is bright and interesting, and the limning of Mrs. Harrison and her flapper daughter is a fine achievement in character study. Miss McCarthy deserves the warmest congratulations in this fresh success, and upon the success she has manifestly accomplished in an exacting art.

The delight with which her audience received this offering was largely due to the casting of the characters, the efficient stage direction by Mrs. W. McKee Bingham, and to the contributing details of lighting, color and costuming. The personnel of the cast was uniformly capable and convincing, with the honors going to Mrs. A. L. Amys and Miss Jessie Hodgson. As a modern mother of the type that fills too much leisure with following after new and perhaps innocuous cults, Mrs. Amys gave a splendid interpretation, and Miss Hodgson as the vivacious, unshackled flapper was absolutely true to type and proved to be the hit of the evening Her acting was a clever portion of an entertaining production Actually there were no weak spots in the cast Mr. Frank Stinson accepted his part in excellent style, with a real Bostonese manner and accent that added much to its effect, and if his Frank Webster lacked the prominence of the roles of Mrs. Harrison and her daughter, it appeared to be chiefly due to the obscurity with which the author wrapped his difficulties in the hospitable household. The other roles, of minor importance, were all splendidly portrayed; Mrs. W. McKee Bingham giving a fine presentation of an Italian gypsy, and Miss Mamie McCarthy enacting the part of a trim efficient maid. As for Miss Edna Borbridge, whose somewhat exacting role calls for little conversation, it may be said that there is nothing "dumb" about her radiant and lovely "Dora."

The divertissements enhanced the attraction of the entertainment, and included a maxixe, danced by Miss Hodgson and Mr. Stinson in a manner that appealed immensely to their audience, and three delightful songs by Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park, whose beautiful voice was heard to wonderful advantage in selections that brought her a double encore from a thrilled house. Miss Marthe Baumer as Mrs. Park's companion, played Mrs. Park's accompaniments in admirable style.

It was a matter of regret that the piece apparently could not have utilized more of the talent of the comparatively minor actors, ecpecially Mrs. Park and Mrs. Bingham, the latter confining her efforts in its behalf mainly to its direction, in which her usual artistic finish was plainly perceptible.—H.T.

Adding to the effectiveness of the "Dumb Dora" production at the Capitol Theatre, are the handsome stage furnishings from the Richard Hall store and the gowns from Barrie's, Limited. The stage setting carries out the idea of a luxurious living room interior, and the ladies' costumes are lovely and appropriate. In order of appearance, Mrs. W. McKee Bingham wears a striking gypsy outfit, in bright yellows and reds, with white blouse and strings of beads; Miss Jessie Hodgson appears first in a Mah Johngg tunic of Madonna blue over a white pleated skirt, later wearing a lovely coral and white embroidered frock; Mrs. A. L. Amys is in black georgette, with frill of knife pleating and ostrich feather ornaments; Miss Mamie McCarthy has a pretty maid's outfit, with dainty lace cap; Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park is stunning in a wonderful gown of coral crepe banded with black chiffon velvet, with overdrape of coral and black and silver beads, and cut silver flowers, plumed hat and wrap of Kolinsky fur; Miss Baumer wears a black silk crepe with beaded plastron and white fox fur, and Miss Edna Borbridge is a picture in turquoise blue crepe, trimmed with French flowers and lace wrap of white fur and white hat.

"Dumb Dora" will have its second and third evening performances to-night and tomorrow night, with a special matinee on Wednesday afternoon.

MANAGEMENT of GRAND OPERA HOUSE announce re-opening of Theatre all next week, with first-class VAUDEVILLE from Detroit. Complete change each three days. Matinee every day.

starts out like a winner and then the Ontario censors got busy. Knowing the story as we do in its original form we could never see any harm in it. In fact, it is just the kind of farce comedy welcomed by the public. However, we think that enough remains of the production to satisfy, at least you'll get some good laughs, and its a sort of novelty too, imagine just what has been cut from the film. The balance of the program is very good. The Sport Review, Sweet Sixteen comedy and "The Chase," with over 50 ski-champions.

MANY FAVORITES IN PHOTOPLAY

The Victor Hugo Halperin production "Greater Than Marriage," which will be shown at Royal Theatre on Thursday is an adaptation of Louis Joseph Vance's famous novel, 'Joan Thursday.' A cast of notable players, including Marjorie Daw, Lou Tellegen, Peggy Kelly, Tyrone Power, Dagmar Godowsky, Mary Thurman, Effie Shannon and Raymond Bloomer, was engaged for the production. The story revolves around a young girl who sought a stage career and was forced to choose between her art and her husband. Interesting views of New York have been introduced in the scenic backgrounds.

AT THE CAPITOL

There was a well-filled house at the Capitol Theatre last evening for the picture programme and the first production of "Dumb Dora." A description of the latter appears in another column of this issue.

The programme opened with an excellent Pathe News reel, and a comedy that caused much amusement, illustrating the staging of a hilarious boxing bout between the actors in "Wandering Waistlines."

The feature picture, "Miami," with Betty Compson in the stellar role, depicts the reign of the heroine is more of tais type than that of the less dangerous "flapper". As Joan Bruce, heroine of numerous thrilling escapades, she astonishes the younger set by her "excitement-eating" propensities. Several of the scenes know just to what lengths the modern girl will go in her desire for freedom and amusement. Joan compromises herself most irretrievably with a married man who is a high-class bootlegger, and then turns on him in an effort to escape from the net of her own contrivance. Several of the episodes have to do with the activities of coast-guardsmen and law officials in their struggles with illicit liquor vending. Winged ships of the air and fast motor launches are used in the pursuit of Tate the bootlegger, and his companions. An Alsatian shepherd dog, faithful companion of the hero, is one of the most interesting actors in an entertaining drama of society life of modern times.

"NORTH OF 36" PICTURES THRILLS OF PIONEER DAYS

The journey of Columbus across the Atlantic in 1492 required no more courage than the trip made by the pioneers of the south in their attempt to establish a definite trail between Texas and the railroads in Kansas.

The first caravan traveling from the Gulf of Mexico to northern United States faced fearful odds—Indians, Carpet-baggers, floods, fire wild animals, and many more obstacles described in Emerson Hough's historical novel, "North of 36", which Irvin Willat produced in picture form for Paramount.

Like Columbus, the first caravan had no guide save the compass and stars. Nobody had ever been over the trail before. Those who had attempted never returned to tell the tale. What happened, nobody ever knew.

In "North of 36," the first journey from the south to the north is told upon the screen scene for scene as it actually occurred sixty one years ago. Nothing has been left out, nothing added. The true story of the hardships and suffering of the brave band was so thrilling that it required no change to achieve the supreme in drama.

Prominent in the cast of "North of 36" are Jack Holt, Ernest Torrence, Lois Wilson, the "Covered Wagon" girl, and Noah Beery.

The picture opens a three days' run at the Capitol Theatre on Thursday next.

AT THE REGENT

TOM MIX FINISHES WORK ON HIS GREATEST WESTERN FILM, "THE DEADWOOD COACH."

Adaptation of "The Orphan" by William Fox is Said to be Embodiment of All the Thrills and Romantic Atmosphere of the Old West.

Tom Mix has completed what is believed to be his greatest western motion picture. It is "The Deadwood Coach," made from Clarence Mulford's well-known novel, "The Orphan." A vivid, colorful, thrilling story of the old west, this novel has been made into a big, blood tingling screen play by Lynn Reynolds with Indians, the old stage coach and all the other atmosphere that made this type of story and picture popular.

Mix plays the role of the Orphan, a reckless outlaw whose chief mission in life is to avenge the death of his father, who was killed when he was a boy by a man who swindled him in business. The Orphan is not a criminal at heart and proves it by helping the Sheriff, who had hunted him, to put a stop to the depredations of a band of robbers who make a practice of holding up the Deadwood Coach. Incidentally, he finds the man who killed his father and pays his debt.

FILM SENSATION GIVES FANS THRILLING TRIP FROM FRISCO TO TAHITI

Poet Service's "The Roughneck" Heralded as Greatest Drama of Exotic Love.

If you are fortunate and can secure a seat, you will immediately relax, settle back and enjoy an excellent picture when you see "The Roughneck," at the Regent Theatre to-night.

This is a William Fox special adapted from "The Roughneck" by Robert W. Service, author of "The Spell of the Yukon," combines all the elements that go to make an ultra-modern picture. It is a story of Frisco, the South Seas, love and adventure, moving with the swift rhythm of musical cadence, lavishly produced and played by an excellent cast.

George O'Brien, the featured player, has never been seen to better advantage, critics assert, and has added many leaves to his wreath of laurels. Billie Dove, in the leading feminine role, a radiantly beautiful artist, is credited with an admirable characterization. "If 'The Roughneck' is a fair sample of the widely exploited William Fox special this season the public is going to take to the full-sized package with wonderful enthusiasm," is the way one New York reviewer expresses it.

Billie Dove is cast in the leading supporting role as Felicity Arden, who sees through the rough interior of the outcast and inspires him to prove again his claim to manhood.

The story was adapted for the screen by Charles Kenyon.

The mild weather since Saturday, together with a good rain Monday evening, is very welcome, as wells and cisterns had become very low in this district.

Family Night Every Thursday Inaugurated at Capitol.

Manager Crowe, of the Capitol Theatre, has planned a treat for the family. Commencing next Thursday, and every Thursday after, will be known as family night. When Dad buys a ticket for himself and Mother he will be able to bring the children free. This is being done in many of the large cities and is proving a great success as it makes a real family night when Dad can bring all the family and enjoy a good evening's entertainment without worrying about how many tickets he has got to get. Arrange to bring the family next Thursday, when you will witness "North of 36," the companion picture to the Covered Wagon.

TEN ROUND DRAW IN TORONTO BOUT

Foley and Johnston Mill at Coliseum—Important Bout.

TORONTO, Feb. 10 (Canadian Press).—Canada's two outstanding bantams, Victor Foley and Jackie Johnston, battled to a ten-round draw at the Coliseum here last night before the largest crowd that has witnessed a fistic show here for years. The judges rendered conflicting verdicts of the merits of the two boys, and Referee Hugh Hayes of Hamilton decided that in justice he could not call the contest anything but a draw. The bantam title therefore remains with Foley of Vancouver, who came out of the West ready to meet all contenders. It was the most important bout that the little Toronto boxer has ever had, and thousands of fans who saw last night's performance will agree that he acquitted himself with credit.

Foley's experience in the ring stood him in good stead, in meeting long range punches, especially from the right mit, that Johnston fired at him. At close range the Vancouver boy felt safe enough, for he was the more rugged infighter, but at arm's length he found it necessary to be wary. The contest was clean and if both fighters seemed a little over cautious, there was nevertheless considerable milling.

Foley will not be harmed by the decision while the Toronto boy, who but recently deserted the amateur ranks will be pegged up considerably.

The Results.

George Smith, Toronto, 135, obtained the judges' decision over Kid Savage, Syracuse 139 1-9, six rounds.

Alex. Burlee, Toronto, 110 1-4, knocked out Kid Atherley, Syracuse, 114 1-2 in the second round of a six round bout.

Frenchy Belanger, Toronto, 109 3-4, drew with Wee Willie Davies, Pittsburg, 111 1-4, six rounds.

Tommy Mitchell, Toronto, 127, obtained the judges' decision over Tommy Ross, Detroit, 128 1-2, six rounds.

Jackie Johnston, Toronto, 118, drew with Vic Foley, Vancouver, 118 1-4. Referee's decision aften ten rounds.

Referees: Hughie Hayes, Hamilton, and Alex. Sinclair, Toronto. Judges, Lou Scholes and W. Armstrong.

BUD TUCKER HAD CHARGE SHIPMENT

Kentucky Bred Stock Was Brought to Cruickston Park By Peterboro Man.

GALT, Feb. 10.—An important addition was made to the already famous stables of Cruickston Park when six standard-bred horses arrived there from Lexington, Kentucky, having been brought north by Trainer Bud Tucker in a palace horse car, the animals making the long journey in good shape. Charlie Tucker formerly trained horses for Gus White and F. C. Robinson in Peterborough.

These animals, two brood mares, a stallion and three colts, are all from the best blooded stock in Kentucky and the best that could be procured. The addition of these standards breeds it is expected marks the return of Cruickston park entries to the race track and show ring, where for many years the Wilks entries made clean sweeps in their classes. The Cruickston Park stables are known all over the continent for the quality of horse flesh housed there having provided the track with many famous trotters and sires of which Kentucky Tod was probably one of the best known.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

To Editor of Examiner.

Sir: Would you kindly insert the following article in your valuable paper and oblige:

THE BURNING BUSH.

"For sixty years 'The Burning Bush' has been an ornament on the walls and windows of our Churches, on our Assembly Acts and on our Missionary Records. It is burning with a fierce flame today in many families and in many congregations. It is a very real, and a very pungent, and a very testing experience to many of our beloved people, and in some part of the country it is burning with a very malignant flame. Now, we have the advantage of Moses and his mountain in this respect. All that Moses is able to record of his burning bush is that it burned, but was not consumed.

"But the half had not been revealed to him, for with us the bush is not only not consumed, but is budding and blossoming, and flourishing more vigorously than ever. The burning bush with us is drinking in the very flame like life and transmitting it into strength and sweetness and fruitfulness. Look at the congregations and see the new vitality, the new interest in things, the new devotion, the new liberality that have all been awakened. The bush is burning indeed; but, instead of being consumed, it is striking its roots deeper than ever, and it is extending its branches further than ever, and it is promising fruit richer and sweeter than ever. The burning bush is a perfect miracle, and we will hand that old symbol down to our children with new associations and with a new testimony to Him who dwelt and who still dwelleth in the bush."

The above appreciation spoken by Dr. Alexander Whyte of Free St. George's, Edinburgh, in 1904, will find a responsive chord in the hearts of all those who have been fighting the battle for religious freedom in this Canada of ours.

READER.

CHURCHES MUST PAY.

To the Editor, The Examiner.

Dear Sir: It is still being repeated by some writers that the church will not be able, legally, to tax the churches. The best way to answer this is to quote the part of act referring to this matter. If you turn up the act, chapter 100, page 38, section iv.; "B" paragraph, you will find the following:

"The collecting of contributions, which shall be obligatory upon all churches, based upon an equitable allocation or assessment under the rules to be formulated by the general council, the minimum of such allocation or assessment being the amount which, together with the revenue from the said trust or trusts and the foregoing assessments on ministers, is requisite to make good the claims upon the superannuation fund to be instituted by the general council."

Can any sane reader be in doubt as to its meaning?

—A Presbyterian of St. Paul's.

"THE CHASE", ALPINE THRILLER SHOWS HAZARDOUS SKI-ING FEATS

So accustomed have movie audiences become to the staged thrills of the screen melodramas and the serial thrillers, that patrons of the Royal Theatre are extending a hearty welcome to "The Chase," booked as the chief attraction at that house.

"The Chase" is full of a kind of thrills seldom, if ever before, put on the screen. It is a picture taken around St. Moritz, Switzerland and during the unfolding of the story shows some of the most hazardous and breath-taking feats of ski-ing ever filmed by a motion picture camera.

The dare-devils who participate in the picture are champions of the wooden runners. They do not merely perform the stereotyped ski-jump such as theatre patrons have seen so often in the news weeklies of the screen; their feats are performed on precipitous mountainsides down which they dash with the speed of eagles. Astonishing leaps over chasms, streams and even houses are merely incidents in the photoplay which has been called "The Picture of a Thousand Thrills."

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.

"Blessed are they that mourn, for they shall be comforted";
"Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth";
"Blessed are they that hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled."

These statements of Jesus are expressed so plainly, that no one should misconstrue or misapply them. They are words of blessed positive assurance, corroborating the truth of the time of restitution of all things, foretold by the holy prophets of olden time. While this is cause of gladness to know that the world of mankind shall be judged with equity; yet we must not forget that the following is the words of Holy Writ: "Tribulation and anguish upon every soul that doeth evil, to the Jew first, and also to the Gentile." Go to now ye rich men, weep and howl for your miseries have come upon you, etc. Whatsover a man soweth, that shall he also reap. (As we give, so it shall be given to us again).

FORECASTS VERIFIED TO-DAY IN SPEECH FROM THE THRONE

Increases in Sessional Indemnities and in Cabinet Ministers' Salaries.

REDISTRIBUTION.

TORONTO, Feb. 10 (Candian Press).—The second session of the 16th legislature of Ontario was opened this afternoon with all the usual ceremony, by His Honor Lieut.-Governor Cockshutt. There were unusual huge crowds who were this year anxious to hear the speech from the throne, because of the general opinion that it would contain an announcement on the temperance question and a statement of government policy. They were not disappointed, because near the end of the address there was an important announcement in this respect. The effect of the amendment to the Ontario Temperance Act proposed by the Government is simply to allow two and a half per cent. alcohol in beer by volume instead of by weight as at present. This doubles the strength of the beer that will be allowed to be sold if the proposal passes the house.

Redistribution Bill.

The other outstanding feature of the speech is the announcement that sessional indemnities and cabinet ministers' salaries would be increased and that there will be a redistribution bill submitted during the session.

The speech announces that steps will be taken to develop opportunities in the British market for Ontario dairy products. There is a somewhat lengthy reference to the work of the agricultural committee which has been investigating affairs during the recess, and hope is expressed that their part will be productive of much good.

Develop Power.

On the question of electrical power, the speech says that the Hydro Commission now finds that all power available is required to meet demands, and trusts "that initial steps taken toward the development of the St. Lawrence River will not meet with delay."

Not Intoxicating.

Premier Ferguson, explaining the amendment to the O.T.A., proposed in the speech from the throne, said the amendment would permit the sale of beer of 4.4 per cent. alcoholic strength instead of 2.50 per cent. Beer of this strength, he said, was not intoxicating, as laboratoral tests had proved.

Causes Excitetment.

Announcement of an increased strength in beer is creating a great deal of excitement in Queen's Park. Members are more concerned with it than they are even with the proposal that their indemnities be increased.

Conservative members from a wet riding profess themselves pleased, although some of them would have gone further. A prohibitionist member from a dry riding this morning said that the increased strength in beer was simply the thin end of the wedge, in a comeback of wet Ontario. He declared that the temperance force would so regard it.

Whether the concession will be sufficient to satisfy the extreme wets of the House cannot yet be ascertained.

Latest Comment on Grain and Industrial Markets.

Closing Quotations on Principal Active Stocks.

CHICAGO

Bearish sentiment prevailed in all grains at the close. It appeared to be the impression that the market her had not given much response to to the strength abroad and indicated a lack of support. There has been much to encourage buying or rye futures but the leaders in the trade are not as enthusiastic about the bull side now as they were when prices were much lower. It is pointed out that there are 23,681,000 bushels in visible supply out of a crop of 63,446,000 against 20-127,000 a year ago out of a crop of 63,077,000. It appears that development in the cash are likely to be the most influential factors for the time being. New York message stated Roumania is reported being short of wheat before next harvest and the Roumanian Government is requisitioning all wheat at a fixed price. Cash wheat at Chicago yesterday sold on a steady base relative to futures while spot was 1-2 to 3 lower and oats were steady to 1-2 higher.

Just two yrs ago today
Since our dear Mother passed away
Her memory is as dear today
As in the hour she passed away

We often sit and think of her
When we are all alone;
For memory is the only friend
That grief can call its own.

Heaven claimeth now our treasure
Earth the lonely casket keeps
And the sunbeams love to linger
Where our darling Mother sleeps.
Ever remembered and sadly missed by Husband and Family.

SAY BIG POWERS INFLUENCED BY OPIUM REVENUE

And Chinese Announce Their Withdrawal From Both Opium Conferences.

PARLEYS HAVE FAILED.

Declared that Americans Acted Too Hastily in Leaving Geneva.

(By Henry Wood—United Press Staff Correspondent).

GENEVA, Feb. 11.—The Chinese delegation, which last week followed the example of the Americans and withdrew from the narcotic conference, to-day announced its withdrawal from the first European opium conference as well. The withdrawal nullifies the work of the entire conference, since it is impossible to regulate the opium evil without China's help, B. Sugamura, Japanese spokesman, announced.

Japan in Doubt.

It is doubtful now if Japan can sign the various protocols.

Dr. Sze, head of the Chinese delegation, declared the conference had failed to reach a satisfactory agreement for suppression of the use of prepared opium. A Chinese memorandum charged that the great Powers are influenced by the revenue they receive from opium. The break comes at a moment when the nations most interested were endeavoring to demonstrate that the Americans acted too hastily in leaving Geneva, and that satisfactory and useful conventions could be signed. Lord Cecil had just returned to London, announcing that all difficulties at the drug conference had been overcome. The bitterest fight of the narcotic conference was due to-day, when a vote was to be taken on a Finnish resolution declaring the opium impasse, due to illicit traffic in arms to China, the resolution indirectly implicates the United States as one of the world's largest arms manufacturing countries.

BOUGHT ARMS FOR COMMUNIST REVOLT

Russian Embassy Charged With Furnishing at Least $50,000 in U.S. Money.

(By Carl D. Groat, United Press Staff correspondent).

BERLIN, Feb. 11.—The Russian embassy in Berlin paid at least $50,000 in American money to obtain arms for a Communist uprising in Germany, the principal defendant of the "Cheka" trial in Leipzig court asserted today.

The author of the statement was denounced by those accused with him as an "insane spy."

Fifteen men, including a former Russian general and a woman are on trial for alleged conspiracy against the Republic. The state announces it will prove the defendants formed a German "Cheka" and were in the pay of the Soviet government. The defendants sought removal of the trial judge on the ground he was prejudiced against them as Communists and declared if their proposal is refused, "hungering workmen will give their answer."

LINDSAY TAKES CHANCE.

Defers Action on Accident Liability Policy for Municipality.

LINDSAY, Feb. 11.—As a result of the court decision in the Belleville case, in which the city was held liable for an accident which occurred recently on one of the city streets, Lindsay town council has been considering the advisability of protecting the municipality by an accident liability policy. The matter was discussed in camera at a recent session of the council, and it was decided to take a chance in the hope that the government would amend the municipal act as a result of the court decision.

It was decided to petition the villages, towns and cities in the province with a view to having a deputation wait on the Provincial Government at the present session and urge a speedy amendment to the act in the interests of the municipality. It was pointed out that the decision in the Belleville case exposed municipalities to endless litigation.

The service is to be powerful enough to permit of listening in on London, Berlin, Rome and Even New York.

It is predicted that attendance at sessions of parliament will improve greatly, but that the radio room will be much more crowded than the chamber.

Fire-Eating Laborite M.P. Attacks Wales' Expenses

(By Lloyd Allen, United Press Correspondent).

LONDON, Feb. 11.—An attack on the cost of the Prince of Wales' forthcoming tours to South Africa and South America is to be made in the House of Commons by David Kirkwood, Labor member, according to present plans.

Kirkwood, a fire-eater, who was deported in 1916, and who has been prominent as a strike agitator, will move reduction by £100 of the additional two thousand pounds sought by the government towards defraying the Prince of Wales' expenses.

FERRIES HELD BY ICE FLOES

Traffic Between Quebec and Levis Suspended Need Roadway on Bridge.

TRAINS DELAYED.

QUEBEC, Feb. 11.—Traffic between Quebec and Levis is still at a standstill owing to ice conditions between the two cities, and the two winter ferries are forced to remain in shelter after several ineffectual attempts to cross the intervening stretch of river choked with enormous pieces of ice released within the past 24 hours from the vicinity of the Quebec bridge. Hundreds of people have been unable to reach their homes on the opposite side of the river, although the Canadian National Railways are doing everything possible to relieve the situation by running special passenger trains over the Quebec ibrdge.

The C.G.S. Mimula left the scene of her late imprisonment at Port Neif early yesterday, and came to this port. She was able to reach the Quebec bridge at ten o'clock in the morning, but after that she was forced to drift with the ice until she found her dock.

Canadian National Railway trains running between Levis, the Lake St. John and Saguenay districts were on Monday afternoon and evening away behind their schedule, owing to the stoppage of the ferries and the resulting non-connections, and the tie up in traffic was keenly felt, not only in this city and Levis, but at all points in the northern district of the province.

Prominent citizens emphasize the need of a roadway over the Quebec bridge.

WEST ENCOURAGED BY HIGHER PRICES

Conditions Quiet, C.P.R. Official Says, But Expects Improvement.

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 11.—On a trip of inspection prior to the final passage of apporpriation for the coming season, Grant Hall, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, arrived in Winnipeg Monday. Mr. Hall is following his usual custom of examining requirements at first hand, and is accompanied by C. H. Temple, chief of motive power with headquarters at Montreal. J. J. Scully, general manager eastern lines accompanied the party as far as Winnipeg.

Asked as to his views on general conditions in Canada, Mr. Grant Hall said: "I find general business conditions quiet but improving throughout Canada, undoubtedly the increase in the price of farm products will prove very encouraging to the West."

One of the objects of the visit of the vice president to the West at the present time, is to be in Victoria on the arrival from Britain of the S.S. Princess Kathleen, the new fast steamer which is to go into service on the triangle route, between the coast ports. He plans to attend Monday a banquet to be tendered to Captain J. W. Troup, manager of the British Columbia coast service, who is accompanying the vessel on her trip to the waters she will ply in the future. The banquet is to be given by the citizens of Victoria, and occasion will be taken to make to Captain Troup a presentation of silver plate on behalf of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 11.—(Canadian Press).—The Canadian National Railways expended $1,650,751 on branch lines construction work in the calendar year 1925. Estimated expenditure on branch lines in 1925 is $8,706,585. The whole programme of the Canadian National Railways involves construction of 548 miles at an authorized expenditure of $15,186,000.

A report of the Department of Railways tabled in the House of Commons yesterday gives full details of all work done on all branch lines.

STANDS PAT.

PREMIER G. HOWARD FERGUSON, who to-day declares his government's policy will not be changed by any demands from extremists—wet or dry.

GOVERNMENT TO MAINTAIN STAND

Will Not Heed Protests From Wet or Dry Extremists, Says Premier.

NO MORE REVENUE.

TORONTO, February 11. Canadian Press. — The Ontario Government stands by its stronger beer amendment to the Ontario Temperance Act.

Premier Ferguson stated to-day that the attitude of his government would not be changed by any demands from extremists, either wet or dry.

He reiterated the remark of yesterday that the new beer now proposed was not intoxicating and that therefore there was no movement away from the principles of the O.T.A.

He stated that there would be no increase of the license fees paid by the standard hotels.

"The Government is making no attempt to make revenue out of the change," said the Premier, intimating that the sale would not be more restricted than the sale of the present two and a half per cent beer.

The position taken by the Premier is supported by the Attorney-General, Hon. W. F. Nickle, who said this morning, discussing the protests that have been made since yesterday: "In matters such as prohibition and temperance it is only to be expected that those who feel strongly one way or the other will give expression to their opinions or conclusions proportionate to the intensity of their feelings. No public man should object to criticism. As a rule vehemence adds little to the worth of argument. When the legislation is introduced in its entirety it will embody well considered conclusions of those responsible for the administrations."

Regarding the proposed amendments to strengthen the act against the illicit sale of liquor, the Attorney-General said that there would be far reaching amendments, but he could not go farther until he introduced the bill.

Progressives Opposed.

O.T.A. changes are still the subject of gossip at the buildings among the members. It would seem that the Progressives are a unit against the proposal and it would not be surprising if W. E. Raney in his speech on the reply to the speech from the throne, moves an amendment endeavoring to smash the beer proposal. W. E. N. Sinclair, the Liberal leader, had nothing to say this morning.

The Conservatives meet in caucus to-day and the beer question will probably be aired.

The Liberals will also have a meeting to-day, and their attitude will probably be decided upon.

Pope Pius Contemplates Making a Tour of World

LONDON, Feb. 11. — Canadian Press. — The Morning Post in big type this morning prints a report that Pope Pius contemplates making a world tour.

"It is understood in Roman Catholic circles in Great Britain," says the newspaper, "that there is considerable likelihood of a concordat being shortly reached between the Pope and Premier Mussolini, in which case His Holiness proposes to make a tour of the world."

HALF IMMIGRANTS FOR FARM AND HOME WORK

100,570 Total Arrivals in Nine Months of 1924.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 11 Canadian Press)—The effect of the present immigration policy in encouraging farmers, farm laborers, and female household workers to come to Canada is indicated by a recent analysis, according to occupation of immigrants arriving in the Dominion since 1920. In that year 32 per cent. of the total immigrants were agriculturists and domestics , while in 1921, the figure was 35 per cent.

Since then the ratio of agriculturists and domestics toward all immigration has been steadily increasing, being 44 per cent for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1922, 47 per cent for the year ended March 31, of 1923 and 1924, and 51 per cent. for the nine months (April to December) 1924 In these nine months the total immigration to Canada was 100,570 of which agriculturists and domestics represented 51,056 .

UNITED STATES PORTS HELPED BY OUR TRADE

While Canadian Ports Languish, Declares Senator.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 11 (Canadian Press).—"We allow a very large part of our trade to contribute to the maintenance of ports in the United States as far south as New Orleans," declared Hon. C. W. Robinson, Moncton, in moving the address in the Senate yesterday "In the meantime," he went on, "our own ports of St. John and Halifax are allowed to languish. Is it any wonder, then, that we hear mutterings from the Maritime Provinces? There must be some remedy for this condition.

"During the war period we would have been in a sorry plight without these winter ports. Is it fair to use these only as a convenience? While it is true that goods will travel where rates are cheapest, that to my mind points the way to the remedy, and proposed legislation to control the ocean rates, as well as the land rates, opens up a land of commerce to our people down by the sea.'

ST. PAUL'S VOTES AGAINST UNION

Result Heard by Large Congregation—930 Votes Were Cast.

528 TO 398.

Church voting, as far as the Presbyterian churches in Peterboro are concerned, is past and over. The period since balloting commenced with Knox, followed by St. Andrew's, and last night St. Paulls Church, has been a time of keen interest.

Knox and St. Andrew's churches voted by majorities of 162 and 20 respectively—to go into the United Church; and the result announced at a congregation meeting of St. Paul..'s church last evening gave this church to the Continuing Presbyterian Church.. St Paul's is the largest congregation in the Peterboro Presbytery

Voting Figures.

The figures given out were as follow:

Number who voted	930
For Union	398
Against Union	528
Majority against Union	130
Spoiled ballots	4

The balloting concluded in the afternoon at 5 o'clock. After the officials had lunch, the counting of the ballots was proceeded with at 6.30; and two hours later the waiting congregation—and there were many present from the other two Presbyterian churches—watched the entry of Rev. Mr. Pogue, the pastor, followed by the returning officer, Sheriff Hall, with the momentous figures.

Rev. Mr. Pogue assumed the chairmanship, and opened the proceedings by reading the portion of Scripture, 13th Chapter of 1st Corinthians.

This was followed by the exhortation, "that there be no demonstration when the result is announced,' by the chairman, who called upon Sheriff F. J. A. Hall to read the result of the ballot, which was given as above.

Rev. Mr. Pogue pronounced the Benediction, and the meeting adjourned.

CAN'T CONVINCE WEST OF GOOD IN PROTECTION

Robert Forke, Progressive Leader, Says Home Wheat Market Doesn't Solve Wheat Problem.

COMMONS DEBATE.

Labor Member Asserts Government Neglects Pledges Made to Labor in 1921.

OTTAWA, Feb. 11.— "Canada's problems can best be solved by the intelligent and industrious efforts of the great mass of the people, rather than by government or by legislation," Robert Forke, Progressive leader, told the House of Commons yesterday afternoon at the opening of his speech in the debate of the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

Mr. Forke said that there was too great a tendency to leave to Government the work that really belonged to the whole nation. It would require supermen in the government to carry out such tasks. "And they don't make such supermen these days," Mr. Yorke drily added.

Mr. Forke thought that through the development of private enterprize and public utilities, rather than through the passage of legislation which met the mood of the moment, and too often was forgotten as soon as it was on the statute books, Canada would be brought out "of the land of bondage into the land of progress." In the development of resources, said the Progressive leader, Canada had been retrograde during the past two years, and the municipal provincial and the federal effort had been inadequate in this respect.

One of the greatest evils of the present time, was the tendency to blame the government for all evils that exist. Mr. Forke recognised the truth of the saying that Canada was a difficult country to govern. The economic interests of different sections of the Dominion were not always parallel. For this reason it was not possible to leave National problems entirely to a Government to solve. It was a task for all Canadians to face and help with.

Extremes of Leaders

Referring to the speeches of the Premier and the leader of the opposition, Mr. Forke said they furnished an interesting study in extremes of mood. The latter had been gloomy, thought Canada's position very hopeless and held no ray of hope for its future. The Premier had been most optimistic, quoting figures and authorities to prove that the Dominion was much better off than even its prosperous neighbour to the south. Both attitudes were unsound, Mr. Forke thought. It was foolish to get too sorry for oneself, but it would not do to be too confident. He hoped the Premier would remember that Canada is not out of the woods yet.

Mr. Forke referred to the manifesto issued by Mr. Meighen as a most happy document. The opposition leader, he said had something in his knapsack for everyone. The farmer, the merchant, the manufacturer —none of them was forgotten.

"His solution is something like a Christmas tree," said Mr. Forke. "There is something on it for every one—something Green for those who are Green, and tinsel for those who believe that all is gold that glitters."

No amount of reasoning or argument could convince the people living out on the prairies that protection would prove of any use to them The much talked of home market would not solve the problem for the western wheat producer.

"We want a national policy for all the people of Canada from the Atlantic to the Pacific," said Mr. Forke The National policy of Sir John Macdonald had been framed for a very different Canada from that of to-day. Canada today had cheap water-power, and with an energetic and capable people there was no reason why her manufacturers should not compete in the markets of the world. But if Canada was to have industry it should be 100 per cent efficient. All the water should be squeezed out of the stock, and no dividends paid on it.

There should be no immigration without colonization. There were more people leaving Canada to-day than Mr. Forke liked to see going

No Reference to Labor

It was a matter of keen disappointment to Labor throughout Canada that the speech from the throne contained no indication that the government proposed to carry out its pledges to labor, Mr. Woodsworth said. He produced a pamphlet issued by the Liberal party prior to the 1921 election in which the Liberal party, he said, placed itself on record.

"It should be known to Labor people from coast to coast that the record of the government is barren

STRONGER BEER STAGGERS DRYS

Ottawa Prohibitionists Decide to Fight by Every Legitimate Means.

FIRST PROTEST.

OTTAWA, Feb. 11. —(Canadian Press). — Deep resentment at the proposal of the Ontario Government to double the alcoholic strength of beer was manifested at a largely-attended conference held here Tuesday by representatives of the prohibition forces of East and West Ottawa, Carleton and Russell Counties.

The following resolution was adopted: "That this meeting emphatically protests against the proposal to double the alcoholic content of beer and pledges itself to fight such proposal by every legitimate means in its power. This meeting further urges that the Prime Minister do carry out his promise to strengthen and enforce the Ontario Temperance Act, based as it was upon a declaration by ballot in favor of the Act. This meeting therefore desires to place on record its intention of not supporting any government or member of the Legislature that does not do all in it or his power to strengthen and enforce the Act."

ANOTHER HEARD FROM.

BROCKVILLE, Feb. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Recording their deep appreciation of the statement made by Hon. G. Howard Ferguson following the recent plebiscite, that the O.T.A. would be strongly enforced and strengthened by amendments, the Leeds and Brockville riding branches of the Ontario Prohibition Union, in joint convention here yesterday, resolved to "urge and insist that the will of the majority be carried out by the most thorough enforcement of the present law and by the enactment of such further amendments as will insure its better enforcement. In this connection we will regard any legislation permitting the sale of stronger beer and wine under local option or otherwise as being contrary to the expressed will of the people."

The convention further adopted a resolution addressed to Dr. H. Clark and Lt.-Col. A. W. Gray, representatives of the ridings in the Legislature, asking that they give their hearty support to every effort to maintain and strengthen the O.T.A. and to oppose any attempt to repeal or weaken the same.

"IRREDUCIBLE MINIMUM."

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 11.—(Canadian Press). — Stronger beer was declared to be the "irreducible minimum of the wets" at yesterday's meeting of the Central W.C.T.U., when Mrs. May R. Thornly led the educational part of the programme in a consideration of the present temperance situation.

Deploring any effort to lessen the force of the Ontario Temperance Act, the members of the Central Union pledged themselves to follow prohibition, irrespective of political party.

Mrs. Thornly referred to the "sopping wets" and the moderates and stated that she had private information to show that these two factions had compromised on the "stronger beer" platform.

"There were 145,000 votes more for prohibition in the Province than the total number of votes that elected the 75 Conservatives in the Legislature." Mrs. Thornly said. "Seventeen U.F.O.'s have prohibition in their platform. 44 of the Conservative members come from dry constituencies. Of the 31 wets, 12 are in Toronto or the immediate vicinity. There are only 19 wets in the Province outside of Toronto and the immediate district.

HEAVY SELLING TOPPLED WHEAT

Bears on Rampage in Chicago Pit—Price Fell to $1.83 1-4.

ACUTE WEAKNESS.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—In a storm of selling orders yesterday, the wheat market found itself swamped Proposals to prevent big fluctuations in price led apparently to the very thing which it was desired to avert, and, under a deluge of selling, the market suddenly sank to $1.83 1-4 a bushel May delivery; 7 3-4 below Monday's latest figures.

Wheat seemed to pour into the trading pit continuously throughout the day, and notwithstanding liberal buying which at times developed the close was only a fraction above the bottom level reached. Severe losses in rye and in corn and oats as well took place in sympathy with the setback suffered by wheat. In the end, rye was 5 -4 to 6 3-4 down, corn 3 18 to 4 18 off and oats showing a drop varying from 1 5-8 to 3 1-4.

Threatened government investigation of the recent course of the wheat market was an additional reason put forward to account for the acute weakness of values. Contributing factors were reports that Europe had been buying very little wheat of late from the United States and that on the other hand, Australia and Argentine had sold immense quantities, which might have to be exhausted before Europe again would urgently seek supplies from this country or from Canada.

RURAL MAIL MAN NEARLY DROWNED

Sank With Horse in Deep Water Under Snow.

LINDSAY, Feb. 11. — A rural mail courier named Logie had a narrow escape from drowning on the highway in South Ops on Monday as a result of the recent thaw. He was proceeding on his route, and when near Murphy's Hill, his horse on turning to the side of the highway, went almost out of sight in the depth of water underneath the snow. The driver in his efforts to save the horse from drowning, got into serious difficulties, and would have been drowned with the animal had not assistance arrived in the pick if time.

Never in the history of the oldest inhabitant have the highways been in such a desperate condition. There has been no ice under the snow this winter, due to the absence of thaws, and the mild spell of the past few days, and the rain on Monday have made them not only impassable, but also dangerous. The deep ditches are filled with water, and horses leaving the highway would be in great danger of drowning.

FREIGHT RATES ON GRAIN SPLIT COMMISSIONERS

Reservation by J. G. Scott, of Quebec in Recent Report to Government.

MINORITY REPORT.

Proposes Subsidy to Railways to Assist Shipping of Export Grain.

EDMONTON, Alta., February 11. —Notwithstanding a statement in the first Canadian Press rport of the findings of the Royal Commission which last year investigated the Canadian grain trade, that the report is "signed without dissent by all four commissioners," the Journal's examination of the copy of the report in the hands of Dr. D. A. McGibbon of the University of Alberta, and a member of the commission, indicates that on the question of railway rates on grain, there was a cleavage of opinion, and the filing of a memorandum of reservation by J. G. Scott of Quebec, another member of the commission, under which the commission's findings as to railway rates amount practically to a majority and a minority report.

The report, which is signed by all four commissioners, Judge Turgeon, chairman, Dr. McGibbon, Dean Ruth erford, of the Saskatchewan University, and Mr. Scott, carries with the signature of Mr. Scott, the following note:

"In signing the above report I do so subject to my reservation in the subject, entitled, 'The Eastern Route' which will be found in my memo. herewith."

Subsidize Railways.

Mr. Scott's memorandum, it will be recollected, suggested that there will be a "blanket" rate on the carrying of export grain, under which the government should for the next ten years, subsidize the railways to make up the difference between the rate he proposes and the rate now in force. The commission's report, in dealing with rates for export grain, states that it has been requested on several occasions, to recommend export grain rates over the C. N. R. to Atlantic and St. Lawrence ports sufficient to deflect to them the traffic now going by rail to the United States Atlantic ports. The report continues:

"The Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada is the permanent competent tribunal to which all demands for specific increases or decreases of freight rates may be made, and from which definite rulings may be obtained.

Before Parliament.

"In addition we are aware of the fact that the whole subject of freight rates in Canada, will probably be examined in the near future by the authority of Parliament, with a view to effecting a re-adjustment more satisactory to Canadians of different parts of Canada, than the situation which now exists.

"We venture to state that in the course of our investigations we have heard enough to convince us of the urgent necessity of such a step being taken.

"Mr. J. G. Scott of Quebec, one of the members of the commission, is himself a railway expert of long experience as a railway builder and raliway manager, and among other things has the experience of having handled export grain from Parry Sound to Quebec. He gave evidence before the Senate Committee of 1922.

"As a result of his own experience and expert knowledge, Mr. Scott disagrees with Mr. Dalrymple's views. Moreover, he has certain specific recommendations to make concerning the transportation of the western grain crop at a much lower rate than now prevails.

"While other members of the commission feel themselves bound by the limitations above referred to, they have requested Mr. Scott to state his own views in the form of a memorandum to be submitted to the government with this report.

"Mr. Scott has prepared the memorandum, and we have pleasure in handing it in, in order that it may receive the attention of the government and of parliament."

RUMOR OF LINER IN DANGER UNFOUNDED

The Boat Ashore Proved to be a 100-ton Ketch.

LONDON, Feb. 11.— (Canadian Press.) — Considerable alarm was felt this morning over dispatches to a London newspaper that a big liner had gone ashore on the Essex coast and was sending up distress flares near Walton. The vessel turned out, however, to be the 100-ton ketch, "Rossina," which was swamped and sank.

A lifeboat from Clackton-on-Sea rescued her crew of four.

A despatch to the Evening News to-day says a big liner, name and nationality unknown, but believed to be bound to London from South Africa, went ashore near Walton-on-the-Naze on the Essex coast, last night, during furious gale.

BALTO'S DEATH DENIED.

All Kasson's Dogs Survived the Serum Race, Nome Says.

NOME, Alaska, Feb. 11.—Balto, lead dog in the team of Gunnar Kasson of this city, the hero of the final run of a relay in which 300,000 units of anti-toxin were brought to Nome a week ago to fight a diphtheria epidemic, is not dead, as reported from Fairbanks, Alaska, nor did any other of Kasson's dogs die, though four that had come from the Yukon Valley section a year ago were slightly frozen about the thighs.

All Kasson's dogs were in harness the next day.
